The Highball

Four on the right side of the ledger and a pair on the chin isn't bad business for any ball club on any trip away from home, and when Oregon's Webfoots took four in six on their jaunt around the northern end of the league they did themselves proud.

Howard Hobson was high in praise of the Duck outfit yesterday. The Oregon mentor believes that the team's showing in Pullman, Moscow, and Seattle was far better than in its own back yard earlier in the season. And the complete box scores, brought back to Eugene by the traveling horseholders, give proof to Hobby's statement.

The Webfoot team batting average on the tour was around .300 and fielding picked up at every position. The players were hustling and scrapping and, judging from the box scores, deserved all of the four wins.

Earl Bucknum's six-hit piling against Idaho was a feature of the ten-day play on foreign soil. Hobson said yesterday that Bucknum deserved a shutout and that only unearned runs spoiled his whitewash efforts. Cece Inman was another pitcher who stepped to the mound and gave a masterful performance, also against Idaho.

Needless to relate, Lefty Bob Millard hurled the Ducks to two of their four conquests and made it five in a row for his own won-and-lost record.

Don McFadden met with misfortune on the trip and couldn't win on the mound, but he helped out in the outfield with first-class fly chasing and hefty hitting.

Hobson was pleased with the swatting proclivity demonstrated by Bud Goodin and Andy Hurney. Both of the husky gridders found latent batting eyes and knocked the cover off the pellet. Most of their blows came with men on the sacks and drove in runs.

Johnny Lewis forgot his slump and went on a hitting rampage. His work at short picked up and he aided materially with six innings of shutout pitching. Lewis used to be a hurler in high school so wasn't entirely out of position.

Ralph Amato's broken finger didn't keep him out of the lineup, and he played in every contest on the trip. McFadden and Millard traded off in one outfield position and Hurney did all the work in the right garden.

Little Eddie Vail broke into the Webfoot lineup in three games and saw service at second, third, and in the outfield.

Chief McLean hit with Hurney and Goodin and turned in a high class job of catching.

All in all, the Webfoots' trip to northern points was a huge success. Three games with Oregon State and it's all over. To nail a third successive pennant to their pole the Ducks must whack the Beavers three times in a row and Washington State must drop at least two of its four games with Washington and Idaho. It's by no means impossible.

When the Webfoots and Beavers battle on Howe field in a makeup of a postponed game Monday it will be the 81st time that teams representing the two rival institutions have clashed on the diamond. Of the previous 80 engagements Oregon State has won 41 and Oregon 39. Three wins this spring and the Webfoots step out ahead in the all-time league.

Two Teachers Added To Adult Classes

Arthur Y. Yeomans, formerly instructor of education at Pacific university, and Miss Jocelyn Foulkes, Oregon musician, have been transferred to the WPA adult education project here. They will probably make out two new courses in their fields to supplement the seven now offered.

28 Trackmen To Invade OSC For Dual Meet

Oregon Doped to Win; Hayward Coaches Men From Sick Bed

Colonel Bill Hayward has named a squad of 28 men to make the trip to Corvallis tomorrow for the annual Oregon State dual track and field meet on Bell field.

Despite the fact that he has been confined to his bed since last week, Hayward has been supervising the workouts of his trackmen and planning the strategy that he will use against the Beavers.

Oregon Favored
Comparative scores this season show that the Oregon team has a good chance of topping the hapless State men again. Oregon State has already lost to Idaho, Washington, and Washington State in dual meets and to Oregon in the annual relay meet.

"Gloomy" Grant Swan, Beaver coach, is basing his hopes for victory on several stars. Jim Daneri is the Beavers' hope for a first in the javelin. In competition Daneri has proved that he is one of the finest spear tossers on the Pacific coast. However, he has not come up to usual form yet this year.

Entries Listed
Three Webfoot athletes will be entered in all events except the pole vault, in which Marvin Janak, undefeated this spring, will be the lone Oregon representative. The complete list of Oregon entries follows:

100-yard dash—Bud Shoemaker, Frank Lloyd, Howard Patterson.
220-yard dash—Shoemaker, Ben Forbes, Gilbert Schultz, Short Freeman.

440-yard dash—Patterson, Freeman, Jim McDonald, Barney Hall.
880-yard run—Ken Miller, Alton Kropp, Alex Simms.

1 mile run—George Schaff, Edell Bryant, Phil Gambee.
Two mile run—Sam McCaughey, Edell Bryant.

High hurdles—Francis Sinnette, Milo Lacy, Bob Goodfellow.
Low hurdles—Sinnette, Lacy, Wentworth, Freeman.

Pole vault—Marvin Janak.
Shotput—Bill Foskett, Clyde Walker, Chan Berry.
Discus—Leonard Holland, Foskett, Berry.

Broad jump—Lloyd, Lindgren, Lacy.
Javelin—Elmer Koskello, Dale Hardisty, Ted Nickelson.
High jump—Janak, Lloyd, Sinnette.

1 mile relay—Patterson, Miller, McDonald, Schaff.

Pallett Believes NYA Will Continue

"We have received no word that NYA will be discontinued and we have every reason to believe that it will be continued in some form," said Dr. Earl Pallett, executive secretary, in speaking of the possibilities for the continuance of NYA next year.

Dean Karl Onthank, who is NYA director for Oregon, is now in the East attending a national conference of NYA officials and it is expected that he will bring definite word as to the future of NYA when he returns next week.

Kappa Marries
Charlotte M. Brosius, ex-'31, and Charles Johnson were married in Portland on May 16. Mrs. Johnson is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the school of engineering at Oregon State college. They will live at Bonneville.

Phi Beta Kappa

Some unenlightened persons may think Phi Beta Kappa can't play baseball, but Burgess White-Phi Beta key at the University of North Carolina and is now the New York Giants' regular second baseman.

Spring Football Practice Ends

Bjork's Team Trounces Braddock's Crew in Tilt Closing Daily Drills

Spring football had its final fling of 1936 Wednesday afternoon as Captain Del Bjork's "Green" team defeated Bob Braddock's "Yellow Jerseys," 12 to 8, in an intrasquad game.

Dale Lasselle scored a pair of touchdowns for the winning aggregation in a full-length contest which followed all regulations except opening kick-offs and conversions. Lasselle broke away through tackle and raced 50 yards to score in the first quarter for the longest run of the fray.

The game climaxed nine weeks of daily drill for the Webfoot squad. The contest was not announced prior to starting time and only a handful of spectators braved the rain to watch it.

Richard Halley Recovering
Richard Halley, Delta Upsilon, was operated on for appendicitis Tuesday at the Pacific hospital and is expected to be released about May 26. According to hospital reports his condition is good.

Frosh, Rooks Meet on Track Here Today

Beaver Babes Favored Over Fred Nowland's Duckling Squad

The Oregon State Rook track team invades Hayward field today for the annual yearling track and field meet, starting at 3 o'clock. The Rooks are favorites to take the meet with their strong array of such individual stars as Hoyer, Leslie, Hilway, Enzler, and Pasero.

Fred Nowland, Duckling mentor, has been working overtime building up a well balanced squad since the defeat the Baby Beavers handed his team in the relays three weeks ago. Injuries forced the most promising of Nowland's cindermen out of competition in practice meets and little is known of the ability of most of the team.

Frosh Inexperienced
Enzler, Rook weight man, will find himself against Booth, Strohecker and Blackman. The main weakness of Frosh weight throwers is inexperience. Nowland will be depending upon Harry Adams, Pat Foley and Tom Blackman to throw the spear.

The Rooks have two of the fastest first year sprint men ever to run for the State college. Bruce Currie and Floyd Vaughn will run for the Frosh but little or no hope is held for a Duckling victory in that event. Bob Leslie and Bill Hoyer are the Beaverling speed demons.

Schriver, Berry Recovered
Jim Schriver and Jack Berry have recovered from early season injuries and will be able to compete in the 220 and 440-yard dashes. Both Schriver and Berry are counted on to win firsts.

Mulligan will carry the brunt of the pole vaulting responsibility for the Frosh. Lee Carey of the Rooks will be his rival of the day. Pat Foley may also enter the pole event.

The Frosh have an added incentive to win. That is the knowledge that Bill Hayward, who is ill in bed, will be pulling for them to down their ancient rivals.

Oregon State Wins Again From Idaho

The "daffiness boys" of Oregon State made it two in a row over Idaho by winning a northern division slugfest from the Vandals yesterday, 11 to 6.

Bill Kalibak hurled for the Beavers and held Rich Fox's crew to seven hits, but four Oregon State errors aided Idaho scoring. Bill Kramer hit a home run for the Vandals in the sixth.

The Beavers pounded Clarence Hallberg mercilessly in the second and third innings and piled up nine runs, enough to win, in those two sessions. Score:

OSC ..... 045 000 020—11 11 4
Idaho ..... 301 100 100—6 7 5

Batteries: Kalibak and Bergstrom; Hallberg and Cuocio.

Edell Bryant, Distance Runner; Tomorrow His Day

By HUBARD KUOKKA
Banking no less than anyone else on the Oregon State track meet tomorrow for his letter is Edell Bryant, another point maker for Bill Hayward in the long distance runs.

Two more points he needs for his letter. He is determined to make them and what's more he is going to win, he says.

In the two dual track meets which have been run recently, Bryant not only ran the mile but also the two mile. If that doesn't take guts, nothing else will. In tomorrow's meet at Corvallis, Edell is going to run those two long treks again.

The reason he is so bent on beating all the Oregon State fellows is that he is an ex-Beaver himself and wants them to know that he is still the better man.

Edell learned to run while chasing foxhounds in the woods down at Coquille. He was a nimrod part excellence and his greatest joy was hunting varmints (wildcats to you) in them thar hills. When the dogs smelled a "cat" off they went through the brush with young Edell high tailing after them.

The high school coach heard of Bryant's hunting a la Diana and suggested that he turn out for track. The young man did, and I'll be darned, he ran the four laps in 4:43 minutes. Now this had the whole town talking about the marvelous wild boy from the woods, my, my!

The coach smelled a fish somewhere and drove his car around the track, and what do you think, it took five laps instead of four laps to make a mile. This set Bryant down a couple of notches but he got busy and trained hard. Next year, when he was a senior, he made two new county records in one day. These records still stand, the 880 yard dash in 2:54 and the mile in 4:42.2. That was his big moment.

He entered Oregon State in 1931 and earned his numeral, setting a new record of 4:32.6 for the mile at the Frosh-Rook meet. In that meet he beat Wegner, who was a Frosh. Bryant made his letter in his sophomore year, cutting his mile down to 4:26.

This year he has run two 4:25 miles, and a 9:53 two-mile. He wants to do 4:20 in the mile before he graduates this spring. That means that he will have to come pretty doggone close tomorrow.

Edell is 24 years old, five feet ten and a half inches tall and weighs 162 pounds. He is majoring in foreign trade in the school of business administration. He spent two years at Oregon State, stayed out of school a year, and then entered Oregon in the fall of 1934. His life ambition is to operate a brokerage office for lumber and logs.

This young man is a real man of the woods. He has worked in a Port Orford white cedar logging camp every summer since he was a kid. He has been a high climber, donkey puncher, cat skinner, truck driver, repair man, timber cruiser, surveyor and what not, maybe even a bullock.

Last Christmas vacation he helped drive 22,000 logs on a drive down the Coquille river during high water. Last summer he was boss on 14 miles of road construction.

This lumberjack is studying camp cookery at the home economics department, and is putting his education into practice just as soon as he gets it. You see, he is batching with Arne Lindgren.

At Oregon State he was a member of the Beaver Knights, a sophomore service honorary, and of the Delta Tau Delta. Since last fall he has held Bob Officer down in the ASUO training rooms. A good rubber-downer is he.

Edell has his girl friends and he goes to see them now and then. The other week he made a trip home to Coquille. On the evening of his return he dropped in to see his gal, until the train was to pull out at 8:30.

He called a taxi, and raced to the depot. They got there just as the train was pulling out. Grabbing his luggage he made a heroic sprint down the track, threw his bag onto the rear platform and gracefully swung himself up. It was all very pretty, but he had forgotten to pay the taxi driver, and his girl didn't have a cent with her, nor a gooby kiss to warm her heart.

It's the woman who pays.

Frosh Meet Rooks Today And Tomorrow

Yearling Ball Clubs End Feud With Tilts Here And at Corvallis

John Warren's freshman baseball team will wind up its schedule this weekend with concluding contests of its four-game series with the Oregon State Rooks. The Ducklings journey to Corvallis for a fray today and tomorrow the Beaver Babes help wind up the yearling schedule on Howe field.

The Frosh copped two in a row from the Oregon State youngsters last Friday and Saturday and are favored again this week. Ed Creider's Beaverlings haven't been defeated by any team other than the Ducklings, however, they may pull a surprise.

Warren has announced that either Johnny Coomler or Gail Fouts will pitch at Corvallis today and that big Bill Sayles, ace of the staff, will work in the finale here tomorrow. Sayles entered baseball's hall of fame with a no-run no-hit game against the Rooks last Friday, and on Saturday Fouts handcuffed the Corvallis first year men handily. Scores were 4 to 0 for Sayles here and 5 to 2 for Fouts at Corvallis.

Either Yang Lee or Ralph Takami will start today's game for the Rooks. Fred Soller is the catcher who completes the battery.

Irwin Will Catch
Peppery Torp Irwin will do backstop duty for the Frosh with the remainder of the lineup probably consisting of Gale Smith, first base; Phil Thompson, second; Jack Gordon, shortstop; Jimmy Nicholson, left field; Sayles, center field, and Bobby Anet, right field.

Likely infield and outfield starters for the Rooks are Meyer, first base; Holcomb, second; Dimick, short, Emerick, third base, and Pleasant, Simonds, and Statsny, outfielders.

Omega Upsets Gamma Hall, 3-1

Omega hall sliced Gamma's lead in the inter-dorm league to one game with an 8-to-1 victory over the leaders last night.

Don Casciato limited Gamma to five hits while the second-place Omegas pounded Williams for enough blows to win easily. It was close until the sixth, when Omega batters, led by Bob Kidder and Tommy Ogura, went on a batting spree to drive in six runs. Gamma's lone tally came in the same frame. Herron and Kato starred in the field for the winners.

Sigma downed Alpha, 4 to 1, in the other dorm game last night. Norman Winslow demonstrated ability in baseball as well as tennis by chucking the winners to victory. Close hurled for the losers. Rain and a wet diamond made errors numerous.
