

UO Coeds Wary of Student Marriages; Declare Would Wait Until After Graduation

What's all this we hear about student marriages being a fine thing? Despite the popping up of such thriving organizations as the Two Can Live As Cheaply association, Betty Coed still says emphatically, "Uh-uh, not for me!" Then she adds, with doubtful air, "perhaps in some cases"—and finishes up with blithe praise of the state of single blessedness while in college.

Being fair-minded, she admits that it might be a great deal of fun to attend school with your husband, and doesn't deny that in some cases marriage might bring about an improvement in grades. But consensus of opinion seems to be that college is one phase of life, and marriage quite another, and "never the twain shall meet," that is, hardly ever.

Marriage Thought Risk

According to Genevieve McNiece, Sigma Kappa of the Auburn hall, marriage would cause one to miss many activities in college that there would be no time for—activities essential to an enjoyment of school life. "You see so many students apparently madly in love, then in a month or so it's all over. It's so hard to tell if these college attachments will be lasting."

Josephine McGilchrist of Kappa Alpha Theta emphatically maintained that she "wouldn't even consider it!" She believes that it would be difficult to mix college and marriage and do justice to both, and says that when a student has finished school there is plenty of time to consider marriage.

Betty Jane Casey, regal Kappa, is also skeptical about the success of student marriages. "Marriage and education don't mix," she remarked, "that is, not as I regard marriage. When I'm married, I want a home."

Coeds Emphatic

Pert Felker Morris, Pi Phi, when asked her opinion, said, "Oh, no!" and refused to commit herself further.

Julia LaBarre, Sigma Kappa, said, thoughtfully, that college is an excellent test for the couple to find out if they are really in love. "If the couple can get along throughout their time in college, it is a good proof that they are really in love," she remarked. She made some concession to marriage by saying that it was a fine climax to graduation.

In Defense Of Women

By CLARE IGOE

What means it all this abuse of women so prevalent in the Emerald lately? Everything from saying they're all alike to nasty remarks about bare knees and the way they take off their coats in classrooms! High time it is that somebody rises in defense of our berated sex, we say.

Take for instance this matter of the coed mold. We admit that the gushing type who thinks that college is just too much fun, and wants everyone to know it, is a bit nauseating. But we can't quite see that every coed on the University campus is that type.

There are many serious, charming girls who are really well worth knowing. They are a bit apt to be overlooked by the average man, however, because they have either too much intelligence, or too good sense of humor to indulge in the standard college "line," or to flatter his male ego. And so he wanders back to fields where he is more appreciated, and basks in a warm shower of "perfects" and "gurands" and is happy.

About the bare knees we can but say humbly, "Well, maybe we ain't purty, but we're shore comfortable." To use this time-worn device as a source of sex appeal is far from the coed's mind when she rolls her hose of a morning. If someone would only work out a really comfortable way of keeping them up less unattractively, how happy we'd be.

But, at the time this paper went to press, no one had, so what are we going to do? It seems a pity, though, to ruin so heartlessly the beauty of our campus. We can only plead for forgiveness—and pursue our unbecomful way.

Oregon Mothers Have Big Turn Out At Second Meeting

The Eugene branch of the Oregon Mothers' club had one of the largest turn-outs that the organization has ever had at its meeting Wednesday, December 2, with approximately 135 mothers present.

The annual Christmas covered-dish party was the occasion for their second social function of the year. The Christmas motif was carried out in the decorations, program, and food.

January 6 has been decided on as the date for the annual bridge party to be held in Gerlinger hall.

Acting as general chairman was Mrs. Charles Adams, social chairman of the group. The sophomore mothers acted as assistant hostesses and both freshman and sophomore mothers stood in the receiving line. At the coffee tables Mrs. Dan Clark and Mrs. Warren D. Smith poured.

In charge of the decorations were Mrs. N. B. Zane, Mrs. Frank Nombalais, and Mrs. F. L. Stetson. An informal program was planned by Mrs. L. O. Wright and Mrs. Harman De Vries which was concluded by the singing of Christmas carols.

Miss Winant Is Honored at Dinner

Miss Marguerite Winant, national president of Delta Gamma and a resident of New York City was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the local chapter house.

The decorations and table center carried out the Christmas motif. Red poinsettias and silver leaves around white candlesticks were placed on the U-shaped table. Silver Christmas trees about the room added to the holiday spirit.

Guests present included Chancellor and Mrs. Hunter, President and Mrs. Boyer, and other prominent faculty members.

The committee in charge of the dinner was Pearl Johansen, Ruth Ford, Jean Taylor, and Barry Baker.

One of Three—The Coat

Direct to Marie Rasmussen, Tri-Delt president, from an aunt in Paris came this coat which Miss Rasmussen is wearing, above. The only two others like it in existence are owned by Paulette Goddard of motion picture fame, and by Doris Duke, world's richest girl. On a cream background, an unusual design has been brocaded in gold, yellow, apricot and orange.

Kappas Awarded For Scholarship Co-ediquette

What are the correct sizes, shapes, and colors for one's personal writing paper?

The shape and size both should depend on one's handwriting. Very large handwriting calls for large size paper. The shape also depends upon the spacing of the lines which is typical of the writer, and whether a wide or narrow margin is used. Low, spread-out writing looks best on a square sheet of paper. Tall writing looks best on long, narrow paper. Color is a matter of personal choice as long as it is conservative.

What does one do about writing a "Bread and Butter" letter?

To many, these thank you letters are harder to write than having teeth pulled. One way to avoid this feeling is to pretend you are writing to a friend thanking her for a good time. Do this on an odd scrap of paper, copy it off on a page headed to your hostess, add, "my love to the family and thank you again for asking me," sign it, and there you are! However, be sure you write it!

What is the proper sequence of pages in letter writing?

If longer than one page, the third page is generally used next, as this leaves the last page blank and the writing is not visible through the envelope. One may write first, second, third, and fourth pages in order or any sequence she wishes. Some people repeat the last word on a page at the top of the next for clarity.

Is the use of sealing wax correct?

Yes, if you use it carefully and skilfully. Choose a plain color, however.

ARTAU LOANS MANUSCRIPTS

Mr. Louis Artau, professor in the music school, has loaned to the school of music two original illuminated vellum manuscripts from the Monastery of Montserrat dated 1550. They may be seen in the Carnegie room.

Full Schedule Climaxes Fall Social Events

Climaxing the fall social swirl of campus and house dances, exchange dinners, and preference dinners, eleven house dances and the all-dormitory dance will be final affairs scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights of this week-end.

Old-fashioned barn dances are to provide theme for Kappa Sigma, Beta Theta Pi and the all-dormitory informals to be held Friday night.

The Alpha Tau Omega "hotel" will be transformed into a trapper's lodge Saturday night for their dance where "Hill-billies," "Ill Abners," "Daisy Mays," Indian "princesses and braves, and mountaineers will be impersonated by members and guests.

Phi Delt's Nightmare "Frosh Nightmare" is the title of the Phi Delta Theta freshman informal Friday night. Portraits of all Phi Delt freshmen drawn by Sam Fort will decorate their chapter house in form of wall murals. Roger Kayser's nine-piece orchestra will play "Smoky" Whitfield as featured vocalist.

Fir boughs, holly, red and green spotlights, and other "Christmasy" decorations will provide a holiday atmosphere for the Phi Kappa Psi, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Phi Epsilon informal pledge dances to be given Saturday night.

Sororities Honor Frosh

Sorority dances with surprise motifs in honor of pledges will be given by Chi Omega, Sigma Kappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Alpha Xi Delta Saturday night. Sigma Kappa is planning a dinner for their guests preceding the dance.

The all-dormitory dance given by all independent men and women living in the various halls for friends within and without their respective living organizations will have bar-maids serving cider out of huge barrels as one feature. Gus Meyers' campus orchestra has been engaged for the affair.

Kappa Sigma Barn Dance

The girls invited to the Kappa Sigma barn dance are urged to wear old clothes or overalls for their thrilling entrances by means of a chute leading down to the basement of their chapter house. Hay, bins of seed, ducks, a goat, chickens, pigs, and maybe a cow will provide rural atmosphere. Earl Gibson's Eugene hotel orchestra will play.

"Barnyard fixtures with no modern improvements" is the Beta description of their barn dance for which Jimmy Martin's orchestra will play.

December Evenings

Many new styles have made their debut on the Oregon campus this fall term. Among them have been swing skirts, metal cloth, cocktail shoes, and Scotch and Soda date dresses.

New hair styles have become more and more complicated and elaborate, but in spite of all this, it is necessary to attain these hair dresses by having one's hair clean and brushed. KATHERINE at MILL'S BEAUTY SALON has a remarkable ability to design new hair dresses to suit one's personality. It is nice to have a hair dress that is adaptable to all campus functions, in the classroom and on dates.

At BEARDS, JEAN FARRENS, GAMMA PHI BETA, found a black moire cocktail dress. It features leg-o-mutton sleeves and a mandarin collar. The new attraction on this dress is the cellophane stripes that add much to it.

These two dresses are very excellent samples of the newest of new styles.

Studying for Exams

We have made a very brilliant discovery. After three years practice on the better methods of studying, we come to the conclusion, contrary to what the professor teaches, that comfort is one of the main essentials. THE BROADWAY INC. has the cleverest cotton dresses. These dresses are of the latest styles, swing skirt, and all. White rick-rack braid, short puffed sleeves, and pique collars are some of the trimmings. We know that it would be worth your while to drop in to see these little numbers, because we know that after seeing them, you would have to have one or two to study in. They are extremely comfortable to wear.

Flash!
We want to let you in on a little bit of fun. Can you imagine Don Casciato playing the role of the well-known movie hero racing down the tracks after the train? It really happened. At Woodburn, he imagined he had time to get off the train to get a package of cigarettes. That was what he imagined!

With exams coming along we are going to devote the remainder of the term to "comprehensive studying" (cramming to you). We hope that you have enjoyed reading this column this term. Next term we will have some new feature for you that we believe you will like.
