

Love, Marriage and Family
 Second of series talks page one.
 M. H. Douglas
 and Marriage it. See story

Oregon Emerald

Germany Shown
 Carl-Gustav Anthon portrays conditions in Germany as he saw them in "A German Student's Germany" on the edit page.

VOLUME XXXV UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1936 NUMBER 71

STAGE of the WORLD

By Tex Thomason

About Face
 Here are some interesting figures—if numerical figures interest you. The national income for 1935 was $3.7 BILLION dollars; taxes, Federal, State and local amounted to 10,250 MILLION dollars, or 19.1 per cent of income. The national debt, or amount to be raised by future taxation is over 27.8 BILLION dollars. To have paid all of its bills in 1935 the figures show that nearly one-third of all the money earned by workers, farmers, entrepreneurs and investors would have had to be taken by the government in the form of taxes. England, who balances income and outgo, takes about 25 per cent of the national income to do the job. She taxes heavier than any country.
 But instead of taxing for the full amount our Federal Government is borrowing against the future to get money for spending. Which do you prefer, a sharp increase in taxes or a mortgage on the future? Or are you old enough to vote?

Neuberger Writes Of Borah's Plans

Former Emerald Editor Interprets Campaign

The presidential aspirations of Senator William Borah are described in the February Current History magazine as an effective part of the senator's campaign for re-election in Idaho to the senate. The article was written by Richard L. Neuberger, editor of the Emerald in 1932-33, who recently went to the Gem state to cover political events for the New York Times, the Morning Oregonian, and other publications.
 The political threat of Governor C. Ben Ross as a probable candidate for United States senator has forced Borah to step outside his constituency to strengthen his Idahoan favor. As written by Neuberger, "Surely the voters of Idaho cannot reject for the senatorship a statesman who might have been president!"
 Borah's recognition that he has only an outside chance for the presidency makes the Borah boom merely a stratagem in the Idaho campaign, the Oregonian writer declares.
 Neuberger described the Townsend plan as a headache to the famous senior senator, who had dodged the issue as much as possible, for he realized the great strength of the pensioners in his constituency and his former stand against the sales tax, which is the proposed method of financing the Townsend plan.
 Nevertheless the former editor of the Emerald predicted that Borah would turn a cold shoulder to the Townsdenites should he be forced to take a stand. The Current History bearing this prediction appeared on the streets only two days before Borah rejected the plan in his Brooklyn speech.

Elinor Henry, '34 Working at Whitman

Miss Elinor Henry, '34, stated in a brief note to Prof. George Turnbull of the journalism department, that she is now in Walla Walla, Washington, for approximately four weeks of work on the Whitman Centennial publicity preliminaries. Miss Henry, who was recently visiting on the campus, is a journalism graduate.

Thespians Will Sell Apples Wednesday

Thespians will hold a caramel apple sale Wednesday, February 12, from 9 to 5:30.
 The purpose of the sale is to raise money for the AWS room and to pay for Thespian pictures in the Oregonian, said June Huat.
 Price of the apples will be five cents.

ROTC Would Continue on Optional Basis

Action by Board of Education Necessary To Halt Compulsory Drill, Says Murphy

"If military became optional on the Oregon campus the unit would be continued unless enrollment fell an appreciable amount."
 With this statement, Col. E. V. D. Murphy, head of the University ROTC, explained what result the success of the optional campaign would have.
 Colonel Murphy went on to say that even should the optional petition and faculty vote go through, an action of the state board of higher education would be necessary to repeal the present compulsory standing. Those favoring optional military could recourse to initiative petition if the board failed to move, but such action would not come before the people for some time.
Murphy Gives No Opinions
 Although Colonel Murphy declined to give any personal opinions, wishing to keep out of the politics of the affair, he referred to a pamphlet with statements of college presidents in regard to military training.
 Of 67 college heads, only one stood strongly against military training. Nine upheld compulsory ROTC, seven were in favor of optional, and the remainder did not.
 (Please turn to page three)

Phi Alpha Deltas Attend Banquet

Law Men and Alums Entertain in Portland

Phi Alpha Delta, professional law fraternity recently reinstated on the Oregon campus, and its Portland alumni chapter banqueted together last Saturday night at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club in Portland. Eleven members of the active Williams chapter here and their adviser, Prof. Charles G. Howard, attended the banquet which was followed by a stag party.
 The banquet was one of 34 throughout the United States celebrating the national Phi Alpha Delta night. Programs of twelve of the banquets were broadcast on national hookups, including the Portland program.
 Robert F. Maguire, president of the Oregon State Bar association, was featured as the chief speaker at the Portland celebration. Other speakers for the occasion were Colonel A. E. Clark, prominent Portland attorney, G. C. Smith of the University of Chicago and Professor Charles G. Howard. Ray Mize, law student, and Cal South-er, president of the Portland alumni chapter, were in charge of the banquet. Wendell Cameron of Portland was toastmaster.
 Law students from Eugene who attended the Portland celebration were Ray Mize, Al Hakanson, Herman Hendershott, Philip Hayter, Keith Wilson, Ronald Rew, Arthur Barnett, Hale Thompson, Richard Kriessen, Chester Anderson, and Donald Burke.

Campus Calendar

Members of the Frosh Frivolities committee will meet in the College Side at 4 o'clock today. Final plans for Friday night will be made.
 D.A.R. members will meet today at 4 p.m. in the women's club rooms on the third floor of Gerlinger hall.
 Health club directorate will meet at the College Side at 12:30 today.
 Charm school will meet at the Alpha Phi house at 4 o'clock today.
 (Please turn to page four)

Jewett Contest Deadline Soon

Radio Entries Must Be in by February 15

February 15 is the deadline for entering the Jewett radio contest, announced John L. Casteel last night. The contest, with prizes of $20, $15, and $5 contributed from the Wilson E. Jewett fund, will be in the form of a radio interview or dialogue between two persons on questions of national interest.
 The contest is open to all students, and in case of more than six entries, a preliminary contest will be held and eliminations will be made on the basis of manuscript submitted. Manuscripts submitted to the speech department by February 15.
 The final contest will be held on the department's public address system. Entries will be judged from the standpoint of contest and value for future radio presentation. The interest and informational value of the subject will be considered along with the effectiveness with which the discussion is adapted to radio broadcast.
 Four pairs of students have so far figured their intentions of entering the contest. They are Paul Plank and Zane Kemler upon the subject of "The Matanuska Experiment"; Howard Kessler and Minoru Yasue, "American-Japanese Relations"; Walter Eschbeck and Avery Combs, "The Next President of the United States," and Fred Bales and an unannounced partner, "Problems of Our Diminishing World."
 Students may receive further details at the speech office in Friendly hall, such as suggestions for writing manuscripts, and should arrange for practice periods over the department's public address equipment.
 An additional contest is being planned in cooperation with station KOAC with problems dealing with radio announcing. The details of this contest will be announced later, stated Mr. Casteel.

Faculty Men Will Attend Conference

Review of Northwest Theme of Spokane Meet

Dr. P. A. Parsons, head of the sociology department, Dr. E. B. Mittleman, associate professor of business administration, Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geography department, and George H. Godfrey of the news bureau, will attend the Pacific Northwest regional planning conference in Spokane February 13, 14, and 15.
 This is the third annual meeting and will consist of a review of the resources and opportunities of the Northwest.
 Dr. Parsons, who is a member of the Oregon state planning board, will have charge of the section on welfare and planning. Dr. Smith will conduct meetings on mineral resources in Oregon, and Dr. Mittleman will speak at the symposium on seasonal and migratory labor in the Pacific Northwest. Mr. Godfrey will represent the state planning board staff.
 Problems of marketing power, land classification, agriculture, forestry, mineral resources, water resources, economics, transportation, education, public welfare, fishery and wild life will be discussed at the three-day meeting.
 Federal and state officials, representatives of local governmental units, educators, business leaders, and others will attend the conference.

Schools Show Attendance Gain

OSC Has 22.5 Per Cent Boost to Top University

An increase of 7.6 per cent in enrollment over winter term attendance for last year has been recorded for the University, according to figures released by Chancellor Hunter to the state board of higher education at a recent meeting.
 Oregon's enrollment for the present winter term is 2,597 as against 2,414 for the 1935 winter term.
 Five of the six institutions comprising the state system of higher education showed increases for the winter term. Of this group Oregon State with a 22.5 per cent again showed the largest increase.
 Enrollment of nursing students in the University medical school dropped 26.1 per cent because of higher standards adopted recently which require practically a college education for entrance.
 Actual gain in students for the six institutions was 765 giving a total enrollment of 7,349 students in schools of higher education in Oregon.

Pianist to Give Lecture-Recital

Mrs. Jane Thacher, teacher of piano, will give a lecture-recital on "Modern Trends in Music" next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Gerlinger hall, before the members of the Eugene branch of the American Association of University Women.
 In discussing her topic, Mrs. Thacher will develop the background of the subject and will illustrate with selections from several composers. She is recognized as one of the most outstanding pianists of the Northwest and has won high acclaim both here and in the East.
 Tea will be served at 3 o'clock and the program will start at 3:30. It is to be a silver tea.

Eight Nominees In "King of Hearts" Voting

University Women Will Select Ruler Of 'Ladies' Leap' From Group of Men

"The King of Hearts," who is to reign over the YWCA "Ladies' Leap" Friday, February 14, will be selected from the following eight men: Ralph Cathey, Rex Cooper, Al Davis, William Hall, Cosgrove LaBarre, Tom McCall, Reed Swenson, and Leland Terry.
 Voting will be held in front of the College Side Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All University women are eligible to vote.
 The man who receives the most votes will be "King" and the two men who receive the next highest number of votes will be known as the "Knives of Hearts," and will, with the "King," make up the royal party. The coronation ceremony will be held at 3:15 Friday and then the royal party will proceed to the four houses where the dance is to be held—Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Former Student Writes How Magazine Helped

UO Law Review Gains Accord

Charles G. Howard, editor-in-chief of the Oregon Law Review, received a letter yesterday from George Belt saying that the Review had greatly aided him in the preparation of a case and asking the cost of a complete set, bound. Mr. Belt is a last-year graduate of the Oregon law school and is at present with Carson & Carson, attorneys, at Salem.
 The Oregon Law Review is a quarterly issued through the cooperation of the law faculty and students. It has a wide circulation among the profession throughout the country and is also favored by many laymen. Leading articles by prominent members of the bar or law school professors, case notes and comments by students, and book reviews usually comprise its interesting contents.
 The February issue of the Review has gone to press and will be released the 15th of this month according to reports. Since a recent faculty ruling was put into effect the magazine is now obtainable by law students at 25 cents a copy or on the basis of a 75 cent yearly subscription rate. The regular price is $3.00 a year.
 Professor Howard said that a complete, bound set of the Oregon Law Review (Vol. 1 to XIV) could be secured for $63.00.

Shovel Begins PE Excavation

Excavation on the basement of the new physical education building was started late Saturday and resumed early yesterday morning with a power digger. The earth is being dumped into the north end of the heating tunnel being dug between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, and part of the top dirt is being spread on the slope directly in front of the music building.
 Sewer pipes have been piled along the sidewalk on Fifteenth street, ready to be laid when the work has progressed sufficiently. An outside tile will be used to take care of surface drainage.

Former Teacher To Settle in Eugene

Mrs. J. H. Kilburn, who will be remembered here as Katherine Froy, graduate assistant to Dr. DeBusk, of the education department, and her husband are planning to settle in Eugene.
 Mrs. Kilburn left the University of Oregon to act as state director of special education at Laramie, Wyoming.

Women Debaters Begin Season

Speech Group Slates Discussion Appearances

Making its initial public appearance today at noon, the women's debate group is slated to speak before the Salem Kiwanis club. Tonight they will speak before the Marion County Young Democratic club.
 The group, under the direction of James A. Carrell, will discuss the relief situation. "What permanent form of relief shall we adopt?" is the specific question under consideration.
 Tomorrow the group will speak before the Salem Rotary club. Thursday noon, February 12, the group will discuss the same problem before the Oregon City Kiwanis club and the Independence community meeting, February 14.
 Esther Lange, Betty Brown, and Mary Nelson are making the trips and will conduct the discussions, except for the one at Independence in which Jean Larson will take Mary Nelson's place.
 During the first week in March, women speakers from the University of Washington will be on the Oregon campus for a joint symposium with University of Oregon speakers. They will present a discussion of the relief problem in and around Eugene.
 A tour is being planned in eastern Oregon for spring vacation and the group will probably go to Seattle sometime during the spring term for another joint symposium, according to Mr. Carrell.

WAA Health Week Starts February 17

Sports Program, Poster Contest, Tea Included on List Of Varied Events

A poster contest, a sports program with swimming, basketball and volleyball games, and a tea will be included in the WAA Health week starting February 17.
 A month's free pass to the Heilig theatre will be given for the best poster entered in the contest. The posters may be on any subject pertaining to health and may be entered by any man or woman student. All posters must be turned in to Regan McCoy by Friday, February 14. Judging will be done by a committee composed of art instructors.
Swim Pageant Slated
 A swimming pageant on Tuesday will start the week's sports program. All women swimmers on the campus are eligible to compete. On Wednesday, sorority and hall volleyball teams will play in the volleyball contest. The semifinals for the intramural basketball games will be played on Thursday.
 A large tea on Friday from 4:00 to 5:30 at Gerlinger hall will end the week. Students, faculty members and a few townspeople are to be invited.

UO Law Review Gains Accord

Former Student Writes How Magazine Helped

Charles G. Howard, editor-in-chief of the Oregon Law Review, received a letter yesterday from George Belt saying that the Review had greatly aided him in the preparation of a case and asking the cost of a complete set, bound. Mr. Belt is a last-year graduate of the Oregon law school and is at present with Carson & Carson, attorneys, at Salem.
 The Oregon Law Review is a quarterly issued through the cooperation of the law faculty and students. It has a wide circulation among the profession throughout the country and is also favored by many laymen. Leading articles by prominent members of the bar or law school professors, case notes and comments by students, and book reviews usually comprise its interesting contents.
 The February issue of the Review has gone to press and will be released the 15th of this month according to reports. Since a recent faculty ruling was put into effect the magazine is now obtainable by law students at 25 cents a copy or on the basis of a 75 cent yearly subscription rate. The regular price is $3.00 a year.
 Professor Howard said that a complete, bound set of the Oregon Law Review (Vol. 1 to XIV) could be secured for $63.00.

OSC Tops Oregon In Scholarship

Oregon State college leads the University of Oregon by six hundredths of a point, a comparison of the all-school grade point averages shows. Oregon's rating is 2.33, whereas the Corvallis school score is 2.39.
 Chi Omega sorority led all OSC organizations with a better than "B" average of 3.01. The highest ranking University group was Alpha Xi Delta sorority with a 2.81 average.
 Delta Chi fraternity topped the Oregon State men with 2.85, 23 hundredths of a point better than Oregon's first men's group, Alpha hall.
 Fraternities on the Corvallis campus take honors for the men. Four Oregon State houses, Delta Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Sigma Phi, and Pi Kappa Phi did as well or better than the best of the dormitories.

WAA Health Week Starts February 17

Sports Program, Poster Contest, Tea Included on List Of Varied Events

A poster contest, a sports program with swimming, basketball and volleyball games, and a tea will be included in the WAA Health week starting February 17.
 A month's free pass to the Heilig theatre will be given for the best poster entered in the contest. The posters may be on any subject pertaining to health and may be entered by any man or woman student. All posters must be turned in to Regan McCoy by Friday, February 14. Judging will be done by a committee composed of art instructors.
Swim Pageant Slated
 A swimming pageant on Tuesday will start the week's sports program. All women swimmers on the campus are eligible to compete. On Wednesday, sorority and hall volleyball teams will play in the volleyball contest. The semifinals for the intramural basketball games will be played on Thursday.
 A large tea on Friday from 4:00 to 5:30 at Gerlinger hall will end the week. Students, faculty members and a few townspeople are to be invited.

Student Union To Meet Tonight

All Those Interested Are Urged to Attend

The tentative Oregon chapter of the American Student Union will meet tonight in an effort to definitely establish its position. The important matters of constitution, policies, affiliation, and officers will be debated on the third floor of Gerlinger hall at 7:30.
 In the past two meetings about 50 interested and enthusiastic students have attended and attempted to organize the group. To date their efforts have not been entirely successful, due to difficulties in agreeing upon basic policies.
 The value of ASU or of some similar organization has been noted by both faculty and leaders of campus thought. Whether the group accomplishes its high hopes or not will be decided at tonight's assemblage.
 John Caswell, graduate student in history, will preside. He replaces William Hall, member of Senior Six, who has acted as temporary chairman of the group at the first two meetings. Hall is unable to attend.
 No qualification for attending the meetings is required. All students interested in national or local affairs are eligible to attend. Those interested in the success of the Union urge more students to attend the organization meeting.

Sigma Delta Chi Will Hear Bede

Editor to Give Story Of Opal Whiteley Case

Elbert Bede, publisher of the Cottage Grove Sentinel and vice-president of the Oregon State Editorial association, will be guest speaker at the dinner to be given by Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, Friday evening at 6 o'clock at the College Side.
 Mr. Bede will reveal the inside story of the investigation he made, some years ago, into the Opal Whiteley case, which has the record of being one of the biggest literary hoaxes in history.
 Opal Whiteley, claiming to have descended from French ancestry, one day disclosed a jumbled diary which, she claimed, had been kept in a secret box since she was a child.
 (Please turn to page two)

Peace Group Meets Today

The Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom will meet at the YWCA bungalow at 4 o'clock this afternoon, at which time assignments will be made for the peace campaign to be launched Wednesday.
 All members of the committee and all others interested are urged to attend. Students will be stationed at doors of all campus buildings between classes on Wednesday morning in the interest of the optional ROTC petitions being circulated.
 All petitions must be turned in by noon on Wednesday, for the faculty committee to which they will be presented meets at 4 Wednesday afternoon. Leaders of the movement announced that 325 names had been turned in yesterday without the aid of the two dozen petitions yet in circulation.

Construction Hits High Level

Libe, Infirmary, Tunnel, Warehouse Under Way

Construction and work on the campus has reached a high level, it was revealed in a survey yesterday.
 Wooden forms on the west side of the new libe have been removed and the second layer of concrete has already been poured on the floor of the stack room. Workmen were protected by a canvas covering, while inside the room fires were lighted to help set the cement.
 At the infirmary the first floor has been prepared for concrete which will probably be poured today. Metal conduits for electric light and telephone wires were put in place yesterday.
 The handball courts, formerly a part of the men's gym, are being made into a general storeroom and warehouse, it was revealed by Mr. D. L. Lewis, superintendent of the physical plant.
 The tunnel between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets has reached a point halfway between the two streets. Part of the tunnel near Fourteenth street remains to be dug and cemented before joining with the other tunnel which will meet it at right angles from University street.

Hunter Speaks In Corvallis Today

Chancellor Addresses Nebraska Alumni Club

"The Family and Education" will be the title of a speech to be given by Chancellor Hunter today in Corvallis. He will address a state-wide convention of women interested in home economics.
 Wednesday, Chancellor and Mrs. Hunter will go to Portland to attend the consecration of Benjamin D. Dagwell as bishop of the Episcopal church. At a banquet scheduled for Wednesday evening in honor of the bishop, Dr. Hunter will deliver a short congratulatory speech.
 Thursday, the chancellor will give the main address at the annual Founders' day banquet of the University of Nebraska alumni club. His topic will be "The Oregon State System of Higher Education." Dr. Hunter, an alumnus of Nebraska, was a star football player for his alma mater.
 Other visitors at the banquet will be Lon Stiner and George Scott of the Oregon State coaching staff.

Dime Crawl Dance Postponed Week

The change of the date of the Dime Crawl from February 12 to February 19 leaves the Senior Ball as the main social event for this week.

Daughter Born to Mrs. Erwin Williams

Erwin Williams, graduate student in education, is the father of a seven-pound girl born Friday at the Pacific hospital.
 Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been living in Eugene for the past two years while Mr. Williams has been attending the University. The Williams' have one other child, a son.

Two Hundred Fail To Pay Out of State Fees by Deadline

Approximately 200 students failed to meet the deadline of 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon set for the payment of the second installment of student fees, according to announcement from the business office.
 Unless special arrangements have been made, students not paying the installment will have to pay a 25 cents a day penalty for late payment and will be liable for suspension from the University if payment is not made within a week.
 Fees are to be paid at window four on the second floor of the administration building.

Second Love, Marriage Talks Slated for 7:30

'Biological Aspects' Subjects of Seminars; To Be Segregated

The biological aspects of love and marriage will be presented tonight at 7:30 in separate seminars for men and women students by Dr. Jessie Laird Brodie and Dr. Goodrich C. Schaffner, prominent Portland physicians.
 Women students will hear Dr. Brodie in alumni hall of Gerlinger. Men will hear Dr. Schaffner in Villard hall. Both doctors were speakers on the annual love and marriage lecture series last year.
 Admission to the lectures is by ticket only. Tickets are distributed free in the living organizations and through the Co-op. Students are urged to attend all of the lectures as they are each part of a series.
 The third and final lecture of the group will be in the next two weeks when Dr. J. Hudson Ballard, Portland Presbyterian minister, will speak on the psychological aspects of love and marriage.
 Peggy Chessman is in charge of the lecture series. Assisting her are Craig Finley, Isabelle Miller, and Virginia Endicott.

Hunter Speaks In Corvallis Today

Chancellor Addresses Nebraska Alumni Club

"The Family and Education" will be the title of a speech to be given by Chancellor Hunter today in Corvallis. He will address a state-wide convention of women interested in home economics.
 Wednesday, Chancellor and Mrs. Hunter will go to Portland to attend the consecration of Benjamin D. Dagwell as bishop of the Episcopal church. At a banquet scheduled for Wednesday evening in honor of the bishop, Dr. Hunter will deliver a short congratulatory speech.
 Thursday, the chancellor will give the main address at the annual Founders' day banquet of the University of Nebraska alumni club. His topic will be "The Oregon State System of Higher Education." Dr. Hunter, an alumnus of Nebraska, was a star football player for his alma mater.
 Other visitors at the banquet will be Lon Stiner and George Scott of the Oregon State coaching staff.

Dime Crawl Dance Postponed Week

The change of the date of the Dime Crawl from February 12 to February 19 leaves the Senior Ball as the main social event for this week.

Daughter Born to Mrs. Erwin Williams

Erwin Williams, graduate student in education, is the father of a seven-pound girl born Friday at the Pacific hospital.
 Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been living in Eugene for the past two years while Mr. Williams has been attending the University. The Williams' have one other child, a son.

Two Hundred Fail To Pay Out of State Fees by Deadline

Approximately 200 students failed to meet the deadline of 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon set for the payment of the second installment of student fees, according to announcement from the business office.
 Unless special arrangements have been made, students not paying the installment will have to pay a 25 cents a day penalty for late payment and will be liable for suspension from the University if payment is not made within a week.
 Fees are to be paid at window four on the second floor of the administration building.

Dr. Howard Taylor Attends Salem Meet

Dr. Howard Taylor, psychologist, spent last Friday in Salem conferring with a committee from the high school principals' association upon the development of guidance programs in the high schools of Oregon.
 Dr. Taylor is chairman of the state subcommittee on counseling in the high schools, which is at present considering educational guidance for the students. The principals' committee and the counseling committee at the meeting Friday that records be made in each high school of individual students and their problems.