DUCKLING CINDERMEN

Fred Nowland's Oregon Frosh track team is all set to avenge the four to one defeat dished them by the OSC Rooks in the relay meet three weeks ago. The yearlings will fight it out on Hayward field this Friday.

Coed Quacks

By IRMAJEAN RANDOLPH

Three engagements with Oregon State next week will wind up the Ducks' final drive for the northern division baseball crown.

Oregon, a game and a half behind the conference-leading Cougars, must win all three games to retain a mathematical chance for the pennant. Washington State, with nine victories and three losses, has four games left on the schedule. If the Cougars lose two, and Oregon takes OSC three straight, the two teams will be deadlocked with eleven victories and five defeats.

At present Oregon State stands a half game above Idaho, conference cellar occupants, with eight defeats against three wins. Can Duck moundsmen outguess the Orange batters? We have confidence in lefty Bob Millard, ironman of the pitching staff, who hung up his fifth victory of the season last Tuesday. Cece Inman and Earl Bucknum with one victory each, Don McFadden, and John Lewis, versatile shortstop, complete the hurling list.

Maybe they will, that is. If it doesn't rain. It's the delightful uncertainty about things like that that make things like this so much fun.

Oregon track stars will be the hosts at an informal gathering in honor of the OSC team next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. on Hayward field. Dan E. Clark, T.W.O., will pour. (Unpaid adv.)

Highlight in sports events this weekend will be the bicycle races featured at the WAA Strawberry Festival next Friday. (Another unpaid adv.) Henriette Horak and Marge Petch, female peddlers extraordinary, are expected to wow the crowd with their death-defying antics aboard a tandem.

And that, dear children, was how your Aunt Oscar shot the big bad wolf. Good-night, kiddies!

White Wedding

bride retiring for the night in hair curlers and gobs of cold cream would bear striking resemblance to a White Zombie.

Attributes unanimously desired were: beautiful face and figure (in that order), a flair for cooking and sewing, "after all what was a wife for," participation in golf, tennis, swimming, etc., courage in avoiding that one last cocktail that invariably does the damage, (providing she drinks at all), sunny enthusiasm (but only when it is appropriate), an ability to save without stinting and, most of all, occasional glimmerings of intelligence. Undesirable traits, including the antitheses of the above, were: habitual sarcasms, risque stories (particularly if badly told), swearing (except when undeniably justified), calling the office at frequent intervals to chat, leaving a party too early or staying too late, buying furniture that is too modern for comfort or too antiquated for safety—in short, extremes of any sort, for the committee seemed to place a wishful reverence in the two words, "conservative" and "natural."

Frosh Cinder Men Clash With Rooks On Hayward Field

Orange Men Are Favorites, but Fred Howland Says Ducks Have Good Chance to Come Through

Fred Nowland's University of Oregon freshman track and field team had its last workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for its big test of the year on Hayward field Friday afternoon when the Ducklings tangle with the Oregon State Rooks in the annual dual meet. The opening event will probably be run off about 2:30 o'clock, although no definite starting time has been announced.

The Webfoot yearlings turned in good performances in yesterday's work-out, according to Mentor Nowland. He has shifted his squad a bit in an effort to make the most of his limited talent. Nowland believes his men, with a few good breaks, will have a chance to take the meet from the Rooks, who are heavy favorites.

The few outstanding Duckling cindermen include Don Barker in the 880 and mile runs; Jimmy Schriver in the 440; Jack Berry in the high jump, and Stan Carlson in the sprints.

Stars in the Tangerine (Baby Orangemen to you, Fatso) cinder lineup are Bob Leslie and Bill Hoyer, two of the most promising sprinters ever to register at Oregon State; Lee Carey, pole vault; Joe Enzler, shotput, and George Paseiro, half-mile.

Both schools will enter full

Women Archers In Tournament

The seventh annual telegraphic archery meet in which the University of Oregon women archers will participate is scheduled for this afternoon.

Three teams of eight members each will be composed of the 24 making the highest scores in try-outs. Most of the 54 girls, who are eligible, are from archery classes and intramural entrants.

Qualifying rounds will be held in archery classes and intramural practice periods.

June 13, arriving in London about June 19 where Mrs. Schwering will stay until the end of the month, visiting with the Burt Brown Barkers who have been in London since early in May. At that time she will leave on the Grand Luxury Tour which will take her to Florence, Vienna, Berlin, Paris, and way points.

Although much of the time she would like to spend in Paris, Dean Schwering has been corresponding with officials of the AAUW, and may attend the international convention of university women in Cracow, Poland. She will return to America on the Queen Mary about September 13 in order to be back on the campus before school opens.

Smart Shoes

(Please turn to page three)

A new understanding of this problem has come to the fashion-wise within the last year or two. Evidence is brought forward by the flat heel, the wider square toe, and the sandal. A good, substantial sandal is the best footwear available.

Sandals Healthy

But mere comfort and build is not enough. Shoes must be smart and flattering. The colorful gear of this season makes it very easy for us to be fashionably shod. Fire engine red and cornflower blue are perhaps the most brilliant, although dark green, blue, and red are good. British tan is important. These sandals may be cut out entirely or very modestly—as you wish. Low heels are in slightly higher favor right now. Some sandals have wide T-straps and buckles; others have plain snap fasteners. Amusing for beach wear are the new glass sandals which come in transparent, ruby, and blue.

UO, OSC NET TEAMS MEET SATURDAY

Frosh to Try Repeating Previous Victory Over Rooks

Oregon's varsity tennis men are getting set to avenge their recent defeat at the hands of Oregon State when they meet the Oregon racketeers at Corvallis, Saturday at 10 a. m. The frosh will defend their position of no defeats to date against the Rooks at the same place Saturday at 2 p. m.

The Oregon yearlings took a 4-3 victory from the Rooks, and it is expected that the baby Orangemen will be out for blood.

The finish of the home matches found the varsity players winners of six out of nine games played. They lost to the University of Portland in both matches. The Oregon State squad triumphed in the one match played with the Ducks.

Winslow in Lineup

The tentative varsity lineup finds Norman Winslow, number one; John Economus, number two; Capt. Larry Crane, number three; Charles Eaton, number four. The fifth player will be either Bill Hutchison or Jack Crawford.

Varsity doubles players will be Bill Zimmerman and Worth Chaney on the first team and Larry Crane and Cosgrove LaBarre on the second.

Frosh singles are headed by Rex Applegate, followed by the probable arrangement of Charles Murphy in second place; Bob Vaughn, third; Harold Faunt, fourth; Jack Huemmer, fifth.

Applegate and Murphy will be on the first doubles team, with Vaughn and Faunt second.

"It will be a tough fight, but we ought to take both matches with any kind of luck," was the statement made by John Breckenridge, manager.

The varsity squad is scheduled to go to Washington sometime next week for their first match with the Huskies. The last venture into Washington territory was cut short by rain after a part of one set had been played off.

Send the Emerald to your friends. Subscription rates $2.50 a year.

Junior and senior PE majors will play a softball game at 5 o'clock this afternoon with the men's PE faculty on the intramural diamonds.

Duck Cinder Squad Plays Oregon State

The strong Webfoot track team will have a considerable edge over the cellar-hugging Orangemen when the two rivals tangle on the cinder path for the 28th time next Saturday on Bell field, Corvallis.

Though Bill Hayward has been forced by his recent illness to train his trackmen by telephone, the Ducks are in excellent form and expect to smash several records. Sam McGaughey, speedy two miler, will probably show plenty of steam against Shepherd of OSC in their race.

A Duck win in the encounter will mean a three-way tie for the Northwest pennant: Washington, Washington State, and Oregon. Oregon's brilliant victory over the Cougars makes them favorites in Saturday's tilt because WSC swamped Coach Grant Swan's Beavers.

However, the track meet ought to be one well worth seeing for there is no limit on the number of entrants except that there will be not more than three men entered for each event. Also, stiff competition is slated between individual members of the two teams.

Oregon State has not had a track victory over Oregon since 1932, and never under the guidance of Coach Swan. With this precedent, the Beavers are out for blood.

GIRLS VIE FOR LEAD IN MATCH

Rain Delays Play-offs; Susie, Orides, Alpha Chi O's in Race

The women's interhouse softball tournament will be wound up and the championship determined this Friday afternoon, weather permitting, so that the silver loving cup can be presented to the winning team at the WAA awards luncheon, Monday noon. Jane Bogue, softball manager, said today.

Tournament leaders are Alpha Chi Omega, Orides, and Susan Campbell. Each of these teams leads the group in which it was placed for the tournament.

Games scheduled for both Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were called off because of rain. These games will be rescheduled and played off as soon as possible.

The games will be played tonight on the field in back of the women's building, in an effort to wind up the tournament. At 4:00 p. m. Alpha Phi will play Pi Phi. The Alpha Phi's have a strong team and a win might put them in the running for the championship.

Games to be played at 6:30 are Susan Campbell vs. Sigma Kappa; and Orides vs. Alpha Omicron Pi. Both Susie and the Independents are tops in their respective groups and wins in these games will be a help toward the loving cup.

Football Men Prepare For Stiff Schedule

Spring football workouts end his afternoon, when Webfoot gridiron boys finish a two-months practice in preparation for 1936 season. Coach Prink Callison and Line Coach Gene Shields have been drilling more than 40 men, in order that at least three teams will be ready when the season begins.

A stiff schedule, beginning with a game with the University of Southern California October 3, is in store for Oregon next year. On successive weekends, the team will meet Stanford, Idaho, Washington State college, Washington, UCLA, California, and Oregon State.

Lettermen Return

Lettermen in the lineup for next fall are Verne Moore and Ed Farrar, centers; Lief Jacobsen, ends; Tony Amato, Joe Houston, and Bill Estes, guards; John Engstrom, Del Bjork, and Ken Skinner, tackles; Bob Braddock, Bud Goodin, and Dale Lassele, halfbacks.

12:15 Permission Given Saturday; Friday Is Closed

Friday, May 22, will be closed at 10:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Albee B. Macduff, assistant dean of women. Saturday, May 23, will be kept open until 12:15 for the Mortar Board ball. Next weekend will also be closed.

Reserve players are Chuck Bracher, fullback; Pat Fury, Bill Foskett, tackles; Jerry Calhoun, and Len Holland, ends; Don Kennedy, quarterback; and Denny Braid and Chan Berry, centers. A possibility for end next year is Lamp Walker, who suffered a back injury and was unable to play last fall.

Yearlings Turn Varsity

Prominent freshman players of the 1935 season are included in the prospects for next year's varsity squad. Among them are Bob Hinman, and Hank Nilsen, ends; Jean Lacau, Tom Blackman, Dave Gammon, Bob Anet, and Jim Nicholas, backfield; and Nello Giovannini, guard.
