

Harbert Has Dummy Made for Next Year's Natural-Color Oregana

Yearbook to Appear At Junior Weekend With Natural Colors

The 1938 Oregana, featuring natural color photography and a score of other new features which Editor Wayne Harbert hopes will bring Oregon another All-American Pacemaker, will be published on Saturday of Junior weekend, it has been announced.

The dummy, which is the rough draft of the placement of all pictures, captions, color, and copy, has been completed, Harbert stated. Hundreds of pictures were taken during the spring and summer months to insure publication of the book as a highlight of Junior weekend. Students may subscribe to the Oregana during registration, practically at their own figure.

Individual portraits of members of the dormitories and the fraternities and sororities will be taken during fall term, starting next week, according to Al Dickhart and Caroline Hand, editors of this section.

Phi Theta, Yoemen To Entertain With Dance Friday Night

Phi Theta Upsilon, junior service women's honorary, and the Yoemen, organization of independent men, are sponsors for an all campus dance which will be held Friday night in Gerlinger. Harry Hodes and Dorothy Magnusson are co-chairmen for the dance.

The Eugene hotel orchestra will play. Many novelty dances are scheduled. Free punch will be served.

planned for the publication by Harbert include: infra-red photography, reverse letter captions, natural color lithography, many full page pictures, an enlarged beauty section, which this year will include Miss Oregon and her "boy friend."

ORLANDO HOLLIS WEDS

The former Miss Marian Herbert Bradley of Portland was married to Orlando J. Hollis, member of the law school faculty, at the Westminster Presbyterian church in Portland. Dr. Hopper read the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis are now living in Eugene.

17 Law Students Pass Bar Exams

Record Due to Teaching Staff, Dean Believes; Quiz Difficult

Eighty-five per cent of the Oregon law school graduates of '37 who took the state bar examinations in Salem this summer passed, Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school announced yesterday.

"I am very proud of the fine record which the Oregon law school has made in the state bar examinations during my deanship; and I am pleased to state that the record is the result of very high grade teaching done by each one of my colleagues on the law school staff," Dean Morse said.

During the past few years the state bar examining committee has had a very strict examining policy. In spite of more difficult examinations, ninety per cent of the Oregon law school graduates have passed.

Oregon graduates of last June who passed the examinations in July are: Harold K. Fuller, Nora R. Hitchman, William M. Davis, George R. Bernie, Richard E. Kriesin, all of Portland; James R. Deviers, Salem; D. R. Dimick, Gerald B. Gray, Eugene; Thomas H. Tongue, Arvin O. Robb, Hillsboro; Anthony Yturri, Ontario; Harry McCall Jr., Redmond; Robert S. Miller, Glendale; Ronald Rew, Pendleton; Robert Anderson, Astoria; Burton L. Coan, Oswego, and Orval M. Thompson, Shedd.

Business Ad Men Pass CPA Exams

Five business administration majors, Max Saunders, Albert J. Henke, Huih Yates, Robert Buzzard, and John Goplerud, passed the examination for certified public accountants, qualifying in a field of approximately 35 entered from various parts of the state.

Six candidates from the University of Oregon entered. The sixth, Wayne Tyrell, qualified in the examinations and will complete the work in the next examination in November. Only 12 men out of the 35 passed.

Records of preceding years show that candidates from the University of Oregon have been almost 100 per cent in passing, and each man on the list is now well-placed, either in public service or with private business firms.

First Assembly

AWS to Talk

Following Benson, Gayle Buchanan, president of the associated women students, will talk to the assembly briefly.

Mike Mikulak, assistant football coach, and former Oregon All-American fullback, will present the football set-up to the students as he sees it now, with what he promises to be an optimistic opinion of the outcome of the UCLA-Oregon game in Los Angeles Thursday night.

Concluding the assembly, yell-leaders will lead students in Oregon yells and songs.

Seven artists will appear in ASUO concert. Admission is included in your student body membership card.

JOIN THE A.S.U.O.

The "CO-OP" STORE was incorporated in 1920 by the Executive Council of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon for the purpose of establishing a convenient and economical depot for the handling of text books and other necessary student supplies. For seventeen years this task has been faithfully performed by the "CO-OP." It is owned exclusively by the students of the University.

C.B.A. BINDER PAPER

That speed-smooth finish designed for fast, easy writing. Standard on the larger campuses of the West Coast.

the CO-OP BOARD

The five student members of the Co-op Board determine the policies of the store in an endeavor to make this student supply shop meet the many needs of the University.

Two faculty members, Dean James H. Gilbert and Professor Orlando John Hollis, act in an advisory capacity, but the Co-op is entirely student owned and in the main student supervised.

JOIN THE A.S.U.O.

There are two separate corporations on the campus, both owned by the students. The "CO-OP" is the merchandising concern. The other corporation is the "ASSOCIATED STUDENTS" which manages and controls all intercollegiate athletics as well as all intellectual activities such as publications, lectures, concerts, etc. in which the entire student body as a whole may participate.
