

Queen Peggy I Leads Grand March at Junior Prom Tonite

Kenny Allen's Orchestra Plays for Affair; Cup Awards Will Be Given During Evening

Tonight is Junior Prom! McArthur court will be decked in a symphony of color, brightly fulfilling the weekend "Stardust" motif, when Queen Peggy I leads the grand march opening the affair.

Kenny Allen's well-known Portland orchestra will swing into the opening dance selection. Dancers garbed in formal attire will crowd the floor and the climax event of today's Junior Weekend activities will be on its way.

Intense interest and curiosity pervading the campus this week will be appeased when faculty members step to the platform to announce the winners of the Gerlinger, Koyl, and Burt Brown Barker cup awards.

Dean Hazel P. Schwering will present the Gerlinger cup to the outstanding woman in the junior class as part of the intermission feature. The outstanding man in the junior class will receive the Koyl cup from Virgil D. Earl, dean of men.

Members of the Junior Prom committee worked feverishly yesterday raising the gay decorations and polishing the floor to glossy finish.

A clever lighting effect has been introduced by Chairman Dave Morris to carry out the "Stardust" idea.

In an announcement made yesterday, Isabelle Miller, campus social arbiter, made known that the dance would be formal, although men may wear tuxedos or light suits. Corsages are in order, but are not necessary, she added.

Alpha Kappa Psi, business professional fraternity, will hold its annual banquet for pledges and members Tuesday. The faculty of the school of business administration has been invited to attend.

The banquet is to be held at the Eugene hotel.

Mr. Frank Ward, superintendent of Olds, Wortman and King, will speak at the banquet on the subject, "Selecting, Training and Promoting Employees." Mr. Ward will also lecture to Dr. Comish's merchandising class on "The Organization of Olds, Wortman and King."

James Evans Finishes Work for Degree

James Richard Evans, Baker, who took graduate work in journalism at the University two years ago, has just completed his required work for the degree of master of science.

His degree will be formally awarded at the Commencement exercises. At present he is teaching at Baker high school.

Campus Calendar

Order of O men be at the campus luncheon early with sweaters on.

All house representatives who have junior shine tickets must turn in tickets and money to Henryette Mummy at 9 upstairs in the College Side this morning.

Initiative Petitions Sent to Granges

More than 13,600 initiative petitions for optional military training were mailed last night by the Oregon Committee for Peace and Freedom. The petitions will be circulated by 339 Oregon granges.

S. Eugene Allen, grange chairman, predicted at least a 50 per cent return of names from the grange groups.

Allen also sent letters to all granges asking them to do active work in behalf of the initiative. The measure has been endorsed by Ray Gill, state grange master, Albert Slaughter, member of the executive committee, and other Oregon grange leaders.

Charles Paddock, chairman of the OCPF, said he expects acceptance or rejection of the committee's debate challenge today or tomorrow.

The local American Legion post and the Lane County Reserve Officers association were the two organizations challenged to debate the merits of optional military training and the initiative.

Student Body Meeting in Villard Today

James Blais Will Install Reorganized ASUO; Officers to Speak

New officers at the helm of a reorganized ASUO will be installed by James Blais, incumbent president, today when he rules over his last student body meeting at 11 o'clock in the assembly hall of Villard.

The meeting will mark the end of long activity in student body and class activities for many of the outgoing officers; but for others it will be the opening of new roads of campus functions.

Eleven o'clock classes will be excused to afford students the opportunity of seeing Fred Hammond and his associates inducted into new offices.

Calling the meeting to order Blais will make a report on the student body activities during the last year. After swearing in the new officers, the meeting will be turned over to Fred Hammond.

Hammond will introduce his aides, and will outline his plans for operating the ASUO under the new constitution set-up at April's election.

Announcement of the new student opinion council will be made. Blais said yesterday.

Because the new constitution has reduced the number of positions on the executive council several officials will be given important positions on the council.

Accompanying Hammond, Gilbert Schultz will be installed as first vice-president; and Jim Hurd, newly elected senior man, as second vice-president.

Others who will take the oath of office today are: Grace Peck, secretary; Pearl Johansen, senior woman; and Bill Pease, junior finance man.

Kermit Paulsen will automatically rise to the position of senior finance man.

Out-going officers are: James Blais, president; Roland Rourke, vice-president; Adele Sheehy, secretary; Cosgrove LaBarre, senior finance man; Roberta Moody, senior woman; Robert Thomas, senior man.

Yeomen Install New Officers

The Oregon Yeomen met Wednesday night in the Y hut to install their new officers. There will be one more meeting this term.

Ethan Newman, president of the Young Democrats club and former Yeomen president, spoke to the group and commended them for their activities during the past year.

They Stage Tonight's Dance

Although the campus is buzzing with rumors and amateur sleuths have suggested several solutions, the mystery of the three coots from the hills, Zeke, Zeb, and Zachary has not been solved to date.

Tuesday night a brick was tossed through the Emerald editor's window with a message to the editor wrapped around it. This message said that the bearded triumvirate has something to offer the Canoe Fete committee and that their offer had been spurned.

They added that the committee was going to have to take it and like it.

Yesterday morning the committee replied to the letter in definite terms stating they knew nothing of these three birds and declaring themselves innocent of any unfairness in the matter. In this mis-

Wild Flowers on Display Today

A collection of the many Lane county wild flowers now in bloom will be opened in the little art gallery on the University campus this afternoon, it was announced by F. P. Sipe, botany professor.

Last year's exhibit appealed so to the visiting mothers and friends of students that the same time was utilized this year, Mr. Sipe said.

The display will be continued until Sunday afternoon. No charge will be made.

Sheldon to Speak At Education Meeting

Dr. H. D. Sheldon, professor of education and history on the campus has been asked to give two talks during the National Education convention in Portland this summer.

One will be given before the department of secondary school principals and is entitled "Important Issues of Secondary Education." The other, "Can Universal Secondary Education Be Made Socially Profitable," will be given before the National Council of Edu-

Down to Issue Car Licenses, Permits Today, Saturday

All persons wishing to get permits or licenses to drive cars are asked to get in touch with Glenn Bown, examiner of operators and chauffeurs. Mr. Bown will be at the Knights of Pythias hall, 11th and Charnelton, from 8 to 5 today and tomorrow.

Edison Marshall To Visit Campus

Tabard Inn to Give Dinner; Notable Writers From UO to Be Invited

Edison Marshall, noted author who once attended the University and donor of $50 for the annual short story contest, is expected to visit on the campus during the first part of June, according to word received by W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising.

Marshall, who lives in Augusta, Georgia, will probably pass through Eugene on his way to a hunting expedition in the wilds of Borneo.

Tabard Inn, men's writing honorary, will honor him with a dinner and meeting at which many alumni and other literary men in the state will be present.

Among those who will be asked are: Ernest H. Haycox, and Robert Ormond Case, well-known writers; Alex Pangburn, E. Palmer Hoyt, Edward Miller, and Harold Moore, all of the Oregonian staff; and Harold Saye, of the travel promotion department of the state highway commission. All of these would do part-time writing.

Victor Kaufman, author and former student on the campus is in charge of Portland arrangements. While Winston Allard, president, is in charge of the meeting here.

Luncheon on Campus Today Marks Formal Inauguration Of Year's Gayest Weekend

New Pledges for Mortar Board and Friars Are to Be Selected

Junior Weekend, most festive of all University occasions, will start officially at noon today. The band will play, Peggy Carper will be crowned Queen Peggy I, the campus luncheon will be served, and for today and Saturday and Sunday, the junior class plays host to students and their mothers, under the chairmanship of Fred Hammond.

Lunches will be provided free for 2250, cafeteria style, on the lawn in front of the old library. Preceding the luncheon, Skull and Dagger will distribute 2500 copies of "Scruples", humor magazine, free of charge.

Sales held yesterday fell below the anticipated number, and those in charge decided to give the magazine as a part of Junior Weekend. Copies for ticket holders are also available at the Co-op.

Before the assembled court and guests, members of Mortar Board and Friars, senior class honoraries, will pass through the crowd tapping pledges. Princesses in the court are Grace Peck, Jayne Bowerman, Lucille McBride, and Irene Schaupt.

John Lewis, president of the Order of the O, announced last night that any men wearing white shoes, ties, or any seen talking to women, mothers excepted, will be dunked in the pond between the library and Deady hall. "Others may be ducked on general principles, Lewis said.

At 1:30 crowds will move over to the faculty tennis courts for free dancing to Kenny Allen's music. At 2:30 a prize dance contest will be held, entrants to be judged by Craig Finley, Gilbert Schultz, Jim Blais, Rollie Rourke, and Bill McInturff.

Over 500 mothers will be on the campus to join students in weekend festivities. Special events also are being planned for mothers which will continue through Sunday. Students and mothers are invited to the tea given in Gerlinger hall from 3 to 5 by the AWS and YWCA.

More rugged entertainment will be provided at the Oregon-University of Washington baseball game on Howe field at 3:30. The second game in this series will be held Saturday after the U.O.-U.W track meet.

As a fitting end to today's festivities will come the Junior Prom with Koyl and Gerlinger awards. Preceding the dance, a reception will be held in alumni hall for Weekend guests, sponsored by the Eugene Mother's club and the University Faculty Women's club.

Canoe Fete Winds Up Activities on Saturday After Full Day

Songs of the past and the present will be the feature of the "Stardust" theme which has been selected for the Junior Weekend canoe fete this Saturday at 8:30 on the millrace. Representatives from the living organizations have started working on their floats, building them from canvas, paper, and old boards beside the millrace preparatory to their one flight before mothers, students, and the queen's royal court.

A new platform has been completed for the court and is made in the shape of a musical note, further carrying out the motif of the evening.

Seats for the outstanding affair of the Weekend have been selling heavily since they were put on sale last Saturday. Only a few more seats remain, it is said.

Prior to the fete, the Mother's day banquet will be held in John Straub Memorial hall beginning at 5:30 p. m. Mabel Holmes Parsons, Oregon author, has been chosen as the principal speaker of the evening. Five hundred places will be laid for mothers and their sons and daughters, Virginia Endicott, who is in charge of the banquet, said last night.

The banquet is scheduled earlier this year to allow plenty of time between that affair and the canoe fete.

On Saturday morning, when mothers are holding their executive committee breakfast and discussing the business of the Oregon Mothers' organization, students will frolic along the bank of the millrace.

At 9:30 freshman and sophomore men will continue their annual hostilities in their tug-of-war. The scene for this warfare has been changed to the portion of the millrace below the Anchorage where such activity has been carried on in previous years. Although the first plans made limited the number of men to be entered in the war to 50, the ban has been lifted and all eligible men will be allowed to enter.

The freshmen will protect the north side of the race with sophomore men maintaining their status quo on the opposite side Saturday morning.

Immediately following the tug-of-war, swimming and other water sports will take place in the water carnival which is set for 10:30 in front of the Anchorage. Mary McCracken and Jean Stevenson, members of Amphibian, have issued a challenge to a log-rolling contest which is to be included in the carnival.

The art museum will be opened from 3 until 5 o'clock for a special showing of the exhibits there. The remainder of the day, which includes noon luncheon, will be spent with sons and daughters.

NEA Discussion Panel To Have Dr. Taylor

Dr. Howard R. Taylor, head of the psychology department, has accepted an invitation from Dean Kefauver, head of the school of education at Stanford university, to participate in one of the National Education association panel discussions entitled "Important Issues in Secondary Education" which will be held some time in June in Portland.

Dr. Taylor will also be a panel leader at the national vocational guidance association meeting on July 1 in Portland.

Margaret E. Bennett, director of guidance at Pasadena, asked Dr. Taylor to talk upon the "Task of Guidance Utilizing Community Researches."

Zeb, Zeke, Zachary Swear to Crash Canoe Fete

Although the campus is buzzing with rumors and amateur sleuths have suggested several solutions, the mystery of the three coots from the hills, Zeke, Zeb, and Zachary has not been solved to date.

Tuesday night a brick was tossed through the Emerald editor's window with a message to the editor wrapped around it. This message said that the bearded triumvirate has something to offer the Canoe Fete committee and that their offer had been spurned.

They added that the committee was going to have to take it and like it.

Yesterday morning the committee replied to the letter in definite terms stating they knew nothing of these three birds and declaring themselves innocent of any unfairness in the matter. In this mis-ive the committee referred to the three coots as the three coots and in other terms.

Last night the editor received a special delivery letter in a purple envelope. The letter was post-marked from a little town in southern Washington and read:

To the Editor of the Emerald (cuss all his descendants): So we're coots, eh? Don't you nor anyone else go a'callin' us coots coots. We'll hev none of ye, we'll hev ye know. We'll get a chance to feature for this here Junior weekend. We're pretty good performers on weekends and we reckon we'll measure up to the standards.

But if we be done dirt, by cracky we'll be a secin' ye all when ye be (Please turn to page two)
