Juniors' Three-Day Festival Begins at 12 Today

Coronation of Queen Opens Gala Weekend At Campus Luncheon

Benson Will Place Crown on Betty I;
Fun, Frolic, Ducking to Spice Lunch;
Pollack Will Play at Prom

By GLADYS BATTLESON

Under the shade of fragrant magnolia trees by historic Deady hall, Betty Pownall will be crowned Queen Betty I at the campus luncheon today to start a three-day rule over gala Junior weekend festivities. Climax of today's activities will come when dancers gather in McArthur court for the Junior prom. Festive spirit will be supreme, rising to the top Saturday at the traditional canoe staged on the mill race.

Came to Mount Platform

Smiling, beautiful Queen Betty dressed in white will be followed by blue-clad princesses, Rhoda Armstrong, Betty Jane Casey, Peggy Vermillion, and Frances Schaupp stand where a jeweled crown will be placed upon Betty's head by Noel Benson, junior class president. Crown bearer will be blond four-year old Bonnie May Cook.

Students, mothers, and visitors will view the coronation immediately after the campus luncheon which begins at noon.

Senior Honoraries Pledge

Outstanding Junior men and women will be chosen at 12:45 for membership into Friars and Mortar Board. A comic entertainment for the royal party will be the in-

The Passing Show

Horrible Disaster Proposal Knocked

By GEORGE HALEY

End of Voyage

Shaken by a terrific explosion in her stern, and immediately bursting into flames, the huge German dirigible Hindenburg, largest lighter-than-air craft in the world, came to a horrible end last night as she nosed down to her mooring mast at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, New Jersey, preparatory to concluding her 1937 maiden voyage from Berlin to America.

With 44 passengers aboard the giant ship, carrying a crew of 61, an official bulletin late last night reported that a total of 41 persons were as yet unaccounted for. Listed among the survivors were Captain Max Pruss, new commander of the fatigued craft, Captain Ernst Lehmann, skipper of the dirigible on its 10 successful transatlantic voyages last year.

The initial explosion shattered the big ship's stern, hurled some passengers through the air to land stunned on the ground, and sent the ground crew scurrying for safety. As the flame-belching ship settled to the ground in telescoped sections, many figures were seen to jump from the control car.

After the wreckage had settled on the ground, minor explosions, mingled with "terrible" anguished cries and screams continued to rend the air.

Bodies recovered from the flaming debris were completely beyond recognition. Clothes were burnt to cinders and their skins were scorched by the intense heat which forced terrified spectators to retreat from the scene.

Horror was compounded by passengers, scheduled to make the return trip scheduled for midnight, who rushed to the field with luggage only to find the big craft a twisted mass of flames. Many were to be coronation visitors expecting to finish the first of a series of 18

Chilling Waters Await Breakers Of Traditions

"Kersplash"—and the fountain envelops another hapless soul. Only his legs, topped by white shoes, wave gracefully in the May breeze.

In a shower of water, another poor student follows. He is wearing a tie.

And so the last of Oregon's traditions is upheld, and these scenes continue each year as unsuspecting males get thoroughly dunked for their sins; namely: wearing white shoes, wearing a tie, or speaking to a girl during the campus luncheon.

As to the girls—they entice the males, and try to upset their composure to the point of speaking—but not for long. As victims run short these enticing females follow for their share of the drink in the fountain. The campus luncheon, the scene of this aquatic sport, will be held at noon today by the English library, if old Sol reigns. If Júpiter Pluvius gets the upper hand, the masses of food, people, and tables will be moved to the ROTC building.

But, regardless of where the luncheon is held, the water is cold and oh, so wet—so, beware.

Seniors Arrange Annual Picnic for Class on May 27

The annual senior class picnic will be held at Swimmer's Delight Thursday, May 27, from 2:20 until 11 o'clock, announced David Lowry, picnic chairman, yesterday. Seniors will attend the no-date affair at the finish of their final exams Thursday.

Swimming, boating, and various sports will be held during the afternoon, said Lowry. Gus Meyers and his orchestra will play for dancing for three hours during the evening.

"We have made special provision for crowds and have spared no expense on the food," Lowry said.

Assisting Lowry are Clifford Camp, Patsy Neal, and Ed Healy.

Lubersky Is Elected Order of Mace Head

William Lubersky, junior in English, was elected president of the Order of the Mace, University speech honorary, at a meeting of the organization held Wednesday night. He succeeds Kessler Cannon. Lorraine Larson, freshman in arts and letters, was chosen secretary-treasurer to succeed Betty Brown.

The names of 20 students who have been outstanding in forensic work throughout the past year were submitted to the executive council of the ASUO which will approve them before forensic awards are made.

Proclaims Festive Holiday

Tickets for Concert May Be Exchanged By 12 o'Clock Today

Students who have not exchanged their student body cards for the Nino Martini concert may do so until noon today the ticket office announced. This will be the absolute deadline for the exchange.

Phi Alpha Delta Honors Graduates at Luncheon

Graduating members of Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, were honored at a luncheon in the Anchorage Thursday noon. Seniors in law so honored were Art Barnett, Keith Wilson, Ron Rew, Ed McKeon, Dick Kriesien, Chet Anderson, and Dale Thompson.

Mr. Carl Immel, Eugene attorney, spoke at the luncheon, discussing beginners in legal practice, office organization, and clientele psychology. Ercel King was toastmaster.

Senior Examinations Begin May 24 and Close May 26; Classes Cease on May 22

Definite action on the senior examination question was taken Wednesday when a two-point proposal submitted by a special committee appointed by Pres. C. Valentine Boyer was approved by faculty vote at its regular May meeting held in Friendly hall. Personnel of the faculty advisory council was also completed for the term beginning July 1.

Under the new proposal, introduced at the meeting by Dean Victor P. Morris, chairman of the committee, regular class attendance by seniors will cease Saturday noon, May 22, and senior examinations will be scheduled throughout the three days, May 24, 25, and 26, making use of morning, afternoon and evening hours.

News Reels to Be Shot of Canoe Fete

Universal, Metrotone men brought to campus by Volchok, Godfrey

Universal and Metrotone news-reels will be shot of the canoe fete Saturday night and other campus events of Saturday, announced Zolzie Volchok, advertising director of Junior weekend, yesterday. Through the efforts of Volchok and George Godfrey, University news bureau head, the cameramen are being brought to Oregon. Special platforms will be erected and photo floods and lights used to take the reels.

Shots will also be taken of actual construction on the mill race Saturday afternoon.

Orides, Yeomen Picnic At Swimmer's Delight

Saturday, May 22, has been chosen by the Orides and Yeomen for their annual joint picnic and dance, it was announced by Howard Lee, Yeoman vice-president. Swimmer's Delight will provide the setting.

The afternoon's entertainment will consist of swimming and dancing. Lee said that the affair will be free to those presenting membership tickets in either of the two organizations. Other independents will be taxed 20c. Co-chairmen are Hazel Lewis and Bob Winstone.

Mothers Will Register at 1 In Johnson

AWS, YWCA Hostesses
Entertain in Gerlinger
For Guests, Sons, and Daughters; 3 to 5

Visiting mothers began arriving on the University campus yesterday to be guests of Oregon for the coming three days and to taste of their daughters' and sons' hospitality.

Hotels and private homes, as well as fraternity and sorority houses and dormitories were filled to capacity as the campus made provision for their visitors.

Registration of all mothers begins today at 1 o'clock in Johnson hall. The class having the largest percentage of mothers on the campus will receive mention at the banquet Saturday evening.

Informal Tea Is Today

AWS and YWCA will be hostesses to mothers, their sons and daughters, at an informal tea in Gerlinger from 3 to 5 o'clock today. Leaders of Oregon Mothers, University faculty women, and prominent University women will be in the receiving line. Kwama's and Phi Theta Upsilon members will serve.

The Master Dance group is to be presented in recital by its instructor Faye Knox in Gerlinger at 8 o'clock tonight. Students giving interpretive dances have originated them, taking them from every day problems. Costumes, lighting effects, and make-up will lend to the performance.

Breakfast at 8 o'clock

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the executive committee will breakfast in the regents' room of John Straub hall. At 10:30 a mass meeting of all mothers will convene in Guild theater of Johnson hall, with Mrs. Elbert C. Peets, Portland, president, presiding.

Mothers will be guests of their sons and daughters at house lunches Saturday. From 2 until 4 o'clock the new campus buildings, including the new libe, will be open for inspection.

The Women's Faculty club of the University is sponsoring another

Benson, F. Schaupp, Silver Get Positions As Board Members

Voters Elect Independent Candidate for
First Time Since 1923 When Claude
Robinson Was President

By BILL PENGRA

Barney Hall, independent candidate, was elected president of the ASUO yesterday by a wide margin of first choice votes over his closest competitor, Noel Benson. Hall, first non-fraternity man to gain that position since 1923, received 359 votes at the first counting to drop Benson, with 240, into the first vice-presidency position.

In the Co-op board elections, Bob Smith won the sophomore post for a one-year term, and Phyllis Gardner and Jack Lochridge were elected junior members to serve two years.

Frances Schaupp, second vice-president, and Dave Silver, secretary-treasurer, will complete the executive board of the associated students for the coming year.

Students Cast 770 Votes

A total of 770 votes were cast in the election, in which under the new system, choices were numbered for positions on the committee and not for particular student offices as in former years. The preferential vote was adopted for the purpose of breaking up in some degree the old party blocs and straight ticket voting.

Hall and Benson, candidates nominated by the short-lived campus coalition party, which split into two blocs, were declared elected to their respective offices on the first

Kemler's Ticket Elected by Class

Torrid Balloting Will Be Contested by Burdick,
Politicos Aver

Nearly five hours after the polls closed yesterday for the sophomore elections, results were still being disputed by opposing candidates. Final results as announced, following a recount of votes, had elected Zane Kemler, president; Virginia Regan, vice-president; Kay Coleman, secretary; and Brock Miller, treasurer.

Even after results had been tallied a second time, the election was in a turmoil. Paying large sums of money for class card votes, running in proxy votes during part of the election period, and an attempt to conceal final results by losing the tabulation sheet lengthened the class election board session all afternoon and the early part of the evening before agreeing to accept a second count as official.

With party leaders Denton Burdick and Kemler ending long weeks of hard campaigning Wednesday, the lid was blown off by the election, said by many to be the smeltest campaign ever held on the campus. The number of class cards, each carrying a vote, was increased during the past two days from approximately ninety-three to around two hundred and ninety-one.

This large expenditure of money to secure votes was kept in by both party blocs, and engaged in

Welcome Mothers

This is the occasion to which we look forward with eagerness every year. The visit of the Oregon mothers to the University campus is a source of great satisfaction and some anxiety. We are very proud to show you our campus and to have you see how well your sons and daughters are doing in the University.

We hope that you will visit our new buildings and in particular we call your attention to the new library which is even more beautiful within than without.

We shall appreciate your praise of what we have been doing to beautify your University but we should like also to have your criticism in order to make the University as perfect a place as possible for the training of the mind and the character of your children. We welcome you most heartily and hope you will enjoy every moment of your stay.

C. VALENTINE BOYER,

President of the University of Oregon.

I am indeed very happy to welcome the mothers and guests of Oregon students to the campus for the Junior weekend activities. This event has become an important one in our campus schedule. It provides an opportunity to present to you the creative and artistic efforts of the members of the student body. Such an event also makes us appreciate the value of campus activities, and well justifies the time and effort spent on what is often called "extra-curricular." I have high regard for the University of Oregon students who have worked untiringly to make this weekend a pleasurable and happy one. I sincerely hope it will be enjoyable to you.

Looking forward to meeting you personally, I am,

Sincerely,
HAZEL P. SCHWERING,
Dean of Women.
