STAGE of the WORLD

Easy Money

I wouldn't go so far as to advise anyone to haul off with their share of the swag while the getting was good, because many are already taking advantage of their opportunity. By this I mean that we are living in an age of graft, many know it, take advantage of it, and so don't need to have pointed out to them that to open their pockets to the trickle of slush money would increase their income nicely.

What brings this up was a conversation had yesterday with a prominent man who said that recently he had had occasion to use a state car. He pulled up in a filling station, took on about five gallons and didn't need any oil. He flashed the credit card and the attendant asked if he would want ten gallons of gas and a couple of quarts of oil written on the bill. When he demurred the attendant was surprised into remarking that he was the first he'd seen who skipped the chance to pick up a little chicken feed.

I would hate to be called on to prove the truth of this anecdote, but I have no reason to doubt the veracity of the man who told it to me. It is similar to the case of the cops here in town, who cart home the waitresses of a certain restaurant in exchange for free coffee, in that it is petty graft, and would be all but impossible to prove it in a "my word against yours" situation, but it is nevertheless misuse of the taxpayers' money.

To be sure, stuff like this pales into insignificance when we remember the Teapot Dome scandal of several years ago, the disclosures of Lincoln Steffens, and more recently the eye-openers given us by the Senate committee investigating the munitions companies, but it serves to bear out that it is a day of easy money for those on the inside, whether they be small fry or big operators.

Youth is great at feigning sophistication and worldliness, and many of us if asked whether we would open our pockets to the luscious trickle, if we were in a position to might on the spur of the moment reply affirmatively. Upon reflection most of us would probably change our minds and follow the inherent tendency of youth to be idealistic by voicing that it's a rotten condition when the wheels of democracy, both little and big, have to be lubricated with the oil of graft. We would like to see that changed, but in a democracy, rich, corrupt, and functioning by concessions and reciprocity of favors, it is unlikely that a few adolescent voices in our factory of freshmen will ever be heard. "Just some crack-pot college kids trying to change the world that has given them everything they have" sounds forth from every hill and hamlet when a few of us hint that the order of easy money might well be purged of some of its baser concepts and actions. Very well, but the day is coming.

Munching Kwama 'Brownies' Gets Social Approval

By LILLIAN WARN

Hippity hop to the Kwama shop to get a bag of Brownies

5c a sack—just the right snack to eat on your way to classes and back.

Today is Kwama brownie day, says the roly-poly campus crier. From 9 o'clock until 5:30 Isabel Miller, campus social chairman, has given her sanction to the rightfulness on this day of munching delicious brownie cookies to and from classes. The three-fourth inch thick confections are sanitarily cellophaned, two in a bag, for five cents, according to Kathleen Duffy, general chairmen.

Before the Side, between Commerce and Oregon, in front of the old libe, at the women's gym, and in front of Hendricks hall, you'll

Last Concert Winter Term Tonight at 8:15

Tschaikowsky Number, 'Sixth Symphony,' Is On Varied Program

Under the direction of Rex Underwood, the University symphony orchestra will present its concert tonight at 8:15 at the school of music auditorium. This is the last of the concert series on the ASUO winter term schedule.

One of the leading numbers appearing on the program is Tchaikowsky's "Sixth Symphony." Music leaders rate it as even more popular than his "Fifth Symphony," which was featured on the program presented by the Portland symphony orchestra. Other numbers on the program are: "Brandenburg Concerto in F Major" by Bach, and "Concerto in D Minor," by Wieniawski.

Miss Johnson to Solo
Dorothy Louise Johnson, violinist, will play a solo accompanied by the orchestra, for the number by Wieniawski. She is a sophomore and has studied four and one-half years under A. M. Schuff, Portland, and two years under Mr. Underwood. She won the Oregon Federation of Music club contest in Portland in 1932 and again in 1933.

Mr. Underwood has wired Frances Brockman, well known violinist, whom he allowed to use his beautiful Italian violin, to return it so that Miss Johnson could use it tonight. Miss Johnson is a member of Phi Beta, women's national music and drama honorary, and is also a member of the Portland junior symphony under the direction of Jack Gersbitch.

Ticket Holders Free

Holders of ASUO season concert tickets and student body cards will be admitted without extra charge. Otherwise, general admission will be 25 cents. The proceeds will be used for the orchestra scholarship loan fund created by Mr. Underwood for music students.

Wilbert Moore Article Printed

Wilbert E. Moore, graduate in sociology, had an article published in the February issue of "The News Letter," published by the chapters of Alpha Kappa Delta, sociology honorary.

"Early Russian Social Thought" is the title of the article, a summary of a research project which contains the history of social thought from the appearance of the Slavs in Russia, early during the 6th century, to the Napoleonic period.

Former Secretary Returns to Campus

Mrs. Harriet Hodgkin Van der Vate, former secretary to Dr. Howard Taylor in the personnel research bureau, returned to the Oregon campus Tuesday.

Mrs. Van der Vate is working on a PWA research project having to do with consumers cost. It is under the home economics division of the United States department of agriculture.

Committees who assisted Kathleen Duffy, brownie general chairman, follow: brownies, Isabel Miller; selling, Elizabeth Turner; house sales, Hallie Dudley and Betty Rosa; booths, Jean Ackerson and Irma Huston; posters, Doris Mabie; publicity, Lilyan Krantz and Lillian Warn.

Stanford Aptitude Tests on March 7 In 302 Condon Hall

The college aptitude test for Stanford university entrance will be given by Dr. Howard R. Taylor, head of the psychology department, on Saturday, March 7, in room 302 Condon hall at 9 a. m.

All students expecting to transfer to Stanford next year are asked by Dr. Taylor to take the test now or in Portland on Saturday, March 28, when the same test will be given there.

Howard Receives Honor Position

Law Association Chooses
New Commercial Law
Council Members

Charles G. Howard, law professor, received word yesterday of his election to a post in the Association of American Law Schools. He has been selected a member of the council of the round table of commercial law for 1936. It was revealed.

The object of the association, Prof. Howard said, is the improvement of legal education in America, particularly of the law schools. The body was organized in 1900 and maintains a high standard for school membership.

Other members of the council to which Prof. Howard was elected are John Hanna, Columbia university, chairman; H. C. Dillard, University of Virginia; John E. Mulder, University of North Carolina; S. C. Oppenheim, George Washington university; and Roscoe T. Steffen, Yale university.

Prof. Howard said yesterday that he hoped to attend this year's annual meeting of the association which will be held in Chicago.

Four OSC Faculty Members Here

To confer with Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter and other members of the state higher education system, several of the Oregon State college faculty were on the Oregon campus Tuesday.

Those coming from Corvallis were George W. Peavy, president of the college, W. A. Schoenfeld, dean of the agriculture school, F. L. Ballard, assistant director of the extension station, E. L. Potter, head of the agricultural economics department, and W. A. Jensen, executive secretary of the college.

Examinations scheduled by subject take precedence over those scheduled by hour of class meetings. The examinations will be held in the regular classrooms unless otherwise announced. Instructors should be consulted about any conflicts that occur.

No examination is to be given before the regularly scheduled time, except with the approval of the schedule committee, according to a faculty regulation.

Two Nash Books On Libe Display

Two publications of John Henry Nash, San Francisco publisher, which were recently purchased by the University library, have been put on display in the English reserves showcase. The books are: "Some Aspects of Horace" by Henry Rushton Fairclough, professor emeritus of classical literature at Stanford university; and "Jessie Bente Fremont, a Woman Who Made History," by Catherine Coffin Phillips. Both volumes were printed in 1935.

Mr. Nash is well-known for his unusual handling of type faces. Both books displayed have their entire title pages printed in capital letters.

Lawrence Has Influenza

Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts, has been ill with influenza at his home in Portland for the past week. It is expected that he will be able to attend his classes this week, according to Mrs. Mabel Houck, secretary and librarian of the school.

Out to Spear a Winter Meal

Travelers are intrigued by the sight of Indians spearing and netting salmon while runs are going up the river. This picture was taken at Celilo falls near The Dalles.

Men's PE Classes For Rest of Winter Term Are Cancelled

The remainder of men's activity classes in PE for winter term have been cancelled because of construction work on the gym.

Lecture classes will continue, however, and exams will be given, said Dean Bovard. Exam schedules have been posted in the PE building.

Oregon Seniors Invited to Capitol

Visit to U.S. Supreme Court To Be Part of Program Spring Vacation

An invitation to all University seniors to attend the annual session of the National Institute of Public Affairs in Washington, D. C., was received by President C. Valentine Boyer yesterday.

Sessions of congress, a visit to the supreme court, attendance at congressional hearings, and meetings throughout the day with leading government officials, legislators, press correspondents, and lobbyists are included on the six-day program of the institute.

The one week institute is being inaugurated at the request of college authorities, and will be held during the spring of each year, the letter said. No tuition fees will be charged.

Seniors who wish to participate in the work can obtain additional information by writing The Director, Institute of Government, 400 Investment Building, Washington, D. C., or by seeing Professor James D. Barnett, head of the political science department here.

Keizer Speaks At AAUW Dinner

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women was addressed at a dinner meeting last night by Dexter Keizer, president of Reed college. He spoke on the modern trends in education.

Mrs. Nelson Macduff is president of the Eugene chapter. Mrs. William Tugman and Mrs. W. E. Buchanan, Jr., had charge of arrangements for the dinner. Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter introduced President Keizer. Members of the AAUW and several guests were present.

Dean Morse to Speak At Church Breakfast

Dr. Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University law school, will be the speaker during a breakfast given by the young people of the First Christian church at the Cafe Del Rey at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, March 8. Dr. Morse has selected as his topic "The Individual's Relation to Law Enforcement."

A short program of musical numbers has been planned. Miss Naomi Jackson will be the toastmistress for the breakfast. Tickets may be obtained for 25 cents at the University Co-op.

This is the third of a series of breakfasts planned by the group.

Faculty Action On Military Held Doubtful

Compulsory Backers Get Almost Enough Names To Equal Optional

University compulsory and optional military advocates drove to a fast finish yesterday, stopped for a breathing spell, and then laid plans for future campaigning, as they awaited the decision of the faculty on a motion which comes up for action today recommending that the state board of control make military training elective.

Possibility that the faculty might postpone action for further consideration was expressed by interested students and faculty members last night.

606 Students Sign
According to Ben Chandler, chairman of the committee for the general welfare, 606 students signed petitions voicing approval of present compulsory military training. The petitions, which were circulated at fraternity and sorority houses, the dormitories, and in independent student circles, were called in last night to be prepared for presentation to the faculty today.

"In view of the fact that the petitions were only circulated two days, I believe that the results were quite good. Members of several fraternity houses signed the petition one hundred per cent," Chandler said.

Postponed Action Possible
Although it is believed possible that the faculty might postpone action on the question, President C. Valentine Boyer said the motion to come up before the body today need not necessarily be based on the petition submitted earlier this year by the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom advocating optional military.

However, President Boyer said the minutes of the last faculty meeting mentioned that in view of the petition from students asking the faculty to petition the state board of control for military training to be made optional, at the next meeting of the faculty a motion will be made to that effect.

If the question comes to a vote today, balloting will probably be by secret ballot, President Boyer said. "This will be done to avoid the charge that somebody tried to put something over by political skulduggery."

Board Action Indefinite

If the faculty does vote for optional military training the matter could not come up before the board of control at their meeting next Monday, unless they laid aside their own rules. President Boyer pointed out. All matters to come before the board must be on the docket a week before the meeting, and as the petition could not possibly reach the board's secretary before Friday, it is improbable that they will take an action, he said.

"As I interpret it, on a vital matter such as this, the board might consider it for a month before action is taken," the president declared.

Fight to Continue

According to leaders of the Committee for the General Welfare, in case optional advocates carry the matter to the state electorate, they will organize to fight the initiative. They declared that campus liberals were dominating the reading matter of the state and misrepresented the matter of the state and misrepresented (Please turn to page four)

Rae Gets Position In Census Bureau

John M. Rae, professor of business administration at the University of Oregon from 1928 to 1934, has been made division chief of the census of business of the United States bureau of census, according to word received here yesterday.

Mr. Rae is in charge of one of the four divisions of the business census bureau, and has his headquarters in Washington. He was transferred to his new position from the securities and exchange commission, in Washington, D. C.

Guild Play Will Be Given Four Times

Horace Robinson to Have Leading Part; April 10-11, 17-18 Are Dates

Continuing a policy which was inaugurated last term, the University theatre will present "Outward Bound," its next dramatic offering, on two successive weekends, April 10-11 and 17-18.

Heading the cast of Sutton Vane's mystical drama now being rehearsed by Mrs. Otilie Seybolt, is Horace W. Robinson, instructor in dramatics and director of the recent production, "Street Scene." He will play the role of the troubled play-boy, Tom Prior. Mr. Robinson has previously played the part with the University of Oklahoma players. However, he will give an entirely different interpretation to the role in the present production.

In the role of Mrs. Midget, quaint cockney washerwoman, will be Miss Mary Bennett, Eugene actress whose diverse roles with the Very Little Theatre have included Mrs. Puffy in "The Streets of New York" and more recently, black-faced Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Experienced Guild Hall players will take the other leading roles in the play.

Gamma Alpha Chi Dance March 28

Tickets for the Gamma Alpha Chi annual dance to be held March 28, will be on sale today for 99 cents in all women's living organizations through house representatives. Irene Schaub and Kathleen Salisbury are co-chairmen of the ticket committee.

Contrary to previous years, the Gamma Alpha Chi dance is to be held in McArthur court in order to provide more room for those who attend. The motif for the dance is to be a "Fifth Avenue" idea. Maude Long and Betty Coon are co-chairmen for the affair.

Miss Riser Visits Alpha Gam House

Miss Julia Riser, field representative of Alpha Gamma Delta international fraternity, is in Eugene visiting the Delta Delta chapter on her annual tour of inspection. Her home is in Philuria, Alabama.

After her arrival on the Oregon campus Sunday noon from Berkeley, California, she was entertained at dinner with several prominent faculty members attending. Miss Riser is leaving Thursday morning for the Corvallis chapter.

Tuesday evening a dinner was held in her honor at the chapter house, with Eugene alumnae as guests. Elinor Stewart, Portland, is president of the Eugene chapter.

'No Scruples' Contains Section Of Coed Spring Styles

No Scruples, Oregon's new campus magazine, will have a two-page spread of photographs of prominent Oregon coeds wearing the latest in spring styles. Anne Burns, women's editor, is handling this feature which is being made possible by the cooperation of Eugene's leading ladies' apparel stores.

The new section will be known as College Vogue. The publishers of Vogue magazine have given No Scruples permission to use the copyrighted name, Vogue. As yet the coeds to be used as models have not been chosen, but they will be named in the near future. The two-page spread of photography is indicative of the high photographic content of No Scruples. A great share of the magazine will

WAA Refuses to Reveal Vote Until Banquet Thursday Night

Martha McCall and Elaine Comish were elected to head the AWS and the YWCA respectively for the coming year by campus coeds yesterday in a vote totaling only slightly over 300 ballots.

Miss McCall's margin over her opponent, Virginia Endicott, was 222 to 109. YWCA President Elaine Sorensen said last night she "thought it best" not to give the actual vote count in the YW returns, so Miss Comish's margin over her competitor, Ruth Weber, was not known.

No WAA Results
WAA leaders refused to reveal the election results of their group until their traditional annual banquet Thursday night.

In the other AWS voting, Helen Bartrum won over Starla Parvin, 209 to 116, for vice-president; Gayle Buchanan topped Gladys Battleson, 214 to 116, for secretary; Elizabeth Ann DeBush won the treasurer's post from Vivian Emery, 244 to 86; Martha Felsheim had three more votes than Ann Nelson for sergeant-at-arms to win 159 to 156; and Laurene Brockschink won unopposed for reporter.

Other YWCA official posts saw Clara Nahsolin win the vice-presidency from Edith Clark; Margaret Carman chosen secretary over Virginia McCorkle; and Lillian Warn winning the treasurer's place unopposed.

Alpha Kappa Psi Conducts Survey

A survey on "Why the People of Springfield Buy in Eugene," has just been conducted by the members of Alpha Kappa Psi, national business honorary, under the direction of Professor N. H. Comish of the business administration school.

Bertram Schatz, chairman of the research committee, was assisted by William Flagg, George Sherwin, and John Economus. The members conducted a house to house canvass, submitting the questionnaire to Springfield housewives.

The results will be compiled and submitted to the Springfield chamber of commerce to help improve the business methods and policies of Springfield merchants.

William Flagg, of Vancouver, Washington, was appointed treasurer of the business honorary at the last meeting, to succeed Karl Thomason.

Christian Council To Work on Peace

The Student Christian Council will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Westminster house. All students who are interested in doing constructive peace education are invited.

At the meeting the group plans to organize a campaign for the sale of peace bonds and literature in Eugene and the surrounding territory.

Toastmasters Club Meets Tonight at Y

The Toastmasters' club will hold its regular meeting Thursday at 7:30 o'clock in the Y hut. Fred Giesecke, who leads the meeting, will use as his topic "Qualities That Make for Campus Leadership."
