Kidnap Conspiracy

Indictments charging Ellis H. Parker, Burlington county detective chief, and his son, Ellis, Jr., with conspiracy in the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel were delivered up by a New Jersey grand jury yesterday.

Wendel, whose confession of the abduction of the Lindbergh baby delayed Bruno Hauptmann's electrocution three days, charges he was kidnaped and taken to New Jersey, where torture was used to force the confession.

Brr—rr

Moving westward, the first chill blasts of winter with attendant sleet and snow hit the western planes states yesterday. Snow fell in Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, and Kansas.

Temperatures were falling rapidly. O'Neill, Nebraska recorded a low of 31 degrees. Four inches of snow blanketed southwestern Minnesota and parts of South Dakota.

Bereaved

Anne Sullivan Macy, 70, known to the world as the teacher and dearest friend of a girl deprived of three of her senses, Helen Keller, died yesterday. One week hence, teacher and protegee were to have been awarded the Theodore Roosevelt medals for "a cooperative achievement of heroic character and far-reaching significance." Miss Keller, who was at the bedside of her devoted instructor until the last, said, "My teacher has gone from me for a little while, but I shall feel her presence anew when my eyes are blessed with light, my ears saved unto harmony, any my imprisoned light set free."

Soph Honorary To Give Feature At Grid Recess

Skull and Dagger, sophomore service honorary, will present an entertainment feature on Hayward field during the half of the homecoming game, it was announced yesterday by Bob Bechtell, president of the local organization.

Plans for the affair, which will be made known soon, are being completed by Bob Gridley and his committee of Skull and Dagger members. Gridley promises a lively program to hold the interest of the fans during the intermission.

Members of the honorary will take part in the presentation of various other events of Homecoming weekend, aiding in the float parade and helping to sponsor the dance at McArthur court Saturday night.

Rats Being Tested for Brain Power By Prof

Do rats think as humans do? Does their behavior follow some sort of a generalization, or do they act blindly?

These are the questions which E. H. Porter of the psychological department at the University is trying to solve by an experiment at the "rat shack". In order to discover the answer to the question, some sort of problem has to be set up which will allow the rats to think, and, if they do it, the question will be solved to some extent.

The problem Mr. Porter has formed for them is that of multiple discrimination. A device has been prepared which will allow the rats to choose a door to enter from a group of doors. The animal goes through several of these doors and finally reaches a feed box. Each door is hung with either a black or a white curtain. Thus, there are numerous choices which the rat can make. As the rats are run through the doors, record is kept of their choices in order to reach a true conclusion. Mr. Porter is now working sixteen rats. He expects his experiment to be completed the first part of November. After that, he will try to train the animals to distinguish between shapes.

The theory that rats can hypothesize has been previously expounded, but the animals have been tried in only simple situations, whereas Mr. Porter is putting the rats in a more complicated one, the results of which will be more definite.

"If it can be shown that rats can hypothesize," stated Mr. Porter, "experiments may be made in relation to human life as to the

Colorful Parade Slated for Next Friday Evening

Oregon Band Will Lead Big Procession; Two Cups to Be Awarded For Best Floats

Lead by the Oregon band and escorted by the police of Eugene, University of Oregon's 1936 homecoming parade will begin moving at 7 o'clock Friday night, says Dale Mallicoat, Leland Terry and Sam Fort, chairmen.

Line will form on Kincaid between 13th and 15th beginning at 6:30. The line of march will take the parade up town, ending near the McDonald theatre.

Floats Under Construction
According to representatives in the individual living organizations, floats are all ready in the making, each following the homecoming theme but taking varying angles. People having cars are asked to drive behind the floats, but no hanging on the outside will be allowed, committees state.

Cups to Be Awarded
The two cups to be awarded will be presented to the winners at the rally in the theatre scheduled to begin at 8:30. Judges for the best floats will be Dean Virgil D. Earl, Dean James H. Gilbert, Dean Hazel P. Schwering, and Dean B. Zane.

"Because the alumni will probably be the most interested in the parade of floats," says Terry, "it is our hope that they will be even better than last year."

A student body ticket belonging to Charles Miller has been found. If he will call 1393 after 5 o'clock he may have the book.

Russian Decorations Will Be Theme of Homecoming Dance Saturday at Igloo

Gus Meyers to Furnish Music; Corsages Give Way to Mums Dinner Dresses Are in Order

Six and a half miles of paper, enough to go across the Golden Gate six times, is being used as decoration for the Russian Rendezvous homecoming dance Saturday evening in McArthur court.

Stewart Mockford, decoration head, announces that Hallie Johnson, of the art school, is painting Russian subject matter and designs on blue plaster board that will cover the walls of the court. Designs are being done in bright colors, carrying out the true Russian influence. Figures will be done in silhouette.

Special attention is being given the dance programs. Les Forden, program chairman, in explaining their design pointed out some interesting details. Programs are to be of two colors with the cover of velvet, designed done by Hallie Johnson. Attached pencils will be held with silk cord.

Meyer Will Play
Gus Meyer and his 14-piece band are to furnish the music for the affair. Entertainment under the direction of Don Chapman will be given during the course of the evening and intermission.

"The dance is to be a sport affair but women are asked to wear dinner dresses," Lowry said Tuesday. "This is the final decision as to what to wear. No corsages will be allowed but coeds may wear a mum if they wish."

Last night judges were still verifying words turned in during the contest run during the last week. Many responded, Lowry, one of the judges said, and the name of the winner of the homecoming dance ticket will be announced in the Emerald as soon as tabulations are complete.

Tickets on Sale
Under the direction of Freed Bales, tickets for the dance went on sale Monday. They are available at all men's living organizations.

"Only 500 have been printed," Bales said Tuesday, "so those who intend to go had better get their admissions as soon as possible."

Tickets may be obtained at University Co-op or from house representatives.

Ticket sale will close in the houses Friday night, Bales announces.

Dance Ads Are Novel, but Give Incorrect Date

Zolly Volchok, publicity director for homecoming, Myra Hulsler, his assistant, Dave Lowry, and Vic Rosenfeld, dance chairmen are running around the campus with red faces as a result of an embarrassing situation that occurred Tuesday.

Novel advertisements were placed at lunch tables yesterday advertising the Russian Rendezvous this weekend. But instead of having the correct day on the little envelopes, "Friday" was printed in.

"The little toothpicks, clips and bluing carried the right impression to the students," said Volchok, "but we hope too many of them didn't take the date seriously. The dance is Saturday and there will be no change."

Dollar mums will be awarded again this week to girls selling the greatest number of mums in men's and women's living organizations, according to Gladys Battleson, general chairman for AWS mum sales. Official AWS representatives will visit men's living organizations this noon to take orders for the homecoming game.

Dorothy Johnson, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Peggy Sanford, Alpha Phi, were last week's winners.

Mums will sell at fifty cents, seventy-five cents, and one dollar. Alums are urged by Miss Battleson to buy their mums at the University Florist Shop, 13th and Patterson streets, which has agreed to turn all profits over to the AWS.

YWCA Program Aims To Please All Coeds

To appeal to the interests of every girl on the campus, whether she likes singing, writing, knitting, or just talking, is the aim of the new YWCA program, according to Elaine Comish, president.

The various groups, under the direction of a student leader, carry out their individual programs, assisted by adults and faculty members interested in that subject. The groups are open at all times to any girl who is interested.

For those who like to discuss personal and family relations, the campus chat group offers an opportunity to get together with others and talk over such things as "Modern boy-girl relations," "Homesickness," and "How to break family ties." Virginia McCorkle is student chairman, and discussions will be led by adults.

Meetings are every two weeks on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Singing for fun is the feature of the group led by Mrs. Edith Sie-

308 X Marks the Spot

Casting their ballots in the Emerald's straw vote shortly before the polls closed Tuesday afternoon are Jo Langford, marking her ballot against Gordon Connelly's shoulder, Ed Elfving, who is about to drop his vote into the box, and Genevieve McNiece, who is apparently puzzling over the issues involved. Elfving has been active in the Liberty association, working for compulsory military while Connelly has been instrumental in having the measure brought before Oregon voters. Mari Medill and Bob Emerson, poll clerks, are in the voting booths.

Political Assembly Details Completed

Debates to Be Given by Representatives From 3 Major Parties

Final details for the "political" assembly to be held Thursday, at 11 o'clock in Gerlinger hall were completed yesterday at a meeting of Betty Brown, Charles Paddock, and Dave Hoss, student leaders for the three major parties. Dean Casteel, director of the speech department, will act as chairman of the assembly.

The order of speaking was decided by drawing slips. It was decided that each speaker would be allowed only ten minutes to present his case and an additional five minutes for rebuttal.

The speakers in the order of their appearance will be Monroe Sweetland, Salem, representative of the Socialist party; W. L. Goslin, private secretary to Governor Martin, for the Democrats, and David Eccles, Portland, state chairman for the Young Republican division, for the Republicans. These men are young people who have had previous experience in debating.

Following the speeches, there will be time for announcements of a political nature. Anyone wishing to make an announcement is asked to get in touch with Dave Hoss.

Grid Warriors To Pit Strength Against Viber 8

Man's title to supremacy over machinery will be put to an acid test today at 12:40 o'clock when 11 picked men from the varsity football team will square off with the "Easy Viber 8", prize automobile of the ASUO card sales drive, in a no-holds-barred tug of war at 12:10 today on the street in front of the College Side.

Fred Hammond, student president, announced yesterday that the crate would be awarded some ASUO member at the half of the Washington State-Oregon game Saturday afternoon.

Although the members of the football squad were confident of the victory, Hammond, who will pilot the "Viber", yesterday expressed that he still thought that his worthy beauty would win in a cinch.

The "Viber" has been brooding for several days over the rough treatment she received at the hands of the kidnapers when she was stolen last week. Yesterday she blew a piston out through her exhaust for no good reason. "Boy, but she is sure set for this tug of war," Hammond boasted.

Two Education Majors To Take Master's Exam

W. A. Oliver, major in education will take the examination for his master's degree Saturday. The title of his thesis is, "The Training and Certification of the City Superintendent of Schools." At one time Mr. Oliver was superintendent of the Newberg schools.

Neva Dallas, a teacher at the Oregon normal at Monmouth, will also take her examination for a master's degree, this Wednesday. The subject of her thesis is, "Appreciation of Poetry."

Extra Drill Periods Scheduled for Military

Three additional drill periods are scheduled for basic military students prior to November 11. Local ROTC authorities state that the added exercise in the manual of arms and marching routine, is planned preparatory to the annual Eugene Armistice day parade.

Sophomore and freshman cadets will have added classes in American military policy after the holiday period to compensate for time lost in drilling.

Registration Tops 2800 as Week Ends

Sophomores Still in Lead; BA Enrollment Shows Highest Increase

University of Oregon registration went slightly over the 2,800 mark at the close of the last week, according to figures in the registrar's office. This is more than a 5 per cent increase over the 2,660 students enrolled at the same time last year.

The sophomores still lead other classes with a total of 1,048. Registration in the freshman ranks totals 960 students, a 3 per cent increase. Of this group more

Pin Planter's Pamphlet Prates of Pixilated Pairs

For eons and eons there has been a need to have, in addition to a Pigger's guide, a Pin Planter's guide enumerating just who is going with whom and why. At last we present a list, crude as it may be, of the fair damsels to whom the "Hands-off" and "Stay away way" doctrine may be applied.

Strolling down Nicotine Lane we saw the bright and shining faces of Jeanne Sherrard and Mackie Cornwall. Reclining beneath Jeanne's Kappa Key was a bright and shining Fiji pin.

The Kappa sophomores went to town on the pin accumulation recently with the Kappa Sigs the victims. To wit, Carol Hansel wrestled Bill Dalton's Crescent and Star, and La Verne Terpeson was sucked under by the wiles of Barbara Thompson. . . . We wonder when Mary Janet Higgins will display her White Cross openly?

Patsy Neal is still carrying the torch for Bill Paddock, but when the torch flickers, Johnny Maeder seems to be around.

Tooting on down the street to the Gamma Phi dugout we ran right into a Phi Delt stronghold. Wearers of the Sword and Shield are Doris Drager, Mary Wright and Frankie Johnston. The gentlemen in question: Jimmy Nicholson, Norm Bay, and Noel Benson respectively.

The Snooper for the "Guide" elbowed his way through the ATO's to get in the Pi Phi dive and this is what he learned: Cappy Cummings is still the proud possessor of Glenn "Kentucky" Kantoek's insignia, and Betty Pownall polishes Jimmy Stanger's Maltese Cross twice a day. Ho, hum, Fran Watsek is tied down to Sigma Nu's heavyweight wrestler, Ed Elfving, while Gnan Goodsell looks blissfully at Ed "The Goon" Wheelock of the Sig X Club.

Liberty Group Hits Paper For Straw Vote Policy, Calls Campus Meet

Optional military training and Roosevelt were favored by the University as nearly half the student body voted in the straw poll conducted by the Emerald on Monday and Tuesday. Out of 1277 votes cast, voluntary drill won by a margin of 27 votes, 634 to 607. Roosevelt had a comfortable edge over Landon polling 664 votes to the Kansan's 502.

Percentages give Roosevelt 51.9 and Landon 39.3 of campus support.

Norman Thomas, perennial Socialist party candidate, was a poor third with 70 votes, followed by Communist Earl Browder with 25; William Lemke, Union party candidate, with 5; and Prohibitionist Colvin with 1. Members of the Emerald tabulating committee under Leonard Greenup discredited

Liberty Group's Lost Continuity Comes to Paper

Continuity for a series of brief addresses delivered by the Oregon Liberty Association during the two days of the Emerald poll was reported lost or stolen by Publicity Director Robert Prescott last night but was turned in at the Emerald office at a late hour.

Although the statements contained accusations against the Emerald, Editor, Fred Colvig declared last night that they would not be published without Prescott's consent because "of the manner in which they accidentally drifted into my hands and because I am not certain that the charges contained in the continuity were actually delivered."
