

It's This Way

By Marge Petsch

If there ever was a president's wife who performed her every duty with intelligence and a measure of kindness unexcelled, that first lady is Mrs. Roosevelt. Whether or not people feel that she makes herself conspicuous in the news reels or not, is not a criticism of her particularly, but rather an indication of the many things in which she interests herself.

One must admit, however, that her face does not appeal to those sensitive to beauty. One hesitates to accuse distant cousin Alice Roosevelt of the "unkindest cut of all," but the recent change in her picture which runs with her daily comments in leading newspapers would seem to indicate such a thought. The original picture, one must admit, had a rather sour or pickled expression about it, but it was scarcely necessary to strive for a carbon copy of the Eleanor Roosevelt smile.

We received a letter last week from the women's editor of the Stanford Daily, in which she requests a brief comment on the lock-out system at Oregon. It is with an inquisitive interest that we replied to W. E. Millard Browne, Stanford is a deal more lenient with its women than Oregon, inasmuch as coeds may obtain 2 o'clock permission once a week. Senior women frequently are allowed to have keys to their sorority houses. How different is Oregon! It's probably just as well, though. There is remarkably little to do in Eugene after midnight in the way of good, clean fun.

Henriette "Scoops" Horak didn't know her own strength in writing last week when she reported the Koehn lecture for the Oregonian. With wide-eyed surprise she has noted the editorial campaign which has started throughout the state in response to her assertion that the speech was received by "shuffling" students. Every day when she sees a new comment about her article in editorial columns she gets that look of "I did it with my little hatchet" in her eyes. To the observing college student, "Scoops' hatchet" was much duller than it could have been. Just wait until she sharpens it up a bit.

Boudoir interlude: Marg Ann "Priss" Smith, illustrious first lady of the Oregon campus, has been easing out her nerves lately by a dandy little pastime which she claims is both a sedative and an inexpensive method of satisfying hunger pains. She's taken up sucker sucking. Thus far it has not gone outside the privacy of her personal room. "Priss" has remembered thus far that the morale of the campus women must be maintained, despite strange personal crochets.

We didn't think Bill Marsh's story about our Tragedy in the Sweet Pea Patch was very funny the other day. He didn't quite catch the pathetic twist to the tale. He'll be plenty ashamed of himself when we pin the second sweet pea of the season in his lapel. The first one we're going to press—as a memorial to our magnificent obsession.

Martha McCall, Virginia Endicott Compete For A.W.S. Prexy

AWS nominations which have been rumored and previously printed in the Emerald yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The AWS nominations committee report read by Virginia Younie, vice-president, revealed Virginia Endicott and Martha McCall as candidates for president, Starla Parvin and Helen Bartrum for vice-president, Gayle Buchanan and Gladys Battleson for secretary, Elizabeth Ann DeBusk and Vivian Emery for treasurer, Martha Felsheim and Ann Nelson for sergeant-at-arms and Laurene Brockschink unopposed for reporter.

YW nominations were of Ruth Weber and Elaine Comish for president, Clara Nasholm and Edith Clark for vice-president, Margaret Carmon and Virginia McCorkle for secretary, and Lillian Warn for treasurer.

The elections will be held Tuesday, March 3, in front of the library between 9 and 5 o'clock.

Annual reports were read by AWS officers and representatives of the women organizations subsidiary to the AWS. AWS officers reports were made by President Margaret Ann Smith, Virginia Younie, vice-president, Martha McCall, treasurer, Gladys Battleson, sergeant-at-arms, and Starla Parvin, secretary.

Other reports were read by Dorothy Bergstrom for WAA, Elaine Sorenson for YWCA, Frances Watzek for Phi Theta Upsilon, Theda Spicer for Ordes, Margaret Ann Cooper for heads of houses, Mildred Blackburne for Kwama and Thespians, Elaine Comish for activity committee, Pearl Johansen for fresh counselors, and Dorothy Dill for frosh orientation.

The speakers' committee and mum sales report were read by Marjorie Willis, the rally committee report by Jean Stevenson, the Coed Capers report by Helen Bartrum, and Isabelle Miller, campus social chairman read her report for the year.

Odin Rites Performed in Portland

Miss Florence McNerny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McNerny, became the bride of Carl E. Odin, son of the late Charles E. Odin, Saturday morning at the Church of the Madeleine, in Portland.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Misses Lorraine and Margaret McNerny, and George Swanson of Seattle, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Ushers were John Casey, Alan Emrick, and Richard Pengra.

Mrs. Odin is a graduate of the University of Oregon, and a member of Alpha Chi Omega and Mortar Board.

The couple will make its home in Portland.

Boutonnières Attract Milady This Spring

Couple Now Residing In Salem, Oregon

More news about accessories! Hats are nice in felt for tailored effect this spring. The Descats, like a man's fedora are favorites right now since they can be worn day in and day out and still make the wearer appear "awfully smart, don't you know?" The flat pie-pan type is popular also. Queer colors such as snuff, faded cherry, turquoise or pale plasticine blues are best for felt hats or berets. An amusing custom of carrying the hat in the hand had arisen from England. This is only for the country, though.

The buttonhole or boutonniere is a small item, but extremely important for correct garb this spring. Drawing room flowers plucked from chance vases and pinned on everything—even sweaters—is the style this year. The best flowers are roses, carnations, jonquills, or any flower giving the effect of "packed bloom" in florists' terms. Your handbag should be of box calf, medium sized, tough, firm, and for extra smartness, hand-sewn in harmony with your gloves.

As for jewelry, the conventional diamond clips and pearls may be worn. The trend is to stress the setting much more than the particular jewel, however. Diamonds are dressed up as if they were glass or paste imitations. Try your grandfather's gold cuff links on a tailored silk blouse. Brilliant buckles are again appearing on opera pumps. Pearls are worn in six or seven strands—such as Queen Mary wears hers. A new idea is a wide gold bracelet or a jeweled clip with a watch set in the center. The main thing to remember in choosing accessories is to keep them in harmony. Don't wear several different styles at once, and don't, for example, use too much jewelry.

Pallister-O'Reilly Wedding Solemnized

Miss Ruth Pallister, sophomore, became the bride of Robert O'Reilly last Thursday morning here in Eugene.

Mrs. O'Reilly is the daughter of J. F. Pallister, and Mr. O'Reilly the son of Mr. and Mrs. Will O'Reilly. Miss Kathryn Gallagher acted as maid of honor to the bride, and Edward O'Reilly, brother of the groom, was best man.

AWS President Discourages 'Gray' Politics

After AWS nominations were announced yesterday the retiring president, Margaret Ann Smith, in an interview expressed the sincere hope that politics of a "grayer" nature can be kept out of the election next Tuesday.

"I hope that houses will not line up for block voting. The idea of one house trading its votes for the return votes of another house to back their respective candidate does not seem at all fair," continued Margaret Ann. "Because" half of the girls are then voting for someone whom they neither know or really want."

Margaret Ann believes that it is only natural that a girl who has a friend running for office should do a bit of campaigning among her own acquaintances. When the campaign begins on the large scale it loses the personal contact and the candidate herself is not being considered, only her affiliations.

"I am also hoping that there will be no campaigning at the polls with cars at the disposal of voters in order to tempt them into voting as the campaigners desire.

"In order for the AWS to have a better year and keep up the work it has begun the officers will need cooperation; to get this, they must be backed by votes that recognize leadership and not by those obtained through bribery. The girls selected are all capable, but the one best known by her leadership should have the following she deserves," Margaret Ann concluded.

Former University Student Married In Klamath Falls

Miss Grace Lynch, prominent student on the Oregon campus three years ago, became the bride of Mahr Reymers on February 20 in Klamath Falls. The rites were performed at the home of the bride, at a beautifully appointed afternoon ceremony.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lynch of Klamath Falls, Miss Lynch was prominent in campus activities while a student here. She was an affiliate of Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Reymers, a graduate of the University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Reymers, also of Klamath Falls. While at Oregon he was a journalism major, and a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

The couple will make their home in Klamath Falls where Mr. Reymers is the proprietor of a service station.

Kansas Editors Back Landon

Again the University of Kansas editors write an editorial regarding the state's candidate for president, Alf Landon:

The entire nation is turning their eyes and ears toward Kansas today. This interest is not due, necessarily, to the fact that the state will celebrate its 75th year of statehood and 44th Kansas day anniversary. The expected announcement by Governor Landon that he is a candidate for the presidency of the United States completely dominates Kansas day interests and activities. It is thought that Landon will eliminate the adverse criticism to which he has been subjected because he has, up to date, consistently refused to indicate his ideas and convictions on contemporary problems, by demonstrating his availability by a strongly-worded attack on the administration, and an expression of his ideas.

This verbal attack, that is eagerly awaited by the public, will add spice to the program of Kansas day; this year's Kansas day will be the first to see a presidential announcement of any consequence.

The people of Kansas believe in Governor Landon. They believe in his sincerity of purpose and his application of common sense in attaining results. They believe that he can do for the United States the same thing he has done for Kansas—balance the budget.

Miss Watson graduated from the University in 1935, and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta. Mr. Cuppoletti will graduate from the University this spring. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

A recent issue of the Daily Maroon, University of Chicago student paper, used an extreme "down style" as journalists would say. The heads, beginning of paragraphs, and proper nouns were all written in small letters.

37% GREATER

A College Woman's annual worth to Women's Apparel Stores is 37% greater than "other women's" patronage. (According to the Retail Dry Goods Association.)

$324.85
—Average annual worth of University Woman to Women's Apparel Stores.

$236
—Average annual worth of other women to Women's Apparel Stores.

You can best reach this expensive market thru the Women's Page of the Oregon Daily Emerald.

HERE'S WHY THE WOMEN'S PAGE ARRESTS THE COLLEGE WOMAN'S ATTENTION:

The Women's Page is edited by women who know what college women like to read. It contains feature articles and criticisms on questions pertinent to the interests of the college woman. To the advertisers, it offers free writeups in the feature column "Promenading With Polly."

A new feature just added to the women's page, "Co-ed's Corner," is certain to be favorably accepted by college women.

If you want to send a message to University Women, send it via the Women's Page in every Thursday's issue of the Oregon Daily Emerald.
