

Eat Doughnuts For Easy Chairs in New Browsing Room

Let there first be put to rest the rumor that Gib Schultz, the "fair-haired" boy of the SAE's, had skipped over to the Finley side of the fence...

As fallacious as the above was the warning by the muffled voice that called the Chi O house the other eve to whisper a report of Hammond promising Tri Delta Stevenson Junior Weekend Queen in exchange for the gals votes for him.

We have just found out the reason for the unusual display of courtesy by the Phi Deltas, ATO's, and others, in walking out as nominee Hammond began his acceptance speech last Thursday. It seems the boys were hungry, and who can hold a hungry Phi Delta?

Facts are coming to light with the dawn of every day. It comes from reliable quarters that on the night of filing "Boss" Finley at 11:30 p. m. was still frantically scouring the campus for someone to run on his ducat. Rush, rush, rush—up to the dorm to try and corner Eschebeck's long name, up to Alpha Chi's palatial home to try and swing Margilee Morris to his way of thinking, up to the Delta's to assure Jim Blais that in spite of all hell and half of Georgia he would somewhere find those three missing names.

Students participating in the assembly and the parts they will play are as follows: Walter Eschebeck, president; Don Serrell, first French speaker; Carl Anton, German representative; John Luvaas, Russian representative; Jason Lee, U. S. observer; Charles Shmura, Japanese observer; Ortin Goodwin, Italian representative; Maxwell H. Morris, English representative; and Kessler Cannon, second French representative. Students of the University and townspeople of Eugene.

Considerable concern is being shown in some quarters because Hammond is actually conducting an "unpolitical" campaign. A sorority member said in awed terms that she thought the man was really sincere—"the speech (Please turn to page two)

Finley Rebuttal

The suggested student council of the Hammond platform is merely a vote-drawing gesture, and would fail miserably in any attempt towards actual ascertainment of student opinion. Greek letter organizations, through superior numbers, would have control of the council and shut off independent student opinion. Each organization, as a flattering move from the Hammond group, would on the surface have power of expression, but any political faction in power would see that no such opinion would escape their direction and supervision. Thus the group as a whole would be subject to direct domination by party leaders, and would merely be a political machine of the party in office. There would be no fixed responsibility.

Hammond's suggested council would therefore be only an enlarged duplication of the present executive committee as proposed by the new ASUO constitution, and would be a superfluous body to the one Hammond already proposes to support. The group of some 50 members would be a ridiculously unwieldy and cumbersome body, at all times subject to political manipulation.

The idea that the Emerald should be throttled by a group that will by its very membership be partisan is entirely too dictatorial and extremely antagonistic to the broad ideas of freedom of the press. Such suppression would kill the very essence of the aim of any good paper.

The proposal of Hammond for a graduated student body card sale is entirely beside the point in that such power resides with the University president and the state board. The recent actions of the president have been indicative that a split fee will be arranged with one card for athletics, and another for educational activities. We are in entire accord with such a move which would insure financial stability and has the backing (Please turn to page two)

International Ball Climaxes Peace Week

Model League Members To Discuss Rhineland Remilitarization

Peace week, inaugurated Monday by General Smedley D. Butler's speech at crowded Gerlinger hall, will be climaxed Friday night by an International Ball at 9 o'clock in Gerlinger, at which Dr. Richmond, official flag man of the Rotary club, will be guest of honor.

Next to last event in the week-long parade for peace will be the model League of Nations assembly slated for Thursday night at 7:30 in Villard hall. The meeting, first attempted on the campus, will, as the name suggests, present a model league meeting. Students representing France, Germany, Russia, Italy, England, Japan, and the United States, will defend or attack the remilitarization of the Rhine, according to which country they are upholding.

Students participating in the assembly and the parts they will play are as follows: Walter Eschebeck, president; Don Serrell, first French speaker; Carl Anton, German representative; John Luvaas, Russian representative; Jason Lee, U. S. observer; Charles Shmura, Japanese observer; Ortin Goodwin, Italian representative; Maxwell H. Morris, English representative; and Kessler Cannon, second French representative. Students of the University and townspeople of Eugene.

Yeomen Nominate Officers Tonight

Yeomen meeting has been changed back to tonight and not postponed as was announced in yesterday's Emerald.

There will be nominations for officers for next year but the discussion for next year's plans will be cut short so that the meeting will not last too long.

Fred Gieseke, president of the Yeomen urges that all the members be there and on time.

Qualifications of Craig Finley, Would-Be Prexy, Told

Craig Finley, backed by eight fraternities, seeks the head office of the ASUO with a host of activities on the campus. Houses behind him with their votes: Phi Delta Theta, Phi Gamma Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Kappa Psi, Chi Psi, Sigma Chi, and Beta Theta Pi.

Finley's activities since entering University: co-chairman ASUO drive winter term, Skull and Dagger president, chairman frosh glee, Homecoming dance directorate, vice-president Phi Delta Theta, speakers and rally committees.

Cecil Barker, candidate for vice-president, is vice-president of Phi Sigma Kappa. His activities on the campus include: Skull and Dagger, rally committee for two years, frosh glee committee, sophomore informal directorate, chairman of ASUO drive, and was temporary chairman of the junior class last term.

Jean Stevenson, candidate for secretary on the Finley ticket, is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Her activities: vice-president of the freshman class, Dad's day directorate, YWCA doughnut sale, president Amphibians, AWS speaker's committee, rally committee, WAA council, frosh counsellor, and Waffle Wiggle directorate.

Marjorie Kissling, seeking the office of senior woman, comes with the following list of activities to prove that she is a campus leader: Thespian, Kwama, Phi Theta Upsilon, Gamma Alpha Chi, Phi Chi Theta, WAA council, YWCA frosh committee, frosh glee and sophomore informal directorates, Mother's day committee, junior

Learned Faculty Turn Doughnut Venders

The halls of knowledge will be vacated today by these five members of the University faculty who will lend their efforts to sell enough doughnuts on the campus to raise needed funds to furnish the browsing room in the new library. Left to right: Mrs. Alice Macduff, assistant dean of women; Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel; C. Valentine Boyer, University president; Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of state higher education; Virgil D. Earl, dean of men; and Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women.

Faculty Stages Campus-Wide Doughnut Sale Today

Girls Assisting in Sales Are Named; Funds Will Aid Browsing Room

Faculty members will take to booths today in a campus-wide sale of doughnuts given to raise money for the new library browsing room. Dr. Rudolf Ernst, head of the faculty committee for raising funds, will be assisted by Karl W. Onthank, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, and Virgil Earl.

Student-aides of the faculty doughnut drive will sell from booths located in front of the College Side, between Oregon and Commerce, before the old libe, and between the art school and McClure. Optional Military Drive Under Way

Petitions Against Foreign War to Be Circulated in Living Groups

With the arrival of petitions from Salem the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom officially began their state optional military initiative drive last night at a meeting held in the Y hut. Campaigning for the 16,371 signatures necessary to put the measure on the ballot will begin immediately. Glen Griffith, secretary of the YMCA, Mrs. George Winchell, president of the Eugene Women's club, and Rev. Rristow, Methodist pastor, spoke to the members of the committee, giving them advice and pledging the support of their organizations.

According to plans submitted by Howard Ohmart, 6,000 signatures should be obtained by the local committee from Lane county. Five thousand are to be collected in Portland, 3,000 in Salem, and the remainder from Granges, labor organizations, clubs, and churches.

In conjunction with these activities, as a part of Peace Week, petitions against war on foreign soil will be circulated locally, with the view of sending them to the Oregon senators and congressmen. Representatives will take them to all fraternities tomorrow. Saturday, under the direction of Gladys Battleson, they will be distributed among the sororities.

An address on student work in regard to peace will be given at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Gerlinger hall by Serril Gerber, national field secretary of the ASU. All members of the ASU and students interested in peace may attend.

Brooks to Be Graduation Day Speaker

Ballard Is Baccalaureate Choice; Exercises Will Be Week Early

Stratton Duluth Brooks, nationally known educator and ex-president of the University of Oklahoma and the University of Missouri, and Dr. Hudson J. Ballard, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Portland, have been chosen for Commencement and Baccalaureate speakers, it was announced last night. Topics of their addresses were not made public.

Dr. Brooks, born in Everett, Missouri in 1869, gained prominence during the war years of 1917 and 1918 when he was federal food administrator for the state of Oklahoma, resigning in 1923 to become head of the University of Missouri where he remained until 1931. Since 1931 he has been executive director of the Order of De Molay.

Students Know Ballard

Reverend Ballard, the Baccalaureate speaker, is known to Oregon students through his talks here winter term in the love and marriage series. He has been minister of the First Presbyterian church for the past year, coming to Portland from Occidental college of Los Angeles where he was professor of religion.

The Commencement speaker, Dr. Brooks, is a graduate of the University of Michigan, taking his B.A. there in 1896. He later attended Harvard, receiving his master's degree there in 1904. His LL.D. degree he got from Colby college, completing his work there in 1912.

Brooks Is Phi Beta Kappa

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the National Society for the Scientific Study of Education, and the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Commencement exercises will be held a week earlier this year in order that the full facilities of the University will be available. Formerly held at the end of the examination week, they will be held June 1 this year, the day preceding the start of examinations.

Campus Calendar

Mother's day directorate meets this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the College Side.

An important meeting of Kwama will be held today in the AWS room of Gerlinger hall at 4:30.

Alpha Delta Sigma business meeting tomorrow at 4 p. m. in Professor Thacher's office.

There will be an important meeting of the speakers committee Thursday at 4 o'clock in the College Side. (Please turn to page two)

Daily Staff Members Plan Special Editions At Meetings Tonight

Emerald workers will meet in 105 Journalism tonight at 7:30 to discuss plans for the annual special editions of the Emerald. These editions, produced by the men, women, and freshmen, will come out during the remainder of the term.

Robert Lucas, editor, requests that every member of the staff be present. The special editions will be judged, and the winners will be given a prize by the losers. The women's edition won last year's contest.

Third Moot Trial Case Concerns Injured Cow

The third case in the series of moot trials put on by the law school trial practice class, will take place Thursday at 7:30 in the Lane county circuit court. A memorable feature is that this is the last case in the 1936 series in which an attorney of the fair sex will participate. The public is invited to attend.

The case concerns an action brought against Alton Hakanson by Otto Vonderheit for the loss of two cows and injuries to other bovines, suffered when Hakanson landed by parachute in a field adjoining Vonderheit's farm. The parachute caused Vonderheit's herd of Jerseys to stampede into a barbed wire fence.

Ann Hutchinson and Orville Wilson will act for the plaintiff opposing three barristers for defense. They are Gordon Campbell, Burton Coan, Thomas Hartfield. The other officers of the court will be taken by George Hibbard, bailiff-notary; Robert Hunter, clerk and James G. Smith, reporter-sheriff.

Witnesses for the plaintiff are Herman Hendershott and Dorothy Kliks. Witnesses for defense are Donald Heisler and Edward Schleser.

Fred Hammond, Aspiring Head Of ASUO, Lists Record

Banking their votes behind Fred Hammond in his bid for the presidency of the student body are nine fraternities and the dormitory: Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Alpha Mu, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Upsilon, Theta Chi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

During his freshman year, Hammond headed his class as president. Since then he has entered the law school, been a member of the men's debate squad, earning a certificate, co-chairman of the sophomore membership drive, chairman of the law school dance, and president of his fraternity, Kappa Sigma.

Under Hammond's guidance, this year's Junior Weekend activities have been whipped into realization of a successful event by

Political Ballyhoo Ends Tonight On Eve of Balloting

Official Notice

Student body elections will be held Thursday, April 23, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. at the YMCA hut. Class presidents will conduct their own class elections and must furnish material and ballots. The associated students will furnish the ballot boxes. Signed, Roland Rourke, Vice-president, Associated Students.

Hammond, Finley Rush Last Preparations to Snare Votes From All ASUO Card Holders

Climaxing tonight's campus torchlight parade, University students will go to the polls Thursday from 9 to 3 to elect student body and class officers, members of the Co-op board, and accept or reject the new proposed ASUO constitution.

Blaring auto horns and lusty-lunged campus politicians will sound the end of bitter pre-election campaigns tonight when both Hammond and Finley factions celebrate with parades and dancing. Effort will be bent, today and tonight, toward lining up the last stray votes.

Hammond Backers to Dance

Hammondites will gather in front of Delta Tau Delta at 7:45 o'clock to travel the campus. The entourage will end at the Delta Gamma house to dance until 9:30 o'clock.

Finley's boys will assemble at the Phi Delta Theta house at 7:45 to honor their candidate for ASUO president. They will proceed and in all probability join the Hammond parade to tour the campus. Following the parade Finleyites will dance in the Sigma Chi house.

Six ballot boxes and a long ballot will face voters when polls open in the Y hut Thursday morning. Rolie Rourke, ASUO vice-president, who is in charge of voting on all student body matters will finish selecting an election board to (Please turn to page two)

Lowry Asks for Fete Float Plans

Stand Construction Job Is Directed by Paulson; Progress Is Made

Detailed plans for the 10 Canoe Fete floats, including color combinations and sketches must be handed in to Dave Lowry, chairman, today, according to regulations of the annual celebration.

Proper lighting and writing of the continuity will be undertaken as soon as the plans are submitted by the houses, Lowry announced. Work has been progressing quite rapidly in laying the foundation for the famous festival.

Paulson Constructs Stands

Construction of the stands is being directed by Kermit Paulson. This job is being particularly well done, according to Lowry, who commended Paulson upon his industrious work.

Hammond Rebuttal

Personally I feel there is neither anything advantageous gained to either party nor anything constructive offered to the students of the University through a newspaper discussion of the platforms of opposing political forces. It would seem that once the candidates have set forth their views the students should be permitted to judge for themselves the merits of the respective platforms. If further explanation is desired, it seems that candidates might appear before an assembly of the whole student body and explain in more detail their various proposals than be limited to an attempted tearing apart of opposite platforms in an effort to discredit opposing personalities or in a gesture of self-defense.

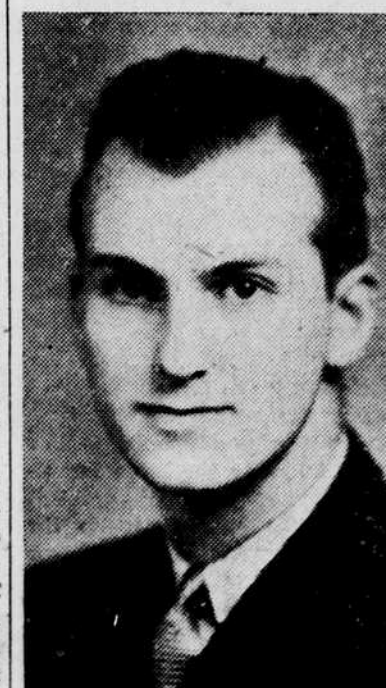

We realize that under the new constitution, the president of the University will have the ultimate say in the management of extra-curricular activities; but what of student opinion and interest in their own student body government? Surely the students as a whole want to express their opinion and offer suggestions to whom ever has the last say in the management of student affairs.

As I understand Finley's platform, it seems that several of his proposals are excellent in that they set forth desirable efforts to be made by the University, as for example his proposal for a "good will" campaign handled by what he suggests as a standing committee to greet out-of-town visitors.

Why couldn't such a committee be appointed by a student legislative group in which representatives from all factions on the campus would be represented by vote? This is only an incidental matter in the much greater problem of building up the machinery to handle all student affairs. It is only one of the many functions to be handled by the student legislative council which I hope to see established on this campus.

Bill Pease, Hammond's choice for junior finance man, was secretary of Theta Chi fraternity. His activities: member and officer of Skull and Dagger, Homecoming committee, sophomore informal directorate, Whiskerino committee, and ASUO ticket drive. Pease has been active on the staff of the Emerald as a reporter. (Please turn to page two)
