

THE Firing Line

By PAT FRIZZELL

Will Wally or won't Wally? Meaning Wally Simpson, but Wally Palmberg. Rumor yesterday had it that Palmberg won't play for Wagner's Independents...

Much more important than the Palmberg issue is the fact that Hobby Hobson's Webfoots will be out there tonight for the first time...

The Webfoots may look ragged tonight, for fast-breaking teams usually do early in the season. But it's a dead cinch that they'll put on an interesting, colorful exhibition.

Your ASUO book (if you have one) admits you to the Igloo tonight, and in that pavilion of a thousand thrills you'll see the following:

- Big Dave Silver and his left-handed one-handers. Slim Wintermute and his six feet-eight inches. John Lewis and his smooth ball handling. Bill Courtney and his never-give-up spirit.

Opposing Hobson's gang will be a real team, one which ought to make it interesting on both sides. This Wagner's outfit looks strong on paper, with or without Palmberg.

Also with the club will be Carl Lenchitsky, member of Oregon State's 1933 coast championship team. Other leading clubbers are Jack Eagle, Hal Eustes, and Al Elkins.

Twenty-Five Duck Gridmen Earn Letters

Callison Recommends Awards for Varsity; Bjork and Farrar Will Receive Blankets

Twenty-five Oregon varsity football players have been recommended for letter awards by Prink Callison, head coach.

Senior members of the team, who will receive three-stripe sweaters and "O" blankets are Captain Del Bjork, all-coast tackle, and Ed Farrar, center.

Other second year winners were Lief Jacobsen, Tony Amato, Joe Huston, Vernon Moore, Dale Lasselle, Bill Estes, and Kenyon Skinner.

First Letters to 13 Players receiving first letters are John Yerby, Dave Gammon, Leonard Robertson, Chuck Bracher, Tom Blackman, Chan Berry, Nello Giovannini, Hank Nilsen, Don Kennedy, Jean Lacau, Jimmy Nicholson, Bill Foskett, and Arleigh Bentley.

This season's Webfoot team had the least success of any since Callison began coaching here in 1931. Only two of nine games were won.

With only five lettermen graduating, prospects for 1937 are much brighter. Twenty stand-out prospects will be up from John Warren's frosh.

Bjork Greatest Loss Of the men completing their careers, Bjork will be the most missed. Fury was understudy to the big Astoria left tackle.

Braddock will be missed in the backfield, but a host of Duckling backs will lessen the importance of his loss. Engstrom was a tackle a year ago and this season was moved to end.

All that remains of the season is the annual banquet for the team at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Callison.

Which is worthy of a guffaw from practically everyone. The Rose Bowl is a fine inter-sectional exhibition, no doubt, but it's no more of a championship affair than any other game.

Ed Dooley in the Oregon State Barometer comes right out with what seems a rather bold statement. Says Ed in his "Daily Bull Session":

"Oregon State's 1937 Football Team will Play in the Pasadena Rose Bowl."

Well, the Beavers don't lose anybody over there, but just how they figure on a hop into the Pasadena enclosure is something your correspondent can't fathom.

"No more practice until Monday," announced Honest John Warren to his frosh hoop army last night. The Duckling hopefuls had been duck-walking and exercising in half a dozen other toll-taking ways for three nights, and no one was happier at the sound of Warren's words than they.

Ducks Play Corvallis Team in Hoop Opener Here Tonight

Hobby and Dave Ready for Action

Howard Hobson, Oregon basketball coach, and his only returning regular, Southpaw Dave Silver, will match wits and brawn with Wagners' Independents of Corvallis at McArthur court tonight. It will be the first start of the year for the Webfoot hoopsters.

Duck Grid Slate For 1937 Listed

Webfoots Will Again Play All Conference Teams; Gonzaga on Sked

Oregon's football team will again play a seven-game Pacific coast conference schedule next fall.

It is a reasonable certainty that the conference will continue the round-robin slate. The Webfoots have games scheduled with all members.

Stanford will play at Eugene October 2, and Oregon State comes here on October 23.

- The tentative 1937 schedule follows: Sept. 25—UCLA at Los Angeles. Oct. 2—Stanford at Eugene. Oct. 9—Gonzaga at Eugene or Spokane. Oct. 16—USC at Los Angeles. Oct. 23—Oregon State at Eugene. Oct. 30—Open. Nov. 6—Washington State at Portland or Pullman. Nov. 13—California at Portland. Nov. 20—Washington at Seattle.

Dean Jewell Returns From OSC Faculty Meet

Dean J. R. Jewell, of the education department, returned Tuesday from a faculty meeting at Oregon State. Dean Jewell is dean of the school of education at Oregon State as well as occupying the same position at the University.

Del Bjork Picked On AP All-Coast; 7 Ducks Named

Captain Del Bjork of the Webfoots received further honors yesterday when the Associated Press named him on its all-coast team by decisive vote.

Bjork was listed on the United Press all-coast eleven a week ago.

The Webfoot captain was recently listed on the all-opponent team picked by Washington State college players.

Seven Webfoots received honorable mention on the Associated Press team. They were Hank Nilsen, end; Tony Amato and Nello Giovannini, guards; Ed Farrar, center; Bob Braddock and Jimmy Nicholson, halfbacks, and Jean Lacau, fullback.

Music School Heads Hold First Policy Meet

The advisory council for the music school at the University of Oregon held its first meeting Thursday morning at which policies of the school and plans for the year were discussed.

The council which was chosen by the music faculty for the purpose of conferring with John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, is composed of Rex Underwood, professor of music, Louis P. Artau, assistant professor of music, George Hopkins, professor of piano, and John Stark Evans, professor of music.

Conference Play Slated for Ducks

Webfoots Will Face WSC When Northern Division Hoop Wars Begin

Following the usual pre-season games, Oregon's varsity hoopsters will settle down to the serious business of making their mark in the northwest division of the Pacific coast conference.

The Webfoots are scheduled to get into conference action on January 8, when they meet the Washington State Cougars at McArthur court in a two-game series.

- Jan. 15—Oregon State at Corvallis. Jan. 19-20—Washington State at Pullman. Jan. 22-23—Idaho at Moscow. Feb. 1-2—Washington at Eugene. Feb. 6—Oregon State at Eugene. Feb. 20—Oregon State at Corvallis. Feb. 26—Oregon State at Eugene. March 5-6—Washington at Seattle.

Panthers Draw Rose Bowl Bid; LSU, 'Bama Out

Pittsburgh's beaten and tied Panthers drew the Rose Bowl invitation from Washington's Huskies yesterday and accepted with pleasure.

Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, announced last night that his players had voted unanimously to accept the January 1 date.

In selecting Pitt, Washington passed up the unbeaten teams of Louisiana State and Alabama. Pittsburgh lost to Quoesne, 7 to 0, and was held to a scoreless tie by Fordham.

In previous Rose Bowl appearances the Panthers lost twice to Southern California and were tied, 7 to 7, by Stanford.

Comish Speaks Today To Portland Salesmen

Prof. N. H. Comish of the school of business administration will address the Portland Controllers' association Friday noon in Portland. "Methods Used to Check the Efficiency of Retail Salespeople" will be the title of his address.

Dr. Comish will discuss the results of his research on the subject and will explain the way in which some Oregon merchants are using his method to test the efficiency of retail salespeople.

The Portland Controllers' groups consist of the controllers of the leading stores in Portland.

Duckling Hoopsters Get Needed Rest

Will Resume Workouts on Monday Night Following Four-Day Lay-off

The Duckling basketeers took things easy last night in the absence of Coach Warren, and after tossing the ball around for a half hour, laid off till Monday.

Warren's frosh have been going through some tough capers this week, and the rest came as a much welcomed luxury to the weary lads.

Building for a fast-moving type of ball team, "Honest John" has been running his hoopmen through some special leg work, using the duck waddle as a beginner.

Night before last, the routine varied a little, and the squad tried some ball handling. Picking up a loose ball on the dead run, along with passing while traveling at top speed, were some of the activities the yearling hoop recruits went through.

The present grind is expected to cut the number of prospects down to nearly what is carried on the season's squad, and a January cut may not be necessary.

Those boasting previous all-star prep ratings now working out include Ted Sarpola, ex-Astoria ace; Jake Fisher, Oakridge luminary; John Dick, huge center candidate from The Dalles, and Matt Pavlunas, Washington all-stater.

Other leading candidates out this week were Bob Blenkinsop, McMinnville; Wimpy Quinn, Grant high of Portland; Neil McLean Marshfield; Ken Shipley, Oswego; Al Krietz, Commerce high of Portland; Burton Boroughs, Eugene; Jim Jones, San Diego, California; Christy Madeiros, Bristol, Rhode Island, and Paul Jackson, Oakland, California.

Others slated to see action are Wally Johansen, sophomore forward, member of last year's yearling team, and before that a stand-out at Astoria high; Bobby Anet another ex-fisherman and the

Pre-season Workouts at End; Ex-Oregon State Stars Spark Lineup of Independents

Oregon's 1937 varsity basketball team plays its first pre-season game tonight when it meets the powerful Wagner's Independents of Corvallis on the Igloo court. Opening tip-off is set for 8 o'clock. Students will be admitted on presentation of ASUO cards.

Spectators will be treated to a colorful fray as the lemon and green-clad Webfoots, whose attack is based on speed, speed, and more speed, tangle with a clever, rugged and smooth independent quintet which will probably be led by Wally Palmberg, who last winter gained all-coast, all-American, and about everything honors as a member of the Oregon State Beavers.

Coach Howard Hobson announced his starting lineup last night as John Lewis and Dave Silver, forwards; Ray Jewell, center, and Bill Courtney and Ken Purdy, guards.

Lewis is a two-year letterman, a stylist on floor work, and the main spring of the Ducks' passing attack. Southpaw Silver, one-handed push shot artist, is expected to be the scoring threat in the contest. Jewell, who has taken over tip-off duties, due to the inability of Laddie Gale, is the most improved man on the squad.

Courtney at guard post, is brainy, a clever ball handler, and his defensive work is of the fly paper school—he literally sticks to his man. A smooth passer and accurate shot, Purdy is rated as the dead eye of the team.
