CALIFORNIA SCHOOLS TURN ATTENTION TO BASEBALL, FOOTBALL

By WENDELL WYATT

It's up to the Beavers. If they can't stop the rampaging Huskies, nothing short of a miracle will prevent Hec Edmundson from hanging up another Northern Division belt in his woodshed.

Last night's violent 51-33 slaughter would indicate that even the Corvallis boys' deliberate break couldn't slow up the north-erners. The 51 points is incidentally the most scoring by far that the Huskies have done in league play this season.

The 18 point margin of defeat probably won't mean a thing to "Slats" Gill, however. It will be just another loss, and there's no telling what kind of a surprise he may spring to trap the Huskies in the three remaining tilts. Also the Seattle team has the much feared inland empire trip to take yet. Washington State and Idaho are capable of putting up un-believable resistance on their home courts.

Big Dave Silver, who scored nine points against Washington Saturday night in the first conference game he has started, was deeply on his southpaw casts at the hoop. Should Silver develop anywhere near the accuracy with his right fist that he has with his left, he should be practically unstoppable when he's within calling distance of the basket.

"My 1936 team is the best TEAM that I've ever had." So quoth father Hec Edmundson, after watching his warriors mow down a desperately fighting band of Webfeet to snatch a clean sweep in the four game series.

"These boys work together better and pass the ball around snappier than any other squad I've coached."

Passing, not dribbling seems to be the way the northern giants work the ball down the floor and eventually into the hoop, Edmundson indicated.

Neither of the Eugene games between the Huskies and the Ducks was as good as the Seattle series, in Edmundson's opinion—this in spite of the close score and determined fight shown by Oregon in the final contest.

Before leaving Eugene for the Corvallis series, members of the Washington squad made known their goal for now on—going through the remainder of their schedule without a defeat. Edmundson would not commit himself regarding this possibility, but from his attitude, it was quite evident that he didn't consider Oregon State much more than a slight block between his quintet and the top position.

Big Chuck Wagner, gangling tousle-headed guard on the Husky five, and one of the most consistent scorers for Edmundson's team, remarked to the writer that he didn't expect the Huskies' remaining games to be presented to them before actual game time.

"They're all tough," he said in his good natured way. "We have to get in and fight all the way if we want to win games." Wagner is one boy that should know.

Little wonder that California schools have superior football and baseball squads. In a recent news dispatch from the University of Southern California, it was mentioned that one of the Trojan coaches was turning his attention from assisting in football practice to coaching baseball infielders. The pitchers and catchers had already been out for some time, but the neglected infielders had had no

Ducks Begin Pointing For Oregon State

Double Loss to Husky Horde Drops Oregon Grenadiers Below .500 Mark; New Five Clicks

The University of Washington's championship-bound basketball team have come and gone and in their wake left a trail of destruction. Pushing aside unhappy thoughts of the Husky series, Howard Hobson and his Oregon Grenadiers are preparing to drub the Beavers of Oregon State at Corvallis Saturday.

The Huskies' double triumph here Friday and Saturday dropped the Webfoots below the .500 mark in northern division standings, with three games won and four lost, but the season is young yet and Oregon is not definitely out of the title race.

The fighting Webfoots, not in the least awed by an early 8-to-2 Washington lead, went to work and climbed to within a point of the ferocious malamutes late in the first half, only to fall behind by intermission time, 21 to 16. Back boomed the Ducks in the final half, and the Huskies had a terrible scare before pulling out.

Once the Grenadiers, led by the left handed Silver, cut a 10-point Washington margin to three points, in the end they couldn't quite turn the trick.

Every member of Saturday's five started in the bitter struggle. Liebowitz was the ball hawk of old; Silver monopolized the sphere at the backboards, snatching it time and again from the outstretched arms of big Ralph Bishop and the other Husky hot-shots; Budd Jones was an inspiration on defense and his steadiness on offense was a vital factor in the combination's success; Rourke handled the ball well and hit the hem when points were needed; and Johnny Lewis played an outstanding floor and defensive game.

The Huskies were missing shots Saturday. Probably they deserved to win. The brand-new Duck five proved that Edmundson's crew is beatable, however, and also restored confidence to a shaken Oregon squad.

Coed Bristles With Golf And Swimming Medals

By JEAN GULOVSON

Olive Lewis in the water or on the golf links is a whizz—Olive Lewis on land is a tall, slender, charmingly shy girl who would rather talk about everything from politics to Rudy Valee than about herself.

"I began swimming when I was about nine and have been at it ever since," explained Ollie, who is now a sophomore majoring in social science. She swam on the Multnomah club team while in high school, taking the 100-yard free style in 1932. She specializes in the crawl and free style.

Likes Golf Best "But if I had to choose between swimming and golf, I think I'd take the latter," confessed Ollie, who is fairly bristling with medals and trophies in that field.

She won her first award in 1930 when she was runner-up in the first flight of junior Oregon golfers. In 1931 she was junior Oregon state medalist. Being runner-up for the state championship in 1932, she played Mrs. Rose Eva. "She beat me, but it was a lot of fun," Olive continued.

Plays for Grant For two years while she was going to Grant high school in Portland she held the school championship, losing it to Dorothy Sellars in 1934. "At that time Al Zimmerman was coaching me and I played an eight-handicap game, but I've practiced so little this last year that I probably couldn't do it now," she said.

"It always surprises me when I win," she smiled. "I got a real thrill out of playing, but I don't play to win. I want to keep my playing on the amateur basis, as it always has been, and to have it for recreation and relaxation, but we'll just have to wait and see if it turns out that way," concluded Olive.

Ducklings Win From Astoria And Tillamook

Warren's Yearlings Return From Triumphs On Coast; Will Play Eugene High Tomorrow

Home from a successful weekend trip in which they defeated the strong high school quintets of Astoria and Tillamook, Oregon's fighting freshmen have begun preparing for Eugene high tomorrow night and the OSC Rooks Friday. The Eugene five will be played on the high school floor and the Rooks will be met at McArthur court.

Coach Warren's lanky squad ran into some stiff competition at Astoria but superior man power brought home a 39-to-26 victory. Gale Fouts and Laddie Gale led the Warrenites' scoring spree with 14 and 13 points respectively while Sarpola and Kokko were high for Astoria with 8 each. "Hank" Nilssen, rugged Frosh guard, did a nice bit of checking against Astoria's flash, Sarpola, and garnered four points for himself.

The Frosh had a brisk session of shooting practice at Tillamook and ended up on the long end of a 43 to 16 score. All of the Frosh players had a hand in the scoring with Bob Anet leading the way with eight points. Moore was high for the Cheesemakers with six.

To date the freshmen have won ten out of eleven games. Their only defeat—a 37 to 35 loss to the Orange Rooks—was later avenged by a decisive victory. They have scored 484 points for an average of 44 per game against 315 for the opposition, an average of 27 per game. Laddie Gale with 128 points in ten tilts is the leading scorer, with Wally Johansen in second place with 82 in eleven contests.

Johansen leads the list of "foulers" with 25 persons chalked against him and Anet is right on his heels

Fijis Eke Out Narrow 9-8 Win Over Zeta Hall

Yeomen Drub Phi Sig Donut Hoopers, 24-6; Betas Down Fiji A's In Final Fray, 19-7

A last minute netted basket by John Maeder netted Phi Gamma Delta a 9 to 8 win over Zeta hall in yesterday's only "B" basketball fray.

Zeta hall held an 8 to 6 lead towards the last of the fourth quarter until a free throw by Campbell, and a field goal by Maeder game Phi Gamma Delta a one-point lead that it never relinquished.

Pat Frizzell, Zeta forward, and Bill Hutchison, Phi Gamma guard, sank three baskets each. Yeomen Win easily A host of missed shots by the Phi Sigma Kappa hoopers paved the way for a 24-to-6 Yeomen triumph in yesterday's initial "A" tilt.

From the outset of the fray Phi Sigma Kappa continued to muffle its scoring chances with wild shots, while a quintet of Yeomen basketballers was maintaining a high basket-shooting percentage.

Will Gieseke tossed in seven points, while Gordon Holland and Irwin Elder collected three baskets apiece.

Betas Take Another A continued attack by the Beta Theta Pi "A" quintet gained it a 19-to-17 win over the Phi Gamma Delta "A" five.

The Beta team garnered a 12-to-7 margin by half-time and added seven points in the final period of play while blanking the Delta team.

William Siegmund paced the winners with six points with Roy Burnett, his teammate at forward, chalking up only one less. Many Wrestling In Tournament Turnout Greatest In History Here With over 80 wrestlers signed for the intramural tournament, this sport has the largest turnout since it was added to the list of athletics in 1931, according to announcement yesterday by Mr. M. G. Weitz, supervisor of intramural sports.

Mr. Weitz stated that Alpha Tau Omega has the largest group of grapplers with 22 men, while Kappa Sigma has 19 men enlisted. Several other houses that have as many as five and six men entered.

Stressing the small amount of time left to train before the tournament starts, Mr. Weitz said, "Wrestlers should commence working out immediately. Those wrestlers not taking wrestling as a regular PE activity must have at least six workouts, spread out over two weeks, to their credit prior to the tournament."

Mr. Weitz also asked that wrestlers weigh in before each workout and record their weights on the chart in the wrestling room. Mr. Weitz will also check attendance of wrestlers between the hours of four and six each day.

Books Returned to Condon From Library

Many books have been returned from the bindery, where they were rebound and repaired during the holidays to Condon reserve library. "Dancer's Quest" by Seldon, one of the most recent books on the modern dance, has been purchased by the library at the request of Mrs. Faye Knox, dancing teacher. References upon the North American Indian have been placed on reserve for Dr. L. S. Cressman's anthropology classes.

Chuck Wagner and Ed Lovrich Spark Huskies to Victory; Palmberg Also Stars

Northern Division Standings: W. L. Pct. Washington 7 0 1.000 Oregon State 5 3 .600 Oregon 3 4 .429 Washington State 1 4 .200 Idaho 1 6 .167

Oregon State college's hopes of upsetting the conquering Huskies from the University of Washington two straight and thereby gain the loop lead were badly shattered last night when the Northerners walked the Beavers by a 51-33 score. Ed Lovrich and Charles Wagner led the never-ending Husky scoring parade, counting 18 and 16 points respectively. Little Wally Palmberg, clever and consistent forward, led the futile Beaver resistance with 15 points. He had scored 12 of his team's 18 points at half time.

Huskies Lead Last night's win put the Washington quintet far out in front of the northern division race and left it the only undefeated conference five on the coast.

Lovrich and Wagner, who teamed at forward for the Huskies, repeatedly eluded the desperate Beavers to sink difficult angle shots or long howitzers.

With six minutes left in the contest, both coaches sent in an entire new team. Play was from then on extremely ragged and rough.
