

Washington State Turns Tables on Webfoots, Winning 42-28

THE Firing Line

By PAT FRIZZELL

Billy Reinhart aroused the East with his basketball team at George Washington university last winter, and now our Bill is showing the lads back there even more tricks.

George Washington has won eight consecutive games and this coming Saturday will go into Madison Square to face New York's beloved Long Island university.

Reinhart's gang, in winning eight in a row, has outscored all but one opponent by at least 20 points. The team holding them to the "low-score" triumph was Nebraska, and the tough Cornhuskers, from the basketball hot-bed of the world, were tumbled by a 19-point margin.

Who do you think is leading Reinhart's outfit to all these walk-aways? None other than a lanky gentleman named Jack Butterworth, who only a year ago was doing his stuff for Oregon Normal down at Monmouth.

Butterworth, whom Reinhart brought to the coast from Indiana, was once ticketed to perform as a Webfoot here. Transfer of Reinhart to George Washington changed all that.

Anyway, the former Wolf ace has been ringing up the buckets almost at will back there in what metropolitan writers choose to call the "big time" of basketball. He scored 17 points against St. John's, which in the hoop sport rates as a major outfit.

When Reinhart brought Butterworth to Monmouth, with him came a midget firebrand named Dave Osborne, who also played two seasons for Oregon normal, and, like Butterworth, was scheduled to transfer to Oregon. My source of information doesn't list Osborne as a member of Reinhart's first five at George Washington, but it's a safe bet that the little fellow is back there. He and Butterworth were as clever a David-and-Goliath combination as you could find.

Incidentally, the teams George Washington has rolled over by those 20-point scores are Johns Hopkins, Marshall, Nebraska, Mount St. Mary's, St. John's of Brooklyn, Elon, and Wake Forest. Some of these don't rank so high in football, but several are leading basketball powers.

An even break with Washington State on the Cougars' own floor is all Webfoot followers could have hoped for. Bobby Anet, Silver, Purdy, and the rest of the gang did mighty well to gain a split.

This Inland Empire tour is a tough grind, and two wins in the four games are usually satisfactory. On paper, the Ducks rate an edge over Idaho, but it isn't safe to prophesy about such an unknown quantity as the Vandals. If the lads split at Moscow, they'll be doing well enough.

Idaho has a new coach and a new system of play. Forrest Twogood, a pupil of Southern California's Sam Berry, tutors the Vandals this season, and his proteges held Washington's vaunted Huskies to close scores at Seattle. Being a disciple of Berry, Twogood probably employs a slow, deliberate offense, made up of set plays. And on their home floor, the Vandals are likely to make those plays stick.

Twogood coached freshman basketball for eight years at Southern California. He joined the Trojan staff after graduating from the University of Iowa in 1929.

Here's something you may have known about Twogood, but I'll bet two cookies you haven't thought of it. He's the same Twogood who for several seasons pitched for Cleveland in the American league.

Yep, Mr. Twogood is a baseballist. He worked a number of games for the Indians and is at present the property of the Cleveland club. He'll probably play no more baseball because of an arm injury.

Short shorts... Lyle Smith, Idaho sophomore guard, held Chuck Wagner of Washington to two points in the two games the Vandals played at Seattle... Which is something... Wagner scored 21 points against UCLA... Remember what he did here last winter... Purdy and Ohio State are leading the Big Ten basketball race.

The Delta Upsilon A basketweavers ran up a lead of 7 to 1 in the first quarter of their game with the Fijis last night, but the Fijis fought back to take a 12-to-10 victory.

Dick Hutchison sank the deciding basket with 30 seconds to play. This was the first defeat for the DUs, and the Fijis remain unbeaten.

Half-time score was 9 to 5 for Delta Upsilon but the DUs could add but one point in the second half, while the Fijis potted away at the hoop for seven. The outcome was in doubt until the last few seconds, but the Fijis kept banging steadily away at the basket and forged ahead to win by two points.

Hutchison High Scorer
Hutchison was high point man for the winners with two field goals and two foul conversions for a total of six points. Bill McInturff and Bob Newlands led the losers with four each.

Six fouls were called on each team. The Fijis held out four of eight attempts and the DUs made two of six.

ATO's and Betas Hold Undefeated Record in Donut League Action; DU's Win in B League

By CHUCK VAN SCOYOC
In a bitterly contested A league intramural basketball clash which nearly ended in a brawl, the Betas humbled the Phi Sigs yesterday, 18 to 9.

Neither team scored until the last minute of the first quarter, when Steve Anderson, Vern Moore, and Wilson Siegmund dropped in cripple shots in rapid succession to place the Betas in the lead, 6 to 0 for the initial period. LeRoy Mattingly dropped in a cripple, but the points were nullified because of his travelling with the ball.

Following the rest period, the Phi Sigs opened fire when Fetsch and Hobson dropped in cripples, but the attack soon bogged down and the Phi Sigs were unable to score again in the first half. A sucker shot and a foul toss by Bob Beard completed the scoring for the Betas in the second quarter, bringing half-time score to 9 to 4 for the boys on the millrace.

Close Checking Features
The third quarter was featured by close checking by both teams. Siegmund managed to pot two for the Betas, while Mattingly tossed in a foul shot for the Phi Sigs. Hobson starred for the Phi Sigs in the final period, when he potted two beautiful pivot shots from the foul line. Siegmund and Moore matched these points by tipping in cripples.

The final minute of play was climaxed in a wild-eyed affair. Adams of the Betas was ordered to the bench for unnecessary roughness and the Betas, playing with but four men, managed to stave off many wildly-tossed shots until the final gun sounded.

Siegmund led the Beta scoring with nine points, while Hobson topped the Phi Sigs with six counter-ers.

DU B 9, Alpha B 8
In a game which saw the lead change twice in the last minute of play, the DU B team eked out a 9-to-8 victory over Alpha hall B.

Both teams were very wild in shooting and neither scored until the closing minutes of the second quarter.

Lyon opened the scoring for the DUs with a cripple which was immediately matched by Woods of Alpha. Later in the quarter, Woods dropped in another to bring the halftime score to 4 to 2 for Alpha.

Shedy put the DUs ahead early in the third quarter by sinking a foul shot and a cripple but it was soon erased when Shea of Alpha potted one to place Alpha in the lead once more. In the final session Kemler pushed in one for the DUs which once more placed them in the final minute of play.

During the wild scramble of the closing moments, Walker of Alpha dropped in a cripple which seemed to put the game on ice, but the unexpected happened and Lyon squeezed in a cripple in the final seconds to pull the game out of the fire, 9 to 8.

Idaho Pointing Toward Duck Hoop Series

Vandals in Good Shape After Montana Series; Twogood Works Men On Floor Plays

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Jan. 20.—(Special)—Back from their loss and win at the University of Montana over the weekend, the Idaho Vandals started pointing their attack toward the Oregon Ducks this weekend.

The Oregon men split their series with Washington State college two weeks ago when the Cougars were making their Oregon invasion, and played at Pullman on Tuesday and Wednesday. The Washington State series for the Ducks gave Coach Forrest Twogood and his men an opportunity to see the Ducks in action.

No Injuries Listed
All of the Idaho men came through the Montana series in good shape, with no injuries reported. Wild Bill Kramer, Idaho guard, led the scoring for the Idaho team in both games, netting 12 points in the first and 10 in the second contest.

With Oregon having the height in the coming series, Twogood is working his men this week in speedy floor plays with the object of keeping the ball in Idaho's possession all of the time—not part of the time.

Point for Silver
Rangy David Silver, Oregon forward, who has set a fast scoring pace in the conference thus far in the season, will have big Don Johnson to contend with during the Idaho games. Johnson's main assignment will be to hold Silver scoreless, if possible. In the Washington series Lyle Smith, Vandal forward, had the assignment of keeping Chuck Wagner from the basket, with Wagner scoring only two points in the series.

Friday Marks Resumption of Little Civil War

Baby Beavers Reported Strongest in Decade; Ducklings Headed by Ex-All-State Sarpola

Freshman hoopers of Oregon State college and the University of Oregon are busily sharpening their artillery this week for a renewal of their annual "little civil war" feud.

Scene of the first battle will be in Corvallis Friday evening, and the two rivals move down to McArthur court the next night to give local fans a chance to witness thrill-packed action.

Oregon's Ducklings settled down last night to some intense practice, following a busy week of action. The frosh have waded through five pre-season games with but one loss, piling up 205 points to 139 for opponents. Tuesday's Signal Oil tilt wound up their campaign for the rook series.

The Baby Beavers, reputedly the best to represent Oregon State in a decade, have played three games to date, winning all three. Howard Maple, new rook mentor, is blessed with an outstanding bevy of prep players, including four all-state men.

He has a trio from last year's Corvallis Spartans, who swept to an easy state championship. Stew Warren, center, and Merle Kruger, and Roy Pflugrad, forwards, are the lads. Tommy Hansen and Jake Hergert, former Portland prep aces, along with Frank Mandic, stand-out from Los Angeles, are the leading Orange Babes who have seen action at guard posts.

John Warren, pessimistic frosh headman, is not without ball players, either. Heading his list of all-stars is Ted Sarpola, neatest ball handler on the squad, and three times picked at forward on the all-state when playing for Astoria. Sarpola has poked 59 points into the hemp in five games this season.

Not far behind Sarpola is rangy John Dick, ex-The Dalles hoopman. Pivot-man Dick has dropped in 55 tallies for an 11-point average, not far behind the pace set by Laddie Gale, last year's whirlwind center.

Matt Pavalunas, all-state forward from Raymond, Washington, has been one of the team's most consistent scorers, and is a classy ball handler besides. Pavalunas has been one of the main cogs in Warren's Duckling quintet. He was out of most of the Signal Oil game Tuesday recuperating from last week's bruising encounters.

Stan Short, Roseberg's contribution at guard, is not a high scorer, but packs a lot of drive, and is a mainstay off the backboards for the yearlings. Bob Blenkinsop, Dennis Donovan, and Paul Jackson are a trio of other freshmen who have been seeing action in recent games.

Cougars Take Lead Early; Lewis, Purdy Stars for Oregon

Ducks Begin With Zone Defense; Change as Pullmanites Connect With Howitzers

Washington State's Cougars slipped into a lead midway through the first half at Pullman last night and held it throughout a hard-fought northern division basketball game to win from Oregon's Webfoots, 42 to 28.

Oregon won the previous night, 40 to 36, and last night's Cougar triumph gave the teams an even split in their four-game series for the season.

Long Ones Connect
Hobby Hobson, Oregon coach, opened the game with the same zone defense that was credited with success Tuesday. The Cougars, led by Sophomore Cassius Dalquist, opened up with long howitzers half-way through the first period and the Webfoots shifted to a man-for-man defense.

Washington State's inspired crew penetrated that also and went on to pile up a 17-to-8 lead by half-time.

The Cougars commanded the tip-off and monopolized the ball at both backboards as the second half started. Big Ivar Nelson began connecting from under the basket, and Jack Friel's home team raced the count to 35 to 14.

Purdy Holes Three
Ken Purdy saved the Ducks from

who is rated as one of the best pivot men in the league, will be bothered during the Idaho series by Roland Winter, the boy on the Vandal squad with the big hands. Winter has shown his ability in shadowing his men in both the Montana and Washington games and will have his big hands full in scampering about the court after Wintermute.

Twogood will make no predictions as to the starters in the Friday and Saturday games, stating, "It will depend on how the boys look in practice this week."

complete oblivion by potting three successive field goals from mid-floor, but the Cougars coasted in with 14 points to spare.

Purdy and John Lewis were Oregon's stars for the evening. Lewis paced the Webfoots in early stages of the fray. Nelson of the Cougars led all scoring with 10 points. Tini Johnson and Captain Bill Dahlke of Washington State and Purdy and Lewis of Oregon had 8 each.
