will be difficult for Hammond to accomplish much in student body government. But there is one thing that he can do, and should do immediately—next week. It would give him a fine start as president if he would provide an immediate remedy for one of the University's most pressing problems. That is adequate reception of guests.

This school needs a student committee for hospitality, properly endowed with schedules of visitors, and a general conception of how to entertain them. Although the necessary budgetary allotments cannot be made until next year, this committee should be appointed now and should function them. Although the necessary budgetary allotment year.

The need for this has been one of the most often repeated requests of alumni and backers of the school.

It would be a good "first move" for President Hammond.

Twenty-Third Canoe Fete

BACK in 1913 the first Canoe Fete in Oregon's history was held despite a drizzle that drove many spectators to cover.

In 1936, the prospect for the colorful pageant that has attracted nation-wide acclaim these many years, is for a clear and moonlit evening and a succession of breath-taking floats depicting the theme, "Stardust," in a pictorial history of music from Bach to Berlin.

Blessed with a picturesque millrace, a romantic setting for such an event that no other university can equal, the Canoe Fete has gained each year in popularity and splendor until now it brings news cameramen and tourists from many cities and states to witness a series of ingenious tableaux float majestically down the millrace.

To those fortunate enough to be present for this highest highlight of the University year, we promise beauty, novelty, and humor in plenty.

Beginning with "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and passing through minuets, waltzes, roundelays, and pioneer tunes to "Lovely Lady" of 1936, the ten floats, constructed by 20 living organizations on the campus, will have ample variety of melody to suit all tastes.

To worker Dave Lowry and his committee, a blossom for the way they swung into preparations for the Canoe Fete after a delayed start. To guests, a welcome to Oregon's favorite event. And to the three mountaineers, a warning from the vigilantes.

Students' Cooperation Sought

Hammond Asks ASUO Support At Inauguration

Powers Are Unrestricted By New Constitution, Says Prexy

BOARD IS NAMED

Athletic Directorate Under Revised Set-up Consists Of 10 Members

Cooperation from the student body and student interest in ASUO activities are the two essentials for a successful year, Fred Hammond, ASUO president inaugurated yesterday in Villard, told the group attending the ceremony.

Emphasizing the fact that despite current rumors, ASUO officers have not surrendered their powers to the president of the University under the new constitution adopted at the recent election, Hammond declared that the ASUO prexy still had final say in all matters. The transferring of some powers to the University was necessary, he said, because of the present financial position of the associated students.

Athletic Board Announced

Members of the athletic board which will direct athletic activity of the ASUO under the new set up were announced by President Hammond. The constitution provides for a ten-member board, five of whom members from the faculty, three from the alumni and as the other two, the president and first vice-president of the ASUO.

Members selected were Earl Pallett, chairman, John Bovard, Virgil D. Earl, James H. Gilbert, and H. C. Howe, all from the faculty. Representing the Eugene alumni of the University will be Lynn McCready and Basil T. Williams, and from the alumni of Portland will be Paul D. Hunt. President Hammond and Vice-President Gilbert Schultz will make up the student body representation. Other Announcements Soon

By-laws for the new constitution and members of other boards provided under the new set-up will be announced through the Emerald as soon as determined, Hammond said.

Opening the assembly, James Blais, retiring ASUO president, declared that his administration had been faced with many problems—among them the defeat of the compulsory fee measure which made necessary the revamping of the constitution which has placed the ASUO under the wing of the administration. Whether or not this will be a success depends upon the attitude of the students, he said.

New Officers Sworn

Following Blais' opening remarks the new ASUO officers were introduced and sworn. Taking the oath of office were: president, Fred Hammond; first vice-president, Gilbert Schultz; Jim Hurd, newly-elected senior man, sworn in as second vice-president under the new constitution; secretary, Grace Peck; senior woman, Pearl Johansen; and junior finance officer, Bill Pease.

Outgoing officers, besides Blais as president, were: Roland Rourke, vice-president; Adele Sheehy, secretary; Cosgrove LaBarre, senior finance man; Roberta Moody, senior woman; and Robert Thomas, senior man.

Library Courses Are Available

Eight courses in library methods will be given at the University of Oregon summer session at Eugene from June 22 to July 31, 1936. This work has been provided in response to requests from former summer-session library students and others who desired, through a series of summer sessions, to secure a certificate in school-library courses. This requirement is in accordance with the recommendations of the American Library association's board of training for librarianship. Summer-session students wishing to give their entire time to library work may select three courses this summer from the eight courses offered. The courses are planned to meet the special needs of teachers who wish preparation for the intelligent administration of a school library in connection with their teaching duties.

While the courses meet especially the needs of school library workers, they will also be of value to college and public librarians who have not had formal training.

King Edward's prospects for the future queen of England were recently described in the Paris Midi.

Work Planned For Summer School Varied

Session Opens June 22 With Dr. Dan E. Clark Heading Educators

Courses of unusual interest to all types of students, including teachers, adults who want more training in their professions or who wish to study cultural topics, and regular students who wish to speed their way through university or college, will be found in great variety at the University of Oregon summer session, which opens June 22 for a six weeks term.

Courses to be offered will include those in anthropology, architecture and allied arts, business administration, chemistry, drama, economics, education, English, Germanic languages and literature, history, journalism, law, library, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, athletic coaching, physics, political science, psychology, public speaking, Romance languages, and sociology.

Post Session Follows

Following the regular summer session, a post session of four weeks, to serve the Eugene and Portland session, will be held on the campus. Courses will be offered in economics, education, English, history, law, physics, psychology, and sociology.

Enrollment is expected to be considerably higher than last year, due largely to the influx of teachers from other parts of the country who will come to attend the National Education association meet in Portland June 28 to July 4. Dr. Dan E. Clark, director, points out.

Noted Teachers May Come

Provision will be made for students at the session here to attend the national session without loss of credit, and a number of the noted educators who will be here for the gathering may be brought to Eugene for addresses and discussions. An interesting social and recreation program, that will include, trips to mountains and beaches, dances, canoe parties, and athletics, will be provided for students, Dr. Clark states.

Third Start

most narrow of margins last year by Bud Shoemaker, Oregon flash. Hay, speedy sophomore dash man, will be running with his team mate, Humber. Oregon's Squeak Lloyd, who has run like a shadow behind Shoemaker all year, will also run in the sprints.

Another bitter battle will be the mile run. The famed Jim Angle of Washington will be running against Captain George Scharp of Oregon. Scharp has turned in better time than Angle has this season. However, Angle has been hindered by illness.

Marvin Janak, Oregon's high jumper and pole vaulter, will have his hands full when he meets Childs of the Huskies in the pole vault. Both men have vaulted over 13 feet. Officials for the meet are: referee, Walter Hummel; starter, Ralph Coleman; judges of the finish, Lynn McCready, Captain E. W. Kelley, Dana P. Washburne, Crosby Owen, Wilson Jewett, Tom Williams; timers, R. K. Cutler, Art Morris, Jack Luckey, D. D. Gage; inspectors, Bob Hunter, Reuben Ross, Jim Schriver.

Marshalls, John Engstrom, Ned Simpson; weight inspectors, P. G. Callison; field judges, Ernesto Knollin, Fred Nowland, Pat Fury, John Rieschman, T. I. Chapman, Dr. Hal Chapman, Gene Shields, Skeet Manerud; weight retrievers, Joe Houston; Ed Strohecker; clerk of course, Ed Siegmund, Wilson Siegmund; announcer, Thomas Stoddard; scorer, Bruce Hamby.

1936 Oreganas Are Available at Igloo Today From 8 to 12

The 1936 Oregana will be distributed from the office of the graduate manager in McArthur court this morning.

Doors will be open at 8 o'clock and will close at noon. All students who have finished paying installments will be given their copy in a special booth to be placed just inside the door, while those who have more money to pay will receive their Oregana in the office of the graduate manager itself.

Summer School Offers Coaches Many Courses

A school for athletic coaches, serving all the institutions of higher education, will be held on the University campus this summer from June 22 to July 3. This school is alternated each year between the campuses of the University and Oregon State college.

Football theory and practice will be given under the direction of Prince G. Callison, head football coach at the University of Oregon. Instruction in the coaching of track and field work will be given by William L. Hayward. Basketball theory and practice and baseball will be taught by Howard Hobson.

The fees for the coaching school are $10 for full-time work or $5.00 for those taking not more than two courses. Students regularly enrolled in the summer school may take one of the coaching courses on payment of a fee of $5.00. Mr. Howard Hobson will be in charge of the coaching school this summer.

Infirmary Has Six On Junior Weekend

Only six students spent the day that opened Junior Weekend activities in the University infirmary. Four of these had measles and one had chicken pox.

Captain Kelley Leaves ROTC This Summer

Capt. E. W. Kelley, assistant professor of military science, will be relieved of his duties here about July 1 by Major A. P. Morris, who is stationed at Ft. Huachuca, Arizona, at the present time.

Captain Kelley has been on the University ROTC staff for the past five years. He has received no orders yet as to where he will be next stationed.

Gen. Sherwood Cheney, commanding officer of the harbor defenses of San Francisco, will visit the Oregon ROTC unit next Friday. General Cheney is making an inspection tour of ROTC units and coast fortification, as representative of the commanding officer of the ninth corps area.

The annual inspection of personnel of the Oregon ROTC unit by Major C. S. Pettie will be on May 19 and 22. Advanced courses are to be examined May 19 and basic courses May 22 at the afternoon parade scheduled for that day.

Harada on Staff

Dr. Jiro Harada, who is well known on the campus because of his work here in the fall and winter terms during which time he offered a course in Japanese art and culture, will offer a similar course in the Portland summer session.

Hammond's Move Next

YESTERDAY a new student body president, Fred Hammond, replaced James Blais. Blais made a commendable showing as president and withstood the buffeting of a quite turbulent year with dignity becoming to his office. His was the job of working with a shoddy constitution and an ASUO that was in a state of flux. And in turning the responsibility over to Hammond, Blais finishes a term in office for which he deserves a word of appreciation.

Now, Hammond's job is a color of a different hue. With Hammond comes a new constitution, a reorganized ASUO, and prospects of lean financial years. However, the Emerald is confident that Hammond can and will raise the student body to meet the situation—heighten its interest, loyalty, and cooperation. And in the last analysis, that is the answer. Reorganization is inevitable and perhaps desirable. If the new plan is to meet student demands for self-government, President Boyer must first be convinced of the intensity and sincerity of those demands. This is Hammond's job. However, he can't do it alone.

Since the end of the term is close at hand, it

Society

By WINCHELL WILLIE MCINTURFF

Pinch-hitting for Petsch, this department discovers that the social calendar has been swept clean by Junior Fiesta Week.

Davey Morris's Junior Prom last night was a howling (in more ways than one) success, aided and abetted by the music of Maestro Allen. "Tis said that the blonde warbler singing with the band is none other than Frau Allen. ("Frau" means they're hitched, Colvig).

Bruce McIntosh and Bill Reese, College Side Cowboys, had subjected themselves to stringent training regulations yesterday in preparation for the widely ballyhooed log-rolling duel, having pounded off two miles of road work at the Prom last night.

Meanwhile Challengers Mary McCracken and Jean Stevenson staged a preliminary work-out yesterday afternoon for Photographer Geo. Godfrey. While Geo. snapped away for the glory of the Oregonian and Journal, Misses McCracken and Stevenson, each wearing one logger's boot, clung tenaciously to a tree trunk in the millrace and definitely blasted any belief that might have been existent as to their prowess. Odds this morning are favoring McIntosh and Reese, who have never been on a log before, either.

Two other gals recently in the Social Swim were Inky Liljeqvist and June Brown, arch-sirens, who were dunked in the fountain by the "O" boys at the campus luncheon yesterday. The kittenish Kappas were discovered to have systematically lured males into violating the sacred campus day tradition of silence between the sexes.

Phoebus Klonoff, who swayed his way to fame, the plaudits of the crowd, and 1st. prize at the tennis court dance, when contacted at a late hour last night, said, "Gee! It's a thrill!"

Merit badge to Kermit Paulson for that Queen's platform for the Canoe Fete; it's a knockout. In fact, old timers (i. e., Ned Simpson, Class of '28) are saying that Hammond's Jr. Weekend is the best yet. Note: "Friendly Fred" is not footloose and fancy free, but ball-and-chained like the best of them. The steady arrived from Portland yesterday afternoon to take our Prexy out of circulation. Overheard conversation between two female "sour grapes":

"To be a queen
You don't need poise,
My dear, but only
Lots of boise."
