

YW Soph Group Sells Yarn Dolls

Basketball Favors Made To Represent Players; To Be Worn at Game

The yarn doll sale put on by the sophomore commission of the YWCA will be held Friday, February 26. The dolls, which are being made by the sophomore women, are to be sold on the campus during the day and at the Oregon-Oregon State game and dance in the evening.

The dolls will be of yellow and green yarn and will be made to look like basketball players.

Money from the sales is to be used for buying song books for the YWCA.

Chairmen Listed
Margaret Goldsmith, vice-president of the commission, is general chairman of the project. Her directorate will be as follows: Ruth Hillman, campus sales; Alyce Rodgers, finance; Helen Rands, game sales; Dorothy Hutchins, contacting of houses; Mary Frances Henderson, publicity; Louise Plummer, construction, and Helen Anderson, yarn.

All sophomore women on the campus are urged to come to the YWCA on next Tuesday afternoon to help make the dolls. They are asked to come in any time between 1 and 5 o'clock. The meeting will be a social one and tea will be served during the afternoon.

Webfoots, Beavers

Indications are that lineups for both teams will be the same as opened the Washington games. Both outfits turned in satisfactory performances against the champion Huskies.

Lineups Listed
Oregon Mentor Hobson will probably start Dave Silver and John Lewis at forwards; Slim Wintermute at center, and Bobby Anet and Wally Johansen at guards.
Oregon State Tutor Gill is likely to send at the Webfoots a lineup including Art Merryman and Hub Tuttle at forwards; Earl Conkling at center, and Mal Harris and Elmer Kolberg at guards.

Ken Purdy, who won the first "civil war" game for Oregon, 35 to 34, with a last minute Frank Merriwell field goal, is certain to see action tonight. His long shots are effective against a zone defense such as that used by Oregon State.

Other Webfoots likely to play tonight are Laddie Gale, Bill Courtney, and Ray Jewell. Leading Oregon State reserves are Ike Wintermute, Jay Hollingsworth, Bob Rissman, Chet Kebbe, and Sir Howard Watson Lyman.

Tip-off Important
Possession of the tip-off will be highly important tonight. Wintermute has a four-inch height advantage over Conkling, but the Beavers, according to reports from Corvallis, have been drilling all week on tip-offs and they may steal the ball. Tip-off work has also been a part of Oregon's practice sessions during the week.

Oregon State was impotent offensively in early-season games, but the Beavers found their offensive spark against Washington and are now rated a dangerous opponent. Defensively the Orangemen are the best in the conference.

Teams May Use Zone
Oregon out-drove Washington in the first of the series played here early this week, but the over-anxious young Ducks were off form the second night and took a drubbing.

Fans tonight may see zone defense on both sides. The Beavers always use the zone style of play.

King Edward Pal Of John Milton's Says Quiz Paper

Smart answers typifying intelligent Oregon students . . . Bertram Jessup, English professor, tells of one student's slight mistake in his midterm in survey of English literature.

It seems that the question was asked, "what was the occasion for the writing of the poem 'Lycidas,' by John Milton?" The student responded by writing that King Edward and Milton were great friends, and that they were both shepherds. One day a lamb wandered away from the flock they were tending, and the two young men chased it until they were stopped by a high bluff. King Edward was unfortunate enough to fall over the cliff and into the sea. Milton wrote this poem as a memory to his dear friend.

For the benefit of those students who have not read this poem, or for those who were also asleep when it was discussed in class, the drowned man's name was Edward King. The occasion of the poem was the death of this fellow student of Milton's at Cambridge, by drowning in the Irish Sea. Milton adopted the elegy as the expression of grief for a young and promising friend, who as a clergyman might not unfittingly be described as a shepherd.

and the Webfoots employed it against Washington. Probability is that Oregon will open with a man-for-man defense.

Man to watch in the Oregon State lineup is Art Merryman, a gentleman who directs the offense and piles up the points. New scoring ace for the Beavers is transfer Mal Harris.

Lewis Duck Ace
New offensive ace for Oregon is Johnny Lewis, who paced Webfoot scoring in the Washington series. Dave Silver and Slim Wintermute are other Oregon scoring leaders. Real leaders of the Ducks are Bob Anet and Wally Johansen, who spark the team's floor play.

General admission for students not presenting ASUO cards is 55 cents. Reserved seats are 75 cents.

Sociologists Meet To Be Feb. 12-13

4 University Men to Take Part; Dean J. H. Gilbert Is to Preside

Four University men will participate in the annual conference of social workers to be held at the Osburn hotel, February 12 and 13. James H. Gilbert, dean of the school of social sciences, will preside over a meeting at which the social, economic, and political aspects of the social security program will be the topic for discussion.

During the meeting, E. H. Moore, professor of sociology, will talk on the effect of the social security program on our approaching stationary population. Herman Kehrl, director of the bureau of municipal research, will talk on the administrative and financial relationship of the county, state, and federal government under social security.

At a breakfast on Saturday morning, Ralph Couch, secretary and business manager of the medical school, will discuss medical care for children in Oregon—medical school participation.

DeMolay Officers To Be Installed On February 9

The Eugene DeMolay chapter will hold a public installation of new officers at 9 p.m. Tuesday, February 9 in the Masonic Temple at Nineteenth and Olive streets. A dance and refreshments will follow the installation.

All DeMolay members on the Oregon campus are invited, and plans for the establishment of a campus organization of DeMolays will be discussed in an open session. All Rainbow Girls and Jobs Daughters on the campus are invited to attend the meeting and take part in the dancing to follow.

Under the direction of retiring Master Councilor Emil Solberg, new officers of the Eugene chapter will be installed. They are: James Phillips, master councilor; Max Frye, senior councilor; and Robert Duncan, junior councilor. Assisting Solberg will be Kenneth Cole, Philip Ackerman and Robert Findtner.

Retailers to Hold First Convention

The first annual convention of the Oregon Retail Distributors' association will be held at the University of Oregon campus, Monday, May 3. The conference will be devoted to a discussion of current retail problems.

A governing board of 11, a program committee and accommodation committee and a publicity committee were elected at the second meeting of the Oregon Retail Distributors' association held Friday evening at the Eugene hotel.

The primary purpose of the association, which was organized January 14 with the aid of Dr. Newel H. Comish, is to put at the disposal of the retail distributors the marketing research facilities of the school of business administration.

N. H. Comish, professor of business administration was elected as permanent secretary at the initial meeting of the organization.

Judges Chosen For Story Contest

Professor W. F. G. Thacher today announced the selection of the judges for this year's Edison Marshall short story contest, the deadline for which has been advanced to Monday, February 15. No manuscripts will be accepted after that time.

The judges appointed by Professor Thacher are Charles Hulten, assistant professor of journalism, Miss Celia Hager of Eugene and formerly of the University faculty, and Ray Lapham, graduate student of English who is studying for his doctor's degree at Oregon on leave of absence from Whitman college.

The prize for the best short story submitted will be $50 cash. Each contestant is to make two copies of his story, one of which may be a carbon. The name of the author must not appear on any part of the manuscript, but should be submitted in an envelope with the name of the story on the outside. All manuscripts should be typewritten.

Oklahoma Dean Studying U of O

Dr. Patterson Inspects the State Education System On University Campus

Dr. Herbert Patterson, dean of the school of education of the Oklahoma Agriculture and Mechanical college at Stillwater, Oklahoma, has been on the campus for the last two days conferring with University educators and investigating Oregon's system of education.

Dr. Patterson is "particularly interested in the program of coordination of higher education" at Oregon. He has spent much time studying the general administration, the school of education, and the training school.

Being on a year's sabbatical leave of absence, Dr. Patterson is studying the education system of many schools. He left immediately after last summer school session at Stillwater, of which he is the director, for the west coast.

Friday noon a luncheon was held at the College Side for Dr. Patterson, to give educators an opportunity to discuss their problems with him. While in Eugene he is the guest of Dean J. R. Jewell, dean of the school of education.

Hot Stove Stuff

Fuel was tossed into the tiny blaze of baseball's hot stove leaguers' heaters yesterday when National League President Ford Frick denied that he and labor leader John L. Lewis might cross bats.

Frick said he refused to give credence to a recent magazine article which stated that Lewis would try to organize a baseball players' union. The matter will not be brought before national league club owners, in session today to ratify the 1937 schedule.

Railroaders Walk

Five railroad unions last night posted notice that they would strike, Luther M. Walter, trustee of the Chicago Great Western railroad, said last night. The employees will go out on the evening of February 9 at 6 o'clock if wage readjustment demands are not met.

J. W. Leohnardt, principal of La Grande junior high school and a former Oregon student, is writing a thesis for his master's degree under Dr. H. D. Sheldon, professor of education and history. He is gathering the history of education in LaGrande and has much excellent material on early schools in Oregon.

George Hopkins Ends Month's Concert Tour

A "highly successful trip" was reported by George Hopkins, professor of piano who has just returned from a tour with Goeta Ljunberg, well-known Swedish soprano opera star, on which he was her accompanist and assistant artist in her concerts.

Mr. Hopkins, who left Eugene January 9 for New Mexico where their first engagement was to be held, reported a rather bad start, as he was traveling to Portland in a bus which was involved in an accident. Luckily, he was uninjured and able to continue his trip.

He arrived in Silver City, New Mexico a little later than was anticipated, and Miss Ljunberg was also late. An hour after arriving in the city, they had to give their performance, so there was no time for rehearsal. "That first concert," said Mr. Hopkins, "showed that she was an experienced singer." In spite of the lack of a rehearsal, the concert went smoothly and Mr. Hopkins played two groups of piano solos. That concert was sponsored by the New Mexico Teacher's college, and was one of a series of concerts they were presenting.

The next engagement was at the University of Arizona in Tucson. The sincere interest which the students at the College of the Pacific in Stockton, California, took in the musical program was noted by Mr. Hopkins. "They were very attentive," he remarked, "and after the concert crowded on the stage to discuss with us questions about musical matters." In fact, Mr. Hopkins reported that all the audiences received them enthusiastically. The last concert was at the normal school in Bellingham, Washington. Due to weather conditions, the rest of the program was cancelled.

In speaking of the singer, Goeta Ljunberg, Mr. Hopkins said she came to America from Sweden about five years ago, and is a star of the Metropolitan Opera company. Every year, she goes back to Europe to give concerts. She has sung in Covent Garden in England, the Royal Opera in Sweden, and in the State Opera in Berlin. King Leopold of Belgium awarded her with the medal of arts and letters as she sang at his wedding, and she is the only woman to have been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor in Sweden. She has now been selected to sing the lead, Isolde, in "Tristan and Isolde," an opera by Wagner, under Leopold Stokowski, one of the greatest living conductors.
