By ED ROBBINS

The ballots were sorted into piles according to first choices marked. Two incorrectly marked ballots were thrown out as invalid. The total number of ballots cast was 770, found by adding all the first places and including the two invalid ones.

This total was divided by five, one more than the number of offices to fill, and one was added to the quotient. This gave a quota of 155, or the lowest number of first choices which could be received by four, and not more than four, of the candidates.

As can be seen in the first column, Barney Hall received 359 first choices, Benson 240, Schaupp 52, etc. Since both Hall and Benson had more than the required 155 votes, they were declared elected to the council.

The 204 ballots that Hall received above his quota of 155 were declared to be surplus ballots, and were drawn from his 359 by lot. These were sorted into piles according to their second places marked, disregarding all choices for Benson who was already elected. These ballots were distributed to the candidates not yet elected, and the results recorded in column two.

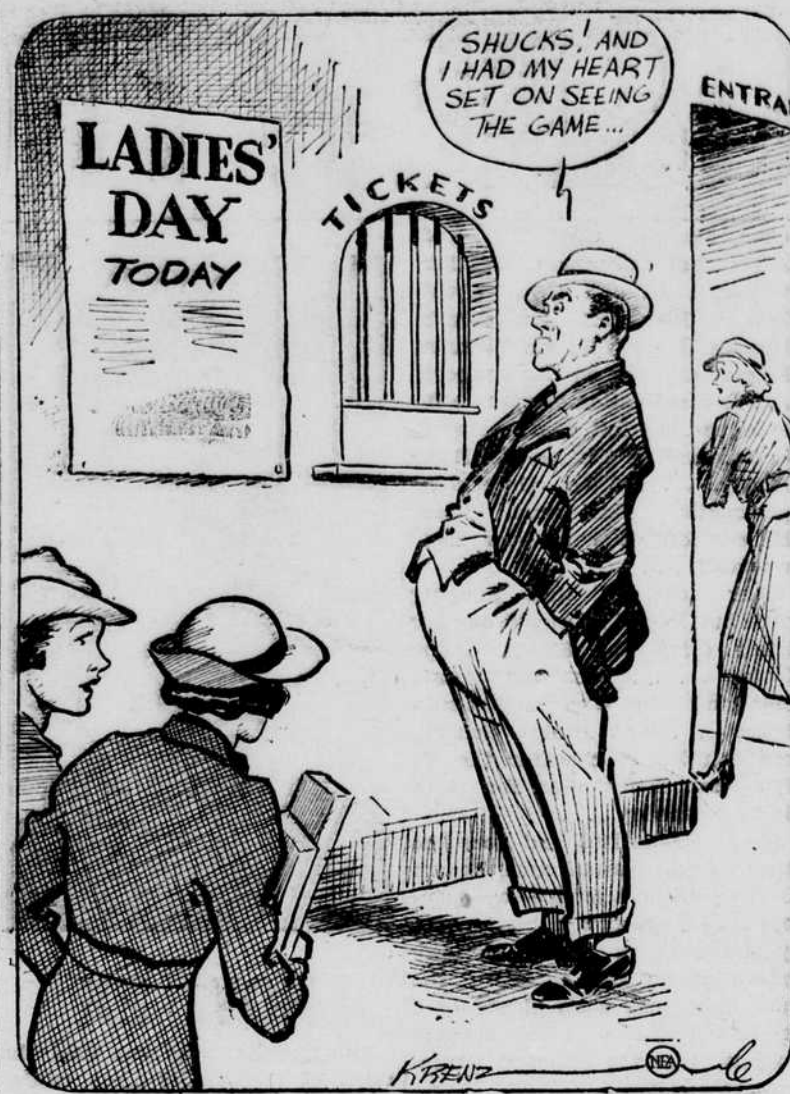

This shows, for example, that Silver received 91 second places of Hall's surplus ballots, raising his total from 38 to 129. Battleson received 30 votes on this transfer, bringing her total to 52, and so on.

Then the 85 surplus ballots from Benson were drawn from his pile by lot, and distributed according to second places. Again, any second choices for Hall were disregarded as he was elected. This brought all totals to the figures shown in column three. By subtracting the figures in column three from those in column two the number of Benson's surplus lots that went to each candidate can be determined.

On the next step the counting board made a minor error. Instead of declaring Dalton, the lowest continuing candidate in column three, defeated, Fort, who had the lowest number of first place ballots, was declared beaten. Dalton was not declared defeated until two transfers after he should have been, but a quick check made when the error was discovered proved that this had no effect on the outcome as all three of the lowest candidates were defeated anyway.

All of Fort's 14 ballots were now given to the continuing unelected candidates according to the next choices. The ballots marked for Fort in first place were moved to the second choice, and those that had been transferred from Hall and Benson to Fort were given to the candidates marked third choice. The result of this transfer is shown in column four.

As no one had yet reached a total of 155, another candidate had to be declared defeated. The same error referred to previously was still carried out when Pease was declared defeated, because he had the lowest number of first place votes, instead of Dalton, the lowest candidate in column four. The transfer of Pease's ballots to their next choices resulted as is shown in column five.

Still no candidate had his quota, and Dalton was declared defeated, correcting the mistake mentioned above. The ballots were again transferred to their next preference, results per column six, and one ballot which showed no further choices was marked "exhausted."

No candidates having their quota, Clare Igoe was declared defeated, and her votes transferred. The results in column seven show that Silver was two short of his quota, and that he was the closest.

Gladys Battleson, the lowest candidates as shown in column seven, was declared defeated. The transfer of her ballots to their next choices placed Silver over his quota, and gave Frances Schaupp her quota exactly.

Hall, Benson, Silver, and Miss Schaupp were declared elected to the executive council of the associated students. They were ranked according to the number of first place ballots they had received, as shown in column 1.

BIG RALLY TAKES

Andy Hurney got on base to open Oregon's big seventh inning spree when O'Connell at third came up with a miscue. Gale Smith singled to drive Hurney home from second. Ralph Amato rapped out a one-base hit, and Don Thomas, Duck catcher, drew a walk. LeRoy Mattingly, hitting for the first time, then smacked one for two bases into centerfield clearing the sacks.

Ford Mullen's fifth hit of the game drove Mattingly and Nicholson, who had singled home for Oregon's final runs of the game.

It was 12 to 7 for the Webfoots, and Mattingly limited the Mon-

Oreg. Golf Team Wins From WSC

The six golfing Ducks of Oregon bowled over one more obstacle in their road to a second unofficial dual-meet championship Friday when they overwhelmed a six-man Washington State team on the Eugene country club course.

The Ducks won 22 to 5, to make it seven straight for the season.

Walt Cline, Oregon No. 2, was medalist with a par 72 round in the afternoon singles, to win three points from Fred Campbell.

Three Score Shutouts

Carl Gill, No. 1 and only letterman on the Cougar team, won the only singles match for Washington State when he shot a 75 to drop Sid Milligan, 2 to 1.

Three Ducks besides Cline scored shutout victories in singles matches. They were Dave Hamley, Doug Ramsey, and Bill Stockton, No. 4, No. 5, and No. 6. Bill Watson, No. 3, dropped half a point to Leland Lugar.

Oregon plays Washington State only once in dual meet competition this season, but the Webfoots will vie against the Cougars again in the northern division conference meet in Seattle at the end of the season.

Portland Match Canceled

Today's scheduled dual match with Portland university has been canceled, so the Webfoot team rests until next Thursday, when they are slated to meet College of Puget Sound here in a return match.

mouth boys to two hits and a lone run in the final two innings to win.

Catcher Lloyd Lewis got a fourth in the seventh off Mattingly to drive in two mates. Lewis' hit was a hard drive to left field, and went for four bases when Amato's relay to the infield went wide.

Ducks Run At Pullman

Conceded no chance in the world to win, Oregon's track and field squad today takes the field at Pullman in an endeavor to get their first dual meet win of the year at the expense of Washington State's Cougars.

With two of his best performers home on the shelf with injuries and with a squad composed mainly of sophomores and untried men, Coach Bill Hayward yesterday said that he would be well satisfied if his team took 45 points.

Cougars Have Same Team

Squeak Lloyd, who injured his ankle broad-jumping at Seattle last week, and Elmer Koskello, whose javelin throwing arm went lame on him, are the two veterans who are at home enjoying junior weekend activities.

Last year the Webfoots squeezed out a 69½ to 61½ victory over the powerful Cougars who are back this year with practically the same squad while Hayward's has been sadly depleted by graduation and injuries.

Prepare for OSC

According to Hayward the only probable winners today will be George Varoff, pole vault; Bill Foskett, shot put; Dutch Holland, discus; Sam McGaughey, mile and Ken Miller, half mile.

Next week the Ducks will undertake intensive preparations for the Oregon State meet which will be held on Hayward field Saturday, May 15. This will be the only dual meet to be run at home this season.

FEES DUE

May 10 is the last day for the payment of non-resident fees and student body fees without penalty. No extension of time will be granted.

Twenty-five cents a day will be charged for late payment, and the student will be suspended for failure to pay after one week.

Still wondering whether the sophomores or freshmen won that innertube race yesterday. What race?

PREXY HALL IS CLAD IN SHORTS

By STAN HOBSON

Barney Hall's pulse rate was nearly back to normal again yesterday when confronted in his room. Clad only in shorts and undershirt, he shined his shoes and continued dressing while he was pelted with questions.

The clean-cut, good looking young fellow didn't hesitate to admit that he was "plenty surprised" when final results of the ASUO election were announced, boosting him into the job of student body president.

He was rather non-committal in regard to his plans for the coming year. Not that he didn't come into the job with his eyes wide open—plained, "It's a little early for plained, "It's a little early for me to talk about next year—anyway, I'm only a part of the executive committee." He praised the proportional representation system as a great improvement over the previous system.

Set Frosh Record

Hall's victory was doubly impressive, being the first time in 14 years that an independent student has won this honor. Barney hangs his hat in Sigma hall. He is a pre-med major and will graduate next spring, after which he plans to attend the Oregon medical school in Portland, his home town.

A graduate of Grant high, he spent three of his prep years at Prineville high in eastern Oregon. His favorite sport was track. "You don't need to mention that, though," he remarked, also neglecting to mention that he set a frosh 440-dash record for Hayward field a couple of years back.

Possessed with an abundant supply of energy, Barney is one of those kind of fellows that gets things done. At the all-campus luncheon yesterday he was tapped by Friars, senior honorary. He also is a member of Asklepiads and the Order of the Mace. Besides, president of the inter-dorm council.

Oregon Spirit Improved

By this time Barney was putting the finishing touches on his tie, struggling to get it straight. "Oregon spirit? Yes, it could stand improving." He gave the Emerald a pat on the back for its work this year, saying that the staff deserves a lot of credit.

This wound up the interview as Barney Hall was at last surrounded by a gleaming tuxedo and ready to go forth to a banquet. And any banquet would be improved by his presence.
