

Coeds Organize 1937 Program; AWS Moves Into New Quarters

AWS Launches Plans For Coed Activities In Gerlinger Rooms

Women Open New Unit; Smoking and Study Rooms Furnished; Dances Scheduled

new women's unit on the third floor of Gerlinger, the Associated Women Students have launched a bigger program than ever before for the coming year, according to Gayle Buchanan, AWS president.

The dean of women's office has been moved to the first floor; on the second floor is Alumni hall which acts as a reception room. On the third floor is the AWS room which will act as the nucleus of all women's activities on the Oregon campus.

Kay Coleman will be in charge of activities in an office on the third floor. Starting with the first week of school, Miss Coleman will send out questionnaires to all coeds to determine activity interests and participations. Results of this poll will be filed in the office and all appointments will be given out from the information shown in this file.

Rooms Furnished

All girls are urged to acquaint themselves with the facilities of the AWS room. It has been installed for their use and the AWS council wants coeds to meet their friends there, study, and relax in the room. There will be a commissary containing candy, gum, and cigarettes; a smoking room

Oregon Grads Top US Accountants

Max A. Saunders of Alvador and Albert J. Henke of Portland, both recent graduates of the University of Oregon school of business administration, won first and second places in the 1937 national examinations for certificates as professional public accountants, it was learned here recently.

More than 1000 candidates from 40 states took part in the examination, given each May and November under the tests of the American Institute of Accountants. The two Oregon winners receive the Elijah Watt Sells scholarship awards, gold and silver medals.

Saunders achieved the highest mark with Henke a close second. Both have been invited to attend the annual meeting of the American Institute of Accountants to be held in New York next October. They will receive their medals at a special luncheon in their honor.

Three other Oregon graduates, John C. Goplerud, Jr., Walter M. Bradley, Jr., and Robert Buzzard, also successfully passed the May examinations, according to Kelly.

will be in the hallway where a telephone has also been placed. Book lovers will enjoy the conveniences given by a new circulating library.

As a part of the new program, all campus dances will be held in the afternoon once a week. The keynote will be informality which will serve to make a wider circle of acquaintances and make more of the famous Oregon spirit.

Gayle Buchanan has made the request that any girl who can sing or play or do any form of entertainment contact AWS as they are also responsible for some of the programs held in student body assemblies.

Freshmen Are Offered Chance to 'Talk Over' Study Problems Early

Undecided freshmen may have the advantage of an early conference to help settle their choice of studies, according to Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel.

First year students wishing a chance to "talk it over" before their regular advisory conference may be assigned an advisor at the office of O. F. Stafford, dean of the lower division. Vocations and courses may also be discussed with either of the deans.

Schmidt Believes Germany in No Shape for War

Dr. F. G. G. Schmidt, head of the German department, is back on the campus again after spending two and a half months in Germany and Switzerland.

Commenting on conditions in Germany, Dr. Schmidt said he did not think the people there would stand for another war, not just yet, at any rate. He says there is no such talk of war over there as our papers would have us think. Dr. Schmidt says everything looks prosperous but the country cannot afford another war, not having the raw materials needed to conduct a war for one thing.

Hitler is quite popular with the common people now, according to Dr. Schmidt.

Kappa, national honor society. At Princeton Caswell will continue his work for the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Coed Counselors 'Big Sister' Frosh

Under the new system of frosh counselorship, which is headed by Elizabeth Stetson, the majority of the class of '41 have a big sister. This year, 75 upper classwomen were chosen for the ability and personality that they showed and were asked to be frosh counselors. Then, Monday and Tuesday of this week, they held office hours in alumni hall, where the new freshman women came and were assigned to their particular counselor. A plan to match personalities was tried this year. At the end of the week each counselor is to make up a report about each little sister placed in her care and particularly the questions that were asked. This information is to be kept and used in material which will be sent out to new students next fall. Office hours will be kept today so anyone who has not yet been assigned to a frosh counselor should go to Gerlinger between 10 and 12 and 2 and 4.
