Boxers!

The all-campus boxing program starts this week with registration and weighing in. It is not intramural, but is open to all student leather-pushers. Line forms upstairs in the men's gym, just outside the office door.

Ducks Leave At Noon for Seattle Games

Oregon Hoopmen, 13 Strong, Trek North To Meet Washington; Teams Tied at Top

Thirteen University of Oregon basketball grenadiers will leave on the noon train today for Seattle and a crucial two-game series with Washington's Huskies.

Players making the trip with Coach Howard Hobson include Ward Howell, Sam Liebowitz, Chuck Patterson, Willie Jones, Bill Courtney, Chief McLean, Rollie Rourke, Johnny Lewis, Budd Jones, Dave Silver, Ray Jewell, Ken Purdy, and Wayne Scott.

Games will be played in the University of Washington pavilion on Friday and Saturday nights. The Husky court has the largest seating capacity of any in the northern division and indications are that it will be sold out for both tilts.

Of the last 12 games Oregon and Washington have played, the proteges of Hec Edmundson have won 10. Last year it was three out of four for the Huskies, the winter before four straight, and in 1933 Washington captured three in four.

All of which means that Hobson and his crew will be fighting tremendous traditional odds in their struggles on the Seattle floor. Both teams play a fast-breaking, driving, colorful style of ball, and the winner each night is likely to be the quintet which happens to be "on."

The Webfoots and Huskies are tied at the top of the division standings with spotless records. A split in the series would give Oregon undisputed possession of the number one spot, for the nonce, as the Ducks hold at present one more victory than the Huskies.

Like the Oregon Goliaths, Washington's basketweavers are specialists in high scores. After polishing Washington State off in two consecutive contests, the perennial title contenders enjoyed a rest from conference competition last week. They had time, however, to run up 132 points over the College of Puget Sound in a pair of practice engagements.

In the first game with the Tacoma school the Huskies rang the bell at 52 and the following evening they raised the ante to 80.

The Puget Sound slaughterers put something of a crimp in Edmundson's moaning theory that Washington had no reserves, for it was the second stringers who piled up the big counts on the Loggers, Pal Rosenburg, sub forward, scintillated more than the rest and posted 17 points in the Saturday night walk-away alone.

Edmundson's first five is hard for any team to beat. Composed of Chuck Wagner and Ed Loverich at forwards; Ralph Bishop at center, and Bob Egge and Bob McKinstry at the guards, the Husky quint is a sweet looking outfit.

Wagner, all-coast prospect, is touted as an adequate replacement for Bobby Galer, who for two seasons led all northern division point collectors.

Hobson has plans of halting the down-court drives of Wagner and his mates, however, "Hobbie" has not decided as yet whether to start Bill Courtney or Rollie Rourke in the guard position with Willie Jones.

Ducks Hold Last Drill Despite the mountainous size of Oregon's players, the lads are not rough customers, as many have been led to believe. In three games only 28 fouls have been called on the Webfoots while 53 have been plastered on opponents.

The Ducks scrimmaged with the freshmen yesterday in their final drill before the big battles.

Tennis Aspirants Meet in Men's Gym Today, Says Washke

All men interested in freshman or varsity tennis are to meet in the men's gymnasium at 4 p. m. today, announces Paul R. Washke, director of the men's gymnasium.

This will be the first meeting of either frosh or varsity tennis aspirants this year.

Little Civil War Resumes Friday

Ducklings Ready for Oregon State Rooks

The first little "Civil War" of 1936 will take place at Corvallis tomorrow night when "Honest John" Warren's high-scoring freshman quintet lines up against the OSC Rooks.

The Lemon and Green five, paced by Laddie Gale, Wally Johansen, Dee Phelps, Bob Anet, Gale Smith, Leonard Heller, and Gale Fouts, has not yet tasted defeat. Victories have been pounded out over Riggs' All-Stars, Franklin high, Salem high, Wendling's town team, Roseburg high, and Fall Creek CCC.

The Beaver Babes have lost only one game to date, and that was avenged in a second contest. Salem high is the only common opponent of the two teams. The Rooks won 36 to 22, and the Frosh, 46 to 26.

The Orange five is composed of Ali and Fred Sandoz, both of Corvallis, at forwards; Bob Rissman, Astoria, center; George Kuvallis, Benson Tech, and Jay Mercer, Jefferson high, at guards.

The two teams will meet at McArthur court Saturday night.

Subject Chosen For Law Contest

New Deal Legislation Selected for Discussion

Constitutionality of one or more pieces of New Deal legislation has been selected by the law school faculty as the subject for the Hilton prize contest, Prof. Orlando J. Hollis announced yesterday.

The contest offers a $50 and a $25 prize. It is open to any student enrolled in the law school.

Students entering the contest are asked to submit a manuscript designed to form the basis of their 15-minute oral discussion. Four or five will be chosen as final contestants. Their oral arguments will be judged by three persons chosen from members of the bench and the bar throughout Oregon.

Frank H. Hilton is Sponsor The Hilton prize contest, which has been held annually since 1922, is sponsored by Frank H. Hilton, Portland attorney, who is the donor of the first prize. The second award is made possible through trust funds of the University.

Arguing the matter of one of the recommendations contained in the report of the governor's committee on the improvement of the rules of jurisprudence, Ralph Bailly won first place last year, with John Pennington taking second.

The final contest will be held near the beginning of spring term. The deadline for entering the contest has not yet been announced.

New Rental Shelf Does Big Business

The new duplicate copy rental shelf is picking up business every day. This shelf is maintained on the third floor of the library for use by students that find it difficult to get regular reserve books returned on time. There are books on history and English literature to be found there now and as soon as possible, books on journalism will be added.

Any student that has any particular book that he would like to have on the shelf is asked to leave the title and topic of the book at the desk.

Texts from this division of the library are rented at the rate of 5 cents a week or 3 cents for a fraction of a week.

Send the Emerald to your friends.

Sport Quacks

The present situation in that part of the Pacific coast basketball league which is cornered within the boundaries of the state of sunshine and fruits is one of extreme interest to the dwellers of the Northwest. In a couple of months their basketball representatives will meet the champs of the northlands for the Pacific coast title. Perhaps, then, it would be well for the veteran columnist to supplant the dearth of information concerning the goings on down there with a fund of profound observations on the race as it is today.

At 8:20 p. m. yesterday the standings of the teams of the southern division of the Pacific coast conference were as follows:

Table with columns: USC, Stanford, UCLA, California, Won, Lost, For, Against, Points.

While Oregon and Washington battle it out for the league leadership in Seattle, next Friday and Saturday, the top riding Trojans will be attempting to subdue John Bunn's Indians, in Palo Alto. The SC-Stanford series will bring together the two leading scorers of the southern division, Hank Luisetti of the Cards and Jack Hupp who sports the colors of Troy. Luisetti has potted 22 field goals and five free throws for a total of 49 points in three games. He is closely dogged by Hupp who has run up 43 points by converting seven foul shots and 18 field goals.

This lad Luisetti seems to bring good luck to every quintet on which he plays. Eight of the 10 teams of which he has been a member have won championships in one league or another. One title match was lost by a last second field basket by the opposition.

Last year, as an Indian papoose, Luisetti starred in every one of the freshmen's 18 games. He averaged 17 points a contest. In nine pre-conference games this season he has hammered the hemp for an average of 14 points. Besides his offensive play Luisetti is outstanding as a guard. Little wonder then, that this Stanford wizard is the man who is expected to flash Stanford to its first southern division championship, and that he has been labelled by California scribes, "the best basketball player in western inter-collegiate circles."

If the Stanford giants want to cut any ice against the Trojans, they're going to have to use their great height, fast break, and ability to follow their shots, to the utmost. Last week the Cards were tumbled because they failed to take advantage of those things, and because of the Uclans' puzzling, slow breaking game.

Southern California owes its leadership to the tardy breaking type of play, which Stanford had better be in a position to solve by this weekend for obvious reasons.

The road weary California Bears have dropped 11 of the 13 games played this season, and it looks as if they are headed for a couple more defeats when they meet the Uclans at Los Angeles Friday and Saturday. The prospects, when one considers the trip south and the fact that Nibs Price's lads are meeting the pepped up Bruins away from Berkeley, are definitely disheartening for the tail end Californians.

Oregon Code Set Offered as Prize

Books Donated by State Representative

Mrs. Nancy Honeyman, a member of the state house of representatives from Multnomah county, has donated a complete set of the Oregon code, annotated, to be awarded to the member of the second-year law school class who has the highest cumulative grade point average for his two year record, according to Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school.

The set which consists of five volumes has been valued at $50. In commenting upon the gift Dean Morse said: "Members of the law school faculty appreciate very much this appropriate prize presented to the school by Mrs. Honeyman. It is a fine addition to the group of prizes given in the law school for high scholarship and outstanding work."

"Other valued prizes are the Frank Hilton $50 prize for oral argument, and the Bancroft-Whitney book prize valued at $60 given to the member of the senior class who graduates with the highest cumulative grade point average. It is hoped that before the year is over a permanent annual prize will be established for the freshman class."

Alpha Kappa Psi Conducts Research

Alpha Kappa Psi, business professional fraternity, held a meeting last night in which they proposed to conduct a research under the leadership of Dr. N. H. Comish, professor in the University business administration school, on the subject "Why People Living in Springfield Trade in Eugene." The Springfield members only will conduct the research.

The program for the meeting consisted of an informal discussion led by Mr. Hitchens, credit manager of McMorran & Washburne's, on credit conditions in Lane

Cougars Beat Oregon State By One Point

W.S.C. Shows Big Advantage in First Half; Beaver Rally Fails to Turn Tables

Oregon State's champion Beavers again drank the bitter dregs of defeat last night when the lowly Washington State Cougars rose up and smote them in another of those one-point-margin thrillers, 32-31.

At half-time the Cougars were breezing along on a 23-10 lead, gunning for the victory that showed the Corvallis team down among the second raters in the northern division. But the undaunted Beavers came back with a scoring push that finally brought them the lead, 26-25.

Not for long, though, as Holstine uncocked a lay-in to put WSC back in the lead. Corky Carlson soon followed suit, and the Cougars led, 29-26. Conking was ruled out of the game on fouls as the game went into the last 10 minutes.

The inspired Beavers, principally Kidder and Folen, dug up a gift toss and a field goal to tie everything up at 29-all. Six minutes were left.

The northerners lost their fleet forward, Swede Nelson, on fouls, but a foul shot by Nelson and another field goal by Corky Carlson put the game on ice. Tuttle's howitzer made the score 32-31, but the Beavers were shooting misses as the gun ended festivities.

State Tennis

(Continued from Page Three) ment. It was Miss Will's first appearance on California courts for some time, so she drew a tremendous gallery, and we had all the ceremony of a Wimbledon match.

"We had new balls every six games, ball-boys, and all the other paraphernalia. I won one game. All the societies and plutocrats of Berkeley were present. Prices were as high as $100 a box.

Not interested in talking about herself, Miss Nicholas suggested, "Maybe you'd like to hear about Wayne Sabin. He's a Portland boy, and will probably be on the Davis cup team soon. He has all it takes for a champion. Right now he's touring the Philippines and Japan."

"After I was graduated from high school, I went south and Wayne and I played doubles with Ellsworth Vines and Helen Marlow, runner-up for national girls' championship that year. They beat us 6-3, 6-4."

Muriel went to Reed college for two and one-half years. Her sophomore year there she walked away with the state of Oregon women's championship.

Her opinion of amateur tennis is that it is a big graft and a racket, that it is a disgrace to amateur sports. "Amateur tennis players are the pet dogs of the idle rich," she says. "They get paid by being sent $250 for train fare which costs $50, by being entertained by the social elite. I know it's true, because I've had it happen to me. She scorns amateurs living in this fashion and says they should go professional and earn their money rightfully."

All-Campus Boxers Register and Weigh At Gym This Week

Registration for all-campus boxing begins today. Men interested in the gloved sport will report at the office in the men's gym, signing up with the secretary, and giving their weight. Workouts are to be held after 3:00 p. m. Officials will require at least 10 or 12 workouts of applicants participating in the competition. Boxing will not be on the intramural program, but is open to all students who meet the requirements.

Donut Wrestlers Start Workouts

Grapplers Should Get In Condition, Weitz

With the prospects of a big field and extensive competition, Marion G. Weitz, donut official, announced today that all wrestlers who expect to compete in the intramural tournament should start working out at the men's gymnasium between 4 and 6 p. m.

Although the wrestling tournament does not begin until February 20, Weitz stressed the necessity of early training on the part of prospective grapplers. Each participant "should work out at least three times a week," said Mr. Weitz.

About 25 wrestlers have already entered from five houses and a bulletin will be sent out to the intramural managers the latter part of this week giving information concerning weights and other necessary information.

The wrestlers are asked to check their attendance with Mr. Weitz.

Prof's Article To Be Printed

Heavy Water Studied By Norris, Holmquist

An article entitled "An Infrared Absorption Band of Heavy Water Vapor," by Dr. W. V. Norris and Dr. R. E. Holmquist of the University of Oregon, and H. J. Unger of the University of Idaho Southern Branch, is to be published in the Physical Review. Word was received today of acceptance of the article by the magazine for publication soon.

The article was written through the combined efforts of the authors after about a year of research on this phase of heavy water discovery. Mr. Unger of the Idaho school was formerly at the University of Oregon. The research work was done while he was here and during last summer term.

Research outlined in this article is original and will be used to determine the structure of heavy water. Other scientists are expected to follow the article as a guide in their studies of the water.

New Ideas

The junior skit, directed by Pearl Johansen, will feature a bar room setting with old time vaudeville acts, under the rule of the bar keeper who will act as master of ceremonies. Those participating are: Carmen Curry, Marth McCall, Ruth Ford, Elaine Comish, Lucille McBride, Frances Watzek, Kay Skalet, Jean Stevenson, Margaret Kene, Marjory Wills, Margery Kissling, Georgette Wilhelm, and Phyllis Adams. Virginia Endicott is in charge of costumes, and Martha McCall of stage properties.

The sophomores will present shadow scenes from the mysterious jungles of the canibal islands. Vivian Emery is in charge of the skit.

The freshmen will give a burlesque on the Cinderella plays under the direction of Jerry Chessman. The cast has not yet been definitely determined.

Every car of American make is now equipped with safety glass windshields, and 90 per cent of these use safety glass all around.
