ASUO Offers Varied Activities Program For Term's $5 Fee

8 Home Basketball Games Scheduled; Monte Carlo Ballet, Admiral Byrd, Gleemen Concert on Ticket

Reduced to five dollars for the term, winter student activity books will be placed on sale during registration tomorrow, offering students a variety of athletic and educational events as well as participation in a score of student activities.

Chief attraction to card purchasers are the eight conference basketball games to be held in McArthur court that will see University of Oregon basketball teams pitted against other teams in the northwest conference.

Social and musical highlight on the winter program will be the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. The ballet brings to the campus a complete symphony orchestra, and 150 dancers from the finest schools in Europe.

Byrd to Speak
Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, noted explorer, will present matinee and evening lectures January 27 on his experiences and travels below the antarctic circle. Byrd uses exclusive motion pictures to illustrate the events on his historic exploration trip.

As an added feature to the music program, the Eugene Gleemen will present a vocal concert on the night of February 18.

Rifle Matches Scheduled
Opportunity to participate in a new activity is offered to women students. Several matches have been scheduled by Sergeant Harvey Blythe for the group of coeds on the rifle squad.

A complete program for University debaters has been arranged by student speech directors, and participation will be open to all student body card holders.

A one term subscription to the Oregon Daily Emerald, as well as participation on the editorial and advertising departments of the paper, is available to students.

Along with other benefits, student ticket purchasers will be able to hold class and ASUO appointments, participate in athletics, play with the University symphony orchestra or band, and vote at class meetings.

Wood Returning From Chicago Economics Meet

Dr. Louis A. Wood, professor of economics at the University and a national authority on labor relations, will return today from Chicago, where he represented the University at the annual meeting of the American Economic Association, which included sessions with experts and leaders in sociology, political science, and other fields.

While in the East, Dr. Wood visited headquarters of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and spent a few days on the scene of this huge operation. Officials of this project used many of Dr. Wood's ideas, obtained from his writings, in working out their industrial relations problems.

Alpha Delta Sigma meeting this afternoon at 3 p. m. in Prof. Thacher's office. Very important that all members be present.

Ballet Russe Audience To Be Formally Attired

Brilliance of an opera first night will be reflected February 4, when Col. W. DeBasil presents 125 dancers of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe to a formally dressed audience.

Students will be admitted by student body cards. Tickets for the event are now available for townspeople, Ralph Schomp, educational activities director, announced.

"The Ballet Russe will be the concert highlight of the season. Basil's troupe of dancers are the finest that have ever visited Eugene," Schomp said.

The group appears with a complete symphony orchestra and carries six carloads of scenery. The musical continuity is considered a full program in itself.

Fresh from triumphs in London where they played three months last summer to capacity audiences and from New York where they danced to crowded houses that overtaxed the Metropolitan Opera house. The only real Russian ballet in this country and the largest organization of its kind in the world, this unique and glamorous company has been the first of its type to become permanently established in the United States.

The Byrdman

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, aviator, scientist, explorer, who has had as many experiences as any man alive, will lecture on the campus January 27 as one of a series of artists appearing on the ASUO schedule.

Byrd Heads for Campus on Tour

Opening a lecture tour in New York that will bring him to McArthur court January 27, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is presenting a detailed picture-lecture of his travels and explorations below the antarctic circle on his westward trip.

Byrd is featured on the ASUO winter concert program, and will appear in matinee and night performances on the campus.

Since his last trip to Little America, Byrd has been compiling results of his discoveries as a means of opening up the scientific knowledge concerning the colder climes.

Gonzaga Listed For Hoop Game On February 22

The University of Oregon will play a non-conference game with Gonzaga university on February 22, at McArthur court, it was announced recently.

This game will be the first major home non-conference game slated on the regular varsity basketball schedule in recent Oregon history and marks resumption of court relations with the Bulldogs.

New Swim Tank Will Be Opened Middle of Month

Improvements on the University natatorium are nearly complete and the new tank is expected to be open for use by the middle of January.

The rebuilding of the natatorium has been under way since the old men's gymnasium was torn down. Remodeling the building will cost over $20,000. The ceiling was lowered and seating capacity increased to 425.

Econ, Sociology Meet Held Here

Pacific Coast Economists And Sociologists Discuss Social Questions

Pacific coast economists and sociologists gathered on the University campus December 28, 29, and 30 to discuss their mutual problems and cite means for their solution.

Sociologists and social reformers can and should work hand in hand to further progress in the world today, Dr. Charles N. Reynolds of Stanford declared in his presidential address at a dinner meeting of the two groups.

Establishment of a system of nation-wide employment exchanges, and the acceptance of the philosophy of the interdependence of life in the social group were advanced by expert economists and sociologists as practical and theoretical.

Ad Men's Dance Ducat Sale Opens

Walt Swanson Announces Start of Sale; Dance to Be January 9

Tickets for the "Krazy Kopy Krawl" will go on sale January 5, only five days before the night of the advertising frolic, was the announcement made yesterday by Walter Swanson, dance chairman of Alpha Delta Sigma national advertising honorary.

After detouring somewhat in the past two years to have the "Esquire dance," and "The Bargain Ball," the Alpha Delta Sigma boys again will swing into their original theme of "Krazy Kopy Krawl," to be presented in Gerlinger hall January 9.

During the intermission prizes and gift awards will be made. According to Swanson, prizes will include merchandise of value to any co-ed or male student.

Winter Term Registration Starts Today

Students Get Red Books In Johnson Hall; Drop Due in New Students, Constance Says

Registration procedure for winter term will be the same as for fall term, with old and new undergraduate students procuring their material at Johnson hall Monday morning. Students must finish registering in McArthur court today or pay a late fee of $1 a day, Clifford Constance, assistant registrar announced.

Graduate students will not start registration until Tuesday, with the remainder of the week to finish. Lower division advisers will be in Condon hall as they were fall term. Other advisers will be in their offices.

With fall term registration reaching 2904, Mr. Constance predicted that winter term figures will reach 2750. This drop is based on last year's figures, fall term registration being 2741, dropping to 2600 winter term.

There will be a few new students, Constance said, although no figure was available. Several students finished their work for degrees, but no degrees will be awarded until the end of spring term, according to a new ruling of the state system of higher education.

New Gym Courses

Several changes in the curriculum of the physical education school have been made, due to the additional facilities made accessible in continuation of fall term courses.

One professorial change was made during the term. Dr. Arthur J. Marder, Harvard graduate, will replace Professor Clarence G. Osborn, history professor, who recently left the University to accept a post with the resettlement administration.

Beardless Sophs Get No Amnesty From Vigilantes

Sophomores will get no amnesty from vigilantes who are mobilizing their forces to begin immediate prosecution of second-year men who have not complied with the traditional beard-growing rule in preparation for the sophomore Whiskerino, January 23 in McArthur court.

James Wells and William Frager, vigilante committee co-chairmen, drafted the staunchest of sophomore "muscle men" into the vigilantes' ranks to begin punishment of vagrant sophomores.

"In way of reminding sophomores of the sanctity of the beard-growing period, I would like to add that during January the race runs cold," Denton Burdick, Whiskerino co-chairman, proclaimed.

Oregon's New Gym Thrown Open for Student Inspection Between 7:30, 10:30 Tonight

Speakers Chosen For Winter Term First Selections; More to Be Selected Later

Although no holidays are scheduled for winter term, an extensive assembly platform has been arranged for students, which with the concert season continued, will provide entertainment in the coming weeks.

Starting January 19 with Malcolm McLean as speaker, the University will present the head of the general college of University of Minnesota, who will speak on general trends.

Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York stock exchange, will be the next speaker, coming to the campus on January 28. Mr. Beck appeared on the campus several years ago.

For several days the University will have as its guest Harrison Brown, British economist with League of Nations experience. He will be here the week of February 25, and will speak at assembly on that date. The committee in charge of assemblies is dickering for other noted speakers, the announcement of whom will be made later, according to Mr. Onthank.

ROBERTA MOODY SECRETARY

Roberta Moody, graduate of the University school of journalism in 1936, was recently appointed executive secretary of the journalism school to replace Bernice Mahoney. Miss Moody was a member of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism society, and was active on the Emerald staff before graduation last year.

TCLACA Godfather Gives Hints for Happiness in Married Students' Homes

By HOWARD KESSLER

The TCLACA marches on! Letters and cards received during the past two weeks have shown us that the movement is not ephemeral, that the Two Can Live As Cheaply Association continues to attract national attention. Communications from coast to coast, Canada to Mexico, indicate the extent of interest in the newly-founded Oregon society of married students.

Particularly encouraging is a lengthy letter from David C. Rogers of New Britain, Connecticut, "First Godfather of the TCLACA," who last month contributed $5 to the coffers of the organization. Excerpts from Mr. Rogers' reply to our reply follow:

Understanding Faculty
"I hesitate to try to make suggestions from so great a distance. There is nothing to criticize in your plans as indicated. Your project has met with a degree of understanding and cooperation from

Harvard History Professor Will Replace Osborn

Dr. Arthur J. Marder from Harvard university will replace Dr. Clarence G. Osborn, professor of history who last term taught modern Europe, Recent Russia, and China and Japan, Dr. R. C. Clark, head of the history department, said last night.

Professor Marder received his doctor's degree at Harvard last June and has been an assistant professor there.

Dr. Osborn, who came to the campus last fall from Stanford university, left the University at the end of the term to accept the post of regional land use planning economist of the resettlement administration.

Emerald Staff Will Meet January 7

Announcement of changes in personnel and plans for the term will be made at a general staff meeting of the Oregon Daily Emerald to be held Thursday at 7:30 in 105 Journalism. Regular publication of the Emerald will begin January 12.

With this issue may be initiated a new cut service, bringing to the Emerald readers all of the latest news pictures of the Pacific coast. Arrangements to obtain NEA service will probably be completed by next week.

All old members of the staff and all students interested in working on the Emerald are requested to be present at this first meeting of the term.

Eugene Gleemen Billed on ASUO Concert Series

The Eugene Gleemen, recruited on the campus last year with wide acclaim, have been added to the ASUO concert schedule as a feature attraction for the night of February 18.

The large group of local singers will present an entirely new vocal program including both classical and light opera selections. The singers appear without any musical accompaniment.

The Gleemen are directed by John Stark Evans and represent one of the largest male choruses on the coast.

Sorority Rushing Limited to Dates At Lunch, Dinner

Winter term rushing by sororities will be carried on the first week of school with luncheon and dinner dates only, according to Genevieve McNiece, president of pan-hellenic. Students entering winter term, or those living off the campus are the only ones eligible for pledging.

"No Radio This Year
The couple undertaking early marriage will wish that their home be as attractive as is practicable, but they may rightly feel that the marriage adds immensely to the richness of their lives even though there is no increase whatsoever in space occupied, in expensive furnishings, or in luxuries such as radio or automobile.

"If parents have been contributing to the education or support of either member of the couple, (Please turn to page four)

Ten Intriguing Reasons for Buying an ASUO Card

Or is it the ten best reasons for buying a student body card? These ten beautiful ballerinas are but a group of the 125 dancers who will appear on the campus February 4 to present the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Plans are being made to make the event the social and cultural highlight of the winter season. It is believed that glamor of this sort will help.
