500 Yards to Go

Nervous government defenders checked the sweeping assault of Spanish Fascists within 500 yards of Madrid proper, as Monday's battle in the Spanish capital closed. Twenty-five persons were killed in the second day of Fascist bombardments.

Leftists clung desperately to the city's outskirts in a last defense stand as Moorish legionnaires crossed the Manzanares river—Madrid's moat—to halt at the city's gates.

John Is Tired

"I'm going back to the hotel and go to sleep. I am worn out," John Barrymore, who said marriage "pushed King Edward off the front page" told reporters after returning from midnight ceremonies Monday in Yuma, Arizona.

The 54-year-old actor spent the entire day of his fourth marriage in bed. His bride is Elaine Barrie Jacobs.

Boom-Boom

The second broadest market in the history of the stock exchange was recorded on Wall Street Monday, when a whirl of buying jammed the ticker-tape to predominate over an early selling rush.

'Putsch' Scene

The steamer Isis was reported down with all but one of the seamen drowned in the North Atlantic area last night. An unidentified youth who was so sick he could only say he thought all his shipmates were lost was picked up by a passing freighter.

Adolph Hitler Monday revisited the scene of his defeat in the abortive Munich beer hall "putsch" of exactly 13 years ago yesterday.

Hitler led that additional parade to the spot where 16 of his followers were shot down as they marched to Berlin. Reichswehr soldiers fired a salute. The spot marks where the street slaying of the Nazi "heroes" ended the ill-fated uprising, but three years later Hitler was made chancellor of Germany.

Helium Balloon Inflation Protect Gopher Smokers

Helium, 17 tanks of it, was used in balloons at the Minnesota homecoming game Saturday to make balloon-waving safe for cigarette smokers. The 20,000 inflations cost $500. Formerly hydrogen had been used by hydrogen is inflammable. Minnesota is the first university to use helium for this purpose. It is sent from Dexter, Kansas.

UN Tradition Revivalist

The University of Nevada is starting a move to revive recently abolished traditions. Campus men are 100 per cent in favor of requiring freshmen to wear dinks and carry frosh bibbles.

The return of campus traditions seems to promise a new era for U of N students and it is one of many universities attempting to revive traditions.

Trojan Women Rooting

Trojan deeds as well as men now help in card stunts at the University of Southern California. The women students wear white blouses and are admitted to the rooter section.

A Real Aerial Attack

The Loyola football team may be the first in history to fly across the ocean to keep a football date. Because of the maritime strike plans are being made to ship the team to Honolulu on one of the Pan-American Clipper planes to meet the University of Hawaii December 11.

Prof. Frederic S. Dunn Is Reported Improving

Frederic S. Dunn, head of the classics department, is making a gradual but steady improvement, according to a report received yesterday.

Professor Dunn has been seriously ill with pneumonia for several weeks.

Touch Football To Be Retained, Says Washke

Injuries Exaggerated, Scarce in Supervised Play, States Director Of Men's Gym

Touch football, as a supervised sport, will continue to be played as usual, according to a statement made yesterday by Paul R. Washke, director of the men's gym. Injuries from touch football have been emphasized beyond their real seriousness, Mr. Washke says. Most of the injuries have come from unsupervised play, and, according to fraternity men with whom Mr. Washke has talked, these were largely from games played out in the street or on the sidewalks.

Only One Injury
When the game is played in supervised gym classes, Mr. Washke says, the same rules are used as in other schools where it has been a success. In supervised ball there has been only one serious injury this term, and the physical education department can neither prevent or be blamed for injuries received outside of class periods, he says.

Vernon Sprague, who was injured in a street game last Wednesday, is improving and is now fully conscious, according to a report from the Sacred Heart hospital yesterday. He will be in the hospital for an indefinite time.

Experiments on Streptococcus Inspection Begun

A research project, the final aim of which is to find a method of killing the streptococcus organism, the cause of blood poisoning and erysipelas, is being started by W. A. Miller, instructor in physics, Keith D. McMillan, pre-med student and pathologist for the Sacred Heart hospital, and Harry Brady and Jack Huddleston, also pre-med students.

The study will be of the bactericidal or killing action of ultra-violet light rays which have been already used in the process of making irradiated milk. The ultra-violet light rays are known to increase vitamin D content and to have a tendency to kill micro-organisms. It is for further proof of the latter that the experiment is being made.

Submissive Freshmen Shine Senior Bench

Shades of the class of 1909!

At last there has been found a class of freshmen who appreciate their place on the campus. The class of 1940, presided over by John Henry "Housemaids Kneer" Dick, recently of The Dalles, have accepted the rule of their rightful overlords.

Evidence of the submissive attitude of the largest frosh group since 1929 is shown in the spotless, shining senior bench, which has been decorated for the past two weeks with unsightly green paint, roughly spelling "class of 1940."

Although the freshmen ignored orders to clean the bench for some time, an ultimatum from John R. Lewis, president of the Order of O. guardians of campus traditions, to the effect that Dick would be dunked in the icy mill race if action were not started brought immediate results yesterday.

"Sloppy," with a quintet of stooges, labored most of the afternoon to restore the senior bench to gleaming cleanliness. His helpful assistants were found to be: Gordon Amos Anderson, Charles Isaac Schanapp, Robert Elvin Young, Clarence Ed Lucky, and John Holloway Skirving.

Passing freshmen were also pressed into service on the job. Dick Albert Litfin, right hand man of the frosh prexy also awoke to action last night, making preparations for a cleaning party at 4 o'clock today in case the job was not done good enough to satisfy Lewis and the Order of the O.

Dick could not be found last night. Sophomores, accused by the frosh prexy as being the vandals who profaned the senior landmark, suggested that he was lying low in fear of the Lewis threat of a swimming party.

Future Judges Table Dignity to Dine and Frolic

Stodious law students and dignified professors cast off the ties of formality and let go their pent-up energy Saturday in what they term the best law school dance in three years.

An added feature of the dance this year was the Phi Delta Phi, law honorary, banquet. Entertainment at the banquet was in the form of "round-robin" speeches, each person introducing the one next to him. George Bernie sang a solo and led the group in several other songs. Thirty seconds of silence were observed during the meal for the hapless "X-3" who failed to secure a date for the dance in spite of the efforts of the date committee.

The faculty prize dance was won by Prof. Carlton Spencer and his wife. Dean and Mrs. Wayne L. Morse were runners-up.

Herb Galton and Felker Morris copped the student prize. Bobby Anderson and Nancy Ogden were second.

In the prize dance between the judges, Tony Yturri and his partner, Miss Harriet Sarazin, carried off the honors.

BA Honorary Will Initiate 6 Pledges

Beta Gamma Sigma, business honorary for men and women, will initiate six new pledges Wednesday, November 11 at 5:30 p.m. in Gerlinger hall.

The initiates are Albert Henke, Julia LaBarre, Robert Buzzard, Lloyd Nicholson, Arno Peiterson, and Avery Combs.

A banquet will be held at 6:15 at the College Side following the initiating. Professor C. L. Kelly of the business school, president of the organization, will be toastmaster and Victor P. Morris, dean of the business school, will be the main speaker. Albert Henke will give the response for the initiates.

The program, of which Ruth May Chilton and Elaine Comish are in charge, will be carried out in Armistice day decorations.

Members of the business administration staff and their wives as well as alumni and members of Beta Gamma Sigma are invited to attend the banquet.

Sigma Delta Chi Pledge Speeches Will Be Private

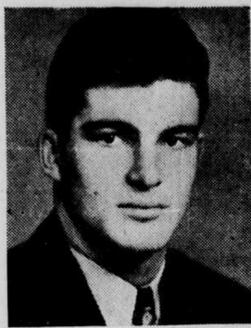

Remember the Sigma Delta Chi pledge speeches from the steps of the old lobe? Well, like the dodo bird, they seem to be doomed to extinction. For this year, at least, the new men will give their rather dubious talks in the privacy of the College Side.

All of which will take place Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock when the Sigma Delta Chi meet for their fall pre-initiation banquet. The formal initiation will be held Wednesday, October 18 at Gerlinger hall.

Displaying their oratorical ability at the banquet will be the seven pledges: Fulton Travis, Gerald Crisman, Wayne Harbert, Leonard Greenup, Lloyd Tupling, Robert Pollock and Stanley Hobson. The affair will be in charge of James Morrison, acting president.

NAN WILEY TEACHING
Nan K. Wiley, B.A. '35, has a teaching position in the normal school at Cheney, Washington. She also supervises art in the public schools of that city.

Lead Victim

John Lewis, above, American soldier, went down before a hail of machine gun bullets in last night's battle on the stage of the University theater but he'll be back to give his life again tonight at the final showing of "Bury the Dead."

'Bury the Dead' Repeats Showing Performance to Be Given Tonight in Observance Of Peace Week

Repeated as part of the Armistice week peace observance, "Bury the Dead" was played to a well-filled house Monday night in the University theater.

The performance will be repeated Tuesday night. Tickets for it may be obtained from Paul Plank, who is managing the ticket sales for the Student Christian council, or from the box office of the University theater in the Administration building.

The Community Armistice memorial service and peace dedication sponsored by the churches of Eugene and the Student Christian council will be held in the First Christian church Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Elam J. Anderson, president of Linfield college, will give the address. The Eugene Gleemen, directed by John Stark Evans, will give a number of selections.

Kessler to Head Statewide Contest

Sigma Delta Chi Cup Goes To Top-Ranking Weekly At Press Conference

Howard Kessler, journalism major and member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalism society for men, has been appointed head of the Oregon weekly newspaper contest which will be held at the University about the middle of January next year. The appointment was made by Dan Clark Jr., president of the society.

The contest is held in conjunction with the annual Oregon newspaper conference, held in January. The Sigma Delta Chi cup is awarded to the best Oregon weekly or semi-weekly newspaper of the past year on points of general excellence.

A second cup, the Hal E. Hoss Memorial award, is offered to the best weekly in towns of less than 1,000 population. This award has been offered only twice so far, being won last year by the Malheur Enterprise of Vale and the Redmond spokesman in 1934. The Sigma Delta Chi award was won by the McMinnville Telephone Register last year, and the year before by the Hood River News. It is possible for one paper to win both cups in one year.

Education Fraternity Studies Curriculum

Phi Delta Kappa, men's professional education fraternity, will hold an open professional meeting 7:30, Monday evening, November 9, in the men's lounge room of Gerlinger hall.

Dr. F. C. Wilcox, director of the lower division at Linfield college, will discuss "The Need for Curriculum Study and Change." Curriculum revision is the general theme for the series of meetings this year. The organization will study "Curriculum Revision."

'Mail' Biologists' Worms & Frogs Come by Postman

Preserved fish worms and frogs are sent by mail to students who are taking the recently established correspondence course in biological science survey. The course began this semester and is the first time any laboratory study has been sent by correspondence.

Simple sets of laboratory instruments which include microscopes and other implements necessary to carry on the required experiments are also mailed.

The course is outlined by Dr. Ralph R. Huestis and Dr. Harry B. Yocum, professors in zoology, and covers approximately the same material as is taught in a similar course on the campus. Four hours credit is given for this class, which covers three terms.

Papers which cover their work are written by the students.

YWCA to Install Officers Tuesday

Bettylou Swart, Alice Swift To Become President, Vice-President

Elected and appointed officers of the YWCA frosh commission will be installed by the cabinet Tuesday at 5 o'clock in the Y bungalow.

Bettylou Swart will be installed as president. Alice Swift, vice-president, and Jean Merrill, secretary-treasurer. Appointed officers are Anne Fredericksen, membership; Betty Meek, religion; Barbara Espy, personal and family relations; Katherine Miller, community service; Alene King, bungalow; Margaret Montgomery, publicity and posters; Mary Failing, public affairs; Junia Plumb, singing; Jean Billings, conferences; Betty Lou Kurtz, world cooperation.

President of the freshman commission and sophomore commission will also be members of the YWCA cabinet. President of the sophomore commission will be elected on Friday of this week.

ROTC Honorary Pledges 7 Men

Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary, formally pledged eight men at a banquet given Sunday afternoon at the Cafe Del Rev.

Those pledged were Roy Morse, Patrick Cassidy, Charles McGirr, Cecil Barker, Edward Jacobs, Sam McGaughey, Robert Chilton, and Robert Newlands.

Major A. L. Morris, assistant professor of military science, was elected to honorary membership.

Crosland, Lewis Accept Summer School Positions

H. R. Crosland, associate professor of psychology, has accepted a position of teaching psychology at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado, for the two terms of summer school.

Mr. Crosland will leave the University at the end of the school year, and spend his summer vacation at the University of Colorado. Mr. L. L. Lewis, associate professor of English, will also teach at the summer school. This will make Mr. Lewis' ninth summer of teaching there.

Geology Students Take Trip to Coburg Caves

Geology students, led by Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geography and geology departments, went on a field trip Saturday afternoon to Coburg Caves, near Coburg. The party numbered around fifty students. Some of the students also climbed Mt. Baldy, a nearby mountain.

The next trip taken by the geology department will probably be to Triangle Lake.

Boyer Approves Armistice Parade

ROTC Drill to Commence; Col. Ray Morse Assumes Command

Approving acceptance of the Eugene Armistice day parade and invitation yesterday, Dr. C. Valentine Boyer permitted final plans for the holiday drilling of five ROTC companies to be consummated by Colonel E. V. D. Murphy and staff.

Cadet Colonel Ray Morse will assume command of the marching militia with other advanced military students being assigned to individual platoons. The unit will be organized into one regimental outfit and two battalions. Each battalion will be composed of two companies.

The parade, sponsored by the local American Legion post with Mark Hathaway as chairman, will start at 10 a.m. The line of march will originate at Fifth and Willamette streets, tours south to Thirtieth, east to Oak and then to the armory.

Cars Needed By Rally Team For Cal Game

All car drivers interested in having their gas and oil paid for the trip to Berkeley and the California-Oregon football game, in exchange for taking members of the rally committee with them, are requested to call Bob Olbekson, 2820. Four cars are needed.

Students who intend to go by train should make their arrangements immediately by calling the Southern Pacific ticket office. Low rates are being offered.

Don Thomas, rally chairman, announced a meeting to be held at 5 o'clock sharp today at the College Side.

Trench Warfare, With 'Beauties of Mutilation' Suggested ROTC Addition

The GOP and Oregon's military training question are not dead! A suggestion from C. G. Osborn, assistant professor of history, "that compulsory military training be made universal, effective, and complete," jarred the battle-scarred ROTC question back to life Monday.

Military courses at present are only half effective, Professor Osborn declared. A course in trench warfare, with women acting as Red Cross nurses and the pacifists on the campus working with the YMCA, would teach the young soldiers "to take it." The history professor, who says he has seen "some, although not the worst of war, mutilation," feels that at present young soldiers are being taught only how to "give it" and that a four-year course in trench warfare under battle conditions would round out their education.

Coed Battalions

Professor Osborn pointed out that since optional military training was defeated at the election last week, "students should learn to take it as well as dish it out." Under Osborn's plan military training should be extended to the coeds of American universities.

The military training course should be made "realistic" to show the "beauties of mutilation." Coolies and trench mouth should be included in the course, he contended.

He believes that "the Russian and Spanish idea of women soldiers is not so bad. Girls should be conscripted into battle instead of sitting home knitting."

A desire that his suggestions be incorporated in a bill to be placed before the voters of the state at the next election was expressed by Professor Osborn.

NYA Checks Still Wait For Indolent Students In Business Office

NYA students who have not called for their checks covering work from September 17 to October 17 are asked to see Mr. Tuttle at window 2 on the second floor of Johnson hall.

Third Fee Installment Overdue; Delinquents Pay Fine of 25 Cents

The deadline on third installment of fees and out of state fees was Monday, November 9. Starting Tuesday, 25 cents a day will be charged for late payments. Clifford K. Stalsberg, cashier of the business office, announced yesterday.

Eleven Speakers In Radio Contest

Winners of W. F. Jewett Forum to Be Announced By Judges Tuesday

In an attempt to distinguish themselves with fame as speakers and in the hope of winning one of the three prizes offered as booty, eleven contestants spoke over the radio in the W. F. Jewett radio forum contest Monday afternoon.

The decision of the judges will not be announced until Tuesday afternoon said Donald E. Hargis of the speech department. The speakers talked for the most part in pairs with one of the team writing the speech and being fed the lines by his partner. The manuscripts are to be judged and these will be reckoned in on the final decision.

Those who spoke, with the writers listed first, were: Roy Hewitt and George Ticky on "Death and the Motor Car," Donald Morse and George Brockmann on the "Commonwealth College," David Hoss and Laura Bryant on "Let's Decide," Orval Etter and Victor Goff on "Return to the Town Meeting," Howard Kessler, Stanley Robe and Edwin Robbins on "Pan-American the Employer, and the Strike," and Victor Goff and Orval Etter on "The Public, the Employee, and the Strike."

The contestants spoke in the speech laboratory and their voices were carried to room 218, S. H. Friendly hall, where the audience heard the speech by radio. The contest started about 3:30 and each entry group had fifteen minutes.

Nautical Motif To Be Used for Dads' Banquet

Accommodation for 400 To 500 Fathers Being Planned; Attendance To Be Checked

John Straub memorial hall, bedecked with silver stars and white anchors and otherwise having a nautical atmosphere, is to be the scene of the tenth annual Dads' day banquet Saturday evening. Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed and Bernadine Bowman, faculty and student heads of the affair, announced Monday.

Final decoration plans have begun already with the assistance of Louise Robinson, Rita Wright, Betty Brown, Lillian Scott, and Claudia Sevier.

"We are using this theme in connection with the sea idea being worked out for the sophomore informal," says Miss Bowman. "Dads will be given arm bands at the banquet that will admit them to a reserved section at the dance."

Large Group Expected

"We are making plans to serve between 400 and 500 fathers, and from reservations so far, the prospects seem good," she continued. Merle Chessman, president of Oregon Dads, will act as toastmaster of the affair. The Oregon Bardsmen will open the evening's program with an invocation by the Rev. Norman K. Tully, pastor of Central Presbyterian church of Eugene.

Greetings from the state board of higher education will be delivered by Charles A. Brand, member of the state board. Mrs. Warren D. Smith, vice-president of Oregon Mothers, is to offer the organization's greetings.

Student Heads to Attend
Gilbert L. Schultz, vice-president of the associated students, will represent the student body and Martha McCall, AWS president, the associated women.

Special music is to be furnished by Hal Young, professor of voice at the University, with George Hopkins, professor of piano, as his accompanist.

Greetings from the University will be delivered by Burt Brown Barker, vice-president. John Veatch, an attorney from Portland, is to be the main speaker of the evening.

Trophies won by houses for the attendance of dads will be presented during the evening, and new officers elected at the Saturday morning meeting will be presented. (Please turn to page four)

Phi Psi Pledges Leave, Take Front Door Along

When Phi Psi pledges walk out they really put their hearts into it. Fifteen of the lads in question strolled out of the old chapter house last night taking the charter, the cups and trophies, and lastly, as an afterthought, the front door.

But before leaving they felt they should leave a reminder of their presence. So, being methodical youngsters, they first upset the sleeping porch beds and threw the bedding into the hall. Then they wandered downstairs and disordered what they could find there.

Next, the kitchen caught their ambitious gaze and in the kitchen the gas stove. "Ah," cogitated some of the more brilliant. "Without 'at stove they cannot cook. If they cannot cook they cannot eat. And if they cannot eat, they will surely remember us." So the stove was dismembered and tossed piece by piece into the back yard.

By that time they were tired. But they were not through yet. They felt that someone more than their brethren and the gal friends of their brethren should know of the affair. So they called the Emerald, speaking boldly of their misdeeds.

There was just the hint of a quaver of fear in the adolescent voice that came into the news room. "We're going to stay out until Tuesday night," it came over the news-room phone. "And then most of us are taking the train for Frisco and the game. That way," the message concluded triumphantly, "the upper-classmen will have to clean up the house!"
