

Greeks' Council Hear Committee Report at Meet

Delegate, Psych Decile, Secretary Discussed; Decision Will Be Made At Monday Confab

Advising against hiring a traveling secretary to work for the fraternities, independent of the Oregon alumni association, the interfraternity council committee yesterday suggested that the council wait until the Oregon alumni had filled the position left vacant by Robert Allen before it took action in the matter.

Further committee reports suggested that a more exhaustive study be made of the proposed plans to substitute the psychology rating for the prep decile system determining eligibility of freshmen pledges. The council voted that the committee appointed for this investigation make a more exhaustive study of the two systems and report their findings at a later meeting. In order to choose intelligently between the two systems, the committee decided that it would be necessary to review material pertaining to the problem as far back as 1932.

Committee Named

Members of the committee studying the prep decile system are: Victor Rosenfeld, chairman, Charles Irvin, Ken Miller, Larry Crane, and Harold Faunt.

The council was advised to send a delegate from the campus to attend the national interfraternity conference to be held in New York City, November 27 and 28. Candidates and expenses of the trip were discussed but no definite decision was reached.

Another meeting was set for Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 104 Johnson hall.

Duckling Team

(Continued from page three) should go into Saturday's annual clash at even odds to avenge last year's 8 to 0 defeat suffered at the hands of the Husky yearlings. Mentor Warren's team has a little edge in experience, having played three bruising encounters, to two for their rivals.

Flashy Offense

Last year's great frosh team under Coach Warren turned in three triumphs in five games, and was highly rated, but the '36 range has played far more sensational ball to date and is expected to overshadow the performances of their predecessors. That eleven was composed of such present varsity stars as Michelson, Lacau, Gammon, and Blackman for the backfield.

In the line they had Yerbv, Nilson, Peters, Hinman, and Morris. Those gridiron greats scored 31 points in five games to a total of 50 tallies smashed over it in but three games by the present sensational little yearling team. They have tomorrow's game, and a final struggle against the Oregon State rooks here a week from today, in which to add to that total.

Yeomen Edge Out

(Continued from page three) Yeoman 17. Pavalunas then tossed a pass into the coffin corner, but it was caught by Purdy just as he stepped out of bounds, nullifying the play.

The Yeomen took over the offensive after this attempt and stalled for three plays before they kicked to midfield. The Betas' last pass attempt was knocked down as the game ended.

Yeomen Stop Aerials

A much-vaunted Beta passing attack was stopped cold by the fast-charging Yeoman line. Bob Boyd, stellar guard, rushed Pavalunas so much that little accuracy

ULTIMATUM

Attention, Class of '37

Whereas—the dignity and honor of the senior class has been besmirched by party or parties unknown;

Whereas—direct action is needed to wit, every and all men seniors must display their intestinal fortitude in an effort to wipe out the disgrace;

Namely—the disfiguration through pigmentation of certain chateaus; and

Whereas—specifically, the senior bench must become unmarred by any and all traces of said pigmentation within 24 hours of issue of this edict; and

Therefore—it behooves the lowly freshmen to take it upon their undignified shoulders to perform the same.

Beware Babes of '40, lest the Vigilantes of '37 ride again.

was attained by the star passer, Henry Kokko spilled the game for the Betas when they failed to throw a pass quite high enough to clear his 6 foot, 5 inch frame. Pav-alunas and Duden were other Beta stars.

The second-place Betas held the offensive during a close first half, but neither team offered any real touchdown threat in this period.

Firing Line

Last fall, if you'll recall, the Uni high youngsters provided the big upset of the prep season by running over a heavily-favored and previously-unbeaten Eugene team, 31 to 13. That cut Eugene out of the state championship. This year the Axemen, as the Eugene lads are dubbed, are undefeated and untied and are again out for the state title.

It'll be interesting to see how the preps come out. And the contest is sure to be packed with gigantic. There'll be plenty of passes, both forward and lateral.

From the Inside

Much of this week's practice has been devoted to the ends and backs on their passing attack. While the ends and backs have been working with Callison and Shields, the line-men have been playing pro ball in order to keep in shape. For those who don't know what pro ball is, it is just another name for touch football. The championship team seems to be a team of guards, consisting of Nello Giovannini, Chan Berry, Bill Estes, John Pastega, and Tony Amato. The first four men listed are from Klamath Falls while Amato hails from Portland. This team has defeated a team made up of California players and a mixed team from Oregon, Idaho, and California quite consistently throughout the week.

Theatre Group Slates New Plays

'Goodbye Again,' Comedy Directed by Robinson; Large Cast Used

With one success chalked up, the University theater yesterday announced two new plays to be produced in the near future, promising contrast and variety in the coming theatrical season.

The first of these will be "Goodbye Again," a farcical comedy-hit by Allan Scott and George Haight, which Horace W. Robinson, instructor in dramatics who specializes in unusual sets and lighting will direct.

The play concerns a popular literary lion on a lecture tour. As speaker to the ladies' clubs and so-called intellectual organizations, he has the misfortune to run into one of his old college flames from his home town. From her entrance, the story becomes more complicated as does his lecture tour.

Already in rehearsal, Mr. Robinson is using about two-thirds of the senior acting group in "Goodbye Again."

With a much smaller cast and in direct contrast to both the earlier offerings, will be Ottilie Turnbull Seybold's next production "The Shining Hour," by Keith Winter. It has been called a powerful emotional drama of contemporary times and has received favorable critical comment both in New York and London.

Casts and dates for the two coming shows will be released at a later date.

Witnesses to Corvallis Auto Accident Sought

Witnesses to one of the numerous slight auto accidents which occurred during the last weekend, two University students are being sought by G. A. Harndon, Eugene, who wants their testimony on the details of a collision which occurred in Corvallis.

Harndon has asked that the two students who, he says, were driving a black Dodge sedan, to contact him at the Eugene Farmers' Creamery.

Varsity Sketches

(Continued from page three) coming toward you," Dave said, "you haven't any time to watch the men coming towards you. Your eyes are always on the ball and maybe just as you start to catch it, you can glance out of the corner of your eye to see where the opponents are. After you have the ball in your arms, then you can start to figure out where you can go. Some fellows have the knack of standing to one side of a kick and then catch it on the run toward the sidelines. That, however, is pretty difficult to do and the man has to be plenty fast."

A notice at the University of Illinois: "A wild life club for students—graduates and undergraduates will be organized." Hmmm. Four major league teams will train in foreign camps next spring—the Athletics in Mexico City, the Cincinnati Reds in Puerto Rico and the Cardinals and Giants in Havana.

Courses in playing house, swinging, climbing, riding kiddie-kars, and blockbuilding are offered in the University of New Mexico's emergency nursery class this fall.

LOTS IN A BEER

A gentleman wearing a "Landon and Knox" button stepped up to a local bar Tuesday afternoon and called for a beer. The bartender slid him a glass.

"That beer's flat, like Roosevelt," quoth the Republican. Late Tuesday evening he called again. This time the bartender sent a schooner piling high with suds skidding his way, accompanying it with the remark—and a broad smile—that "That's Roosevelt beer, too—over the top."—Eugene Morning News.

Clothing Classes Study Scientific Buying Methods

Buying project surveys are being made by the students of the clothing classes, a division of the home economics department. The purpose of the surveys is to give students experience in scientific buying.

In order to make a report on this work, an article of clothing or textile fabrics, which the student will need to buy, is selected and a survey made of the types, makes or brands of this article on the market.

The characteristics and claims for each of the types carried in the town where the purchase is made are listed in appearance, quality, comfort, and fit of the article. These characteristics and claims will be studied and evaluated in relation to the kind and amount of service obtained and the price which the student wishes to pay for the article.
