Progressive Education Group to Have Annual Northwest Gathering On UO Campus

Old and new ideas in education will be discussed by educational leaders of the United States at the annual northwest section conference of the progressive education association at the University of Oregon, April 20 and 21.

Methods of education will be examined and will be discussed and analyzed, the program for two days' meeting indicates. Oregon, Washington, and Idaho secondary schools are expected to send more than 1,000 teachers to the meeting of whom over 100 have been assigned as speakers and panel discussion leaders.

Ryan, Redefor on Slate
Heading the list of nationally-known educators who will speak and take part in practical discussion are Dr. Carson Ryan Jr., president of the national association, and Frederick Redefor, executive secretary, who are coming from New York.

Others will be Dr. George W. Frazier, president of the Colorado State teachers college; Dr. Daniel Prescott, professor of mental hygiene, Rutgers university; Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of higher education for Oregon, and Dr. Dexter M. Keezer, president of Reed college. Gaile H. Good, principal of Edison school, is general chairman for the session.

Theme "Re-thinking"
"Re-thinking, Education" is the theme of the conference and is closely followed out in many of the topics on the program. Dr. Frazier will speak of this for the opening address. Dr. Prescott will talk on "Re-thinking, the problem of Classroom Motivation" and Dr. Ralph Tyler, Ohio State university, will speak on "Significant Developments in Current Experimental (Secondary) Schools" at the joint session the second day.

The annual banquet will be held April 20 with Dr. Ryan as speaker on "The Child—His Problems, Attitudes and Emotions." Sponsoring groups of the conference include the University school of education, Eugene schools, Lane county schools, and Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary educational fraternity.

tomie and soon she is sending Mattie packing. Ethan, harassed by the scouring tongue of his wife and desperate because of his inability to start out anew with Mattie, strikes out for freedom, if only the freedom of death.
The presentation is a tribute to the abilities of Horace W. Robinson, not only as a director but as a stage designer and technician. With ingenuity, the limitations of the Guild hall stage have been overcome in presenting the play's eleven scenes. The play moves along so smoothly that the audience is not aware of the complicated manipulation of the settings and property.

Oregon's Timberline Lodge Wears White Mantle

It may be spring in other sections of the Pacific Northwest but on the high slopes of beautiful Mount Hood King Winter still reigns. This view, taken in the morning after a heavy snowstorm, shows the Mount Hood Timberline Lodge, being built with WPA funds. The lodge will be administered by the U.S. Forest Service.

Plaque Shows Drake Visited San Francisco Bay

While carelessly tossing rocks down a hillside near San Quentin, on San Francisco Bay, Beryle Shinn (left) young Oakland salesman, picked up an old bit of metal he thought he might use in his car. When cleaned up, it turned out to be a crudely-engraved plaque, declaring Sir Francis Drake, British explorer, visited the area in 1579, called it "Nova Albion" and took possession for Queen Elizabeth. Dr. Herbert Bolton, professor of American history at University of California, also looking at the plaque, says this is undoubtedly the "plate of brass" Drake's chroniclers told of his planting. This explodes the old theory that Drake missed the Golden Gate in a heavy fog, and took his ship, the Golden Hind, further up the coast. Shinn received $300 for his discovery.

them. Lettermen are Captain Tony Amato, Joe Huston, Nello Giovannini, Bill Estes, and Chan Berry. Outstanding sophomore prospects are Ron Husk, Cece Walden, and Melvin Passolt, with Arkie Robinson and George Jones also coming along.

Tackles Are Problem
Replacement of Bjork and Skinner at tackles is proving the major problem in the development of a strong line. Bill Foskett, sophomore regular last year, and Chuck Bracher, versatile fullback, tackle, and end are the only experienced prospects for the positions.

Cliff Morris, giant reserve, and Ellroy Jensen, standout of the 1936 freshman line, form the best bets among the other candidates. Merle Peters, reserve last fall; Russ Inskeep, sophomore, and a possible transfer of Bill Estes from guard to tackle form the rest of the material.

Fight at Wing Posts
Bud Robertson, and Leif Jacobsen, lettermen, are working hard to keep their positions from Larry Lance and Vic Reginato, wings on last season's freshman team. John Yerby, another veteran, is giving baseball his time. Rod Speetzen and Bob Elenkiosop also are working out.

Henry Nilsen, star end on last year's varsity, has been converted to the blocking back post and Arleigh Bentley, varsity fullback and quarterback, is also working at the post. Others considered are Ernie Robertson, reserve, Jean Lacau, 1936 fullback, and Dennis Donovan, flash of last season's freshman team, complete the quarterback prospects.

Eleven fullbacks, including three lettermen, are vying for the two positions. Dale Lasselle, Jimmy Nicholson, and Don Kennedy are returning veterans. Ted Gebhart, transfer from Marin junior college, and seven sophomores—Steve Anderson, Connie Grabb, Matt Pavalunas, Bob Smith, Jay Graybeal, Bill Rach, and Bob Whitfield—make up the rest of the candidates. Lasselle and Anderson are out with injuries at present, and Nicholson is playing baseball.

Police Journal Carries Wayne L. Morse Article

The March issue of Coast International, official police journal of the west coast, carries a copy of the address given by Dean Wayne L. Morse before the Wisconsin conference on State and Local Organizations for Crime Control, at Madison, Wisconsin, February 25. Dean Morse, who is now acting as Administrative Director of the Attorney General's Survey of Release Procedures in the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., spoke on "The Organization and Function of State Police."

A quotation from his address explains the type of work he is doing on the survey. "It is unquestionably the most ambitious study of its kind ever undertaken in this country. It is planned to publish the findings under four main divisions, the first of which will be a summary of the written law of release procedures as found in the constitutions, statutes, administrative orders, and court decisions of the several states. . . . The second division will contain a collection of statistical information from the records of penal institutions and courts, showing the dispositions which have been made of thousands of cases of convicted persons."

The third report will present the findings of the survey as to the penal, institutional, and court facilities and personnel provided by the several jurisdictions for the administration of release procedure. The fourth division, or summary, will set forth the general findings, conclusions, and recommendations, which in the opinion of the director of the survey, . . .

"The chief aim of the study is to discover if possible the most effective and efficient methods of administering release procedures and to give to the states the benefits of the findings of the survey."

Lasselle, Nicholson, Anderson, Pavalunas and Graybeal. At right he has Smith, Rach, Kennedy, Grabb and Whitfield. Gebhart, a promising kicker, can play at either right or left half.

Frank Emmons and Paul Rowe, 190-pound sophomores, should provide the necessary power for Callison's power plays. Dave Gammon, letterman half from last year's varsity, and Bentley may also be used for the fullback post.

dents and students from the Roosevelt Junior high school for the benefit of some six hundred Lane county Four-H members who are coming to town today. Three trials are being given because of the limited seating capacity of the local court room.

Law school students will act as attorneys for the defense and prosecution. Those taking part are Robert Miller, Harry McCall, Arthur Barnett, Hale Thompson, Antone Yturri, and D. R. Dimick. Acting as witnesses will be Peter Tugman, Peter Howard, Keith Clark, and Jack Pettee from the high school. Carlton E. Spencer, professor of law, will direct the proceedings.

This is the second year Professor Spencer has staged a mock trial for the visiting Four-H members.

uscripts, one of these is Codex Trivulziano, one of the 70 reproductions of the original manuscript of the Divina Commedia by Dante. It was presented by the Italians of the United States to the University library September 14, 1920, upon the 600 anniversary of the death of Dante.

The trees that shade the older part of the campus were gifts of classes. More will be said about them in the next article.

At the CHURCHES

Swimming was the most popular winter sport among Harvard freshmen, with 238 participating. . . . Ossie Solem, Vic Hansen's successor at Syracuse, is starting out fine by barring the press from football practice. . . . Notre Dame will have two backfields this fall, Elmer Layden calling them the "Work Horses" and the "Pony Express."

John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's elongated middle distance runner, will try the strong man act at the Penn relays April 23 and 24 by competing in five relays in the two days. . . . California has a two-miler on this year's freshman squad who is expected to better 9:30 this spring. His name is Stanley Sadaj, pronounced "Sadeye."

Firing Line

haven't had any intramural REAL baseball on this campus since 1931, and it's about time.

Baseball equipment costs no more than it did in the golden day before softball's rise. Expense would hardly be a problem. Intramural teams wouldn't have to be equipped like Tom Yawkey's Red Sox.

Facilities would probably permit playing only one game a day. That would be enough, at least for the first year of revival. Why not urge houses to rally 'round and enter a baseball league? The intramural higher-ups might be surprised at the response.

A regular schedule, with a game a day, could be carried on through spring term. Perhaps there'd be only a few teams, and there'd be a cozy league in which each team could play all others two or three times. Or there might be a large number of teams and they could divide up. We'd expect the latter. Anyway, let's give it a whirl. Let's have a little hard baseball on our intramural schedule. The only interesting team games on the intramural slate at present are basketball, in which the season is far too short; touch football, which the powers that be are threatening to abolish, and, supposedly, softball.

How about it, campus organizations? Do we want some REAL intramural competition?

Advertising Pays You

Advertising brings to millions, at reasonable prices, comforts and conveniences that without advertising would be luxuries that only a few could enjoy.

America is an advertising nation. That is one reason why the man with moderate means, here, enjoys more comfort than most wealthy men abroad.

Because thousands and thousands of people ask for a certain article by name, it is possible for the advertisers to sell this item at a minimum effort.

It is therefore possible to manufacture and to distribute this produce at a saving which you share with the advertiser. When you figure the number of items in your daily life built by advertising, you can appreciate that advertising does pay.

Advertisements enable you to buy better things at less cost.
