Sigma Nu, Council Case Near End

Judgement To Be Given This Evening

Student Advisory Council's Opinion May Write Finish To Long Dispute

The long-delayed final decision in the case of the Sigma Nu fraternity versus the Interfraternity council was still in the offing yesterday afternoon when the student advisory council adjourned with but approximately one hour's work necessary before an opinion could be given.

The council will convene at 4 this afternoon. Committee members said last night that a decision should be ready at 5 o'clock today.

Neither Sigma Nu, represented by President Ed Fenwick, or the council representatives would advance an opinion as to the outcome of the case last night.

Yesterday's session opened with the presentation of the fraternity's arguments, with Dean James H. Gilbert presiding.

Three council representatives, Tex Thomason, Kenneth BeLieu, and President Tom McCall, then stated the case for the interfraternity group.

Rebuttal Goes on Tomorrow Sigma Nu's rebuttal testimony was interrupted by the adjournment of the council. They will finish their rebuttal testimony tomorrow and council representatives will answer their arguments.

The members of the student advisory council hearing the case are: James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science; Wayne L. Morse, dean of the school of law; Orlando Hollis, professor of law; Kenneth L. Shumaker, supervisor of the English bureau; Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women; and two students, Bill Hall and Virginia Younie.

Dispute Over Fine A $45 fine for alleged dirty rushing which the council levied against the fraternity started the dispute. After appealing the case, Sigma Nu refused to pay.

The council retaliated by threatening the fraternity with expulsion if the fine was not paid.

Resignation Tendered Sigma Nu's answer was to tender its resignation from the council, stating that it derived no benefits from membership.

The resignation was tabled at a meeting of the council without consideration and the entire case turned over to the student advisory council.

Actors Leave For Ashland

After three performances on the Oregon campus, which were enthusiastically received by students, faculty members, and townspeople alike, "The Rivals" cast will leave this morning at 8 o'clock by auto for Ashland where the Sheridan comedy will be repeated for two more performances.

The play will be given tonight at the Southern Oregon Normal school and at a matinee Saturday, before the troupe of about fifteen actors and technicians journey back to Eugene.

Rebec in Hospital

Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate division on the campus, has been confined in the Eugene hospital most of the week suffering from intestinal flu. Reports say that his condition is rapidly improving.

No Comment

Edwin Fenwick, Sigma Nu president who has played an important part in the case between his house and the interfraternity council now pending, would advance no opinion as to the outcome of the case last night.

Open Play Tryouts To Be Held Soon

Students Interested In Acting Eligible

All students interested in acting will have an opportunity to try out for parts in one act plays to be presented late in February by the Studio Players. Open tryouts will be held next week. Otilie Turnbull Seybolt, director of dramatics, announced today.

The drama division annually offers a series of one act plays directed by members of the play production class. There will be at least two such one acts presented this term. Tryouts are open to everyone interested in acting with the exception of students registered in courses in acting. The name, Studio Players, was adopted as an identification for the play producing group several years ago.

The day for tryouts has been set tentatively for Thursday afternoon from 1 to 3 at Guild hall in the administration building.

Those interested in trying out, however, should watch for a notice in Tuesday's Emerald or obtain information earlier from Eleanor Pitts or Edith Kromman. The two plays under consideration at present are "The Marriage Proposal" and "On Second Thought."

The plays will be placed on reserve at the English reserve library for preparatory reading. Those interested are urged to read the plays named before trying out.

Henderson Talks To Garden Club

Speaking to an enthusiastic and interested audience, Dr. L. F. Henderson, curator of the University herbarium, addressed the Eugene Garden club, Wednesday evening, upon the "Native Trees of Oregon."

Dr. Henderson is recognized as one of the coast's leading authorities on the flora of the Pacific coast, having spent most of his life studying this subject and having written the key which is now used for the classification of coastal plant life. Before his retirement from actual teaching several years ago he was a professor of the University. At present he is making a study of Oregon mosses.

Miss Mozelle Hair, of the extension division, is president of the Garden club.

OSEA Board Opens 3-Day Press Meet

Summer Session Locations Studied; Editors, Publishers Roll Into Eugene

As the foreguard of Oregon newspapermen advanced on Eugene yesterday for the eighteenth annual Oregon press conference, the board of directors of the Oregon editorial association opened the three-day meet with their semi-annual review of old business and future plans.

Probably that the 1936 summer session of the board of directors will be held in Grants Pass was expressed by board members, before final consideration of invitations at the meeting of that group Thursday afternoon. Action on the invitations will be settled this morning.

Allen to Write Sketches

At the meeting Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, announced he would write a series of travel sketches on his coming summer trip to Germany, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia for Oregon newspapers.

His stories will not treat national political and military activities but will concern subjects of local interest. Housing, power distribution, liquor control, county, state and city government and similar questions will be reviewed.

A spirit of good fellowship prevailed around the lobby of the Eugene hotel as editors, publishers, and journalists gathered to talk of old times.

Problems of the publisher were the keynote of the annual published (Please turn to page four)

Bill Moore Holds Down 4-Ton Load

Strange as it seems, Bill Moore, a husky Phi Sig, had to ride on the front bumper of a truck to hold it on the road Thursday evening. The driver of the truck apparently underestimated his four ton load and let too much of the heating pipe extend beyond the back of the vehicle.

When he started the load in motion, the front end of the truck raised from the ground. To facilitate steering the truck Moore jumped on the bumper and rode in the driving rain to the new library, his destination.

As the driver attempted to bring the truck up the incline to the construction site the front wheels would not stay on the ground, in spite of the extra weight. It was finally necessary to unload half of the pipe and carry it the rest of the way by hand.

Campus Cleared Of Storm Debris

The effects of the recent windstorm on the University campus were practically all cleaned up today with the raking of lawns by NYA workers to remove broken branches, it was learned from D. L. Lewis, superintendent of grounds.

The tree which endangered electric wires on Thirteenth street across from the Commerce building has been completely removed, as was the giant fir that fell between the dispensary and the Journalism building.

Trophy

Sigma Delta Chi cup, which will be awarded tonight to the weekly newspaper, regardless of size, judged best in the state of Oregon.

Conference Sidelights

The first newspaper group to appear at the school of journalism Thursday afternoon was made up of Ralph H. Mitchell, Lucien P. Arant, and Harold M. Finlay.

Mitchell is a journalistic old-timer despite his youthful appearance, and it takes a half dozen jobs, one of which is on the Oregon Journal desk, to keep him properly active.

Lucien Arant is co-publisher and business manager of the Baker Democrat-Herald. A former Monmouth boy, ex-student in the University of Oregon contemporary with Harold Say, Bob Case, Harry Crain, and Doug Mullarky—to mention a few—He used to write 108's on the Oregonian copy desk before he went in with Bernard Mainwaring, former editor of the OSC Barometer, at Baker.

Mr. Finlay is so busy as publisher of the LaGrande Observer that he doesn't always get to Eugene for the conference, and he is (Please turn to page 2)

University Band To Present Concert

The University of Oregon band will appear in a concert in McArthur court this Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. All students of the campus and their friends are invited to attend. An excellent concert selection has been promised by John H. Stehn, conductor.

Full details of the concert will be published in tomorrow's Emerald.

Open Session At 10 Starts Full Schedule

Awards for Best Weekly, Semi-Weekly Newspapers Will Be Made at Banquet

New angles and developments in the field of journalism will be featured today in the second day's program of the eighteenth annual press conference. Newspaper notables from all over the state will participate. Students are welcome.

All journalism classes have been canceled for the day to afford students the opportunity to be at the program. Classes in the journalism building have been shifted and a boxed list of the changes will be found elsewhere in the paper.

A full day of speeches, talks and discussions are scheduled for the conference today. The program will open with a general session in the journalism building where new viewpoints and developments in the field of printing and engraving will be disclosed. Larry H. Gregory, sports editors of the Morning Oregonian will talk to editors on "What Interest in Sports Can Do for You."

At lunch today in the Anchorage Donald J. Sterling, managing editor of the Oregon Journal, will review "The Orient—Its Tragedies and Humors" from information gathered during a recent trip to Japan and China.

The afternoon is filled with talks on news-gathering methods and the relation of business to the press. The session will be topped off with an open discussion of 1936 newspaper problems, in which all conference members are expected to participate.

The pay-off of the entire meet will be the Friday night banquet at the Osburn hotel, when Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, will make awards to Oregon's best weekly and semi-weekly newspapers.

Zeta Tau Alpha Has Fireside for Pledges

The members of Zeta Tau Alpha entertained with a fireside for the pledges at the chapter house from 10 to 10:30 Wednesday night, January 15.

Group singing and fortune-telling comprised the entertainment. Refreshments were served.

Bertha Sheppard was in charge of arrangements.

Three New Patients Added to Infirmary

Three patients were added to the infirmary yesterday. The new occupants are Charles Bittle, Alice Hayes, and Harold Draper. Others still confined are Morris Wilson, Helyn Hoskins, Arthur Hill, Martin Mulligan, and Wayne Harbert.

Teams Battle To Shatter Three-Way Tie

Dope Non-Existent For Game's Outcome; Defeat Means Drop Into Third Place

Basketball Goliaths of the University of Oregon and Oregon State College will clash on the maple boards of McArthur court tonight in the first "civil war" of 1936. Opening tip-off is set for 8 o'clock.

Webfoot and Beaver hoopsters have battled 67 times since the formation of the coast conference, but few of those struggles have compared in importance with tonight's game.

Teams Tied for Top The two teams are in a three-way tie with Washington for first place in the conference, each with two triumphs and no losses. Defeat tonight will drop either into third place.

Probable starting lineups: Oregon Oregon State Howel.....F..... Palmberg Liebowitz.....F..... Tuttle Patterson.....C..... Conkling W. Jones (C).....G..... Folen ourke.....G. (C) Bergstrom

Each quintet holds two wins over Idaho. Oregon State plowed the Vandals under by 31-to-24 and 45-to-19 rounds, and Oregon turned the same trick by widely varying margins of 61 to 29 and 45 to 41. Howard Hobson's high-scoring giants piled up 106 points in two nights against the Vandals, while the best Slat's equally mountainous lads could do was 76, but defensively the Staters boast a far superior record. Idaho ran up 70 points in the Webfoot games and only 43 against the Beavers.

Dope Non-Existent Dope is absolutely non-existent when Oregon and Oregon State meet in any sport, and tonight there seems even less basis for predictions than ever. Whether the fast-breaking Ducks, with their 13 straight conference and non-conference wins, can penetrate the always air-tight defense of the Staters is a question only actual combat can answer. The Corvallis crew uses a slow, deliberate break on offense and on defense shifts between a man-for-man and a zone style of play. Oregon's hard-driving attack is a distinct contrast.

Oregon will hold a height advantage of 2 of an inch per man when the lads line up. The Webfoots measure 6 feet, 2.4 inches on an average to 6 feet, 2.2 inches for the Beavers. Wally Pledger is the only man on either team to measure less than six feet.

Players in both camps are at the peak of condition. The only ailing lad on either side, Chief McLean of Oregon, has recovered and is ready for action tonight. It is a bare possibility that he may get the opening call over Rollie Rourke.

Captain for Oregon will be Willie Jones. Bob Bergstrom will lead the Beavers. Officials are Frank Henges of Portland and Jimmy Mitchell of Spokane.

One of the largest crowds ever to jam the Igloo is expected for the big fight. Admission to students failing to present ASUO cards is 40 cents.
