

Wayne Morse Is Co-author

Law Dean, Editor Of 'Today' Edit Book

A volume entitled "A Critique of the Methods of Initiating Criminal Prosecution," the result of important investigations made in this field, will be prepared in the immediate future by Wayne L. Morse, dean of the school of law of the University of Oregon, and Raymond Moley, editor of Today and former under-secretary of state, it was announced here today.

The book will contain findings made by Dean Morse in his nationwide survey of the grand jury system, a project which he carried out for the Social Science Research Council. Dr. Moley's contribution will be the results of an independent study made on the information system of prosecution.

Studies Authoritative
The studies of both men received national recognition and are declared to be the most authoritative in this field. They have been used extensively by such groups as the American Law Institute, the Wickersham Commission and the Attorney General's Crime Commission. They have also been quoted extensively in crime surveys and in textbooks on criminal law.

"I feel highly honored in having the opportunity to join with Dr. Moley in preparing this book," Dean Morse stated yesterday. "Mr. Moley, in my opinion, is the outstanding authority in the country on problems of criminal law administration. He has directed many crime surveys and he was one of the men most responsible for the success of the famous Seabury investigation of crime conditions in New York City."

District Attorney Practices Viewed
The new books will contain significant information and data gathered by Mr. Moley on district attorney practices, including those of the Seabury investigation. Both of the studies made by the two men will be brought down to date, and three or four chapters dealing with the problems and criticism of prevailing grand jury practices will be added.

The new volume is expected to be of great value to district attorneys and other governmental officers, to lawyers, students of law, and to citizens interested in government.

Extension Division Has Night Classes

Night courses are being offered in Eugene, Salem, and Pendleton one evening each week during this term through the services of the extension division.

In Eugene classes are offered in speech, living writers, and matrimonial institutions. On Monday night, Professor Martin of the sociology department has charge of the course in matrimonial institutions. Tuesday evening Professor S. Stephenson Smith gives a course in living writers, and on Thursday Mr. Carrell has a class on the speaking voice.

Two hours credit for each course is offered to those who complete the work. Classes are held for a two hour period in accordance with the usual classroom procedure.

KORE to Broadcast Tonight's Oregon-Washington Game

Oregon basketball fans may hear a complete play-by-play report of tonight's Oregon-Washington game at Seattle by dialing radio station KORE, Eugene. KORE will present the contest direct from the University of Washington pavilion. The game begins at 8 o'clock and the broadcast will probably start about 7:45.

KORE will hook up with stations KIRO in Seattle, KXL in Portland, and KSLM in Salem to bring Eugene listeners the broadcast. Originally the local station had not scheduled the direct report, but interest was so intense that tremendous effort was made to get it.

Phi Delta Pi Club Chooses Members

Five Underclassmen Unanimously Elected

Five underclassmen, two special, and two honorary members who have been outstanding in the University of Oregon for furthering French culture were unanimously elected to Phi Delta Pi, national French honorary, last night in Oregon hall by an assembly of Phi Delta members.

In order to be considered for membership to the honorary, the student must have 12 hours of upper division work with an average of 3.2 in French and at least a 2.8 general average. Special and honorary members must speak and read the tongue and have been instrumental in furthering French culture.

Initiation will take place Thursday, January 30, in Gerlinger hall at 6 o'clock with a banquet at the Anchorage following.

Present officers of the society are June Saunderson, president; Lillian Warn, vice-president and Leland Thielemann, secretary. Dr. Ray P. Bowen, head of the romance language department, is faculty adviser.

13 Girls Initiated Into Amphibians

Thirteen girls were initiated into the Amphibians last week at a ceremony held in Gerlinger. Twelve of these were initiated into active and one into honorary membership.

The new active members include Molly Cunningham, Lellani Kroll, Alice Morris, Louise Pursley, Joella Mayer, Elizabeth Onthank, Betty Riesch, Alice Rogers, Gretchen Smith, Ruth Stanley, and Jean Taylor. Miss Helen Fabricius is the new honorary member.

Following the initiation, the new members were required to entertain the old members with skits.

Infirmiry Roster Now Totals Ten

With the addition of four new patients the total number housed in the University infirmiry yesterday was raised to 10.

Willard Marsh, of "The Marsh of Time" column fame, is one of the new patients. Those others are Earlean Groblebe, Margaret Cass, and Betty Crawford.

Old patients are: Anna Marie Driscoll, Thurston Skei, Harold Draper, Carroll Olson, Morris Wilson, and John Taylor.

Stewart Bryan Will Speak Jan. 31

Former Naval Commander Will Be First of Season

As the first speaker on the ASUO assembly schedule Stewart F. Bryant, lecturer and writer on international affairs, will be here January 31. The assembly will be at 10 o'clock in Gerlinger hall, and will be followed by a forum; the subject will be announced later.

Bryant was graduated in 1913 from the United States naval academy, and entered the post of naval intelligence in 1917. In 1919 he was commander of the U.S.S. Mayflower under President Wilson. After an active service for the government, he retired in 1929 as lieutenant commander of the U. S. navy.

His civil and foreign service has carried him to many countries in many posts, including Europe, Mexico, Siberia, China, Manchuria, Japan, Korea, Formosa, and the Philippines.

Modern Raleigh Proves That Chivalry Lives

The days of knighthood and fair damsels in distress are not over, and chivalry lives on! That was proven last night by Howard Ohmart, youthful manager of the boy's co-operative house on 13th and Hilyard streets, when he carried a modern Gwendolyn across a two foot mud-puddle to keep from soiling her silver and white sandals.

It all came about when a group of students from the University descended on Santa Clara Grange to tell them the advantages of peace compared to the ravages of war.

"Peace," the heroine of "Mother Earth and Her Children," a play offering a solution to international problems of today, had dressed at home in her white formal. She was unprepared for a muddy road which had to be crossed before reaching the grange auditorium.

Immediately valor came to her rescue. Howard, the stalwart character of "Great Britain" in the play, laid down his make-up suitcase and deftly carried a thrilled "Peace" across the mud-puddle. What's more, when the play was over, he carried her back again.

Other members of the cast who witnessed the modern drama and performed at the grange meeting were Frances Mays, Hazel Lewis, Leonard Love, Frank Evenson, Minoru Yasui, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryant of Westminster house.

Heidelberg Offers Summer Courses

Courses for foreigners are offered this summer at the University of Heidelberg, oldest university in Germany, according to information received by Professor F. G. G. Schmidt, head of the German department.

For students taking summer courses who are interested a trip, will be organized to visit the Olympic games in Berlin from the 7th to the 12th of August. Entrance tickets to the games should be purchased immediately in one's own country, however, Professor Schmidt said.

Lecture courses entirely independent of the language courses are offered. Some of these deal with Germany's present social and political life. The language courses are offered for beginners, advanced students, and teachers.

Of every 100 victims of fatal road accidents in England, 49 are pedestrians, three are drivers of motor vehicles, and the remainder are bicyclists or motorcyclists.

Roosevelt Acts Hilarious at Party's Jackson Day Rally

Surrounded by 1800 of his followers who crowded the banquet hall at Washington for the Jackson Day dinner, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was in a hilarious mood. There's no record of the laugh provoking remark that preceded this handshaking scene at left, with Vice President John N. Garner on the receiving end, but it must have been good. Gus Gennerich, the president's bodyguard, is in the center.

Law Review Reduced in Price

Members of the law school faculty have passed a resolution making the current issues of the Oregon Law Review available to all law school students at greatly reduced subscription rates it was announced at the law school yesterday.

These new prices, it was said, are retroactive with respect to the December issue of last year only. It was estimated that 95 per cent of the law school students would purchase the review under the new setup which provides for yearly subscriptions at 75 cents and single issues at 25 cents.

The Oregon Law Review is sent to all members of the Oregon state bar who have paid the prescribed statutory fee. Next issue of the Review comes off the press February 15.

Subscriptions for students at the new rates are now on sale. They can be obtained from the following members of the editorial board: Dorothy Kliks, James G. McClain, Orval Thompson, Richard Devers, Ralph Baily, and Grant Anderson.

Graduate of 1898 Dies in New Jersey

Mrs. Bolm Mann Hodgson, a graduate of the University of Oregon in the class of 1898, died January 7 at Wippany, New Jersey. Dean O. F. Stafford recalls that she was well known on the campus while in school and was active in campus affairs. She was born near Salem.

Surviving are the widower, a daughter Daphne, a son Kasper, sisters in Palo Alto and Seattle, and a brother, Dr. E. A. Mann of Portland.

Education Board To Attend Opening

LaGrande School Dedication Jan. 27

To attend the dedication of the new elementary school and gymnasium at the Eastern Oregon normal, the Oregon state board of higher education will hold its regular meeting in LaGrande Monday, January 27.

The new building is the first higher education one to be finished under the PWA. Loans and grants to the state board of higher education and the LaGrande school district from PWA financed the construction of the $150,000 unit which will be used as a training school for teachers.

LaGrande has been the only normal school which did not have such a school. Children from the city will attend the new school, as they do in Ashland and Monmouth where the other normals are.

To Examine New Building
The board will examine the new building on Sunday, and attend the dedication ceremonies Monday. Dr. E. S. Evenden, Teachers' college, Columbia university, will be the speaker. Following the educational banquet, Ted Shawn, who recently appeared on this campus, and his men dancers will appear in concert.

Those who will attend the board meeting and ceremonies from the University are: Chancellor Frederick Hunter, President C. V. Boyer, C. D. Byrne, secretary of the board of education, Aliene Johnson, assistant secretary, and Mary Bennett, editorial assistant.

Dean Morse Speaks to Bar

Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school will give two addresses at the meeting of the Coos County Bar association to be held at Myrtle Point next Saturday, January 25.

At the afternoon meeting of the association, Dean Morse will speak on the "Political Theory vs. Economic Theory of Constitutional Law." The public has been extended an invitation to this meeting because of the strong current interest in the problems which will be discussed. At the banquet which will be given in the evening Dean Morse will speak on "The Bar's Relation and Responsibility to Legal Education."

YWCA Secretary Speaks to Group

As if stringing a necklace, Stella Scurlock, Northwest regional YWCA secretary, added one of pearl friendship after another to her talk on "Conference Friends" before a mass meeting of YWCA women Wednesday night in Gerlinger hall gathered to discuss and learn more about Seabuck summer conference to be held in Washington, June 13.

Committees who planned the program for the evening included: Ruth Weber, general chairman; Theda Spicer, song leader; and Doris Mabie, refreshments.
