

Thirty-Six Northern Division Splashers Vie in Finals in Gerlinger Hall Pool Today at 3 O'clock

SPORT CHAT D. E. CLARK, II

ED LOVERICH, Washington basketball ace, ought to be a cinch for the Olympics after his brilliant performance in leading the Huskies rough-shod over DePaul university, yesterday. Whether the Huskies end up on top, or not this boy's work has put a big X on him as Olympic material. Sixteen basketballers will go to Berlin. In addition to the regular members of the winners and runners-up and three others picked from the roster of the two top outfits, there will be three outstanding men chosen from the losing teams. The Huskies aren't out of it yet, however, DePaul had a hot quintet and it took a real team to push them over.

A lot of the boys are getting out the rods and reels and patching up the hip boots this weekend because tomorrow, April 5, the fishing season opens. There'll be a lot going out no matter what the weather. Flies, spinners, rapids, pools, are already monopolizing the fire-side conversations, and everything is pointing to a big season.

TOWN in dark Africa football, tennis and golf are becoming popular pastimes. The folks down there are getting a big bang out of sports. It wasn't so very long ago that the favorite sport in that sector was throwing spears at the whites and watching them dodge.

Although Oregon is a strong favorite to clean up the N.W. meet this aft it's going to be a real affair just the same. Washington has some good men and W.S.C. and O.S.C. may have a few surprise packets. But, don't get too many grey hairs over the outcome. We're not. If we win the news department will steal the story and if we lose . . . the Barometer and the Washington papers will put out the extras.

Cheating Flood of Victim

While swollen streams were sweeping others to their doom, this remarkable rescue scene was being enacted in the torrential Tenado creek near Mechanicville, N. Y. Unable to swim, Nelson Campbell, (left), 60, clutches at brush as the flood seeks to break his grip, and Allen Vandecar, stripped to his underwear, offers a rescuing arm.

Duck Track Team Stages Practice Squad Meet Today

Hayward Works Oregon Trackmen Hard to Prepare for Heavy Season Schedule

Duck trackmen will stage an intra-squad meet today if the weather conditions are favorable. The events will be run off either on the cinder oval, or on the turf field, east of the Igloo. The meet is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Distances which will be run are the 150, 300, 600 yard, and the three-quarter mile. There will also be competition among the weight men.

Despite the adverse weather this week, Hayward has been working the men hard in an effort to whip them into shape for the coming season.

As in other years, the cold wet weather has held the Webfoots back in pre-season training. The cold wind that whips down Hayward field and the seemingly ever present rain, have always been a

O.K. You Name It Anonymous Field's Got Us Tired Too

By KENNETH KIRTLEY
Anonymous field is still anonymous field. In all this big institution there doesn't seem to be any one clever enough to think up a name. This must be rectified. A brief poll of students brings forth the following suggestions:

"Name it Hobsonhaywardreinhartwashke. That way nobody's feelings would be hurt."

"Call it Clark Gable field—maybe we could sell more ASUO cards."

"Short Cut field," submitted by the ATO's.

"That Gosh Dern —*@&! field," submitted by the lawn cutter.

"Grave Yard Annex," submitted by the piggers.

"Paul Pendarvis field," suggested by Dan Clark II.

thorn in Col. Bill Hayward's side. The south bleachers have been placed on the east side of the straight-away on Hayward field so that ample seats will be available for spectators at the big meets in which the varsity will engage. All that is needed now is the warm spring sun to put fire in the cindermen's legs and to dry out the sweeping quarter mile cinder oval.

Subscription rates $2.50 a year.

Husky Hoopsters Win at New York

Washington Downs DePaul In Olympic Play, 54-33; Loverich Scores 20

Washington's fighting Huskies demonstrated the basketball strength of the Pacific Northwest to an astounded Madison Square Garden crowd at New York last night by overwhelming DePaul university, pride of the Midwest, 54 to 33.

It wasn't even a ball game as Hec Edmundson's precise, smooth-working team massacred the Chicago five coolly and methodically and advanced into the semi-finals of play that will find the best of eight squads spanning the Atlantic to Berlin and the Olympic games. The Huskies will tackle the winner of the Temple university-McPherson (Kansas) Oilers game today.

Ed Loverich, angular forward, set the pace for the Pacific coast quintet with 20 points. Washington held a 25-to-12 lead at half-time.

Sigma Hall Beats Kappa Sigs, 13-0

Sigma hall trounced Kappa Sigma 13 to 0 in a six-inning intramural softball game Thursday.

The outcome was not long in doubt as in the last half of the first inning the hall team scored six runs. They added five more to this in the second and the final two in the third.

Dick Miller, Sigma pitcher, held the fraternity boys well in check, but Jim Rummel, John Reischman, and Oliver Hughes were always dangerous at bat. Orville Wilson hit a home run in the second inning with two on base.

The first school in the city of Oregon was started in 1663 by the Reformed Dutch church.

Ball Players Idle As Rain Pitter Patters on Field

Oregon and Pacific had a ball game scheduled yesterday afternoon, but Jupiter Pluvius had other ideas and he almost had the Oregon coaching staff thinking the mill race had changed its course and was overflowing Anonymous field.

No water polo equipment was on hand and some of the ball players couldn't swim anyway, so a phone call to Forest Grove brought about cancellation of the Pacific fray. The game scheduled for Forest Grove today was also wiped off the slate, and the Webfoots won't square off against outside opposition until Monmouth Normal comes here Tuesday.

Complete reversal of form in the weather would mean a practice tilt between varsity and freshmen this afternoon, but Coaches Hobson and Warren aren't counting upon it.

period in which the earliest pumice stratum was laid down.

Preliminary geological analysis indicates a prehistoric fresh water lake of some duration in the Deschutes area. The final filling of the lake was by gravel and sand washed down by streams. Enough time elapsed after the lake filling for the formation of a soil and vegetation cover and possibly the coming of man.

Into this peaceful scene, according to the geological report made by the party, was injected the terrific effect of a violent volcanic eruption from the west or south-west, possibly from what is now Crater lake. So violent was the blast that trees were uprooted and buried by the pumice, and charred fragments still remain as charcoal that was not consumed. Subsequent volcanic eruptions occurred from nearer by, as evidenced by

Oregon Mermen Defending Nine Titles in Meet; 36 Entered

The finals of the northern division of the Pacific coast conference swimming and diving championships will get under way this afternoon at 2:00 p. m. with one of the strongest fields ever entered in this event. Though three men from Washington State did not make the trip because of illness, the 13 men entered by Washington swell the total number of swimmers to 36.

A unique situation arises in that last year's champion in every event will be swimming tonight, and every defending champion represents Oregon. Last year at Seattle the Duck splashers walked off with every first place to win the title hands down. They are favored to repeat this afternoon with the exception of Chuck Reed, who lost a decision to Gene Caddey when the Washington team swam here in February, and Vern Hoffman, who has been swimming second to Oregon's Jim Hurd.

Reeds Hold Titles
The list of title holders includes Chuck Reed in the breast stroke, Vern Hoffman in the 50 yard dash, Jim Reed in the 150 yard backstroke, 220 and 440 yard free style, Leonard Scroggins in the 1100 yard dash, and Bob Chilton, diving. Oregon's medley and free style relays teams are also defending titles won last year.

Oregon's team is considered the strongest in diving by the experts. In addition to Bob Chilton, Bert Myers, a sophomore, has been a consistent high scorer.

Hurd in Sprints
Oregon is also strong in free style events. Jim Hurd, coast title holder (Please turn to page four)

To be left nearly naked on the sidewalks of New York is the situation which confronts Gene Raymond in the feature attraction, "Love on a Bet," which opens at the Mayflower this Sunday for a two day showing.

Our handsome Mr. Raymond wagers he can leave the metropolis in his underwear and arrive in Hollywood ten days later with a new suit, a hundred dollars, and engaged to a beautiful girl.

The odd situations which Gene Raymond encounters in his haste to reach Hollywood, obtain the hundred dollars and win a beautiful girl, will make amusing fare for anyone.

Recently it was suggested that I should include Don (Antonio, Giuseppe, Giovanni, Bagachalupi Casonova) Casciato in this column as we were known as the Gold Dust twins as far as other promotional ventures go.

I approached Don A. G. G. B. C. Casciato on the subject and suggested that we change this column to read "Two Together." Mr. Casciato suggested that as far as he was concerned I could title the column "Alone" and keep the darn thing.

Since the Skull and Dagger pledge meeting at the Kappa Sig house the first part of this week we notice many freshmen going around with worried expressions on their faces.

Worry not, my little dears, the results are all over and you either did or didn't. Probably didn't.
