

THE Firing Line

By PAT FRIZZELL

The score was 28 to 0, but from all that can be gathered, the Webfoots didn't conduct themselves so badly down in Berkeley. If the lads had pushed over a touchdown on one of those big first quarter opportunities, they might have held the Bear "army."

It was, veritably, an army that Stub Allison threw at our poor Ducks. As has been pointed out before, one good team has a fair chance against two, but when three or four teams of ambitious gridmen dash on a field in rapid succession, all rarin' to go places and do things, it takes reserves to counter. It takes more reserves than Oregon can muster.

Figure it out for yourself. Oregon outplayed the Bears in the first half, before California reserve strength began to tell. The Webfoots stuck to their guns and repelled the army assault in the third quarter. But in the final chapter, with fresh Bears cavorting in every position, the northerners wilted. The home lads began tearing holes in the line as wide as the 'Frisco-Oakland bridge, and it was all over. Outclassed Oregon? No, not entirely. It was just one small detachment against a mighty army of reserves. The Bears had six left halfbacks. When one got tired of galloping, Stub Allison (yes, he's quieted the wolves) would dispatch another to harass the fagged-out Oregons.

If the coast conference continues on a round-robin basis, it seems fitting that measures should be taken to give all members as nearly an equal chance as possible. There have been enough upsets this fall for anybody, so perhaps we're just shedding salt tears because Oregon hasn't pulled those upsets.

Just the same, why wouldn't it be a good thing for the whole loop if some regulation were made allowing teams only a limited number of men, say 25 on each squad? The eligible group could be changed at any time, but only 25 would be allowed to play in any one game. Such an arrangement would prevent the big California schools from running wild over the smaller outfits because of sheer numbers. In professional football they keep the squads down to 22, thus putting victory and defeat up to the players and not the numbers.

Twenty-five men are enough for any ball game anywhere. It's just an idea, but why not less numerical triumphs and more good old-fashioned brawls in which each team starts from the same post?

When the fruits and nuts are stored away and we all gather around grandmother's bulging table with its cranberries and turkey and pumpkin pie with whipped cream, mayhap we'll know who's to be honored with the Rose Bowl plum from the West. Not until then, however, and perhaps not even on that glad Thanksgiving will we be informed.

On the day of thanks Washington's husky horde entertains Washington State's Cougars in Seattle. Choose any year you want, and that game's a tossup. If Washington wins, the Huskies lose the conference championship sewed up like a pin cushion and with it the coveted Pasadena prize. If Wash-

Cross Country Winner to Get Prize Turkey

Sixty-five Entries Ready For Annual Race to Be Held Thursday at 4 P.M.; Time Changed

Sixty-five men have entered the annual cross country race to be held this coming Thursday. A turkey is to be presented to the first man to finish the three-mile run. The time limit has been lengthened to 21 minutes. The additional minutes was added because of the addition of 220 yards to the course.

Race Starts at Four
House athletic managers should get in touch with Russ Cutler and check all their entries as soon as possible. All men are asked to report to Hayward field promptly at 3:45 p.m. on Thursday. The race will start at 4 p.m. The entries will be numbered as soon as they arrive at the field.

To the winning house will go the beautiful Hayward trophy, awarded each year. The trophy, a handsome silver cup, was donated by Bill Hayward, Oregon's famous track coach, three years ago.

Kappa Sigs, Yeomen Win
The Kappa Sigs won it the first year and the Yeomen won last year. The first house winning the trophy three times will be allowed to keep it permanently.

Each house must have three men finish the course under the time limit in order to receive any points. The winning house will receive 75 points.

Washington State spills the Malamutes it'll be all tied up, with each team having on its record one tie and one defeat.

So don't hand the Huskies the Rose Bowl nomination, quite yet. The mighty Trojans bowed down to the Pasadena Saturday (an assignment worth a mere $65,000 to $80,000 in the Northwest, where it hasn't been since another generation of Washington State players folded up before an Alabama avalanche back in 1930).

What if the Huskies and Cougars finish in a tie for the top and the Rose Bowl? Will they flip a coin or draw straws? You guess.

Radio Class to Assist Christmas Seal Drive

The newly formed radio class is planning a series of talks over station KORE to help the Christmas seals campaign.

The club has about 25 members and is headed by Donald E. Hargis, instructor in speech. The talks will be given every night at seven o'clock during the week of November 22-28.

Loback majored in merchandising and marketing while in the University and secured this position shortly after graduation.

Intramural Lead Held by Yeomen

Betas Second in Annual Contest; SAEs Move in To Third Position

By winning the touch football championship for a total of 150 points and adding 40 more in the Sigma Delta Psi meet, the Yeomen took undisputed lead in the annual intramural sports standings.

In second position are the Betas, with a total of 164 points, followed closely by the SAEs, Sigma Delta Psi champs, who have garnered 155.

Standings of the remaining of the 26 teams are: Alpha Tau Omega, 144; Delta Tau Delta, 132; Kappa Sigma, 126; Chi Psi, 122; Phi Kappa Psi, 111; Delta Upsilon, 109; Phi Delta Theta, 104.

Sigma Chi, 100; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 91; Theta Chi, 90; Omega Hall, 80; Phi Sigma Kappa, 80; Phi Gamma Delta, 80; Gamma Hall, 70; Sigma Hall, 70; Sigma Nu, 70; Men's Cooperative, 60; Alpha Hall, 50; Canard Hall, 50; Sigma Alpha Mu, 50; Zeta Hall, 50; Abba Dabba, 0; and Pi Kappa Alpha, 0.

The final intramural event for the fall term will be the cross-country meet next Thursday.

Stiff Scrimmage Held by Hoopers On Igloo Floor

Oregon's varsity basketball squad got down to brass tacks last night as Coach Howard Hobson put his charges through their first stiff scrimmage session of the season on McArthur court.

Scrimmages will be held daily in preparation for the opening tilt with the UCLA Bruins here on December 12.

The squad is very green. Hobson's fast-breaking offense is new to most members, and they seem to have trouble accustoming themselves to it. This year's team will be much smaller than last year's Grenadiers, according to Hobson.

Five lettermen are working out daily, but only one, Dave Silver, played regularly last season. The others—Ken Purdy, Bill Harcombe, Johnny Lewis, and Bill Courtney—were substitutes. The rest of the squad, made up of inexperienced sophomores and transfers, includes: Ray Jewell, Wayne Scott, Bob Becker, Wally Johansen, Bobby Anet, Laddie Gale, Slim Wintermute, Gale Smith, Ford Mullen, and George Jackson.

The chief executive said that his appearance at the peace meet and its effect on world peace was more important than any particular strike. The trip will take him 12,000 miles into South American waters.

Three Sturdy Golden Bears

Goldlocks ate the three bears' porridge, but Oregon's Webfoots didn't come within miles of any victuals belonging to three carnivorous creatures Saturday. The big boy on the left is Halfback George Cornell, who was out with injuries but is an integral part of Stub Allison's attack when in shape. Above on the right is Johnny Meek, quarterback, who played a very large part in the California victory, and below is Bill Archer, another halfback.

Faculty Golf Tourney In Final Rounds of Play

With three contestants still in the running in the championship speech department, and W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor in speech, will attend the convention of Western Speech Teachers association in Pasadena, California.

They plan to leave for California Tuesday, November 24 and will return Monday, November 30. Professor Casteel will deliver a paper on "Speech in the Whole Man" and Professor Dahlberg will deliver one on "The Symposium Program at the University of Oregon."

W. P. Riddlesbarger, assistant professor of business administration, has already reached the finals by defeating R. L. Collins, statistician and budget officer, 3 and 2.

Rudolf H. Ernst, professor of English, will meet J. O. Lindstrom, business manager, in a semi-final match to determine who shall play Prof. Riddlesbarger in the finals.

Professor Ernst beat Paul R. Washke 3 and 2, and Lindstrom beat Howard R. Taylor 2 up in quarter-final matches.

William O. Hall to Speak On Radio November 18

William O. Hall, assistant in the bureau of municipal research, will speak on the codification of ordinances by small cities at the radio broadcast of the Bureau and the League of Oregon Cities, November 18. These programs on municipal government are broadcast every Wednesday over station KOAC from 7:45 to 8:05.

Hall, who graduated from the department of economics in '36, has been working on the codification of the city ordinances of Prineville.

Colonel T. M. Robins To Speak Wednesday

Colonel Thomas M. Robins, of the United States army corps of engineers and divisional engineer in charge of the Bonneville project, will talk on Columbia river improvement and the Bonneville project Wednesday evening at 7:30 in 105 McClellan. His lecture is the second of this term's popular science series.

He will illustrate the talk with lantern slides. All students, faculty members, and townspeople are invited. The lecture will not be technical.

Women's Rifle Squad Election November 19

Officers of the women's rifle team will be elected Thursday, November 19, at ROTC headquarters, announced Lucille Bachman, organizer of the rifle squad. All members are requested to be there.

Of the 105 women who signed up, 55 have turned out for practice. The squad is preparing for a match with the faculty.

R. JACKSON ENROLLS

Ruth F. Jackson, '29, has enrolled in the graduate school of Radcliffe college at Cambridge, Massachusetts. All instructions in the school are given by members of the Harvard university faculty. Miss Jackson received her M.A. in '32 from the University.

Bear Shellacking Fails to Dampen Spirit of Webfoots

Arleigh Bentley and Ken Skinner Are Injured in Fracas; May Be Out of Oregon State Tilt

Oregon's Webfoots were still in the dank depths of the Pacific coast conference cellar when they pulled into Eugene at noon yesterday, but immediately Prink Callison and his down-but-not-out gridmen began preparations for Saturday's windup battle with Oregon State.

The Webfoots took a 28 to 0 shellacking at Berkeley, after holding the California Bears in check for three quarters. Superior reserve power of the Bears and Oregon fumbles at crucial moments allowed the score to pile up.

Webfoots Show Well
Despite the overwhelming defeat, the Webfoots, according to reports of observers, made a respectable showing. They came within an ace of scoring in the first quarter, when a fumble on the two-yard line stopped a seemingly certain touchdown. On two other occasions in the first half the Webfoots drove to the shadow of the California goal, only to be turned back.

The players returned in good condition, according to Trainer Bill Hayward, with the exception of Arleigh Bentley, fullback, and Ken Skinner, tackle, Bentley, sparkplug of Oregon's early drive at Berkeley, suffered an ankle injury. Skinner played a large part of the game but suffered a slight recurrence of his old shoulder injury.

When Bentley was removed from Saturday's fray, the Webfoots immediately lost the drive which kept them on the offensive through the first half. It was not certain yesterday whether or not Bentley can play against Oregon State. Prior to Saturday, he was used at quarterback, and his transfer to fullback peppered up the team considerably.

Captain Del Bjork gave his usual all-American demonstration at Berkeley, and Ed Farrar played one of the best games of his career at center. Tony Amato was a standout at guard. In Oregon's backfield Jimmy Nicholson, Don Kennedy, and Bob Braddock stood out along with Bentley. Nicholson proved elusive in the first half and several times got away for long gains. Kennedy scintillated on defense and came within an ace of returning the second half kickoff for a touchdown.

Not for six years has Oregon State beaten Oregon. This year Lonnie Steiner's Beavers rate as odds-on favorites over the Webfoots, who have yet to win a conference game. Tonight Prink Callison and his coaching staff will begin a week of practice for what the Ducks are hoping will be their first and last league win.
