

Milligan, Low in District, Eliminated in National

Oregon's Coach-Captain, In Running Monday, Falls Out of Meet on Second 18

36-Hole Total of 157 Keeps University Golfer Out of Championship Flight By 4 Strokes; Drove First Ball

An off-day on Portland's long Alderwood course and an S1 Tuesday kept Sid Milligan, University of Oregon's number one golfer, out of match play in the round of 64 for the United States National Amateur championship.

Playing in rain which sent the scores of many famed stars skyrocketing into the eighties, Milligan was well down in the low bracket Monday night with a safe 76.

Needing only a 77 or a 78 to gain the championship flight and with Alderwood's long fairways in much better playing condition, Sid struck an off-day in his game Tuesday and ran his 36-hole total to 157 with an S1. One of twelve golfers who tied at 154 was qualified.

Second in District
Milligan qualified handily in the district playoffs, finishing second only to Don Moe, Oregon team captain of 1930 and former Walker cup player.

The luck of the draw for starting positions in Oregon's presentation of the world's greatest amateur golfing event brought Milligan the honor of teeing off first in the qualifying round. He drove the first ball to lead off a huge contingent of si-mon-pure devotees.

Bjork Named on Nation's All-Star; Plays in Chicago

Del Bjork, all-coast tackle and captain of the 1936 Oregon football eleven, is now in Chicago with the all-star grid squad which is to meet the Detroit Lions, national professional champions, later in the month.

Bjork, former Astoria high school star, was the only player named from Oregon for the contest. Other Webfoots who have been named to play in the season's opening gridiron test include Ray (Butch) Morse and Mike Mikulak.

After holding a position well up in the field of district qualifiers for the national amateur golf championships (now winding up on Portland's difficult Alderwood course) to Monday night's 18-hole "turn," Sid Milligan, above, slipped Tuesday and missed the round of 64 by four strokes.

Ducklings List Five Contests On Grid Slate

Rook Dates Are Nov. 12 Here, Corvallis Oct. 22; Face Babes Oct. 29 at Multnomah

Oregon's freshman football team will appear in Portland, LaGrande, Corvallis, Eugene and possibly Klamath Falls in the course of its 1937 schedule, it was announced yesterday by "Honest John" Warren, coach.

The Ducklings will open their season on October 15 against an unnamed opponent and close on November 12 against the Oregon State college rooks here at Eugene. Other tilts are billed with the University of Washington Babes and Eastern Oregon Normal school.

Play Babes in Portland

The annual Frosh-Washington Babe game will be played under the lights of Multnomah civic stadium on Friday night, October 29. Eastern Oregon Normal will be played at LaGrande on Friday night, November 5, while the first frosh-rook game is set for Corvallis on Friday night, October 22, preceding the annual "big-game" between the rival varsity elevens.

Two "veterans" will be among the candidates reporting to Coach Warren on Monday, September 30. They are Norman Connoway, full-back, and Gene Schultz, quarterback, both from LaGrande. Both men registered at the University last spring.

Last year's Duckling squad claimed the mythical northwest freshman title after defeating the Oregon State college rooks twice, 18 to 0 and 25 to 0, and the Washington Babes, 13 to 7.

Men, Coeds Set For Rushee Influx

Students Must Register Before Rush Program Is Started

Interfraternity council and pan-hellenic representatives will be prepared at the opening of freshman week to take care of the influx of new students and register rushees for the week-long rushing program.

All men students wanting to pledge a fraternity must be registered with the interfraternity council at the dean of men's office in Johnson hall before they can be rushed. Under the direction of Don Johnson, council president, a corps of workers will be on hand to compile informal date cards and issue official date cards. Registration charges have been set at one dollar.

Coeds will go to the dean of women's office in Gerlinger hall for registration. Charges have been raised from one dollar to two dollars. Rush week for women students will begin with tea Sunday afternoon when all houses will be open to entering coeds. Coed rushees will be housed in downtown hotels during the week.

Varoff in Europe With United States Track Contingent

Touring Europe with one of two American track teams is George Varoff, Oregon pole-vaulter whose world record vault of 14 feet 6 inches was recognized recently, although it has been excelled by vaults which have not been officially considered by the American Athletic association.

Varoff spent the early part of the summer touring in the east before he was chosen with the American track contingent to tour Europe.

Opportunities Here Are Greater, Says Kneeland

Claire Kneeland, graduate from Oregon in 1927 and one of the leading Webfoot athletic followers, has returned to Eugene after five years in Santa Monica, California. Kneeland is partner in the Man's Shop.

Kneeland, who sent Oregon such noted athletes as Frank Lloyd, Arleigh Bentley, Joe Huston, Bob King, Ray Lopez and Tubby Irwin, contends that opportunities for college students are infinitely greater at Oregon than at any of the southern California schools.

New P E Head

R. W. Leighton, professor of education and executive secretary of research, takes over this fall the position of dean of the school of physical education left vacant when John F. Bovard resigned to join the staff of the University of California and Los Angeles.

Leighton Sees Growth in Physical Education and Sports Program

By HOMER GRAHAM

Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, who will replace Dr. John Bovard as dean of the school of physical education, is very much interested in athletics, although his first love has always been the field of education. He advocates physical education primarily for reason of health and recreation.

"The part that physical education is to play in the lives of students is to add to their general education, to help them solve their problems of living, and to enrich their lives," Dr. Leighton said.

"The physical education school is recognized as one of the strongest schools and it has always kept abreast of developments. We believe that it will continue to do so. Physical education is in line for development. The state department of education is pushing it in public schools, and, we believe, it will assume greater importance."

Dr. Leighton did his undergraduate work at Idaho and Iowa. At College of Idaho he helped Anse Cornell with track and football. He has been interested in baseball as well as football, wrestling, and tumbling.

Leighton came to Oregon in 1928 as a professor of education. As a former college football player, he has maintained his former interest in athletics. At various times, he has assisted Cap McKewan, Doc Spears, and Prink Callison as scout.

Dean Leighton believes that his school and the intercollegiate athletic department should cooperate, for it is the men who have made their marks as athletes whose services are most in demand as coaches.

Mikulak Retains Post as Oregon's Backfield Coach

Mike Mikulak, the "Iron Mike" who carried Oregon colors to All-American recognition a few seasons back, will remain with the Webfoot coaching staff as backfield coach, a recent announcement by Anson Cornell, athletic manager, states.

Hired last spring, Mikulak's contract included only spring practice. Arrangements have been made to keep him on the staff for the entire season, however.

In addition to Mikulak, Oregon's staff includes Head Coach Prince G. Callison, End Coach Dick Reed, and Line Coach Gene Shields.

Turf Gridiron Is Ready for Final Touches

Clock to Be Installed; Sidelines, End Zones Still Lack Grass; Field Nearly Ready

The University of Oregon's newly-turfed Hayward field will boast a large electric time clock this coming season, according to an announcement from the office of Anson B. Cornell, athletic manager.

The timer, similar to that now in use at Multnomah civic stadium in Portland, will be installed by the Associated Oil company. It will be up in time for the turf dedication contest between Stanford and Oregon on Saturday, October 2.

Final work on the Hayward field turfing project is scheduled to start this week. All that remains to be done is turfing of the sidelines and end zones. A healthy crop of grass covers the regular playing area and already is heavy enough for use.

Games billed for Hayward field, in addition to several high school contests, include the Stanford and Oregon State varsity duels and the freshman-OSC rook tilt on November 12.

The field is being rolled daily to "set" the grass roots which must withstand the effects of rainy weather and the wear and tear of long-cleated football shoes.

After work of repairing tile drains was completed, the field was sodded and then sown, a large part of the sod coming from the outfield of Howe field.

Employment

jobs of all kinds, Miss Smith pointed out.

Miss Smith is always glad to see students and talk over with them their problems, helping whenever possible. She said that some 381 students earned every cent of their way through the University this past year—from toothpaste to tuition.

New Tank Ready For Duck Mermen

Modern Swimming Pool Housed in Rebuilt Gym; Grandstand Erected

Mike Hoyman, coach of Oregon's varsity swimming team, will put his Duck mermen to water in a rebuilt, rejuvenated natatorium complete with modern equipment, when the season opens this year.

Housed in the old men's gymnasium, where the building was torn down and almost completely reconstructed around the swimming tank, Oregon swimmers will prepare to retain coast and northwest titles they have won.

The new tank is the pride of efforts to give the University the finest possible aquatic facilities. A spectators stand has been constructed on the south side. Under the stand are shower and dressing rooms, with lockers and training quarters.

With the opening of the new building will come the return of swimming classes to Oregon's physical education program.

spring practice workouts, might include Yerby and Reginato, ends Foskett and Jensen, tackles; Amato and Huston, guards; Moore, center; Nilsen or Bentley, quarterback; Nicholson and Smith, half-backs; and either Emmons or Rowe, fullback.

Oregon's 1937 schedule will carry the Webfoots up and down the Pacific coast this fall with ten appearances. Conference opponents, in order, will be U.C.L.A., Stanford, Southern California, Oregon State, Washington State, California and Washington. Non-conference contests are scheduled with Gonzaga, the San Diego Marine corps and the University of Arizona.
