California Professor Speaks Today at General Assembly

Distant Spots of World Are Topics of Scientist R. W. Chaney; Classes To Be Dismissed

Classes will be dismissed today at 11 o'clock for a general assembly to hear R. W. Chaney, professor of paleontology at the University of California and nationally known in his field.

Speaking on "A Scientist's Adventures in Mongolia and Central America," Dr. Chaney will be introduced by Professor Warren D. Smith in the absence of President Boyer.

Speaker Here Tuesday

The speaker arrived on the campus yesterday in time to attend a no-host dinner in his honor given by Sigma Xi, national science honorary, at the Anchorage. He later talked in 101 Condon on "Ancient Forests of Oregon."

On several of his expeditions to far away corners of the world to study fossils and flora, Dr. Chaney has accompanied Roy Chapman Andrews, world-famous explorer, who spoke at Oregon several years ago. In the course of these trips the scientists has visited Central and South America, Mongolia, China, the Philippines, Manchukuo, Chosen, and Japan.

Although Professor Chaney has never spoken before the University student body, he is not stranger to Eugene and its vicinity, having been here to gather material for a book on the flora of Goshen, a small town 10 miles east of here. Dr. Chaney, in speaking today, will be the third in the group, which has included Major-General Smedley D. Butler and Dr. Edward Alfred Stienner to speak to the student body at general assemblies this term.

Faculty Attends Spring Meeting

Five members of the faculty of the school of physical education attended the spring meeting of the Oregon Physical Education association, which met at Mazama Lodge, above government camp on Mount Hood, Saturday, April 25.

Representing the University were Miss Florence Alden, professor of physical education, Miss Janet Woodruff, associate professor of physical education, Miss Warrine Eastburn, instructor in physical education, Miss Harriet Thomson, professor of physical education, and Earl Boushey, assistant professor of physical education.

About 56 teachers of physical education in Oregon schools were present at the conference. The discussion was divided into sections for teachers of physical education in elementary schools, junior and senior high schools, and colleges. Mr. Boushey was in charge of the college section.

Robert Krohn, who is retiring after almost 50 years of physical education work in Portland public schools, was made an honorary member of the association.

Slugsy Gunn Tells Life History In Bathtub Interview

By HOWARD KESSLER From the depths of her sunken bath tub, Miss Slugsy Gunn, winsome lissome would-be queen of Junior Weekend, grinned becomingly as the door opened, and the unannounced visitor appeared. "Oh, it's you again," she pouted, her face falling with a loud and muffled "Oomph" as she saw the reporter. "I thought it was a photographer."

Polyphonic Choir To Sing 'Requiem'

Biggest Music Event of the Spring Season Is Friday At 8 in Music Hall

Campus and city music enthusiasts are expected to turn out in full force Friday evening when the University of Oregon Polyphonic Choir presents Verdi's "Requiem" at the music auditorium at 8 o'clock. This is the biggest musical event of the spring season, and one for which the 110 members of the choir have spent many months of preparation under the conductor, Paul Petri.

Charles Fahey, tenor, is the only one of the four soloists who is now a student at the University. Fahey is a member of Phi Mu Alpha and of Sigma Nu.

Robert W. McKnight, who will sing the bass parts, is a former student at the University and is now an instructor at Modesto Junior College. Mr. McKnight arrived in this city Tuesday for rehearsal with the choir.

Soprano and mezzo-soprano parts will be sung by Mrs. Florence L. Murdock and Mrs. Bruce Spalding, nee Josephine Albert. Mrs. Murdock has directed church choirs in Portland, Corvallis, and Eugene over a period of several years, and is director at present of the Congregational church choir in Eugene. She is one of the most prominent vocalists in Corvallis and is frequently heard in concert programs and solos.

Mrs. Spalding is a former student in music at the University of Oregon. She also has studied in New York City and won the Northwest district music contest in voice of the Federation of Music Clubs, representing that district in the finals at Minneapolis. She is also a member of Mu Phi Epsilon.

3 UO Students Attend Convention

Ted Pursley, Earleen Grobelee, and Betty Brown, University students, were numbered among the Lane county delegation which attended the annual convention of the Young Democratic League of Oregon when it met in Salem last weekend.

The Lane county club which now has a total membership of 105 persons was awarded second prize of $7.50 as a result of its activities in the membership drive which all of the clubs have been conducting. A. Ray Martin of the Eugene club was reelected treasurer of the state organization.

Gov. Charles H. Martin spoke at the banquet, as did several other state officials and democratic leaders. Gov. C. Ben Ross of Idaho was also to have been present but because of an automobile accident a few days prior to the convention was unable to attend.

NYA Checks Ready; Students Requested To Call at Window at 2

NYA student checks are now ready and students may get them by calling at window two on the second floor of the administration building. Students are requested to call for them at once.

Onthank Returns From Minnesota

Dean Explains University Problems at Meeting; Studies Campuses

Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, returned yesterday from a several day's visit at the University of Minnesota where he had been invited to discuss and explain Oregon's experiments in organizing classes to coach student leaders.

While there Dean Onthank spoke before a conference of administrative officers of the university, members of the personnel staff, and student leaders on the problems of the relationship between staff and students. In addition to this general meeting he was called in to a number of conferences with the advisers of the dormitories, with various faculty and student committees, and with numerous informal groups.

Several former members of the University of Oregon's faculty were found on the Minnesota campus. Among them was Dr. Harold Benjamin, Dr. H. R. Douglas, both of the school of education, and Dr. Ralph Casey, head of the department of journalism.

The testing bureau, a means by which Minnesota obtains a complete appraisal of the aptitudes and abilities of students, was inspected by Dean Onthank. In conjunction with this system of testing is provision for a systematic counseling program, by which students are guided throughout their college life.

Returning by way of Seattle, Dean Onthank stopped at the University of Washington to inspect the new health division building and the new dormitory for women, which is under construction. He also took the opportunity to check up on provisions there for guidance and counseling.

Dean Onthank will leave today, it is expected, for Portland to assume once more his duties as NYA administrator for the state of Oregon and will not return to the campus until Saturday or Monday.

Alpha Kappa Psi To Choose Junior

A committee of students was appointed by Ernest Savage, president of Alpha Kappa Psi, business honorary, at a short business meeting last night to consider the names of three junior students in business administration, who are eligible for membership in Alpha Kappa Psi.

The name of the junior student chosen will be announced at the organization's annual banquet, to be held May 12 at the Eugene hotel.

Former UO Students Get Magazine Mention

Two former students of the University architectural school, Edward Hicks and Manson Bennett, received mention in Pencil Points magazine for work submitted in the Portland Cement Corporation's competition for small houses. All prize-winning and honorable mention entries were published in this architectural magazine.

Mr. Hicks is now working in an architect's office in Clarendon, Virginia. Last year he attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. Bennett is also working in an architect's office in Portland.

Junior Queen Candidates Will Be Nominated by Vote Today At College Side From 9 to 5

Selection Will Be Made From 10 Highest Girls This Friday

The search proceeds for the most eligible junior woman who is to reign over Junior Weekend. Today from 9 to 5 a ballot box will be kept in front of the College Side for the ballots bearing the names of Oregon's most queenly juniors.

Every student body card holder is entitled to vote on the ten women receiving the most ballots in today's nominations. Friday is the date for the final elections on the contenders for the queen's throne.

The nomination ballots to be filled in today will bear the name of one candidate, the only qualification is junior class standing. The ten girls receiving the most votes will be paraded about the campus tomorrow noon.

Comment on eligible coeds for the most likely nominees has been confined to house discussions. Few, if any, juniors have so far expressed their intention of running.

Last year's court consisted of Mary Morse, queen, and Dorothy Ann Clark, Margaret Jean Cooper, Marvel Twiss, and Frances Spence, princesses. The successor to the throne and her attendants this year will remain secret until after elections on Friday.

Assistants to Betty Coon, chairman of the queen's reign, are Lynne Latourette, transportation, Rose Gore, secretary, and Bill Pierson, assistant chairman.

Morrison Heads Editorial Contest

James R. Morrison, junior in journalism, has been appointed general chairman of the Oregon editorial contest, sponsored annually by Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity. The Paul R. Kelly-Sigma Delta Chi cup is awarded to the editor of the Oregon weekly or semi-weekly who has, according to the judges, exhibited the most noteworthy leadership through his editorial page.

The cup will be presented at the convention of the Oregon State Editorial association in Grants Pass, June 18, 19, and 20. The award was won last year by the Lakeview Examiner.

Helen Lewis Is Orides Chairman

Helen Lewis was appointed chairman for the picnic to be given with the Yeomen, at an Orides meeting held Monday night. The affair will be at Swimmer's Delight some time in the near future.

Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, will be the speaker for the next meeting, to be held May 11. She will discuss the various scholarships offered women students at the University. All members are urged by Erma Huston, president, to come and bring a guest.

Campus Calendar

Alpha Delta Sigma luncheon Thursday noon at the Anchorage. Kwama meets at 4:30 today in the AWS room in Gerlinger hall. All girls attending the paper bag picnic of the 38-39 club meet at the Westminster house at 5:30 today.

Mothers Will Desert Dads To Visit UO

Students Asked to Write Home Urging 'Moms' To Go Collegiate

Although batching dads of Oregon students have threatened to fill the sink with dirty dishes while "mom" comes to University to go collegiate for Mother's day, their determination to visit their sons and daughters has not been lessened.

Documents carrying columns of material of sufficient interest, to convince all that Eugene is the place to come for Mother's day have been sent home by many students. Small blue folders containing an invitation by Lucile McBride and Grace Peck, co-chairmen, and the general program have been left at all living organizations by the speakers committee during the last week.

Independent students may secure these invitations at the Co-op, it has been announced. Personal letters have also been mailed.

The University itself has sent a four page issue of a miniature newspaper, "Oregon News for Oregon Mothers," in which is outlined briefly the achievements of the institution during the past year and a resume of events being planned for their honor.

Competition is expected to be keen between classes to import the (Please turn to page four)

YWCA Silver Tea Given Yesterday

A silver tea honoring Mrs. John Stark Evans was given yesterday afternoon by members of the YWCA and advisory board at the YW bunaglow between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock.

In the receiving line were Mrs. John Stark Evans, now YWCA secretary replacing Betty Hughes who left last week for Swarthmore college in Pennsylvania, Mrs. Harry B. Johnson, chairman of the affair, Mrs. F. M. Carter, retiring president of the advisory board, Mrs. E. E. DeCou, newly elected president, Mrs. C. L. Schwering, dean of women, and Elaine Comish, YWCA president.

Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter, Mrs. C. Valentine Boyer, Mrs. A. G. Denniston, and Mrs. L. W. Knowles poured.

Newest knit fashions, from golf frocks to formals, modeled by coeds, and several songs by the Eugene high school girls' sextet were program features of the afternoon.

Campus girls who modeled were: Mary Ann Skirving, Florence Weidner, Jane Lagassee, Mary Ellen Eberhart, Grace Peck, Elizabeth Ann DeBusk, Katherine Larson, Irene Schupp, and Harriet Thomsen.

UO Men May Get Naval Training

Oregon men may have the opportunity for training for enlistment in the naval reserve if appropriations for such training are granted by congress, President C. Valentine Boyer reported recently.

If the appropriations are made, about 15 sophomores a year will be chosen for instruction by the navy department at two six-week camps, one each summer.

Instruction will be a practical seamanship, navigation, and gunnery. Cadets will receive pay for six weeks amounting to about $35 a month, with traveling expenses, uniform, and subsistence paid by the navy.

The camp will be either on Puget Sound or at San Diego. This training is not limited to ROTC students, a sophomore standing is the only requirement.

Ends Duties Here

H. V. Hoyt, who for the past few years has been dean of the school of business administration, will complete his work at the University with the end of the present term. Dean Hoyt will go East where he has secured another position.

Dean H. V. Hoyt Leaves Oregon

Professor Morris Is Named Acting Dean of Business Ad Department

Dr. H. V. Hoyt, dean of the University of Oregon school of business administration since 1932, is leaving for the east at the end of the year to become production manager of a large industrial concern in Philadelphia.

Prof. Victor P. Morris of the economics department will be transferred to the school of business as acting dean.

Professor E. B. Mittleman, of the economics department, who has been teaching in Oregon for 16 years will leave at the same time for Washington, D. C., where he will undertake a special research for the federal government into the effects of relief on labor.

Professor Mittleman is widely known as an expert labor economist.

Both men were granted "leave without pay" at the Monday meeting of the state board of higher education.

Other leaves granted University faculty members are: M. H. Douglass, librarian, three months ending July 1, 1937, with pay, Katharine Karpenstein, law librarian, indefinite leave for study without pay, and F. L. Stetson, professor of education, three months leave for preparation of state high school manual.

Nomination Ballot

I hereby place the name of _____ on the ballot for queen of Junior Weekend.

Junior and Senior Women Join For Sunday Event

Sunday, May 3, another University of Oregon traditional event will take place when junior women of all houses and dormitories will honor their senior sisters at the annual junior-senior breakfast. The affair is arranged by the YWCA and will be held in Gerlinger hall at 10 o'clock.

Housemothers, honored guests, and juniors and seniors will partake of the traditional strawberries and other breakfast delicacies. The motif "Expansion" has been chosen as this year's theme because of the rising library, and other construction projects apparent on the campus, as well as with the idea that senior will "expand" into new

Council Votes To Adopt New Pledging Plan

Summer Affiliation Out; Regulations Go Into Effect Fall Term

Stamping its approval with a landslide of affirmative votes, the interfraternity council yesterday afternoon adopted a sealed bid rushing system. The new rushing regulations will be placed in effect next fall term.

Before accepting the plan, the house presidents, assembled to give it final consideration, struck out provisions which would permit summer pledging.

Heading the new plan is a pledge to abide by the rules set forth in it. Council members are to sign, pledging the support of their chapters in upholding the regulations.

Violations of the pledge are to be reported by the head of any house to the council's tribunal by 1 o'clock of the first week day following rushing week.

Reported cases will be considered on the following day. Appeals may be made to the student advisory committee.

Refusal to abide by the appealed decision would result in social probation for the offending house for one term.

Under the sealed bid plan of rushing, the rushee will mark a list of houses, indicating his preference. Each student must mark at least three choices. The bids which are turned in for the rushee will be compared with his preference list and he will be considered pledged to the house which has bid for him and which ranks highest on his preference list.

In accordance with the University's ruling, no man with a prep decile rating of one will be eligible to pledge.

Violation of pledging rules would mean forfeiture of the right to initiate a man unlawfully pledged, prohibition of the man so pledged from living in the house of that member, should he become initiated in that fraternity, or a fine of from $1 to $25. All three penalties might be imposed.

Regulation of the number of dates and the hours are outlined in detail in the plan, along with other rushing and pledging provisions.

The council's affirmative vote, with only one house, Pi Kappa Alpha, voting for rejection of the regulations, marked the attainment of the second of its major objectives of the year.

At a recent meeting, a new constitution was accepted to replace one which during the past two years has proven ante-dated and unwieldy.

Fields and Positions After Graduation

Before the breakfast a harpist has been secured to furnish music, and Mrs. E. E. DeCou and Mrs. Virgil D. Earl will be the main speakers. Mary McCracken, president of the senior class, will respond for the senior women to Elaine Comish's welcome and good luck farewell from the juniors.

The junior-senior breakfast began in the days of Mrs. P. L. Campbell, wife of the University president, who invited both juniors and seniors to her home on May day for strawberries.
