

Turf Tag Sales Start Saturday

Canvassing of Downtown Merchants Is Planned by University Coeds

"We are helping turf Hayward field . . . are you" tags will be sold in the downtown Eugene business section next Saturday by 40 sorority girls representing many houses on the campus. The entire district will be zoned off and the girls will make a store-to-store canvass, also asking the people on the street to buy.

At a meeting Monday night various committees were chosen to run the financing plan. Felker Morris and Mary Elizabeth Novell were elected as co-chairmen for the tag drive.

Bill VanDusen and Dick Watson last night had received over $180 in contributions. More than $170 of this money came from sororities and fraternities on the campus.

Although no definite effort to contact the alumni has yet been made two men have sent in voluntary contributions. The men making the donations were Luke Goodrich of Lakeview, Oregon, and Frank Taylor of Blackbutte, Oregon.

Mr. Goodrich played football for Oregon about 1900.

Cecil Bowling Is Given Final Exam for Honors

Cecil Bowling took his final examination Tuesday evening for the doctor of education degree, which is the highest degree that the school of education offers.

The title for his thesis was "The Objectives of Social Intelligence Evaluated by Contemporary Educational Philosophy." He received his bachelor's degree from the State Teachers college at Commerce, Texas, and his master's degree from Western State college at Gunnison, Colorado. Following that he had a year of graduate work at the University of Colorado and he completed his education with a year of graduate work here.

Rear Admiral Byrd

(Continued from base one) exploring flights on this trip added 450,000 square miles of territory to the known Antarctic.

Admiral Byrd, who is habitually photographed resplendent in uniform, is a different kind of admiral when he goes "down under" into the Antarctic. There, the famed explorer is just one of the group, and undertakes the same rotating duties as the rest. During the last expedition, he took his turn at cooking, dishwashing and his stretch as night watchman.

On his Arctic expedition in 1926, where he commanded the first airplane flight over the North Pole, Byrd also took his place in the coal-shoveling brigade, and was accounted a good shoveler.

Admiral Byrd will also recount his experience at Bolling advance

'Little Colonel' Election Plans Undergo Change

Details of the new method in choosing a Little Colonel to command the Military ball have been announced by Scabbard and Blade.

This all-campus formal, to be held Saturday, February 20, will have five feminine officers this year instead of only one, as in the past. The Little Colonel will be assisted by a staff of two majors and two captains, all to be selected by popular vote at the dance.

The president of each women's living organization will be asked to submit the names of two or three upperclass women in the house in a sealed envelope to a member of Scabbard and Blade. From this list, members of the honor society will pick 15 coeds as candidates for offices.

As these 15 names are to be printed on the programs, all entries must be submitted not later than Wednesday, February 3.

On the night of the dance, each person entering the ballroom will cast a vote for one of the 15 candidates named on the programs. The girl with the greatest number of votes will be named the Little Colonel; of the next four highest, two will be appointed majors and two captains.

At 11 o'clock the appointments will be announced and command of the ball turned over to the girls amid the color of a dignified military ceremony.

The Military ball is the highlight of Scabbard and Blade's social program on the campus. All cadet officers will appear in full-dress regalia, lending color and distinction to the military ceremonies to be held during the course of the evening.

While tuxedos will be the order of the evening, ordinary dark suits will be permissible.

Two Students Punished By Discipline Committee

At a recent meeting of the student discipline committee, a student, who had taken a book from the reserve library and kept it overtime, signing a fictitious name, was required to purchase five additional copies of the book taken out and was also placed on disciplinary probation.

Another student who was found guilty of the same offense with respect to a number of books and who failed to return the books at all was dropped from the University and required to pay for the missing books.

base, 123 miles south of Little America, where he went alone as the best bet of a "one or three" choice. Two people could not stay five months in a 9 by 13 shack and stay friendly, so Byrd went alone—and nearly lost his life from poisonous fumes.

Prices for the matinee are: high school and grammar school, 25c; general admission, 40c; and reserved seats, 75c. The evening performance charge will be general admission 75c; and reserved seats, $1.

Econ Authority Speaks Feb. 22

American Representative To Europe Will Discuss Conditions Abroad

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance of Harrison Brown, English economist authority, to speak here February 25 before a student assembly, Karl W. Onthank, chairman of the assembly committee, said yesterday.

Mr. Harrison is a regular contributing editor to leading journals, and for five years was European representative of the American Committee for the Outlawing of War, and has had exceptional opportunities for studying the European situation through personal contact with leading statesmen and attendance at international conferences at Geneva.

In May, 1936, Mr. Brown left England for a visit to the Scandinavian countries, Russia, China, and Japan. While his special field is central Europe, he will have a report on the general situation in the East.

Mr. Brown's tour of the United States is being sponsored by the institute of international education located at New York City.

Student groups desiring personal talks from Mr. Brown should contact Dean Allen of the journalism school, or Zane Kemler, as soon as possible.

Seamen Protest Maritime Act

Picketing members of the International Seamen's union, from Baltimore, are shown before the headquarters of a Federal department. They are picketing the department of commerce, protesting features of the Copeland Maritime act which they term "anti-labor."

Passing Show

The shipment, expected to replenish markets for Lenten sales, will be followed by 50 more cars which will load a good part of the year's salmon output of 5,000,000 cases tied up on Seattle docks since October 29.

FDR Extends RFC

The life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, perhaps the greatest institution created during Hoover's administration, was extended for three years yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Since its creation in 1932, Chairman Jesse Jones reported, the RFC has loaned more than $9,500,000,000 and has been paid back more than $4,500,000,000.

Dust Storms Ahead

Unless nature diverts to the "dust bowl" on the great plains some of the rain that has caused the devastating floods in the Ohio valley, severe dust storms await farmers in the plains states during the coming summer, soil conservation authorities said yesterday.

While the soil conservation measures affecting some 600,000 acres have been entirely successful, the soil on the plains land is still powdery and dry and subject to severe drifting when high winds blow, officials believed.

Students to Hold State War Strike

Largest and Most Colorful Display Yet Is Promised By Chairman

Students in the state of Oregon will express their opposition to war if plans now being undertaken by Oregon Student union chapters are successful.

Charles Paddock, chairman of the state strike committee, said the strike against war this April will be the largest and most colorful yet seen in the state. Plans are already underway at Reed college in Portland and at the University.

The state strike committee expects to see demonstrations staged at Willamette university, Monmouth Normal school, Oregon State college, and others. High schools will participate for the first time in Portland, Salem, and Eugene. Strike activity here will be financed by a campaign headed by Hayes Beall.

Members of the central strike committee as appointed by various organizations will meet soon to lay definite plans for the local demonstration.

All-Campus Dessert

(Continued from page one) real social event, where as many as possible will go escorted," Gilbert Schultz, student body president, said last night. "The atmosphere will be entirely different from that of a basketball game where 'pigger' is yelled if anyone goes with a date."

Although similar all-campus desserts have proved very successful at Oregon State college, this is the first attempt at Oregon.

Ballet Season's Highlight As well as being a social highlight, the ballet will also be the
