

Greek Leaders Adopt New Constitution

House Prexies Postpone 'Rush' Rules Until Next Council Session

With a gusty sigh of relief the Interfraternity council last night voted itself a new constitution, a problem that has weighed upon the organization for three months, since disputes arising from last fall's "Rush Week" brought the old constitution into disfavor.

House presidents, meeting in a dinner session at the Phi Kappa Psi house, unanimously approved the new organ after a period of debate in which only minor amendments were made.

Passage of the constitution was eased by the proposal of Ed Fenwick, Sigma Nu president, at whose motion the council omitted from the new fundamental law rules governing "rushing," providing for their incorporation later in the council's by-laws.

Thus consideration of the "rushing" problem, which for several weeks has been the sole obstruction to passage of a new constitution, has been postponed until fraternity presidents meet again two weeks from today.

The unanimous vote came as somewhat of a surprise, for it was widely believed that the council would reject any constitution that did not provide a set of "rushing" rules acceptable to the majority of the members.

Late in the meeting, the council heard the report of Stanley King, who was delegated two months ago to investigate the regulation of "rushing" on other American campuses. King sent out a form-letter to 100 institutions, receiving answers from 80. He announced as his conclusion that the "open" system of "rushing"—that is, without numerous restrictions upon the pledging of new men—better meets the needs of the University than the "deferred" or "closed" type.

Many universities and colleges where the "deferred" plan has not been given a trial have announced their desire to try it on their campuses, King said. But "deferred" pledging has not proved popular among institutions which have had experience with it, the council's investigator declared.

Bill Corman, president of Phi Sigma Kappa, last night again presented before the council his "rushing" plan, notable for its "sealed bid" feature, by which rushees would signify their preference for a fraternity in writing, each fraternity meanwhile having prepared a list of men it desires to pledge. Pledging then, according to Corman, will become the simple and incorruptible procedure of checking bids against the lists.

Corman and King have been appointed a committee of two to draw up a tentative "rushing" plan in preparation for the next council meeting.

Dean Karl Onthank announced two courses of study, Sociology 311 and Sociology 413, designed particularly to fit fraternity leaders to meet the problems of student relations in their houses.

Oregon Women's Group Entertains

Local members of the State Association of University of Oregon Women are in the midst of a series of vanishing parties for the benefit of the Dr. Luella Clay Carson friendship fund.

Dr. Carson was the first dean of women at the University of Oregon and was also head of the English department at one time. She was on the University faculty 21 years, and is this month celebrating her eighty-first birthday.

Saturday, February 29, the first of the series was given at the home of Mrs. Frank Chambers. Sixteen guests were invited, each of whom will give in turn a party, size of the groups diminishing to eight and four.

It is hoped through the series of parties to raise $125 for the friendship fund.

Students Living Out Spring Term Asked To Check Permits

Starting today all students who plan to live out of organized living groups spring term can come into the dean of women's office to check on housing permits. Those planning to do so are asked to come in before the rush of exam week, if possible.

WAA Tells Officers At Annual Banquet

Individual Awards, Plaque For House Participation Presented Tonight

At the annual WAA banquet to be held at the Del Rey cafe this evening at 6 o'clock, names of the new officers who were elected Tuesday, March 3, will be announced. Other features will be the distribution of athletic awards, and the awarding of the participation plaque to the organization which participated in the greatest number of events and showed the best sportsmanship during the past year. The dinner will be 55 cents a plate.

Decorations will be carried out in the colors of the Women's Athletic association, green and yellow. Mary Kem will be featured soloist on the program for which Dorothy Bergstrom is toastmistress, singing "Pale Moon" and "Luxembourg Gardens." Dorothy Burgess will accompany her.

The volleyball, swimming, and basketball awards will be presented by Toni Lucas, Betty Riesch, and Gretchen Smith, respectively.

Dean Hazel P. Schwering, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Miss Warrine Eastburn, and members of the physical education staff will be guests of honor.

Jane Bogue is general chairman for the event, with Elizabeth Onthank in charge of invitations; Betty Riesch, entertainment; Margaret Johnson, decorations; Genevieve McNiece, finances; Margaret Bell and Miriam Fouch, reservations and programs; and Ruth Lake, publicity.

Skull and Dagger To Sell Tickets

Speaker's Committee Gets Additional Information On Vacation Dances

Members of Skull and Dagger from the various men's living organizations were chosen yesterday by Frances Johnson to sell tickets for the vacation dances.

Further notice of the dances has been given by the speaker's committee, which visited the houses yesterday noon.

Those who were chosen are: Samuel Fort, Alpha Tau Omega; Bill Pease, Theta Chi; Melvin Shevach, Sigma Alpha Mu; Noel Benson, Phi Delta Theta; Woodrow Truax, Phi Sigma Kappa; Frank Cooper, Sigma Chi; Robert DeArmand, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Bill Jones, Delta Upsilon; Alfred Carter, Kappa Sigma; Charles Barclay, Sigma Nu; Robert Wilhelm, Chi Psi; Avery Fisher, Phi Kappa Psi; and Ralph Cathey, Beta Theta Pi.

Others who will assist are: Scott George, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Kenneth Weber, Delta Tau Delta; Bill McCarthy, Pi Kappa Alpha; and Barney Hall, Sigma Hall.

Alumni Raise Money For Browsing Room

Representatives from house alumni groups have been selected to study plans for raising money for the browsing room of the new library, M. H. Douglass, librarian, said yesterday.

They will hold a meeting Thursday evening to start plans for raising funds. It has been suggested that the Pomona college women's glee club be asked to give a program here on March 28 under the direction of the house alumni groups. This suggestion will be discussed Thursday, Mr. Douglass said.

There were 17 divorces to every 100 marriages in the United States during 1930.

UO Concert Band Appears Sunday at 3

Gresham to Be Trumpet Soloist; Program Will Include Favorites

The University of Oregon concert band under the baton of John H. Stehn, is appearing Sunday afternoon at 3 in the Igloo in the last concert of the winter season.

The band has been working steadily during the past six weeks preparing a program which bids fair to be one of the outstanding performances of the season because of its range of selections and the fact that all numbers are old favorites with music audiences.

Bolero Is Popular
"Bolero," by Maurice Ravel, a number which is based upon a set drum rhythm that starts almost imperceptibly, building climax upon climax toward the finale, a number which gives each choir of the band a featured place and which because of its intricacies of pattern, its weird rhythm and melody is well liked, will be played by the band. This number is being presented for the second consecutive year because of the extreme popularity with which it was received last year.

Gresham Will Be Soloist
William Gresham, trumpeter and music major, is to present Clark's beautiful "Southern Cross" as a solo. This number is arranged with a band accompaniment and is recognized by trumpet experts as one of the most difficult in the repertoire of concert solos. The number gives opportunity to express the entire power and scale range of the instrument and calls for the utmost in the technique of execution.

Another selection which is ever popular with band audiences is the "American Patrol," a number which carries a medley of noted American martial numbers, skillfully threaded on an independent theme. Its moving qualities and martial atmosphere have been caught by the University band which, because of its size and the number of good musicians available is capable of developing the most from a selection of this type.

The complete program for the University band concert will be published in the Emerald later this week.

Holders of ASUO cards will be admitted to general admission free of charge and holders of winter concert series season tickets will be admitted as well. There will be a nominal charge for all others.

Four Professors Go to Spokane

Leighton, Jewell, Bossing, Stetson to Take Active Part in Convention

Four members of the school of education, Dr. R. W. Leighton, Dean J. R. Jewell, Dr. Nelson L. Bossing, and Dr. F. L. Stetson, are planning to take an active part in the annual convention of the Inland Empire association to be held in Spokane March 8, 9, and 10. The association embraces all of the educational organizations in the Northwest and has members in nearly every school in that region, according to Dr. R. W. Leighton.

Dr. Leighton will deliver two speeches, one before the psychology section entitled "Measuring the Results of Learning" and the other before the natural science division, entitled "Educational Objectives of the Natural Science Courses."

Dr. Stetson, who is director of research for the Northwest Association, which meets in Spokane shortly before the Inland Empire association, will address the science section on "Progress in the Secondary Science at the Secondary Level."

Both Dean Jewell and Dr. Bossing, who are at present attending a convention in St. Louis, Missouri, are expected back March 8, in time to attend the meeting of the Inland Empire association, according to Mrs. Lucia Leighton, secretary of the school.

Faculty Sends Military Case To Council

Group to Make Study of Military Curriculum Before Voting

Decision of the University faculty on Oregon's military question, long awaited by both optional and compulsory advocates, was not made at the regular faculty meeting yesterday but was referred to the advisory council for further study and investigation.

A motion recommending the state board of control to make the present compulsory courses, Military 111, 112, and 113 and 211, 212, and 213, optional was presented by John T. Ganoe, associate professor of history.

The motion to refer the matter to the advisory council was made by Dr. L. O. Wright, professor of Romance languages and a strong proponent for the optional plan. His motion passed with almost no opposition.

Action Linked With Study
The action to defer the optional question to the council was linked to a detailed study on the curriculum of University military division, now being made by a faculty committee headed by Charles G. Howard, professor of law. The study, which is being made at the request of Col. E. V. D. Murphy, will be in the hands of the faculty soon, it was stated at the meeting.

Petitions circulated by the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom asking for optional training, and another circulated more recently by the Committee for the General Welfare of the University voicing approval of the present system, each carrying about the same support, have been presented to the faculty.

Immediate Decision
The advisory council will take up the matter immediately and will probably have a report ready by the last of this week or the first of next week, President C. Valentine Boyer said last night.

"The motion to refer the matter is not an effort to table the question, and it is not an effort to get away from the question. It was done to give all sides serious consideration," President Boyer declared.

Advisory Council Members
Personnel of the advisory council includes James D. Barnett, head of the political science department, John F. Bovard, dean of the physical education school, Dan E. Clark, professor of history, James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science, Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, and Dr. H. G. Townsend, professor of philosophy. President Boyer, who is chairman of the committee, has placed the question entirely in the hands of the other members. According to President Boyer the council has almost an equal number of optional and compulsory advocates.

Leaders Gird for Action
Student leaders of opposite factions on the question waited for the outcome of the expected vote and prepared to take action necessary to promote their programs. Referring the motion back to the committee made future campaign plans indefinite, they said.

The optional group, headed by Charles Paddock, was prepared to institute an initiative movement throughout the state if the faculty downed the optional motion, and was to continue soliciting support from churches, labor unions, granges, and clubs had the question gone to the state board.

Ben Chandler, head of the committee for the general welfare, announced yesterday that the group would continue to fight to maintain the course on a compulsory basis.

Lomax Returns From Portland Trade Meet

Professor Alfred L. Lomax of the school of business administration returned from a meeting in Portland last Friday of the Columbia River Gateway Foreign Trade association.

The purpose of the association is to generate interest and cooperation in business men in the Columbia river and water shed. Representatives from many Oregon and Washington cities were present at the meeting.

Two More Issues Conclude Emerald Work This Term

Only two more issues of the Emerald will appear this term, with publication ceasing with Saturday's paper. Although originally scheduled to resume for spring term on April 2, it is thought that the publication will begin March 31, so as to cut two or three days from the end of the schedule.

An extra edition might appear March 23 for registration day.

Library Chooses Carnegie Books

$500 Donated Fund Begins House Collection of Art, Music Volumes

Miss Bernice Rise, of the library circulation department, said today that the list of art and music books for the Carnegie fund is now being made up. $500 was recently donated to the University from the Carnegie fund in New York for this purpose.

"We are choosing books that are popular as well as worthwhile," Miss Rise said.

Helping Miss Rise is Mrs. Mabel A. Houck, secretary and librarian of the art library. Mrs. Houck is assisting in the choice of the art books. Miss Lovisa Youngs, instructor in music and education, John March, assistant reference librarian, and Miss Ella Carrick, catalogue assistant in the library, are assisting in the selection of music books. The last three are all musicians, Miss Rise said.

"The library is trying to get the collection ready for the houses by the beginning of spring term," M. H. Douglass, librarian, said. "We will not spend the entire $500 on the books just yet, however."

Some of the books have already been ordered and others will be sent for after he has discussed the titles, contents, and prices with Miss Rise, Mr. Douglass said. He added that some of the art and music books would be too expensive to place in the house collections, but would be selected for the browsing room collection to be placed in the new library.

Oregon Grads Get Stanford Posts

Courts, Humphreys Given Fellowships and Assistant Jobs at Palo Alto

Fred Courts and Lloyd Humphreys, both assistants in psychology at the University last year, have been appointed to the psychology department of Stanford University, according to word received by Dr. Howard R. Taylor, head of the psychology department here.

Mr. Courts has received a fellowship and Mr. Humphreys an assistantship.

Mr. Humphreys received his B.A. degree from the University of Oregon last year. He was a member of the senior six. At present he is working under Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, former head of the psychology department here, at the University of Indiana. He is expected to receive his MA from there this year.

Mr. Courts received his MA degree from Oregon in 1934. This year he is an instructor in psychology at Reed college.

Miss Smith Sends Out Call for Jobs

A number of students who will remain on the campus during the short vacation will want jobs for that time, according to Miss Janet Smith, employment secretary. Miss Smith asks that anyone needing work done, or hearing of someone who does, will please communicate with her.

The students are prepared to do such jobs as helping with spring house cleaning, working in the garden, and the other things that they can do all winter long.

Title Transfer Gives State Miner Building

Proposal for Change Comes From Board's Finance Group

Title to the Miner building, eight-story structure in the heart of Eugene's business district which has been the subject of tax litigation recently, has been taken by the state of Oregon, acting through the state board of higher education, it was announced here today.

Transfer of the title, which has been held by the First National bank of Portland, was made upon recommendation of the finance committee of the state board. The committee was given authority to act in the matter at the January meeting of the board.

Carries Original Intent
The revised trust agreement carries out the original intent of the donors, W. E. Miner, deceased, and H. T. Miner, by stipulating that all net income from the building be used to finance a chair of real estate and insurance in the University of Oregon, and to provide funds for research in these fields, it was declared.

By the terms of the deed and the new trust agreement between the state board and H. T. Miner, surviving donor, complete control of the building passes into the hands of the University and the board. There are no changes in the annuity arrangements.

Board Meets Monday
Consummation of the transaction will be reported to the state board at its next meeting, to be held in Corvallis March 9.

Arrangements for the gift of the Miner building, to be held in trust and the net income used by the University, were made in 1933. It is the largest business structure in Eugene and is valued at approximately $300,000.

Aristotle's Head May Be Redone

The University library committee has decided that the head of Aristotle, sculptured for this new library frieze, may be redone, M. H. Douglass, librarian, said. Formerly it had been believed that the time limit placed on the sculpturing of the heads would prevent the work being done again.

The first sculpturing has already been sent to Portland for casting in the permanent material. Miss Edna Dunberg and Miss Louise Utter, both former art students at the University, have been doing the work on the fifteen heads.

Permission was granted to make the head of Aristotle over again after a request had been made by Dr. Frederic S. Dunn, head of the classics department. Mr. Dunn objected to the head, because he believed it was merely of an idealized Greek and did not represent the well-known Aristotle.

It was learned yesterday, however, that Miss Dunberg, who did the work on the first head of Aristotle, had strained her back lifting clay and other heavy materials in her work on the heads. She was unable to be around yesterday. Doubt was expressed that she would be able to do the work on the new head.

Employment Office Gets Housecleaning

Along with the other forms of house cleaning and painting going on at the YMCA hut, the University employment office is also going to receive a new tan and red coat of paint.

Although the employment office is in no way connected with the YMCA they are both housed in the same building.

Miss Janet Smith is employment secretary and it is through her, and her assistants that a number of the students on the campus receive their jobs.

With baseball players heading south for the training camps, hitch-hikers must exercise special caution because of the possibility of being mistaken for umpires.

Special Junior Class Nominating Meeting Called for Friday

Official Notice

There will be a special meeting of the junior class Friday, March 6, at 7 p. m. in Villard. Nominations for the offices of president and vice-president will be made at this time.

Elections will be held Friday, March 13. Voting will be from 9 to 3 o'clock at the "Y" hut. Class cards and student body cards are necessary for voting eligibility.

James S. Blais,
President ASUO.
Rollie Kourke,
Vice-president ASUO.

Student Christian Council Plans Peace Campaign

The Student Christian council moved yesterday to organize a county wide peace education campaign. It will also cooperate with the state organization of the Council for the Prevention of War, President Arthur Stanley indicated.

Students interested in peace work will meet Friday at the YWCA bungalow for a luncheon meeting. J. J. Hansaker, state director of the NCPW, will speak and the campaign will be outlined. Persons expecting to attend are asked to call the YW for luncheon reservations.

Included in the plans is an outline of a house-to-house selling of peace literature and peace bonds. A full time student organizer will be put in the field to speak and manage book and pamphlet sales. Speakers on the newly organized peace circuit will be brought to Eugene and sponsored.

Campus Sick List Drops Slightly

Eight New Patients Enter Infirmary, Hospital; Total Drops to 35

total of eight new patients. Edwin Robbins, Bruce McLeod, Fulton Van Dusen, LaVerne Terjeson, Clifford Morris, and Kenneth Miller are the six new infirmary patients. The other seven who are confined there are Robert Pollock, Harold Weston, Grayson Ross, William Speirs, Robert Moffett, William Stockton, and Hurley Johnson.

The three girls who were transferred from the infirmary to the hospital campus sick list dropped from 37 to 35 patients yesterday although the Pacific hospital and the University infirmary added an annex yesterday were Gretchen Smith, Marcia Brown, and Ann Herrenkohl. Carol McFall, Beryl Cornish, Dorothy R. Clark, Marian Smith, Janette Charman, Eileen Donaldson, Priscilla Mackie, and Barbara McBreen have not yet been dismissed from the annex.

Virginia Scoville, and Gwen McCune are the two new patients listed at Pacific hospital. Others who are there are Bernice Healy, John Mulhall, Jerry Chessman, Peggy Chessman, Betty Barr, Jack Newman, Gerald Green, Kathleen Rose, and Daniel Jordan.

Girls' Co-op Budget Being Drawn Up

An estimated budget for the girls' cooperative house, being organized to open spring term, is being prepared for the housing committee, it was announced yesterday.

Latest plans for the new cooperative unit indicate that a house on the corner of Fourteenth and University streets will be used. About 15 girls have signed up for next term, it was said.

Orchestra Plays To Full House

A near capacity crowd gathered in the music auditorium last night to hear the University orchestra perform at the last concert on the ASUO winter term schedule.

Dorothy Louise Johnson, sophomore in music, received a long ovation for her solo of Wieniawski's Concerto for Violin in D Minor. Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major by Bach-Mottl, played by the University group and Miss Johnson's solo made up the first half of the program.

Eligibility Petitions Must Be Submitted to Blais By 5 Today; March 13 Set for Elections

The junior class was prodded into activity yesterday with the calling of a special nominating assembly for tomorrow night at 7:30 in room 107 Villard hall by Jim Blais, ASUO president, and Roland Rourke, vice-president.

Eligibility petitions must be in the hands of Blais by 5 o'clock this afternoon. These do not have to be signed by class members, Blais held, but are merely necessary to determine in advance the eligibility of the nominees. He urged likely candidates to get appointments tentatively settled before spring vacation starts.

Carmen Curry Petition Denied
Earlier in the day Vice-president Carmen Curry's petition for reinstatement as vice-president had been denied by the scholarship committee, headed by Dean James Gilbert.

Elections will be held one week from tomorrow, Friday, March 13, the statement issued by the ASUO officials said. The polls are to be open from 9 o'clock until 3 in the YMCA hut.

Appointments Delayed
Junior Weekend appointments have been held up because of the ineligibility of both the class president and vice-president. Following the announcement several weeks ago, class officials asked an opinion of the judiciary of the most desirable method to secure new class heads. This group recommended a special election, declaring that it would be impossible for Grace Peck, secretary, to succeed to the office of president.

Following this Miss Curry petitioned to the scholarship committee to again become eligible. Denial of this yesterday left no other step possible but to hold a special election.

Lost and Found Articles Diminish

Despite the spring weather the number of articles at the University lost and found department has decreased.

Perhaps this is an indication that people do not carry so many books when the days are nice.

The new articles received since the last count include four English comp books, and ten other text books, two looseleaf notebooks, and one spiral notebook. A glasses case and a brown knit scarf are the only miscellaneous finds.

If you have lost anything this term it might possibly have been turned in to the depot. The lost and found department is the post-office window just as you go in the door.

Girls' Co-op Budget
Being Drawn Up
An estimated budget for the girls' cooperative house, being organized to open spring term, is being prepared for the housing committee, it was announced yesterday.

Latest plans for the new cooperative unit indicate that a house on the corner of Fourteenth and University streets will be used. About 15 girls have signed up for next term, it was said.

Campus ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖ Calendar

Alpha Delta Sigma will meet this noon at the College Side.

Scabard and Blade will meet at the College Side this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

There will be an Amphibian meeting at Gerlinger at 7:45 this evening. All members must be present.

YWCA Welfare nursery group will meet today at 4 in the Y bungalow. Discussion will concern new entertainment project.
