

Heilig Theater Offers Billing, Radio Audition

Four-Day Engagement, Trial Over KOIN Will Be Given Local Singer January 24 to 27

An opportunity for a local soprano to receive a four-day theater engagement and an audition over station KOIN in Portland has been offered by the Heilig theater in Eugene.

The theater announced that it will hold an audition to select a soprano to fill a singing engagement on their stage January 24 to 27.

All Expenses Paid
The winner will also be sent to Portland for a radio audition over station KOIN with all her expenses paid.

It is planned to have the young lady sing in conjunction with the picture "Three Smart Girls" in which Universal's new star, Deanne Durbin, is appearing.

Based On Three Songs
In the picture Miss Durbin sings the songs, "My Heart Is Singing," "Somebody To Care For Me," and "I Bacio." These three songs will be used as the basis of the audition.

The audition is open only to soprano voices. As this is not being confined to the campus alone, anyone interested is urged to get in touch with D. R. Whetsel at the Heilig theater immediately.

Dake To Open Lecture Series

H. C. Dake, president of the Oregon mineralogy society, will open the winter term series of popular science and lectures at 8 Saturday in Condon hall, with an informal address on "Semi-precious Stones in Oregon."

Scientific exhibitions of work done in various divisions of the science department are being made in connection with the lecture. These exhibitions will be open to the public Saturday afternoon and in the evening after the lecture.

Both the lecture and the exhibition by the University museum group, with Dr. L. S. Cressman, head of the anthropology department, in charge.

Dake, being particularly interested in agates, will emphasize these in his lecture. The talk will appeal to popular interest, being non-technical in nature, according to Dr. A. E. Caswell, chairman of the popular lecture series. Interested students, faculty, and townspeople are invited.

First U of O Band Concert of Year Is Next Sunday

Although a winter term program has not yet been completed, the University concert band will present its program January 17 in McArthur court, it was announced yesterday by Douglas Orme, director.

In the past all three of the University bands have been prominent supporters at events given by the University. The concert band, of which Orme is director, is composed of 45 members. Orme also directs the athletic band which has 50 members. The "second" band, director by Mayo Sorenson, junior at the University, is an organization for the development of more inexperienced players, and has 25 members.

The program for the winter term will be announced later.

Byrd, Leader of Polar Expeditions, to Speak

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, noted Antarctic explorer, will give a lecture on his antarctic expedition at McArthur court January 27. A matinee lecture will be given at 3:00, and all Lane county schools will be dismissed to let school children attend. The evening lecture will start at 8:15. University students will be admitted upon presentation of their student body cards.

Born at Winchester, Virginia, October 25, 1888, Byrd entered the United States Naval Academy in 1908 and graduated in 1912. During the World war he was in charge of the United States air stations in Canada and served on a commission which put him in charge of the air training camps. He was in charge of the naval unit with the Navy-MacMillan Arctic expedition in 1925. Upon his return he was made a lieutenant-commander.

Byrd is the only man to command airplane flights over the North and South poles. In June, 1927, he flew from New York to France and in 1928-30 organized and headed the first Byrd Antarctic expedition. He was made a rear admiral in December, 1929 for his flight over the South pole.

and in 1933-35 organized and headed the second Byrd Antarctic expedition. Congress adopted a joint resolution expressing the nation's gratitude to him, May 7, 1935. He already had 21 citations on official service record. He was invited by President Roosevelt on behalf of the nation to make Washington, D. C., his first port of call for the returning expedition, where the President received him at the navy yard, May 10, 1935.

Prosperity for Students Predicted by Onthank

A prosperous winter term for students working their way all or in part through the University is predicted by Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel.

There were more jobs fall term than for several years, and prospects for the winter term are just as good, says Dean Onthank. Those who remained in Eugene to work during the two weeks' vacation were kept busy with odd jobs, according to the University employment office.

Permanent part-time or full-time jobs are becoming more and plentiful as business conditions become better and the skill and experience of students fit them for better jobs, said Dean Onthank. He termed odd jobs valuable in training students for more permanent work.

NYA work will remain much the same for the winter term, with about 340 appointments already made to use the allotment of $4350. Of these, approximately 100 were given to students who did not receive aid the fall term, and 240 were reappointments.

The majority of the 100 students not reappointed failed to make the required GPA, which was a 2.25 minimum for freshmen and 2.75 for all others. About 40 exceptions, for sickness and similar reasons, to this rule, were allowed by the NYA committee which made the reappointments, which are only for the winter term. A few students dropped off NYA, saying they did not need financial assistance the winter term.

Regard will be given to what the student can do and likes to do, with a definite attempt to

Travel Series Given on KOAC

Oregon Foreign Students Speak on Distant Lands And Social Customs

A series of travel talks by students from foreign lands are presented over station KOAC every Thursday afternoon from 3:00 to 3:30 o'clock under the sponsorship of the General extension division of the University.

Students and adults interested in foreign travel are invited to write for supplementary material. Carl Heinz Oedekoven from Bonn, Germany, who spoke on "German Youth Today," was the first of these speakers talking last Thursday, January 7.

Other speakers include: Sadegh Madjidi Ahi, Tehran, Iran, who will speak on "A New Concept of Persia" on January 14; Yen Po Shih, Tientsin, China, who will talk on "China From the Inside" on January 21; and Edith Sun, "Chinese Women of the Twentieth Century" on January 28.

The present tentative slate includes six dual meets, along with the conference meet which will be held in Pullman this year. At the present time Oregon is trying to line up a meet with OSC on a home and home basis.

Other meets are Washington at Seattle, and California, Stanford, and San Jose State, all at Eugene. Due to the late start, Hoyman plans to have no meets before the latter part of February.

place him where he can secure training in line with his professional goal or which will enable him to fit himself for a life occupation. Benefit to the University will be a secondary consideration, said Dean Onthank, outlining the policy of the NYA committee which he heads.

Eugene Gleemen Ranks Hold Many UO Profs

The Gleemen, a singing organization composed of business men of Eugene, under the direction of John Stark Evans, professor of music at the University, will give a concert in McArthur court, February 18. The program, not yet completed, will be released later.

The organization is composed of 80 members. Several members of the University faculty belong, among whom are John L. Casteel of the speech department, C. L. Constance, assistant registrar, Earl M. Pallett, secretary and registrar, and E. S. Tuttle, payroll clerk.

Many of the members are ex-college glee club members, and all have had a great deal of experience in singing. Mr. Evans has been leader of the Gleemen for 10 years.

Members of the ASUO may use their student body cards for entrance to the concert. Others will be charged a 40c admission fee.

Before the concert here the Gleemen plan to sing in Salem January 27, at a boy scout benefit sponsored by the Rotary club there.

Campus Tournaments Will Commence Soon

All-campus tournaments in handball, pingpong, and squash will begin as soon as enough contestants sign up. In all probability this will be in about a week.

The tournaments provide for both singles and doubles championships.

ALONG FASHION ROW

When classes are over, the University man begins to think about his affairs for the week-end, and what he is going to wear. While formality may be a new note for campus fashions to many this season, a corresponding degree of formality must be observed at the University.

Many Universities like our own are located in small towns and they try to avoid the formal type of clothing. This is wrong for us, so for the formal evening try to cast aside or get away from the idea of the dark suit with a plain or sport back and wear the Tuxedo. There is nothing more flattering to one than to be well dressed, and it is more in keeping with the idea in mind. Many of us feel that it is a great deal of bother and a waste of time to dress formally. But we are wrong, and it is time that we exhibited culture that is due to be characteristic of a state University. . . . WMS.

This week's column is sponsored by McMoran and Washburne's, and from them comes the following message:

Welcome back for the winter term—which spells—hard work—winter sports—cold north winds—warm fireplaces—long bull sessions—but most of all the formal season.

There are plenty of outstanding things to be said about the formal season, especially men's dress. First, the new smartly cut Midnite blue tuxedo known as the Casino Club—double breasted, gros-grain lapels, full drape coat, and pleated trousers.

Accessories will be varied and many, both in color and style. You may see worn with the Casino Club, a dubonnette bow tie with dubonnette studs and links to match also, the dubonnette cummerbund or the same articles in Midnite blue or the conventional black.

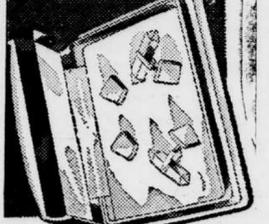

The shirt and collar have added interest this season, made possible thru the new Lido—a shirt and collar so smartly different you'll know it on sight, because of the accepted streamline detachable wing collar. The shirt is so complete that it has brace loops, anchor tab, longer and narrower dicky, front buttoning, and two studs.

The men's clothing department of this store will be glad to serve you and see that your formal wardrobe is within keeping of the occasion.

The Letters of a Modern Father

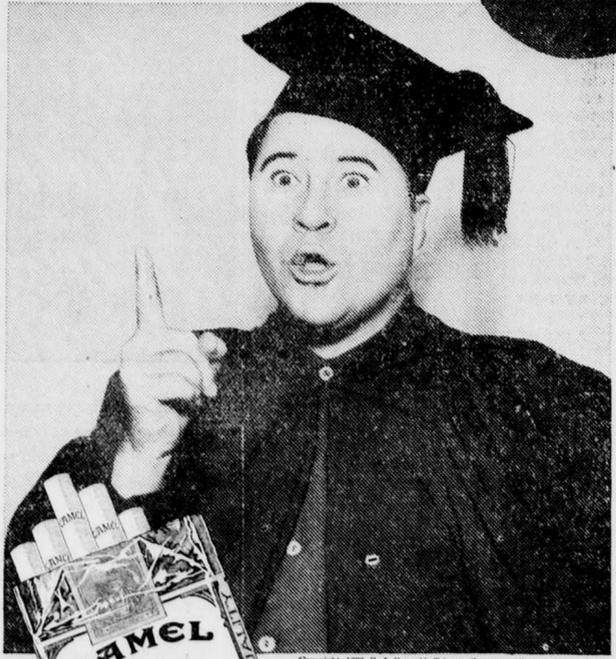

Dear Daughter: I was so relieved to see your picture in last Sunday's paper. We had begun to be uneasy. When you went to Portland to spend the vacation with your three car school friends we didn't expect you to write but we thought you would send your address. Picking you out of that skiing group on Mt. Hood made everything all right again.

Are you coming home or will you go direct to school; and if so, what school? I wouldn't be prying into your affairs but your sister Eloise is going to be married and she said she'd like you to be a bridesmaid if we could find you. Eloise is your second sister, you will recall; next to Peggy. I don't know exactly who Eloise is marrying, but it's next month. I asked her the man's name but I didn't catch it and as she was in a hurry I hesitated about making her repeat it. She said I would be crazy about him if I should ever know him. Your mother and I hope to meet him before the wedding, but that is not so important as we probably will see a great deal of him afterward. You Affectionate Father.
