

Outlook Gloomy For Duck Cinder Squad

Cancellation of Washington State Meet Announced

Possibility of Only Two Big Meets Faces Bill Hayward's Trackmen This Spring

By TOM McCALL

A downcast yet determined group of University of Oregon track men met Thursday in McArthur court to discuss the imminent danger of oblivion that threatens the potentially powerful 1936 Webfoot cinder squad because of the recent cancellation of the Washington State-Oregon dual meet. With the Cougar opposition stricken from their schedule, and the uncertainty of Oregon State's having a track team, there is a possibility that Oregon will have but one meet before the 1936 coast intercollegiate, May 29 and 30.

Points Towards Olympics

"It's an Olympic year that Bill Hayward has been preparing for and pointing to since 1933," Arne Lindgren, Northwest broad jump champion said. "There are men out there who will stand a good chance of reaching Germany."

Another Northwest champion, Bud Shoemaker, added, "There is no use working out because a trackman can't get into shape unless he has a good bit of strenuous competition. We have dual meets with Oregon State and Washington scheduled, but it doesn't look as if Oregon State is even going to enter a team this year."

"One meet doesn't go far toward getting in shape for the coast championship meet, let alone the Olympics," said Oregon's diminutive quarter miler, Howard Patterson.

Lindgren Speaks Again

Lindgren spoke again. "Of course not. And on top of that we are under obligation to bring the Washington State team down here this year." He went on to explain the situation, "Two years ago we scheduled Washington State on a home and home basis. That year we went to Pullman. In 1935 we were supposed to put up the money to bring the Cougars to Eugene, but because we were financially unable Washington State came across again and took us to Pullman. Now for the second time it's our turn and the meet is cancelled."

The tenor of the conversation changed to one of grim determination as the team talked of plans that they thought might produce the $500 which would make possible the Cougar invasion. Rather than let down their beloved coach, Bill Hayward, every man there said that he would be willing to go out and sell tickets to insure the meet. Failing that, it was suggested that the smaller colleges of the state be asked to choose an all-star team to meet Oregon.

Rosson Has Plan

Graduate Manager Hugh Rosson formulated a plan similar to the "all-star" idea when it was found necessary to cancel the WSC meet. Rosson said he was trying to consummate the scheduling of an AAU meet to replace the Cougar meet in Eugene. Entrants in the meet would be drawn from the high schools and colleges of Oregon under the Rosson plan.

Harvard Offers Civic Fellowships

A limited number of fellowships, not to exceed six, with a variable income for not more than three consecutive years will be granted by Harvard university to students who plan to enter the government or other forms of public service as a career.

The fields of public service for which the holders of the fellowships would be prepared fall under four heads: administrative officials, legislative and political officials, trade association officials, and publicists.

The applicants must have a B.A. degree or its equivalent and be a citizen of the United States between the ages of 18 and 24.

Additional information may be received by writing to 774 Widener Library, Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass.

All applications must be filed before March 1, 1936.

Subscription rates $2.50 a year.

Young Lawyers Plan Hoop Game

"Anywhere, anytime," were the words of the second-year law students as they boldly challenged the third-year barmen (seniors to them) to a basketball game.

Acceptance of the challenge came back clear and clarion. "Any place, any time you say!"

No date or time has yet been set, nor have players been chosen for either squad. But that it'll be a battle worth seeing is the unanimous opinion of the law school's corridor gossip sharks.

Reserve Officers' Dance Is Tonight

The Organized Reserve officers of Lane county will give a formal dance at 9 tonight in the Osburn hotel.

Among those invited are Governor and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mayor and Mrs. Elisha Large, Major General U. G. MacAlexander, Brigadier General James K. Parsons, Brigadier General Thomas E. Rilea, Major General George A. White, Colonel Cleland McLaughlin, Colonel Charles F. Thompon, and Colonel E. V. D. Murphy.

An invitation has been extended to all University students, said Crosby Owen publicity chairman. Tickets can be obtained by calling 1768. Price of tickets is $1.50.

Archie Parrot and his band will furnish music.

A dinner will be given for the officers and their wives preceding the dance.

Stehn Recovers; Leads Band Again

John H. Stehn was sufficiently recovered from a two days illness to lead the University band Thursday in its practice for the all soloist concert on March 8.

"Bolero" will be played at the concert by popular request. It was played at both band concerts last year and was well liked by the audience.

For special practice the band has been divided into two groups. The brass section practices Tuesdays, the reed and woodwind sections Wednesdays, and the complete band Thursdays.

Due to his illness Director Stehn said he has been forced to give up his pipe and smoke "sissy" cigarettes.

ORVAL ETTER TO SPEAK

Orval Etter, junior in law school, will speak on "The Religious Problems of Students," at the Methodist church in Cottage Grove Sunday.

In AAA Suit

In a precedent-setting suit, P. T. Vincent (above), Philadelphia real estate operator, seeks to restrain President Roosevelt, Chester Davis and Henry Morgenthau from ending the AAA, contending that the final decision on the validity of the law rests with the electorate, not the supreme court. It is believed to be the first suit of its kind naming the president a defendant.

Rook-Frosh Battle Set For Today

Ducklings Favored to Win Last of Annual Four-Game Series

Oregon's high scoring freshman basketball team will meet the Oregon State Rooks at Corvallis this afternoon in the final "little civil war" game of the 1936 season. The contest is scheduled for 2:30.

The frosh, who have won 18 of 19 starts to date, are favorites to take the Rooks into camp once more, but it's an old tradition that anything in the book can happen when yearling outfits tangle and anything may today.

Heller to Start

John Warren plans to start Leonard Heller and Wally Johansen at forwards, Laddie Gale at center, and Bobby Anet and Rod Hansen at guards. Heller is new in the starting lineup. His high point-collecting average and greatly improved play in recent games has given him the starting call. Hansen holds the nod over Hank Nilsen, who has suffered from a cold the past week. Gale, Johansen, and Anet have been regulars all season.

Fred Hill and Merle Taylor, Rook coaches, will probably start Ali Sandoz and Fred Soller at forwards; Bob Rissman at center; and Phil Fogle and George Kuvallis at guards.

Frosh Lead in Series

The frosh hold a two-to-one edge in games with the Rooks to date. The Beaver babes won out of the Ducklings in an overtime period, 37 to 35, at Corvallis in the first meeting, but the charges of Honest John Warren came back for 32-to-21 and 37-to-27 victories here.

After today the frosh have only one more contest on their slate, that with Salem high here next Tuesday. The players will continue to turn out after that, however, in order to provide the varsity with scrimmaging opposition.

3 Jewett Contest Winners Chosen

Three pairs of winners have been chosen in the preliminary Jewett radio hearings and will take part in the final contest to be held Wednesday evening, February 26, at 7:30.

As the preliminaries were too long to be completed Thursday afternoon, they will run over to Tuesday and three or four more winners will be selected, announced John L. Casteel, speech director.

Those already chosen for the final contest are Walter Eschebeck and Avery Combs speaking on "The Next President of the United States"; Paul Plank and Zane Kemler on "The Matanuska Experiment"; and Howard Kessler and Minoru Yasue on "American-Japanese Relations."

Dr. Beck to Show Film to Normal

Dr. Lester Beck will be in Ashland Monday and Tuesday to show his film "Life Begins" to students of Southern Oregon normal school and for the townspeople of Ashland. The Ashland PTA is sponsoring the show for townspeople.

Friday Dr. Beck will show psychology pictures to Dr. C. L. Huffaker's class in educational psychology. These pictures show illustrations of dynamic learning as studied by Dr. Kilpatrick of Columbia university.

Rifleman Victors In First Contests

In the first week of competition, University riflemen were victorious over rifle teams of Boston college and University of Kentucky, Harvey Elythe, ROTC instructor, said yesterday.

Team men this week were Kenneth Be Lieu, Jack Lew, L. J. Oglesby, John Halverson, and Delbert Bjork.

Webfoot Gridders Will Meet Monday At McArthur Court

Spring practice for Oregon football candidates will begin soon and Coach Prink Callison has issued a call for all varsity and freshman players and all other students interested in turning out to report at McArthur court Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Plans for spring practice sessions will be discussed. Informal workouts will probably begin the last of this term, with regular drill scheduled to open at the beginning of spring term.

Oregon's schedule next fall will be one of the toughest ever undertaken by a Webfoot team. Eight conference games are slated.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY HAILS ADMIRAL REINHART

Quacks

By TOM McCALL

The students, instructors, and athletic staff of George Washington university at Washington, D. C., are all sold on their new basketball coach, "Admiral" Bill Reinhart, late of the Webfoot camp.

And well they should be! "Admiral Bill" is flooring one of the most powerful college quintets that now function within the boundaries of the United States. Coming up against the best in the East and Middle West, the lads from George Washington have conquered in 13 out of the 14 games they have played this season. The only defeat handed to Reinhart's proteges was encountered in the first game of the season against Ohio State. That narrowly lost contest was more than compensated for when George Washington came back a couple of weeks ago and dropped the Buckeye Staters by a 25-point margin.

What is it that Reinhart's quintet has that gives it the winning number and causes it to be hailed by Washington newspapermen as the "greatest ever" at their local university?

That question could be answered by one word—DEFENSE. The eastern style of play calls for a wild breaking charge for the opponents' basket with no stress at all being laid on the protection of either hoop. Great scores are run up in this manner, and the spectators derive pleasure from the wild scoring drives.

Coach Reinhart introduced a bit of his man to man, defense to the play of his team (not enough to detract from its crowd pleasing propensities, however, and it has stormed every eastern basketball citadel to roll up 13 straight wins by huge margins.

"Admiral Bill" says that the players on his squad are not exceptional in size. All are about the height of Oregon's Sammy Liebowitz. Reinhart compares them to the Bronx Bomber, 1935 edition, in their floor play and shooting also. (Please turn to page four)

It appears that the old economic law of diminishing returns runs true even in the field of sports. Take the case of Hobson's basketball grenadiers. Hobson has more stars than he knows what to do with and with the adding of another the net returns are less than before. Seems funny but it works out.

The dumbest crack of the new year. Recently Dean Allen of the Journalism school received a letter from a former student, in which the chap told about his success in the writing field and explained his reason for dropping a line because he wanted to inspire up and coming journalists that the field was open to good writers.

It seems that recently this chap had sold an article to National Geographic for $300, and he enclosed in his letter a photostatic copy of the check.

Dean Allen posted the letter and the check on the bulletin board as he is prone to do when receiving letters from graduates.

A sweet little freshman girl noticed the check on the board and exclaimed, "Why doesn't the fool come and cash it?"

You'll learn, little girl, you'll learn. That's what college is for.

Bing Crosby's new picture "Anything Goes" which opens at the McDonald today gives Bing a chance to recoup his lost popularity. Mrs. Crosby's little son Bing has lost, considerable following due to his recent pictures in which he has been miscast. It appears that the producers had been trying to save money on the last few, but they more than make up for it on this one.

Frank Buck's latest action picture, "Fang and Claw" which will be shown at the Heilig Sunday, will be a real treat for those who are growing tired of the ultra-sophisticated films that have predominated of late.

According to advance reports, "Fang and Claw" contains thrills from start to finish and the best part of the whole thing is that the Heilig is offering another bill to top off the program, thus making well rounded entertainment.
