

It's This Way

By Marge Petsch

The campus has taken on a distinctly unpleasant odor since politics has again reared its ugly head. Aside from the odor, the place is really much more pleasant—so many people speaking to each other who previously breezed by with heads in air. Lovers of the election season we hear have been composing a new song to be sung to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland." Only the first line runs, "Oh, politics. Sweet Politics, etc."

What with mid-terms settling down on us to add to the festive spirit, we have been trying to pick up a few effective words in Bohemian to throw in at appropriate moments. Thus far, the only expression we have absolutely mastered is "bud ticho," only there is a hook beside the "d" that we can't include here. Thus far "bud ticho" has been all that's really necessary. (Meaning to be given later.)

Spring has taken a terrific toll this year in the way of young loves. The whole campus is just rampant with them. When you start to think of them there are so many you hate to count them. But there's the recent episode of pin planting on Chi O Gertrude Watson by Charlie Barr, Sigma Nu, that bears mentioning. Other interesting "beautiful friendships" have been blossoming between Ken Miller, Chi Psi and Alpha Phi Barbara Williams, Pat Sherrard, Kappa, and Ronald Rew, ATO, and Rex Cooper and Helen Ann Davis.

By the way, "bud ticho" means "shut up" in good, old Bohemian. Very appropriate in this instance, we think!

G. Yale Bikman honored the women's page with an explanation of his poem, "To the Ladies," incidentally. The letter can be found on the editorial page. We're not awfully sure that we're converted yet, although far be it from us to be stubborn. Anyway, we are ready to wish G. Yale, God speed in his march toward that day of lucrative poetry writing.

Miss Helen Dimmick, dean of women at the San Jose state college in California, made some interesting observations in a recent issue of the student daily. Dean Dimmick claims that a very small minority of the girls with whom she has come in contact during her seven years as a dean of women have presented problems from a non-cooperative or disobedient standpoint. She holds that extra-curricular activities are a highly beneficial thing in the life of a college woman.

We often wonder which category Dean Dimmick included us in on those many chats we once had in her office.

Our last admonition: Don't be too sorry if your female candidate loses in today's election. There's always the Junior Queen elections, you know.

Gerber to Speak On Military Drill

Serril Gerber, field secretary for the American Student Union, will address a student forum today at 4 o'clock in the AWS room of Gerlinger hall. Gerber is covering the nation in the interests of the Union's peace program for students. He is expected to discuss the non-compulsory military initiative now under way in Oregon.

He will also explain campus peace activity which the Student Union endorses. The meeting is open to all students. Charles Padock, president of the local ASU chapter, last night urged all students interested in Gerber's topic to attend.

Eight Houses to Entertain With Spring Dances this Weekend

Charming Peggy Chessman Plans Newspaper Career After Fine College Record

By HENRIETTE HORAK

One day, last summer, Oregon's coed Peggy Chessman made state news; for four days she was to rule as queen of the Astoria regatta. For 96 hours prominent Peggy was the royal darling of the festivities and had the place of honor at boat races, banquets, and halls.

The University campus was pleased, but not surprised, for Peggy, with her numerous activities here, had kept the student daily writers busy since her freshman year.

The campus was not entirely new to Peggy when she honored the University with her registration. She had been a leading light in high school press conferences, and attended several sessions on the campus while she was editor of the Astoria high school paper and year book.

Grows Up With Paper

To Peggy, a journalism major newspaper work is second nature—in fact, she almost grew up with the Astorian Budget, edited by her father, the well-known Merle Chessman. She was on speaking terms with linotypes, presses, and newspaper lingo when barely out of the cradle!

After graduation, June 1, Peggy will return to the Astorian Budget and sit behind the woman editor's desk. One glance at Peggy's plans convinces us that the Budget is in line for a woman's page with plenty of "whizz"—one of Peggy's pet word games.

College Activities Varied
Some of her numerous college activities include, membership in Thespians, Kwama, Mortar Board, Gamma Alpha Chi, of which she is president this year; she served also, as vice-president of her sophomore class, vice-president, scholarship chairman and pledge trainer of Kappa Alpha Theta, on Junior Weekend and Homecoming committees, and was a member of those two august senior groups—the Health Patrol, and the Senior Cops.

UO, OSC Choirs To Give 'Requiem'

Verdi Mass Set for Friday, May 1 at Music School; Petri to Direct

The combined choruses of the University of Oregon and Oregon State College will present Verdi's "Requiem Mass" Friday evening, May 1, in the auditorium of the school of music, Dean John J. Landsbury announced today. The choruses are directed by Paul Petri, professor of voice.

Robert McKnight, bass; Mrs. Josephine Albert Spaulding, contralto; Mrs. J. L. Murdock, soprano; and Charles Fahey, tenor, will sing the solo parts with a background of more than 250 voices. Robert Goold will be organist. Both Mr. McKnight and Mrs. Spaulding are former students of the University school of music. All soloists are outstanding musicians and have had much experience in the past. Professor Petri has been rehearsing the choruses for several months.

The "Requiem Mass," one of Verdi's most colorful and harmonious works, is doubly significant. It will be presented at the first of National Music week, and its arrangement denotes peace. Its seven parts are Requiem and Kyrie; Dies Irae (Day of Anger); Domine Desu, (Oh, Lord God); Sanctus, (Holy); Agnus Dei, (Lamb of God); Lus Aeterna, (Light Eternal); and Libera Me (Lord, Deliver My Soul).

There will be no admission charge. Students and townspeople are invited to attend.

Ingenuie Has Edge Over Sophisticated Sister for Summer

The ingenuie, the little girl—are you that type? If you are you have a decided edge over your more sophisticated sister this summer.

Clothes for garden, for sports, for country, and for campus will show that spirit of careless abandon that linen and cotton give. At the same time they will be so crisp and fresh that any one might think your nurse had just laundered them.

Flannel, too, sails to favor with flying colors. Short box coats in gray flannel are ideal to put on over anything. Pink and yellow woolen sweaters and mannish business-like shirts are ideal. Men's sweat shirts are growing in popularity for that moment when you want to feel truly rural.

Divided skirts and slacks are for those who want lots of comfort. If you dislike hats, the stitched gingham visors were made for you. For tennis short, circular skirts are the latest, and they make tennis fun, too.

It is a little early to find these clothes on the campus yet, (and a little cool, did I hear you say?) But, never fear, worshippers of the cult of comfort are legion, and they will be blossoming forth.

AAUW Sponsors for Card Party Saturday

The Eugene branch of AAUW will be sponsors for a card party Saturday afternoon at the Applegate furniture store. Proceeds will go into the scholarship fund, and the library browsing room.

Varied, Novel Decorations Include Spring Gardens, Candy Shop, Barn Dance

In keeping with the charm of the spring season, Alpha Phi will use that theme for their formal Friday night at the Alpha Phi house. The decorations will feature a background of spring flowers, Archie Parrott's orchestra will furnish the music.

Alpha Phi sisters will be guests for the dance.

Patrons and patronesses of the dance are Mr. and Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gage, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Schwering, Dr. and Mrs. Hesdorff, Mrs. Elizabeth Talbert, Mrs. M. P. Barbour, and Mrs. A. L. Wall.

Phi Sigma Kappa freshmen are planning the spring formal for that house, and decorations and plans are being kept a dark secret until Friday night. However, it is known that Jimmie Morrison's band will furnish the music.

Patrons and patronesses are Mr. Louis Artau, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Crumbaker, Mr. and Mrs. Willis

Warren, and Mr. Willis Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Jones.

To reproduce a real barn, with barnyard animals and everything, is the ambition of the Pi Kappa Alphas for Friday night. They plan to go rural in a big way, and will call for their dates for the evening in no less an equipage than a real hayrack, deluxe model.

They will "swing their partners" to the music of Carl Roven's band. Patrons and patronesses are Mrs. Nelson F. Macduff, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horn, Dean and Mrs. Wayne L. Morse, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Robinson.

Increasing the heat under boiling water does not raise the temperature of the water.
