NUMBER 65

FEE BILL HANDED SWEEPING 5 TO 2 DEFEAT

Husky Nips Duck For Third Straight Triumph, 42 to 23

Washington's Passing Too Much for Oregon; Loss Sinks Webfoots Deep Into Third Place

Nipping the Oregon Webfoots for the third time in a row, the conference-leading Washington Huskies upset pennant hopes of the Hobson men and added another notch in their drive for the title, as they unmercifully piled up a 42 to 23 victory score last night.

The hard-driving men from the north swept the Lemon-Yellow off their feet with Edmundsen's famed fast-passing attack. Oregon missed setups, passed wildly, seemed listless, and showed little of the form displayed in their three opening victories here two weeks ago.

Ducks Shoved Down

Victory for the Huskies left them topping the conference with the Ducks still farther down in third place. The standings are as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington	5	0	1.000
Oregon State	5	2	.714
Oregon	3	3	.500
WSC	1	3	.250
Idaho	0	6	.000

Tonight at 7:30 the two teams clash again on the Igloo floor while in the north Washington State and Idaho meet. Following the battle tonight the Huskies go to Oregon State Monday and Tuesday of next week to meet the Beavers, always a stumbling block in their path.

Between halves last night the three young daughters of Representative and Mrs. Hyde received an ovation from the crowd after putting on an acrobatic dancing display.

'Street Scene' Tickets on Sale

First Rehearsal Held; Set Nears Completion

Ticket sales for the University theater's production of Elmer Rice's "Street Scene" which opens next Friday evening for a three-day run on the campus, will open today at the theater box office in Johnson hall. The box office will be open this morning between the hours of 10 and 12.

Monday the ticket will begin in earnest, according to Bill Ireland, business manager of the University theater. For the convenience of town patrons, tickets will be obtainable at McMoran & Washburne's starting Monday and on the campus at the Co-op.

The theater box office, starting Monday, will be open every day from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. and until curtain time at 8 o'clock on Friday, Saturday and Monday, the production days for the famed Pulitzer prize play of New York's slums. All seats will be popularly priced at 35 cents and may be reserved by calling the theater box office, 3300, local 216.

Director Horace W. Robinson held the first dress rehearsal for "Street Scene" last night and will continue to drill intensively a huge cast of about 50 players, one of the largest ever assembled on the Guild hall stage.

Mr. Robinson and his class in theater workshop are also rapidly completing the unusual setting of a brownstone street-front tenement typical of New York's lower east side, in which a cross-cut of society is graphically portrayed with all the realistic details which constitute their rather drab existence.

Librarian Has Measles

Willis Warren, head reserve librarian, has been ill with the measles but is expected to return to work on Monday.

Goff to Address Wesleyans Sunday

"The Philosophy of Kagawa," will be interpreted to Wesley club members by Victor Goff, sophomore in education, at 6:30 p. m. Sunday in the basement of the First Methodist Episcopal church. This is the second of three discussions that the Wesley club is conducting concerning Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, world-famous leader of the consumers' cooperative movement in Japan. He is now visiting in the United States to study the economic system, at the same time spreading knowledge of the cooperative movement.

Fellowship hour at 5:45 p. m. will be led by Francisco Tubban. University students under the leadership of William P. Walter, secretary of the downtown YMCA, will meet at 9:45 Sunday morning in Mr. Ristow's study to continue their discussion of "The Personality of Jesus," a book written by Kirby Page.

Mu Phi Epsilon Plans for Recital

Plans for the E. Power Biggs organ concert to be held here on February 20 were completed by the Mu Phi Epsilon, women's national music honorary Thursday night when the honorary met at the home of Mrs. Rex Underwood for a dessert party. Piano solos were given by Marjorie Scobert and Mrs. Rex Underwood.

The entertainment for Miss Elizabeth Kidd, national inspector for the honorary, who will visit the Oregon chapter February 15 and 16, was discussed.

UO May Get More Funds For Buildings

State Board Will Follow Original Plans if Money Available; Hobbs Report Is Referred to Hunter

By VIRGINIA ENDICOTT

Approximately $50,000 may be added to the University's present building program through possible additional federal grants and the use of contingency funds, by action taken by the state board of higher education at its meeting at LaGrande this week. C. D. Byrne, secretary to the board, announced yesterday.

Facilities eliminated from the original plans of the new library, infirmary, and physical education plant because of curtailed funds will be reinstated by the board when and if funds are available. Among the many items mentioned were an elevator in the infirmary, considerable equipment, and floor finishing.

Gymn, Library Benefit

The planned $30,000 additions to the physical education plant will be mainly in the administrative section of the building, in equipment, and in handball courts. Book stacks, equipment, and flooring in basement storage rooms of the library amounting to approximately

Library Secures New Publications

Wide Variety of Books Available to Students

Many new books have put in their appearance at the library recently. Among them is an interesting book by Walter Duranty on the economic and social structure of Russia as it is under the post-war regime. A guide book on how to be decent though modern should be of special interest to University students. The title is "The Right Thing," by William O. Stevens. War problems and how they were met by Woodrow Wilson, are described in "Life and Letters," a biography. Problems of the modern business man and "Where Will I Be at Fifty" is discussed by E. I. Chase.

The biography of Thomas Cromwell, the strangest figure of the Renaissance period is brought to light in a book written by Peter Wilford.

"The Citadel of Ethiopia," with all of the manners and customs of the people are described by Max Gruhl and translated by Ian F. D. Morrow and L. M. Sioveking.

Interviews with all classes of people in England are described in "England Speaks" by Phillip Gibbs, who traveled the length and breadth of the British Empire.

All of these new books and many more are to be found in the lending department of the library.

'War' Classes Back in Barracks

Monday all military classes except the sophomore basic will be returned to the ROTC barracks, now located on Fifteenth avenue and Onyx streets, by Col. E. V. D. Murphy, head of the department, said yesterday.

A temporary walk and steps will be installed by that date. As the upstairs of the barracks is not yet ready for use, the sophomore classes will continue to meet in McArthur court for most of next week. Freshmen will probably not resume drill during February, said the colonel. As moving has seriously disrupted the schedule, they will study map-reading for the next month.

1,000 Expected to See Condon Open House

Exhibit Ends Today; Moving Pictures, Geyser Attract Crowd of 500 Friday

Approximately 500 people thronged through Condon hall last night to view the display prepared by the geology and anthropology departments for the annual open house. The large crowd started to pour in late in the evening after a lazy afternoon of attendance.

A large number of grammar school children and others who were unable to attend last night are expected to swell the total attendance for the novel affair to well over the 1000 mark, department heads said last night.

A geyser, which erupted every few minutes splattering hot water on observers, and talking pictures vied for first place as chief attractions of the geology exhibit at the opening of Condon open house yesterday afternoon.

Allen Obtains Leave for Trip

Other Professors Will Assume Dean's Duties

Dean Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, has been granted a leave of absence which will enable him to leave the latter part of March for his trip to the German speaking countries of Europe. He will sail the first of April from New York.

Dean Allen's class in investigative methods of editing will be taken over by William M. Tugman, managing editor of the Register-Guard and John W. Anderson, managing editor of the Eugene Morning News. The class will be reduced from five days a week to three and will be concerned largely with editorial writing.

George S. Turnbull, professor of journalism, will be acting dean in Dean Allen's absence. Charles M. Hulten, instructor, will be his assistant. Reading and conference classes will be handled by the other members of the faculty.

Dean Allen plans to make Munich his headquarters during his stay in Europe. The trip was made possible by the granting of a $1500 scholarship from the Oberlander Trust of the Carl Schurz Memorial foundation. Dean Allen will study the "many cultural aspects of the people of the different countries he visits, including, of course, types of journalism and the new German schools of journalism."

The trip will be Dean Allen's third one to Europe. He has made five extensive trips outside of the United States. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Allen and their youngest son, Bill.

Classical Club Fetes Initiates

New members of the Classical club were honored at a banquet given in Seymour's cafe Wednesday, January 29.

President Bob Vosper gave the welcoming address and Professor Frederic S. Dunn read his paper, "Four-Year-Old in a Two-Eared Jug," which was written in commemoration of the bimillennium of Horace.

The new members are: Leland Thieleman, Richard Miller, Worth Chaney, Marcia Tuley, Gladys Burns, Ruth Worden, Irene Clark, Bertha Sheppard, Louise Watson, Mary Hadley, Velvo Lucas, John Coleman, and Solomon Katz.

Special guests were Mrs. Solomon Katz and Mrs. Frederic S. Dunn. Margaret Dee Rugh and Helen Emery were in charge of the arrangements.

New Patients Raise Infirmary Total to 9

Nine patients are in the infirmary and two of these, Marjorie Hewitt, Michael Gallis, have recently been admitted.

The other seven who are confined are: Gloria Lane, Kenneth Miller, Ned Hale, Guy Simpson, Harold Draper, Harry Ragsdale, and Kenneth Ely.

The motion picture "Singing Water" taken from the Columbia river highway was particularly appreciated by the audience. Other pictures shown were upon the work of rivers and ground water, volcanoes, plant growth, and butterflies.

Special reels were shown to the one hundred grade and high school students who attended the exhibit in the afternoon. "Peoples and Cultures of the World" showing queer customs of far away tribes was the contribution of the anthropology department. Gasp came from the audience when the blood and milk diet of an aborigine group was described. Lewis H. Hill, special representative from Portland of the Victor Animatograph corporation, showed the pictures.

An erosion table showing the effects of deforestation and the laying down of deltas proved popular. The table is built of sand and clay, half covered by moss to represent trees. A water spray acts as rain, washing the bare lands to the sea, to form deltas. The sea is represented by a tank at the end of the table. Blowpipe equipment and microscopes used in mineralogy were displayed and visitors learned how to use them. A skeleton of a saber tooth tiger caused comment as spectators found it more like that of a horse. Semi-precious and precious stones used in the making of drills were displayed. Dr. Warren D. Smith of the geology department said that many of these stones were more valuable as drill parts than as jewels. A large chart relating geology to other fields of science was of interest to students visiting the department.

A stone "slave-killer," a heavy stone knife, aroused great curiosity among visitors to the anthropology display on the second floor of Condon. The skulls brought shudders from the women who seemed to prefer the collection of Indian baskets, used by the plain Indians for the storing and carrying of dried pemmican, were examples of Indian decoration. A complete box made of only three pieces of wood was a subject of much attention. The four sides are made of one section of wood bent into a square. The end are sewn together and chalked with pitch. The lid and bottom are separate pieces of wood. The whole box is elaborately decorated with Alaskan Indian designs.

Setting week-end fashions in Van Dykes, the vigilante committee announced last night that sophomores would be allowed to shave itching necks and trim designs in their beards, if any.

The water cure still awaits any second year man whom the committee thinks has been too generous with the application of his brush and razor.

The vigilantes also called a meeting of the Black Maria for 1 o'clock in the College Side this afternoon.

Bryant Urges More Interest In Far East

Ex-Naval Officer Says Groups in U. S. Must Understand Soviet Welfare Policy

Universal recognition and understanding of Soviet Russia's welfare movements is necessary to insure world peace, because the growth of the Communist program will have more effect on human life than anything since the advent of Christianity, Stewart F. Bryant, retired lieutenant-commander of the U. S. navy, prophesied in his speech on "Japan and Russia in the World Tomorrow" before students in Gerlinger hall Friday morning.

"Russia has put into the mind of the working man the idea that he is the unit quantity of their development, and the more he puts into his work the greater will be the benefits received from the government. The strife between workers and the government has been conquered by means of old age security, employment, education and cultural development," the retired naval officer pointed out.

The United States must discontinue internal quibbling among opposite factions and become united (Please turn to page three)

YW Reorganize Welfare Club

Helping in Nursery School Main Project

The Welfare club of the YWCA has been reorganized this year under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Hughes, Y secretary, and Eljamae Woodworth, chairman. The group was started as a freshman project last year.

The club's main project is helping in the nursery school at Washington grade school. At the initial meeting, Thursday, January 30, two teachers of the school, Miss Francellia Finley and Miss Bernice Green, spoke on the school, the pupils, and the problems with which teachers of nursery schools are constantly confronted. The pupils come from homes of relief workers, non-income homes, or families with low incomes.

Definite projects, such as scrapbooks and sewing for the children have been planned. A few hours of each week will be spent observing the children. Child welfare and psychology will be studied. Meetings are held at the Y bungalow every Thursday at 4 p. m.

Christian Group Observes 58th Year

Christian Endeavorers of the Central Presbyterian church will celebrate the 58th anniversary of the Christian Endeavor organization evening, February 2, at 7:30 p. m. at the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of dormitories at the University, will be guest speaker. Her topic will be "Friendship," which she will discuss under the category "sick" friendships and "healthy friendships."

Others on the program will be Rev. Milton Weber, Norman Brown, William Kidwell, Jane Hall, Dorothy Klicks, and Woods Wilson. The regular Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 will precede the program.

University students interested in forming a separate Christian Endeavor group for students are invited to attend.

Onthank Called To U.S. Capital

Personnel Head to Meet With NYA Commission

Called to confer with the executive head of the National Youth administration, Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, is leaving today for Washington, D. C. Dean Onthank received a telegram yesterday asking him to come, but he was not informed of the significance of the invitation.

While in the East, Dean Onthank will meet with the national youth commission of the American council of education. He will also visit the national education association headquarters in Washington.

On his return trip, Dean Onthank will visit several universities where progressive movements in organization and guidance are being conducted. He will be gone about three weeks.

Coeds to Decide On Co-op House

Final decision on whether or not to organize a girls' cooperative house next term will be made Sunday when University co-eds interested in the housing project hold their regular meeting at the Students' Cooperative house Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

Last Sunday 15 girls attended the meeting, a number favoring organization of a house for next term, others preferring to wait until next fall.

Howard Ohmart will discuss practical aspects of financing and planning a house at the Sunday meeting. He is executive secretary of the present cooperative house. The meetings are open to all girls interested in economical living and practical application of the principles of cooperation.

Traditional Colors In Style for 'Leap'

Something red or white, perhaps a dash of both—anything will do, coeds, just so you wear a little touch of the traditional colors to the "Ladies' Leap" Valentine's day.

The "Leap" will be a sport dance, and as this happens to be leap year, the girls must ask the men.

Other universities are observing the day of hearts and flowers also. University of Missouri coeds will select a "Bull of the Ball," who will reign for a day as the Oregon "King of Hearts" will do.

Prof. R. C. Hall Leaves Hospital for Home

Robert C. Hall, superintendent of the University press, was removed to his home Monday from the Pacific Christian hospital where he had been confined several weeks following an operation. Mr. Hall is much improved, sits up several hours a day and has a hearty appetite common to convalescents.

September Primary, Water Proposals All Lose in Light Vote; Civil Service Wins

By LLOYD TUPLING

Oregon voters cried a decisive "no" to the compulsory student body fee bill at a special election yesterday. Incomplete returns from the state at large, late last night, indicated a 5 to 2 defeat.

The two per cent state retail sales tax, destined to finance Oregon's share of President Roosevelt's social security program, was swamped under an overwhelming 5 to 1 vote.

A negative vote was indicated on state issues empowering the legislature to set its own rate of pay; and changing the date of the primary election.

Members of the student relief committee expressed pleasure at defeat of the fee bill. No further action will be taken on the question as fees will remain optional and their work is done, they said.

Graduate Manager Hugh Rosson would not be quoted last night, but indicated that operations will continue as usual in McArthur court.

Other ASUO officials, contacted last night after defeat of the bill was recognized, would not comment on future plans.

Eugene voted the compulsory fee bill down in early returns with 7,034 Yes to 1,334 no. Citizens of Benton county, the home of Oregon State college, defend compulsion approximately 2 to 1, returns from 11 out of 21 precincts revealed.

The vote was unusually light; it was reported that less than half of the registered voters went to the polls. Eugene's vote was one of the lightest in the city's history.

Phi Delta Phi to Initiate Sunday

Phi Delta Phi, national law honorary, will hold its formal initiation at 2 o'clock Sunday, February 2, in the circuit court room at the Lane county court, Robert Marks, president, announced yesterday.

The initiation rites will be followed by a banquet given in honor of the new members at the Cafe Del Rey, he said.

The students who will be initiated in Phi Delta Phi Sunday are:

Third-year students: Day T. Bayly, Eugene, and Donald Heisler, Dufur, Oregon.

Second-year students: Harry McCall, Redmond, Oregon; George Birnie and Bill Davis, Portland, Oregon.

First-year students: Willard McInturf, Ed Wheelock, Edwin Raudsep and Charles McGirr, all of Portland.

Miss Wadleigh Accepts State Position in Salem

Miss Helen Wadleigh, journalism major, '27, has accepted a position with the state highway department in Salem. She will begin Monday in the travel bureau department, will handle secretarial, publicity, and general work. At present, Miss Wadleigh is a reporter on the Eugene Morning News.

Margery Thayer To Speak Sunday

"Commercial Vocation" will be the subject of a talk by Margery Thayer Sunday.

The talk, sponsored by the personal vocation group, will be given at 4 o'clock at the YWCA house. All freshmen girls are invited to attend.
