

Last Day

It's the last day of the year for the Emerald, but Oregon athletic activities have another week to run. Baseball, track, tennis, and golf all continue next week.

Frosh Track Team Fights Rookson Even Terms, Loses 63-59

Under-rated Ducklings Surprise Experts With Fine Showing in Meet On Hayward Field

A fighting University of Oregon frosh track and field team went down to defeat, 59 to 63, before the powerful Oregon State Rooks in a dual meet yesterday on Hayward field.

The Rooks were strong favorites to win by a large margin, but the Ducklings came through to take seven of 14 first places. Although the frosh were losers in actual points, they gained a moral victory. Ineligibility kept the Frosh from entering the regular pole vault, thereby giving the Orange Babes three places in that event.

Brisk Wind Hinders

Under the able handling of Fred Nowland, the Ducklings took place after place that the Rooks were doped to take. A brisk wind prevented any fast times.

Bob Leslie and Bill Hoyer of Oregon State had everything their own way in the 100-yard dash, taking first and second. Vaughn and Currie, Frosh sprint men, finished third in a dead heat. Hoyer beat his teammate, Leslie, to win the 220-yard event, Carlson of the Frosh running third.

Marty Wins Twice

Ben Marty of the Ducklings, had another field day at the jumping pits. The nimble footed Duckling copped a first in the high and broad jumps. Jack Berry, red-haired Frosh entrant took second but pulled a muscle that kept him on the bench the rest of the day.

Jim Schriver, brilliant Rook 440-yard man, won the quarter in :52.3 and later added to his laurels by running anchor man for the winning yearling mile relay team.

The midget Rook half-miler, Pi-soro, pulled a surprise by galloping around the oval twice to win in 2:04.7. The mile run was easily taken by Don Barker and Crawford Lyle, Frosh distance men. Lyle finished a stride behind the speed-burning Barker.

Second in Hurdles

The Frosh took second place in both the high and low hurdles. Weston, stocky hurdle man, was responsible for the unexpected points in the high and low sticks. Harry Adams heaved the spear a winning distance of 176 feet 9 inches. The best that Morrison, Rook javelin man, could do was 174 feet 1 1/2 inches. Pat Foley, diminutive Frosh spear man, made a third best toss of 156 feet 3 inches.

Blackman and Strohecker teamed up to take care of the discus and shot events. Strohecker claimed a first in the plate heaving event and Blackman took a second. Blackman won a second in the shot put.

Gamma Massacres Alpha Hall, 39-11

Gamma hall's defending champions, defeated by Omega in the inter-dormitory league Thursday night, wreaked their wrath on Alpha last night. The Gamma sluggers made a merry-go-round of the base paths and ran up a 39-to-11 score on the losers in five innings of softball comedy.

Gamma scored 14 runs in the fourth inning and tallied with monotonous regularity in every frame. "Chuck Patterson twirled for the winners and didn't have to worry about how many hits he allowed. Patterson and Marty were the heavy hitters. Close was the mistreated Alpha moundman.

Omega stayed in the running with a 14-to-10 win over Zeta. Four home runs featured a fray which was close throughout. Masa Kato clouted for the circuit for the winners and Jerry Cameron, Cece Walden, and Pitcher Gene Truby hit for all the sacks for Zeta. Kidder pitched for Omega and struck out 13.

Varsity and Frosh Golfers Meet OSC

Undeclared Divot Diggers Journey to Corvallis for Beaver Joust

The undefeated University of Oregon varsity golf team will play its final dual match of the season against Oregon State at Corvallis today. Freshman divot diggers of the two institutions will also vie at Corvallis.

The varsity divotmen crushed the Beavers, 25 1/2 to 1 1/2, here two weeks ago, and will be overwhelming favorites to whack the Staters again. Members of the Webfoot squad are Sid Milligan, Leonard Anderson, Bob Prescott, Bob Thomas, Walt Cline, Dick Pierce, and Clinton Vincent. Cliff Folen, basketball beanpole, leads Oregon State.

The freshmen downed the Beaver babes here recently, 21 to 6, and are favored again today. The Frosh lineup includes Doug Ramsey, Frank Binns, Bob Speer, Bob Findtner, Bob Hofer, and Harold Weston.

The varsity divot crew will close its season next weekend in the northern division meet at Seattle. The Webfoots will be defending team and individual champions there. Anderson won the individual singles crown at last year's division meet, held in Eugene.

Frosh Capitalize On Rook Errors to Win Easily, 11-4

Nine errors by the Oregon State Rooks aided Oregon's freshman baseball team to an 11-to-4 win at Corvallis yesterday afternoon.

It was the third successive victory for John Warren's Ducklings in the little civil war series and when the teams play here at 2:30 this afternoon, the Oregon yearlings will be out to sweep the series.

Jack Gordon clouted two home runs to feature the 16-hit Duckling attack off Pitchers Mason and Lee. Johnny Coomler started for the Frosh but was relieved by Gail Fouts.

Bill Sayles, ace of Warren's staff, will start this afternoon's game, the final tilt on the yearling schedule. Score:

Frosh	R. H. E.
Rooks 4 9 9
Batteries:	Coomler, Fouts, and Irwin; Mason, Lee and Soller.

Two Oregon Grads Have Stories Printed

Robert Ormond Case, well-known writer and graduate of the University, has a short story in the June issue of the Country Gentleman. "Mighty Horizon" is the title, and it is the first of a series of four Oregon trail stories which will appear.

Ernest J. Haycox, another writer and Oregon graduate, has a short story in the last issue of Collier's magazine.

Ducks Play Oregon State Here Monday

Three Beaver Tilts Next Week End Northern Division Slate

STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington State	9	3	.750
Oregon	8	5	.615
Washington	7	5	.583
Oregon State	5	8	.385
Idaho	2	10	.167

Oregon's varsity baseball team, still holding an outside chance for a third consecutive northern division championship, will bring its season to a close with three games against Oregon State next week. The teams play here in a make-up of the postponed opener Monday and again on Friday, and then move to Corvallis.

The Webfoots have won eight games and lost five and are resting in second place, one and one-half games behind the league-leading Washington State Cougars. The Cougars have four contests, two with Idaho and two with Washington, remaining on their slate, and must lose at least a pair of them if the Ducks are to nail another flag to their pole. Even should the Cougars drop two games, Oregon must take all three of the Beaver tilts.

Millard to Start Twice

Bob Millard, ace of the loop with five straight victories, will be counted upon to start twice against the Staters. Howard Hobson plans to send the sophomore southpaw to the mound in Monday's tilt here and again on Saturday at Corvallis. Starting choice for Friday's game here rests among Don McFadden, Earl Bucknum, and Cece Inman, with McFadden probably holding an edge. All are seniors completing their college careers.

Mark DeLaunay and Eddie Vail are the only other Webfoots who will come to the end of the collegiate trail with Saturday's game. Oregon State got off to a dismal start in the flag race, but Slat Gill's crew has rallied recently and is eyeing the .50 mark. Dean Johnson, sophomore ace of the "daffiness boys," will probably start two of the week's tussles.

Team Batting .29

Heavy hitting on the recent road trip, on which the Webfoots won four of six starts, brought the Ducks whacked out more than 65 blows on the jaunt around the northern end of the circuit. Andy Hurney is leading with a .377 average and Bud Goodin is hitting .340. Hurney and Goodin have two home runs each and Courtney, McLean, and Lewis one each. Courtney leads in triples with two, and (Please turn to page four)

Women champions in campus tennis will be named this weekend with the playing of final matches in the annual campus tennis tournament. All-campus and inter-house matches will be played. Defending her title as campus singles champion for last year, Sue Moshberger will meet Muriel Nicholas, first ranking Portland woman champion last year. This match, which is expected to be hotly contested, will be played off at 3 today. Spectators are welcome at the University tennis court, and there is no admission charge.

Also at 3 this afternoon, inter-house doubles will be played, with Bee Scherzinger and Leilani Kroll playing for Susan Campbell hall against Gretchen Smith and Marguerite Sunstrup for Alpha Delta Pi.

All campus doubles match will be played off Sunday at 2 between Sue Moshberger and Mary Ellen Eberhart and Bee Scherzinger and Leilani Kroll.

Interhouse singles will be Saturday morning between Bee Scherzinger for Susan Campbell and Ruth Fitch for Hendricks hall.

The northern division baseball season won't reach the end of the trail until next week, but the Emerald reaches the end of the trail today, and today the sports staff presents its all northern division team.

Fourteen men—four outfielders, five infielders, two catchers, and three pitchers—have been chosen. These men would make a complete college squad. Oregon, Washington, and Washington State draw five places each on the mythical ball club and Idaho follows with two. No attempt was made to apportion the players evenly between the teams.

Many Good Southpaws

Good pitchers, especially southpaws, were handing around the various ball yards in profusion this season, and it was a difficult task to single out a trio for all-star honors. Oregon's Bob Millard wins first place on the all-star with his five straight victories, and Jack Daly of Washington, another southpaw, is probably next in line. The third position goes to Bob Kinnaman, Washington State's undefeated righthander. Mel Marlowe of Washington State pitched outstanding ball, but necessity of having at least one right-handed chucker on the crew crowds out the cocky Cougar portside.

Ken Fields of Washington State has a corner on the catching market, and the other backstop post goes to Oregon's Chief McLean. McLean can perform at any position on the diamond and would crowds out Rich of Washington at second in another choice made with fingers crossed. Willie Hewson, Washington shortstop, has the edge on Wally Geraghty of Idaho and Norman Worthley of Oregon State. Oregon's clubbing Bud Goodin has batted himself into a spot at third base, edging out Max Schoening of Washington State, who takes the utility infield post.

Bill Katsilometes, Idaho's Greek center fielder, is the class of all the outfielders and many critics consider him the best all-around ball player in the circuit. Andy Hurney, the clouting Webfoot, takes the right field position, and left field goes to little Wendell Newcombe of Washington, the lad who rattles the boards with two strikes on him. Ed Loverich, Washington's basketball center-fielder, gains the nod over Ed Goddard of the Cougars for the utility outfield berth.

Bill Kramer of Idaho gets the call on a hair-line decision over Bill Courtney of Oregon, Corky Carlson of Washington State, and Earl Conkling of Oregon State, all of whom are valuable men. Kramer is a classy fielder around the initial sack, but Courtney, despite lack of height, is a first rate man in the field. Carlson and Conkling are hard hitters as well as capable fielders.

Youthful Frosh Enters Pup in 'News' Pet Parade

Among the 600 kiddies who will proudly parade down Willamette street this morning will be Bill Robert, University freshman.

"I'm not going to Mortar Board, so I've gotta have some repast for the day," Bill announced as he strolled into the Morning News office last night to register his puppy.

"I s'pose some will think it queer for me to enter my pup," Bill remarked, "but I think I stand a swell chance of winning one of those Mickey Mice things in the winner there."

Bill described his entry as a two-months-old white collie pup. "Her name is 'Duchess,' and she is our new fraternity mascot," he explained.

Bill is 18 years old.

fit in perfectly as a utility man as well as a receiver.

Outstanding infielders were few, but competition between better-than-average ball players is close at every position in the inner circle.

Kramer at First

Bill Kramer of Idaho gets the call on a hair-line decision over Bill Courtney of Oregon, Corky Carlson of Washington State, and Earl Conkling of Oregon State, all of whom are valuable men. Varsity Track Team Tackles Beavers Today

Hayward to Accompany Team to Corvallis for Final Dual Meet

A powerful team of 28 University of Oregon trackmen leaves at noon today for Corvallis where it will meet Grant Swan's lowly Beavers on Bell field in a dual track and field meet this afternoon.

Despite his recent serious illness, Bill Hayward may accompany his boys today. He will not indulge in his usual apparently aimless pacing around the field of battle however, for weakness will necessitate that he give his directions from a car drawn up alongside the track.

No Workouts at OSC

No practice sessions have been held at the State college this week, due to heavy rainfall. Coach Swan indicated that several days lay-off might help the Beavers. "We can't get any worse," moaned the gloomy mentor.

As this is the last chance for many of the Webfoot trackmen to win their letters, cutthroat competition will probably be the bill of fare on the track and field today.

Holland will try to best the javelin mark of 152 feet 6 inches. The red-haired weight man has not reached his top form yet this season. Providing that the pits are in good shape, Lloyd may leap to a new record in the broad jump. Lindgren made the present record of 23 feet 6 inches.

Sinnette Eyes 14.8

Francis Sinnette, ace Duck hurdler, expects to run the high hurdles in about 14.8.

Records in Oregon-Oregon State dual meets follow:

100-yard dash—Starr, Oregon, 9.8, 1933.

220-yard dash—Starr, Oregon, 20.9, 1933.

880-yard run—Dodge, OSC, 1:56.2, 1924.

1-mile—Hill, Oregon, 4:21.3, 1929.

2-mile run—Wagner, Oregon, 9:38.2, 1933.

120 low hurdles—Dunkin, OSC, 14.7, 1933.

Shot put—Dixon, OSC, 48 feet 5 1/4 inches, 1927.

Discus—Moeller, Oregon, 150 feet 6 inches, 1930.

Javelin—Daneri, OSC, 219 feet 4 inches, 1935.

High jump—Waite, OSC, 6 feet 2 1/4 inches, 1920.

Broad jump—Lindgren, OSC, 23 feet 6 inches, 1935.

Pole vault—Robinson, Oregon, 13 feet 4 1/2 inches, 1931.

1-mile relay, Oregon, 3:22.4.
