

Blais Selects Committee To Study ASUO

McCready, Boyer, Howe,
LaBarre, Pallett Are Listed for Group

After a long conference with President C. Valentine Boyer yesterday afternoon, James Blais, student body president, selected a committee to study the possibility of changes in ASUO organization and to find successors for the posts vacated by the resignations of Hugh Rosson, graduate manager, and Tom Stoddard, manager of athletics, Tuesday.

Blais Will Head Committee

The special committee which will consider problems of organization and administration will be headed by Blais. Lynn S. McCready, Oregon alumnus and prominent Eugene business man, will represent alumni. Earl M. Pallett, University registrar, will represent the faculty, and H. C. Howe, professor of English and Oregon's representative to the Pacific coast conference, will also act for the faculty and advise on athletics. Cosgrove LaBarre, senior finance man, is the other student member.

President C. Valentine Boyer will advise the group.

Problem of Reorganization Faced

Along with the duty of selecting successors for Rosson and Stoddard, the committee is faced with problems of reorganization and financing student activities because of the defeat handed the compulsory student fee bill at the special election January 31.

Blais said that a meeting of the committee will be called later this week.

No plan of reorganization has been expressed by those of the committee because of the many ramifications of the problems facing it.

Rosson and Stoddard did not make any further comments on their plans after June 30, when the resignations will become effective. It is believed that Rosson will enter the field of law, either teaching or practicing.

Museum Displays Art Treasures

Reproductions of Famous
Japanese Paintings Show
Art Trend

Reproductions of Japanese masterpieces from the thirteenth century to the present day are now on display in the Oriental art museum and will be up until the end of winter term. These reproductions were made by Otsuka of Tokio and were brought here by Jiro Harada, lecturer in Oriental art, to be presented to the museum.

Originals Are Treasured

They are the actual size of the originals and are reproduced on the same kind of paper or silk on which the original is painted. According to Mr. Harada, the masterpieces are so well reproduced that some of them are difficult to distinguish from the originals. The originals, most of which are considered national treasures, are possessed by ancient temples, private collections, and public institutions throughout Japan.

Biographies Given

A biography of the artist appears with each work. A careful study of the exhibit, said Mr. Harada, would enable one to get a general survey of the development of Japanese painting of the last few centuries.

The museum is open Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock and Sunday from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Rifle Matches Scheduled

Scheduled for shooting matches this week with the University of Oregon squad are University of Pittsburg, University of Georgia, Iowa State, University of North Dakota, University of Missouri, Rose Polytechnic Institute of Terre Haute, Indiana, University of Florida, Washington University at St. Louis, UCLA, and University of Alabama.

All Independents Meet Tonight at 7 In Gerlinger Hall

All independents, including Yeomen and Ordes students, will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in alumni hall in Gerlinger to consider emergency problems.

Proposed amalgamation of the groups will be among measures considered. Brittain Ash will preside.

Fred Gieseke and Theda Spicer, in calling the meeting, emphasized the need of 100 per cent independent representation and indicated that important new business is to be considered.

Karl Onthank Home Again

Dean of Personnel Will Leave Today to Take Over State NYA

Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel at the University and recently appointed administrator for NYA in Oregon, returned yesterday from Washington, D. C., where he has been the past month conferring on his new position. He will leave for Portland today to take active control of Oregon NYA activities.

According to present plans, Mr. Onthank will divide his time between his administrative duties in connection with the NYA and his present job as dean of personnel.

Most of the task facing him now, he said, is that of coordinating existing federal aid services such as WPA with the NYA. Since the latter is only temporary, with funds enough to operate only until July 1, it is necessary that some arrangements be made to care for those under its supervision in the event that the project is scrapped by the administration.

The National Youth Administration, according to Dean Onthank, is carrying on a program of aid for college and high school students in need of money to continue their education and for youths out of school who have no jobs and whose families are on relief.

For the former, part-time jobs are provided which will pay at least a portion of their expenses. This type of relief has been carried on for the past year under various agencies. For the latter the program is two-fold and is just beginning to be developed, the dean explained.

Under the present plan young men and women are given vocational training through night schools and extension services and are assisted in getting jobs where there is a chance. Where there is no opportunity for employment, NYA endeavors to provide work of some sort so the estimated 5,000,000 unemployed youth of America do not have to remain idle, he declared.

On his way home from Washington, Mr. Onthank stopped at various cities throughout the United States to inspect and familiarize himself with NYA set-ups. Among the cities he visited were Louisville, St. Louis, and San Francisco.

While in St. Louis Dean Onthank was elected vice-president of the American College Personnel association, whose meeting he attended from February 19 to 23.

During his trip across the continent Dean Onthank visited the Tennessee Valley project, where a former student of the University, Paul Agar, is assistant controller.

Toastmaster Club Names New Heads

Richard McBee and Albert Kaufman were authorized to reorganize the Toastmaster club, a group for both independent and fraternity men, at an open meeting Thursday.

The club might be a means of uniting the independents, McBee said yesterday. It will be limited to men but not to independents, he said. McBee pledged the support of the boys in case the independent girls wish a similar organization.

Tonight's meeting at 7:30 will be presided over by the newly-appointed chairmen, and the discussion will be political parties of independent campus organizations.

Oregon Student Federation Meets Tonight

Graduated ASUO Ticket,
Rushing Plan May Be Considered

With discussion of a graduated student body ticket and the fraternity rushing plan as very probable parts of the program, the Oregon Student Federation will meet tonight at 7:30 on the third floor of Gerlinger hall, in the first business session since formation February 14.

The program for the meeting will be definitely decided this afternoon when the program committee, temporarily headed by Dick Halley, draws up the procedure. Patronage in student politics, as well as fraternity support of athletes may also be included in the schedule.

Federation Will Consider

Members of the federation will discuss the situations suggested by the program committee, and may adopt definite policies of action in regard to them if they see fit. According to Paul Plank, the president, the group is going to establish some constructive policy in regard to these situations. Complete decisions on all points may not be made until later meetings, however.

Executive Council Meets

The executive council of the federation, consisting of William Hall, Charles Paddock, Kenneth Phillips, Muriel Nicholas, and Jack Riley will also meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock to establish regulations in regard to dues of members. At the present time dues are 50 cents a year. Plank, ex officio member of the council, suggested that the fee might be cut by the studio players will present two one-act plays today at 3:15 in Guild theatre with attendance open to all and admittance free. The plays are under the direction of Edith Kromman and Eleanor Pitts, both of whom are students in the play production class of Otilie Turnbull Seybolt.

Misses Kromman and Pitts
Direct Annual Studio
Plays Today at 3:15

The first play, directed by Edith Kromman, is an original one-act comedy by Helene Beeler entitled, "The Stuff It Takes." The play was written this fall by Miss Beeler, who until recently was in Alice Ernst's playwriting class. An entirely new angle to the "love-or-fame-fight," presented by Miss Beeler's play, was taken from a true incident of a girl who got a job by a new technique. The cast includes Dorothea Witt, Olive White, and Bruce McIntosh.

"The Turn of the Road," the other play, directed by Eleanor Pitts, is of a more serious nature. Included in its cast are Dorothy Helgerson, Francis Sinnette, Don Edwards, Wilhelmina Gerot, Ray Hockett, and Dick Watson.

There will be only one performance of the studio plays and there is no admission charge.

ASU Opens Survey Of Student Labor

Campus Wage Scale Will
Be Compared to Labor
Union Standards

First steps toward an investigation of local student labor conditions in comparison to labor union wage standards were taken last night at the special meeting of the University of Oregon chapter of the American Student union in Gerlinger hall.

The Oregon campus project is a unit in a national survey to be conducted by the union to determine the position of the working student nationally.

Seeks to Improve Conditions
If wages are low in particular occupations, the union desires to raise them and to place them on a standard scale, it was declared.

The chapter decided to work hand in hand with the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom in pushing a final petition drive for optional military to secure the remainder of the goal of 1000 student signatures, 600 of which have already been presented to the faculty.

Assists Optional ROTC Drive
The drive will probably be held on Friday between classes in order that signatures can be given to the faculty before it meets on Wednesday, March 4. The Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom meets today at 4 o'clock in the AWS room on the third floor of Gerlinger for a very important meeting.

Optional ROTC leaders at the union meeting expressed confidence that the faculty would record an optional sentiment.

Age, Ambition, and a Bullet

Had not an assassin's bullet yesterday removed Viscount Makato Saito, above, keeper of the Japanese privy seal, he would likely have succeeded aging Prince Kimochi Saijoni, left, as one of the emperor's closest advisers.

Sprague to Address Pro-American Club

Charles A. Sprague, editor of the Salem Statesman, will give a political, though non-partisan, address at the monthly luncheon of the Pro-American Organization of National Republican Women to be held at noon Friday, March 6, in the Japanese room of the Osburn hotel.

Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, and chairman of the education committee of the organization, will introduce the speaker. Students who wish to attend are asked to make reservations at the hotel.

Dr. W. D. Smith's Son Recovering From Cuts

Warren Smith Jr., son of Dr. Warren D. Smith, geologist, is recovering from the bad facial cuts which he received on the skiing expedition at Odell Lake last Sunday.

Warren fell going down the ski slide and caught the tip of his ski in his nose ripping it and part of his face. Dr. O. F. Gullion gave him first aid at the time and took 4 or 5 stitches in the cut when they returned to Eugene. The cut is said to be very uncomfortable but not serious, and will leave only a small scar. Warren is a junior at University high school.

From a microscopical examination of the dust found in a watch, a French scientist claims he can tell the kind of work in which the man owning the watch is engaged.

Harry Clifford Will Direct Frosh Glee

Committees Named; Will Begin Preparations
Immediately

Harry Clifford was named Frosh Glee chairman yesterday by June Brown, acting president of the freshman class, for the spring dance tentatively scheduled for April 11. Jack Lockridge will be assistant chairman.

Work on the important spring affair will begin immediately, to afford sufficient time for developing the details to perfection, Clifford said.

In announcing his directorate Clifford announced that all chairmen of sub-committees will be called together at the first meeting early next week to discuss plans and outline work for each committee.

Assistants Named

Assisting Clifford and Lockridge are George Campbell, chairman of finance committee; orchestra committee, Jay Langston, chairman, aided by George Hall, Frances Latourette, and Nan Brownlie; decorations, Felker Morris, chairman, Rod Aya, Harold Haener, and Esther Clausen; entertainment, Sherie Brown, chairman, Ted Olsen, Betty Funkhauser, Keith Osborne, and Frances True; programs, Zane Kemler, chairman, La Rae Windsor, Bob Recken, and Dorothy Johnson.

Patrons and patronesses, Frances Olsen, chairman, Mary Jane Mahoney, Ruth Stanley, and Gail Grebe; advertising and publicity, Lloyd Tupling, chairman, and Paul Deutschmann; clean-up, Forrest Landeen, chairman, Harry Adams, John Olsen, and Water Van Emon.

Serrell, Speaker Place

Other contestants included Don Serrell and Clifford Serrell with "Revision of the Versailles Treaty" as their topic, G. Schultz and W. E. Thomson, speaking in "Third Party Prospects," Paul Pank and Zane Kemler on "The Matanuska Settlement," Walter Eschebek and Avert Combs who spoke on "Our Next President," and Howard MacAulity and Marshall Nelson, speaking on "Bonnevile Dam and the Inland Empire."

The contestants were winners of a preliminary contest held several days ago.

The contests, held every year, are made possible through the W. F. Jewett fund, established by Mrs. Mary H. Jewett of Eugene in honor of the late Wilson F. Jewett. The administration of these contests is assigned to the speech division of the University of Oregon.

Judges of the contest were Mr. Morris, acting manager of KOAC, Professor Charles Hulten of the school of journalism and Professor R. R. Martin of the sociology department.

Several of the topics will be given over the radio forum.

WAA Plans Annual Banquet for March 5

The directorate for the annual banquet of the WAA, to be held at the Del Rey cafe Friday evening, March 5, at 6 o'clock, was announced by Jane Bogue, chairman, at a meeting held at the College Side Wednesday.

Elizabeth Onthank will take care of invitations; Betty Riesch, entertainment; Margaret Johnson, decorations; Genevieve McNiece, finances; Margaret Bell and Marjorie Fouch, reservations and programs; and Ruth Lake, publicity.

The next meeting of the group will be Tuesday, March 3, at 4 o'clock in the College Side.

Harada Addresses Kiwanis, Students

Jiro Harada, lecturer in Oriental art, will describe one of the Imperial gardens to students of landscape architecture at the home of Mrs. Anna Gullion tonight at 8:00. Last Saturday he addressed the International club at Westminster house in Corvallis on Japanese art.

Mr. Harada will speak at the Kiwanis luncheon Monday, March 2, and that night will present his speech to the American Association of University Professors at Monmouth. The subject will be Japanese art.

University Students Organize Committee For Campus Opinion

2 OSF Committees
Will Meet Today
To Discuss Plans

The program committee of the Oregon Student Federation will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Delta Upsilon fraternity to complete plans for the program of the meeting tonight in Gerlinger.

Richard Halley, chairman, requests that William Dalton, Tom McCall, Howard Ohmart, and John Luvaas, be present for the meeting.

The executive council of the federation will also meet at 3 o'clock in the College Side to discuss proposed projects for action of the group.

5 Measle Cases Confined to Annex

Dr. Miller Urges Students
To Come to Dispensary
For Health Check

Although there are five cases of German measles on the campus, the epidemic of flu seems to be subsiding.

There are now 31 University students on the sick list, 10 of them being admitted to the infirmary or the infirmary annex yesterday.

Dr. Fred N. Miller and the rest of the staff of the University health service, urgently request that all students who feel ill to come to the dispensary for a diagnosis. This will be an aid both to the health officials and to the other students on the campus and will help to stem the spread of any further sickness.

11 Patients in Infirmary

Yesterday there were 11 patients in the infirmary, the following six being admitted: Beryl Cornish, Bernice Scherzinger, Evelyn Genoves, Margaret Hay, Leland Terry, and Robert Young. Others there include: Jean Larson, Dixie Miller, Maude Long, Audrey Aasen, and Bartlett Cole.

Three girls were admitted to the infirmary annex yesterday. They are: Ruth Mary Scovel, Dorothy Johnson, and Helen Engel. The other seven there are: Jeanne Sherrard, Dorothy Howell, Arlene Reynolds, Aileen Dement, Helen Carlson, Elvera Marx, and Marjane Sturgeon.

Only nine patients remain in the Pacific hospital from the University. Herbert Juell, Kathleen Rose, Helga Myrno, William Hutchison, Donald Stout, George Reeves, Richard Farra, Abram Merritt, and Daniel Jordan.

YWCA Nursery Group Meets at 4

When you hear the sound of the hammer, that will be the girls of the welfare nursery group, coming to you from the YW bungalow, located on the University campus. Tap! Tap! Tap!

Today's meeting at 4 o'clock will be devoted entirely to actual project work. The current project is making large construction blocks from cigar boxes. These will be given to the children in the Washington grade school nursery.

The blocks will be colored with bright-colored harmless vegetable colorings, and can be built into "houses" and various other structures large enough to allow the children to play in.

There will be only one more meeting this term, according to Ellamae Woodworth, chairman of the group, and the project should be completed by the end of that meeting. Girls are requested to bring their boxes and hammers.

Anyone interested in joining the club is invited to attend the meeting, or information about the club may be obtained from Miss Hughes at the Y bungalow.

Farmers' opinions on AAA's ultimately end seemed to depend on whether they had been sprinkled or drenched in the gentle rain of checks.

Group Plans Attempt for Crystallizing Majority Will; All Elements Represented

More than 20 campus leaders, called in special meeting at the Emerald office, voted last night to form an "Opinion Steering Committee" for the purpose of formulating and determining student opinion on problems of state-wide interest.

The committee selected comprises a membership representing radical, liberal and conservative elements, and will seek to give citizens of the state true and unbiased information on student majority views, Bill Hall, chairman, declared.

Others Named

Other members of the committee are Dave Lowry, Ferd Colvig, Charles Paddock, Tom McCall, and Don Thomas.

Space for discussion of important student issues will be provided in the columns of the Emerald, editor Bob Lucas announced.

Methods for tabulating the voice of the student body on such issues as compulsory military training and referendums on educational matters were discussed, and members attacked the impression created throughout the state that certain minority interests represented the whole body of student opinion.

Resolution Passed

A resolution, declaring the purpose of the newly-formed group was presented by Cosgrove LaBarre and approved by the membership.

The resolution:

"As there is at present no effective means of determining majority opinion in the Oregon student body and as there are a small group of students on the Oregon campus who have been taking a stand on major issues, their stand through its publicity in the state has often been construed to be the opinion of the student body as a whole at the University of Oregon, therefore this Steering Committee of University of Oregon opinion has been set up to decide what the issues are and to ferret out the opinion of the students AS A WHOLE on those issues.

UO Psychologists Plan State Meet

Five Colleges to Be Here;
Dr. V. V. Caldwell From
Monmouth to Speak

The psychology department has completed plans for the first gathering of Oregon psychologists which is to be held here on the campus this weekend. The members of the University of Oregon psychology department are sponsoring this meeting to help the group formally organize.

Representatives from Oregon State college, Monmouth Normal school, St. Helen's Hall, Reed college, and Linfield have sent word accepting the invitation and it is expected that other Oregon schools will also be represented.

One of the outstanding discussions of the conference will be that led by Dr. V. V. Caldwell from Monmouth, upon "Relative Benefits of Demonstration vs. Recitation in Elementary Psychology Classes."

Friday evening a banquet honoring the guests will be held at the Faculty club.

Ghent Will Address Mathematics Group

Dr. Kenneth S. Ghent, instructor in mathematics, will speak at an open meeting of the Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary, tonight. The subject of his talk will be "Some Problems in the Theory of Numbers."

Kathrine Stevens, junior in education, will give a short discussion on "The Origin of Some of Our Measures."

Campus Calendar

There will be an emergency meeting of all independent students, including Yeomen and Ordes, at 7 o'clock in alumni hall. It is essential that every independent student be present.

Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom meets at 4 o'clock today in the AWS room in Gerlinger hall to start the final optional ROTC signature drive. Highly important.

Toastmasters' meeting tonight at 7:30 at the YMCA hut. Plans for a reorganization will be discussed.

The Studio players will present two one-act plays in a matinee performance.
