Safe in London

Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie, who crossed the Atlantic just for fun yesterday, were safe in Croydon airport, England, after little more than half a day's flight. They plan to return immediately after the coronation with pictures for American papers and newsreels.

Flying blind most of the way, Merrill and Lambie were rewarded for the 2500-mile jaunt by two American girls who greeted them enthusiastically with kisses when they landed in Croydon. Merrill has crossed three times by air this year.

Houray for the King!

Staid Englishmen forgot their dignity yesterday as crowds roamed the streets of London shouting for the king. Carnival spirit was maintained throughout the great metropolis, which is estimated to have already a million guests from foreign shores.

Local Britishers can celebrate the coronation in sound at least if they brave the wee hours of the morning. Stations KGW and KEX will begin at 1 a. m. tonight, with a description of Queen Mary leaving the Marlborough house. The coronation ceremony, to be performed in historic Westminster Abbey, will begin at 2:15. The King's speech will be made tomorrow at noon.

Court Opposition

Leaders of Philadelphia opposition to the president's court reform plan were arrested yesterday on solicitations charges prior to their appearance at a meeting.

Pennsylvania's attorney-general Bailey reprimanded the police, maintained the state was against "attempts to suppress freedom of speech."

The move, according to Bailey, was "an obvious last-minute effort on the part of state officials friendly to this (court reorganization) plan to try to prevent the (Please turn to page two)

Mothers Group Extends Award Increases Fund

By BERNADINE BOWMAN
The woman pays and pays and pays. And an organization collects the payment.

Called the Metropolitan, an escort bureau has recently been formed which hires University of Minnesota men to entertain "unattended" women. The bureau is one of many such businesses which have sprung up all over the country.

Any one of the 15 university men now employed may be hired from 6 p. m. to 1 a. m. for a fee of $10, and from Saturday noon to Monday morning for $25. (Take him for a month and you would probably get him free gratis.)

A single ad run in the university paper resulted in more than enough applications. All men hired are working their way through school, are good looking and said to be dignified with a lot of experience.

The $10 is just the fee, and does not cover the entertainment expenses for the evening. The woman has to furnish everything. (Tain't worth it.)

Pants Good Alibi

A twisted story about his pants, earned a Southern Methodist university freshman a pardon for cutting his mathematics quiz section.

When he came to class the next day, the professor questioned him to find out why he had skipped.

"I have gym just before, math," explained the alibi-er. "Tuesday I was in such a hurry to get dressed in time for class that I poked my foot through the seat of my pants."

Chi Omega Leads

Chi Omega, national social sorority, leads all other sororities in the number of representatives chosen for the 1936-37 edition of "Who's Who" among students in American universities and colleges.

Representatives for 1936-37 follow: Chi Omega, 28; Pi Beta Phi, 22; Delta Delta Delta, 21; Kappa Alpha Theta, 17; Kappa Kappa Gamma, 16; Phi Mu, 10; Alpha Xi Delta, 10; Delta Gamma, 8; Alpha Delta Pi, 4; and Gamma Phi Beta, 3.

Concert Closes Series Of Junior Festivities, Mother's Day Program

Luncheon, Prom, Canoe Fete Draw Crowds to Campus for Three-Day Reign of Queen Betty I

By BILL PENGRA

Ending with the Nino Martini concert at McArthur court, the reign of Queen Betty Pownall was brought to a brilliant finish Sunday afternoon, 53 hours after her coronation Friday noon. Starting with the large influx of visitors to the campus Friday morning, the busy Junior weekend, combined with the Mother's weekend program, was climaxed by the colorful pageant of the canoe fete Saturday night.

Beginning Friday, with the campus luncheon, the first day's program began with the coronation of Queen Betty and her royal princesses Peggy Vermillion, Betty Jane Casey, Rhoda Armstrong, and Frances Schupp. Festivities of the afternoon started with a luncheon for all University students and their parents and visitors at which various honorary societies either chose pledges or conducted part of their initiation ceremonies.

Friars, Morfar Board

Friars, senior men's service honorary, pledged Noel Benson, LeRoy Mattingly, Tony Amato, Barney Hall, Dave Silver, Charles Irwin, Sam Fort, and Mel Shevach. Morfar Board, senior women's honorary, tapped as pledges Miss Janet Smith, Betty Brown, Gladys Batleson, Gayle Buchanan, Vivian Emery, Elizabeth Turner, Harriett Thomsen, Gretchen Smith, Virginia McCorkle, Clare Igoe, and Brandon Young.

Alpha Delta Sigma, men's professional advertising society, pledged paraded with sandwich advertising signs all afternoon, and Asklepiads, men's honorary pre-medical society, gave their annual burlesque operating procession. The Green Goose, surrounded by Sigma Delta Chi pledges, trundled about.

Order of the O men observed an old tradition by ducking in the fountain near Deady hall, all unfortunate men wearing white shoes, ties, or speaking to girls.

Water Carnival Hit

An afternoon at the grandstand by the millrace followed, when the annual water carnival was presented. Two new features this year included a burlesque canoe fete and innertube race between six members of the frosh and soph classes. Comic imitations of the floats of the real fete were given by houses not having floats this year.

First on the schedule for mothers was the registration and the Mothers' tea in Gerlinger in the afternoon.

Juniors Win Cups

The Junior prom, Friday night, featuring Ben Pollack's music, was held in a romantic atmosphere created by novel decorations in McArthur court. A special section reserved for mothers in one balcony was the only side not covered by a large canopy hung from the ceiling. A feature of the evening was the grand march of the royal court to the throne at one end of the dance floor. Following this, cups (Please turn to page four)

Rhapsody in Blue Featured Tonight

B. Garretson, Wong, Davis,
Burggraf Presented by
Hopkins in Recital

The setting for one of the most interesting musical concerts of the season will be the music auditorium tonight at 8 p. m. with Robert Garretson, student-master of piano, playing "Rhapsody in Blue." Jacqueline Wong, Lural Burggraf, and 12-year-old David Smith will also present several selections.

The Rhapsody to be given to a campus audience publicly for the first time tonight, brought immediate fame to its composer George Gershwin, and became a favorite with all musical audiences. A combination of stately classical style and exciting modern "swing" rhythm, the Rhapsody is a piece of artistry hardly excelled among modern compositions.

Robert Garretson, piano student of George Hopkins, has just received an invitation from Ruth Isherwood, manager of the Portland junior symphony orchestra to play a solo of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with the orchestra this summer.

Mr. Garretson, who will play Gershwin's "Rhapsody" on the campus Tuesday night at a concerto program to be given in the music auditorium at 8 p. m., has played solo parts before with the junior symphony orchestra, and has also played with the Portland Symphony Training orchestra. The "Rhapsody" is a selection (Please turn to page two)

BA Major W. E. Naylor Wins Advertising Post

Walter E. Naylor, B. S. Winter '37, is now employed in the advertising department of the Bon Marche department store in Seattle, Washington.

Naylor completed requirements for graduation from the school of business administration last term, majoring in advertising. He was formerly Tuesday advertising manager for the Emerald.

They'll Rule the Roost

New ASUO leaders were installed in their offices at a student body meeting last Friday. The officers, left to right, are Barney Hall, president; Noel Benson, first vice-president; Frances Schupp, second vice-president, and Dave Silver, secretary-treasurer. They won out at elections under Oregon's newly-initiated preferential voting system.

Oregon Not Great School, Lacks Science Training, Law School Head States

The major factor preventing Oregon from ranking as a great university is its lack of instruction in pure science, said Wayne L. Morse, dean of the Oregon law school, speaking to the New York City association of Oregon Alumni, according to a story in the Register-Guard Sunday.

"The University of Oregon is a good university of its class. However, honest compels me to say that it is not a great university," the article quoted him. "I think your alma mater has turned low, almost to the point of extinguishment, the lamps of science." It added, however, that the dean did not propose taking pure science from the state college and returning it to the University.

"What I do wish to emphasize is that it is also important that a full program in the sciences be offered for the benefit of the youth of Oregon who attend the state university," Dean Morse was quoted.

To sustain his argument the Dean quoted five major contentions of the science faculty: (1) An institution of higher education without pure science is not a university. (2) The federal survey commission is alone in the opinion that a university can exist without pure science. (3) The loss of advanced work in pure science at the University has been a distinct loss to the state of Oregon since it has not been accompanied by a corresponding gain at the college. (4) The restoration of advanced science would not create a precedent since other (Please turn to page two)

Schmidt Retains Faith In Future of Dirigibles

Commenting upon the recent Hindenburg explosion, Dr. F. G. G. Schmidt of the University of Oregon German department said today that he will now make his trip to Germany by steamer. Dr. Schmidt had arranged for a reservation on the Hindenburg and was planning on meeting the ship when she stopped at Lakehurst, N. J., May 15.

"If another zeppelin sailed tomorrow, I would be on it," said Dr. Schmidt, "because the chances of another major disaster are lessened."

He stated that he did not feel too badly about the inconvenience to him because his was a small misfortune compared to the loss to so many others. "And then, I might have been on it," he said.

Dr. Schmidt is optimistic about future lighter-than-air craft, although the explosion of the Hindenburg will retard progress for a while, he feels.

"The Graf Zeppelin, sister ship of the Hindenburg, has been successfully making regular passages between South America and Germany," said Dr. Schmidt, adding that these trips would now be discontinued for awhile until investigations are completed.

The Graf Zeppelin is also filled with hydrogen, which the German professor explained could not be replaced by helium. The supply is monopolized by the United States which is unwilling to commercialize it for fear it will be used for military purposes.

Germany is building a new Hindenburg, which Dr. Schmidt says will probably be larger, safer, and able to accommodate more passengers and more luggage per passenger.

Haycox to Be Matrix Guest And Speaker

Women of State to Be Honored and Pledges To Be Announced at Annual Banquet

Honoring women outstanding in journalism and the arts, Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, will present its annual formal Matrix Table banquet Thursday at 6:30 o'clock at the Osburn hotel.

Invitations have been sent to women on the campus and throughout the state of Oregon, and answers are to be turned into the office of the school of journalism. Tickets for the banquet at $1.25.

Pledges to Be Named

Ernest Haycox, well-known writer of western fiction, is the guest speaker. At the banquet pledges of Theta Sigma Phi will be named, the outstanding freshman and sophomore women in journalism from the University, and those in the high schools will be honored. Rita Wright and Myra Hulser were named outstanding freshman women; Bernadine Bowman was selected outstanding sophomore woman; Jean Crites was chosen from University high school, and Donna Row from Eugene high.

Long dresses will be worn at the banquet, Virginia Endicott, president, announced.

Oregon Students To Join Cadets

Chilton, Hardisty, Reed to Enter Training School For Flyers in July

The Army Flying school at Randolph field, Texas, recently notified Robert Chilton, Dale Hardisty and Charles W. Reed of their acceptance to cadetship there.

The boys will be enrolled in the July class shortly after graduation. The course consists of eight months primary training at Randolph field, and four months advanced training at Kelly field. Following that they will enter active duty in some part of the United States for five years.

All three men have been prominent in athletics on the campus. Reed, a Beta from Raymond, Washington, and Chilton, a Sigma Chi from Canyon City, are both mainstays on Mike Hoyman's record-shattering swimming squad. Hardisty, an S. A. E. from Eugene, is a two-year track man on whose javelin-tossing ability Bill Hayward is pinning his faith.

Wins Book Set
Beulah Chapman, of Eugene, sophomore in journalism, was selected as winner of the set of books presented by Phi Beta chapter to the highest-ranking student of less than junior standing. Miss Chapman's average for 78 hours of varied work in University classes is 3.82 out of a possible 4.00. Runner-up in standing was Ben Winer, of Portland, major in law, with an average of 3.77.

Initiation for the newly-elected members will be held in Gerlinger hall, Wednesday, May 19. The speaker for the initiation banquet will be Dr. Bruce R. Baxter, president of Willamette university. Toastmistress for the occasion will be Miss Mary H. Perkins, professor of English.

Rampaging Frosh Win Tug-o-war; Dunk O Men

By WEN BROOKS
When husky members of Law & Order Incorporated (the order of the O) are given a bath, and by freshmen, it's something! So certain cantankerous members of the mighty Order of the O realized on Saturday morning when the frosh, after dragging the sophomores through the race, decided to top things off with club-swinging. Tony Amato and his colleagues. Among the Order of the O men sacrificed to the cause (the race) were Messrs. Wallace Arthur Johansen, Robert Anet, Dave Whiskers Gammon, Laddie Gale, and John Paint-job Yerby.

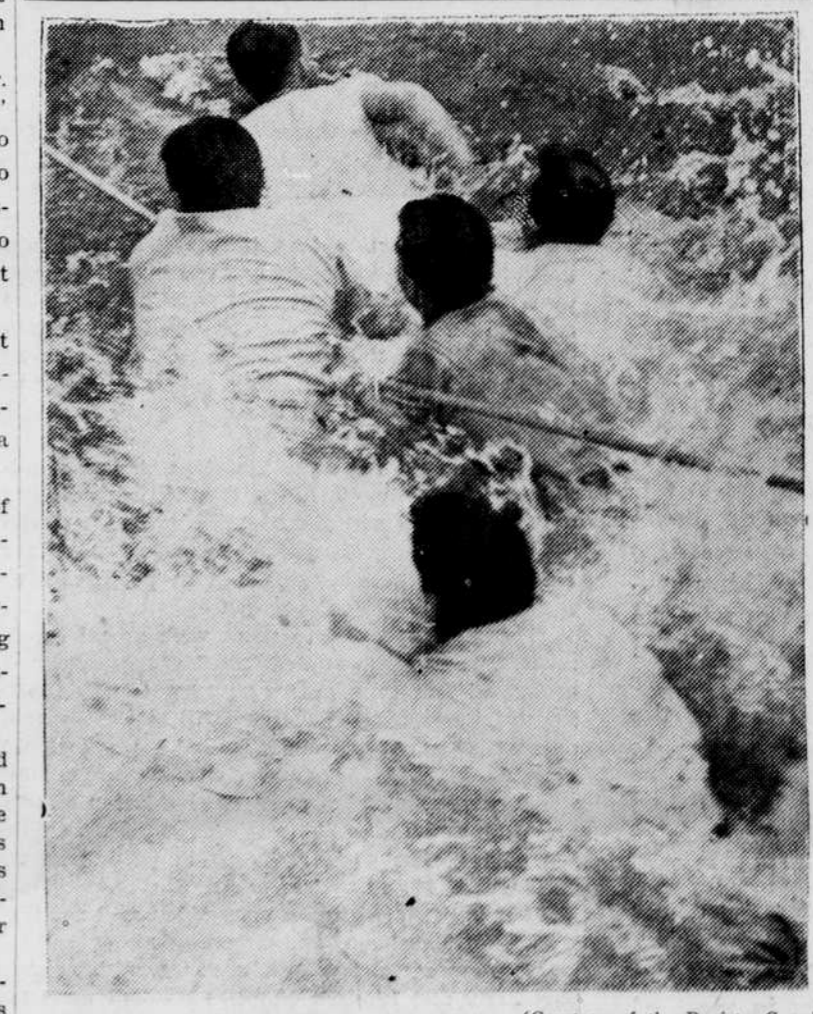

The fun began at 7:30 Saturday morning when the more artistic lads of the class of '40 assembled at the corner of Eleventh and Alder, trekked up Skinner's butte, and (Please turn to page two)

Drink Their Way to Top Floats

"Drink Scene" from "The Student Prince," entered by Kappa Sigma and Alpha Gamma Delta, won first place at the canoe fete Saturday night. Second place was taken by Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Omicron Pi with "Barcarole Scene" from Tales of Hoffman. Alpha hall and Hendricks hall was awarded third place for their float depicting the "Tavern Scene" from "The Vagabond King."

The All-Time Champion Losers

At the tug-of-war Saturday morning sophomore men hung up another loss. Perennial losers at the hands of sturdy freshmen, the above picture shows the less fortunate "tuggers" being dragged through the cold millrace waters.
