ROLIE ROURKE COMES HOME, BILL COURTNEY GETS CALL TO EMPIRE

ROSE CITY FAG BRINGS ROUGH JOLT TO WEBFOOT BARNSTORMING SQUAD

Quacks

By TOM MCCALL

One little cigarette provided an awfully tough break for Oregon's basketball Rourke and gave Guard Bill Courtney a trip to the Inland Empire with the barnstorming Ducks.

The traveling squad, which left Eugene yesterday noon, minus "Wee Willie," stopped a few minutes in Portland where Rourke stepped off the train and fired up a fag. Coach Hobson smelled smoke, found its source, handed Rourke a ticket home, and wired that Courtney be sent north immediately.

Of course there must be training rules and they must be maintained, but it seems that the squad and the deadeye Irish guard received quite a heavy blow through Coach Hobson's action. Rourke is a senior and the games would have been his last for Oregon. He was valuable to the team. But then, on the other hand, it was just as much Rourke's loss as anyone's. He wants to win 'em too.

It's beyond me just why the individual scoring of the southern division of the Pacific coast basketball conference is always higher than that of the northern section. For example, the record in California is Lee Gutter's 187 points for a 12 game season. Southern quintets have just concluded their this year's dozen and Hank Luisetti, Stanford's sophomore sure shot, has whipped in 66 field goals and 40 fouls for a total of 172 points, which is just four less than the Northwest record hung up last year by Galer of Washington. But Galer was a senior and had 16 contests to shoot through to set his mark.

Then when the basket-making wonders meet the Northwest champion for the Pacific coast title and there are no great scoring spears on the part of the Californians, what conclusion is a man supposed to draw?

Although the regular 12 game schedule of the southern division has come to a close, there is still one game yet to be played. It's the fracas between Stanford and the Southern California Trojans that will decide the champion down there. The Cards and SC have each won eight and lost four, and the former are slight favorites to take their ninth game in the playoff at Palo Alto next Saturday.

California, which had spent the earlier part of the season in the division cellar, came out of the doldrums to close with a percentage of .500. The Bruins from Westwood settled for a piddling .167 average.

It's a rare occasion when a Northwest conference basketballer runs up 20 points in an evening. If the writer's memory serves him faithfully, the biggest hemp swishing spree of the year in these parts was staged by Ralph Bishop in one of the Washington-Oregon games in Seattle then it was that the tall Husky flipped in a mean 19 counters.

Hardly a weekend goes by that some southern division player does not garner 20 or more. Luisetti whanged in 30 and a couple of 20 odds, John "The Goon" Ball rifled 26 one game, and so it went. When the bombers were under strict surveillance, an "unconcentrated upon" dark horse would flip in a dozen or so.

The ex-Webfoot second baseman, Ray Koch, tripled in the ninth to break up a ball game between a conglomeration of big leaguers and coast circuit stars at the Oakland training camp the other day. The lad furthered his cause in pro baseball because it so happened that the New York Yankee ivory hunters were looking on.

Koch, already the property of the Gothamites, is being given a tryout by their Acorn farm.

Book Selection On Display at Libe

Volumes Are Examples of Excellent Publishing, Outstanding Design

A few of the 50 books of 1936 recently chosen by the American Institute of Graphic Arts as displaying outstanding typographic and publishing standards in book-making are on display in the circulation room of the old library.

Notices on the showcase state that the selection is made "to set before American typographers and publishers selected examples of bookmaking of the year, examples that might gradually raise our standards of book design and manufacturing."

The 1936 committee for selection of the books was: Milton B. Glick, designer of the Viking press; Karl Kup, curator of the Spencer collection at the New York public library; and Lewis Mumford, critic.

The list of 50 works represents 39 publishing houses. Judging was based on type faces, paper, and binding used in the works. The compilation showed that 26 books were set in linotype faces, 16 in monotype faces, 4 in intertype faces, 2 in American type founder's Garamond, and 1 in Bauer Weiss.

Orides, Susie Tie in Coed Tourney Final

Two Teams Battle to 25-25 Deadlock; Game to Be Replayed Today

Two flashy basketball teams, Susan Campbell and Orides, battling yesterday for the women's intramural trophy, quit with the score tied at 25. Because over time games are prohibited, the teams agreed to play again today at 5 p. m. to settle the championship.

The game, marked by a slim margin from the beginning, drew to the last minute of play with the score of 25-24 in favor of Susan Campbell. Amid the frenzied shouts of onlookers, Lillian Schaffer, shooting for the independents calmly sank a gift throw. With a half-minute to go and both teams fighting to break the tie, a foul called on Dorothy Burgess, Susan Campbell guard, gave the Orides a last chance to break through to the lead, but they failed to capitalize on the throw. The final whistle sounded, stopping the scramble at the backboard for possession of the ball.

Pi Phis Eliminated
The teams had the choice of sharing the championship or having another tilt. They chose to fight it out this afternoon at 5 in the main gym.

After a delay of more than a week because of illness of members of the various teams, Susan Campbell beat the Pi Phis, runners-up, by a score of 28-13 in semi-finals, blasting the hopes of the sorority girls who have held the trophy for the past three years, and winning the right to play the unbeaten Orides.

Schaffer High Scorer
High-point player for the game was Lillian Schaffer, Orides forward, with 22 counters. Bernice Scherzinger made 17 for the hall girls. Exceptional guarding on the part of Gertrude Branthover held Sue Moshberger, with her usually disastrous one-handed shots, to eight points for the game.

Spaghetti, Not Spinach!

Is Joe Di Maggio, new Yankee rookie outfielder, taking a tip from Prink Callison's gridders, or vice versa. According to the day's reports they all go for spaghetti. Joe hit .398 in the Pacific coast league last year. Here he's guzzling his favorite Italian food as served by ma at their San Francisco home.

Frosh Close Successful Season, Win 19 of 20 Games

Under the careful guidance of Honest John Warren who was making his debut in college basketball circles, the University of Oregon's freshman basketball team swept through 20 games with only one defeat marring its nearly spotless record.

The defeat, a 37 to 35 game with the OSC Rooks, was thoroughly avenged by the frosh who won the next three games from the Baby Beavers by convincing scores.

857 Points Amassed
In their 20 games the yearlings amassed a grand total of 857 points for an average of 42.8 per game while holding their opposition to 522 counters or 26.1 per contest.

Three members of the Duckling squad stood out as prospective varsity material next year although several of the others showed possibilities of developing into players of real class in another season. Leading the prospects are Wally Johansen, Laddie Gale, and Bob Anet.

Gale Leading Scorer
Gale, former Oakridge high star and all-state center, was the leading scorer for the season with 219 points in 18 games for an average of over 12 points a game. Gale stands well over six feet, is a dead shot with either hand, and is a fairly good floor man. Coach Hobson is undoubtedly counting heavily on his ability for next year's varsity quintet.

Wally Johansen, slippery forward from Astoria, is ranked by Coach Warren as a potentially greater star than Wally Palmberg, Oregon State's ace. Johansen is six feet tall, a dead shot from any place on the floor, a flashy passer, and a good defensive man.

FLASH!

The two teams meet again tonight on the same court.

Anet Best Floor Man
Bob Anet, another ex-Astorian, was undoubtedly the best floor man on the squad. He was the backbone of the team's defense and should be a mainstay of the 1937 varsity.

Gale Fouts, Gale Smith, and Leonard Heller are others who will be heard from in years to come. Fouts, all-state forward from Walla Walla, Washington, is a steady player and should make a strong bid for a starting position. Smith hails from Grant high of Portland. He played brilliantly at times for the frosh and may be a varsity member next year. Heller is from Benson Tech of Portland and starred for the frosh at both forward and guard. He is big, fast, and rugged.

High Scorers Listed
Individual scorers for the frosh follow: Gale 219, Johansen 137, Phelps 96, Fouts 93, Anet 83, G. Smith 60, Heller 56, Nilsen 26, Hansen 18, Bob Smith 16, Campbell 16, Mullen 15, Jackson 12. (Please turn to page four)

Alpha Phi Swim Team Wins Title

Relay Crew Breaks Own Mark; Susan Campbell Splashers Place

The Alpha Phi swimming team, victorious over Susan Campbell hall yesterday by a score of 38-23, are winners of the women's swimming tournament.

During the meet yesterday the Alpha Phi relay team broke their own record of 51 seconds by doing the laps in 50.4. The team included Jane Chapler, June Powell, Alice Morris, and Molly Cunningham. In the 40-yard English overarm event Mary McCracken won first place, with Joella Mayer a close second, and Alice Morris third.

Jane Chapler and Elaine Unterman tied in the 40-yard free style, and Molly Cunningham raced through to win the back stroke event. Jane Chapler placed first in the 40-yard crawl, with second place going to Elaine Unterman for Susan Campbell. Eileen Moore, swimming for Susan Campbell, beat Molly Cunningham in the breast stroke event.

Diving honors went to Mary McCracken for Alpha Phi, with Eileen Moore placing second.

Outstanding during the tournament have been Olive Lewis, free style, Molly Cunningham, back stroke, and Eileen Moore, breast stroke. Probably the best all-around swimmer throughout the various meets was Leilani Kroll.

"All of the teams taking part in the tournament have done very well, but I am sure the Alpha Phi is worthy of the championship," states Betty Reisch, manager of the sport.

Swimming for Alpha Phi have been Mary McCracken, Jane Chapler, Molly Cunningham, June Powell, Alice Morris, Ellen Baldwin, Priscilla Mackie, and Barbara Williams.

Bjork Named 1936 Captain Of Gridders

'Prink' Gives Spaghetti Feed to Footballers; Carter Honored

Del Bjork, Oregon's battering tackle from Astoria, will captain the lemon-green grid warriors next fall, the prospective squad decided at a spaghetti feed given at the home of Coach and Mrs. Prink Callison.

Bjork, mentioned for all-coast honors last year and probably the most dependable man remaining in the Webfoots' forward wall, will lead the team throughout the season. The old method of a different captain for each game is no longer to be used.

The gridders also made Ross Carter, guard, honorary captain for the past season. Carter captained four of the games and distinguished himself as the most consistent and dependable man on Callison's squad.
