ROOSEVELT ISSUES CALL TO WANDERING LEGISLATORS
WASHINGTON—Roosevelt came through as predicted yesterday and called a special session of congress for November 15. Chief considerations will be legislation to stabilize the income of the farmer, and to increase the income of low-paid employees of American industry.

All of which will probably prove irksome to many congressmen who are vacationing in Europe, Hawaii, Africa, and other far-flung points. In his fireside chat last night via radio, Franklin Delano said his recent trip convinced him that there is immediate need for important legislation.

G-MEN SLING LEAD: BRADY GANG VICTIMS

BANGOR, Me. — Another notorious gangster bit the dust yesterday when G-men bullets put an abrupt finish to the crime career of Al Brady—the man who once boasted he would "make John Dillinger look like a punk." And the bandit-robber was well on his way to doing it.

Followed from Indiana to Maine by more than 20 federal agents, the payoff came when a suspicious clerk in a sporting goods store tipped officers that three men had been in the store ordering large amounts of ammunition and that they would be back for more. Photos revealed the identity of the men.

They kept their word and came back, only to be met by a barrage of bullets which nailed Brady and a pal for keeps. The other gangster later surrendered. G-men now have only two more well-organized gangs to hunt down.

PEACEFUL REPOSE OF CORPSE SHATTERED

STREETVILLE, Ont. — "The Case of the Kidnapped Cadaver" would be an appropriate title for a ghastly deed that was unearthed Sunday in a little Canadian village near Toronto.

Fresh earth tossed about the grave of Hayden Pope, 20-year-old lad who died last week, attracted a passer-by. Resultant digging led to the startling discovery that the body was missing from the coffin. In its place was a note demanding payment of $100 for the return of the corpse.

AFL TURNS DOWN PEACE BID BY CIO

ATLANTIC CITY — Peace-making attempts by the CIO, in which the American Federation of Labor was invited to a conference to seek common grounds for a unified labor movement, were sharply rejected by the latter last night.

William Green, AFL prexy, fired back a reply accusing the Lewis faction of "insincerity" and bad faith in suggesting that both sides send 100 men to a peace meeting.

CIO boss Lewis, commenting on the invitation issued from his union's convention at Atlantic City, said "We candidly prefer peace," but refused to comment on the rejection.

WALLY, EDWARD TOUR IN TRAILER-HOUSE

BERLIN — Germany's only trailer-house was in readiness last night to receive its first resident-travellers—the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The super-deluxe conveyance, equipped with bar, kitchen, telephone, and other conveniences, was manufactured by Chancellor Hitler for the sole use of foreign diplomats and other distinguished guests. Wally and Edward will tour to Groessinsee today . . . From castle to trailer-house! Quite a jump in one year, even if it isn't as bad as it sounds.

CHINA, JAPAN ASKED TO COOPERATE

WASHINGTON — Changing America's slant on the Sino-Japanese conflict, President Roosevelt last night told radio listeners that the United States intends to "cooperate" with both China and Japan.

His statements confirmed earlier beliefs that this nation will try to bring about a settlement "by agreement" to end the oriental squabble. Action will await the nine-power conference to be held in the near future.

DEAN EARL GUEST AT CO-OP

Virgil P. Earl, dean of men, will be a guest at the women's co-op for dinner Wednesday night.

YWCA Program Starts This Week

Annual Donut Sale To Be Homecoming Activity

YWCA activities begin in earnest this week with the annual Donut sale, continuation of the Oregon pennant sale, recognition service, and meetings of the various groups.

Mrs. Turnipseed's discussion group on comparative religions heads the list and will meet Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at her home at Thatcher cottage, 1374 Onyx street. This group will discuss the important basic religions of the world. Hazel Lewis, YW religious chairman, is in charge of the meeting.

Sale Starts Tuesday
Traditional YW donut sales will be held next week beginning with the sales on the campus Tuesday, November 19. Thursday doughnuts will be sold to the houses, and Saturday girls will sell doughnuts at the Oregon State game. Theo Prescott, chairman of the sale, promises a good publicity stunt during the half of the football game.

Sale of Oregon pennants will be continued homecoming weekend under the direction of Leah Puppo. Plans are to have a booth at Johnson hall, for the convenience of registering alumni, in addition to the usual sales booths.

YMCA Completes Plans for Service To Oregon Students

Plans for expanded work in three fields: religious leadership, service to students, and broadening students' outlook on life have been completed by the campus YMCA.

A room in the "hut" has been set aside especially for the use of religious workers. A recreation room will also be completed, making available to the students a place in which to read and write. To broaden students' outlook on life, the "Y" will sponsor a series of fireside forums in various living organizations, obtaining faculty members, business men, and other community leaders as speakers.

Later in the year a counsel service is planned for all the high schools in this county. Students and faculty members will participate in this activity.

Kwamas Choose Three New Girls

Red carnations were pinned on three girls when the Kwamas, sophomore service honorary, picked their new pledges for this year. Betty Jane Dillon, Alpha Delta Pi, Jean Webster, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Mary Failing, Delta Gamma, were chosen tonight during dinner.

ROTC OFFICERS NAMED

Colonel E. V. D. Murphy of the ROTC yesterday announced appointments of cadet officers for the year. The appointments were made from the advanced military classes and include 11 captains, 11 lieutenants, and 5 second lieutenants.

ATTEND OSC RECEPTION

Dean J. R. Jewell, Dean George Rebec, and Dean Victor Morris will attend the Oregon State college president's reception at Corvallis tonight. The purpose of the occasion is to honor new members of the faculty.

Flankman

John Yerby, veteran Duck end, is expected to draw a starting position against Southern California Saturday.

Shot by His Brothers' Bullets

The Chinese above was felled by bullets from the rifles of the Chinese national army. He is a victim of the many anti-spy purges that run rampant in war-torn nations. The victim was accused of relaying information concerning Chinese troop movements to Japanese planes.

Rush Week Vagaries Told in Short Drama

By W. B.

A play in as many acts as it takes to get through the thing. Setting: a fraternity house on this or any other campus. Characters: members of the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. Time of opening scene: middle of "rush" week, might better be called "hush" week, time when all weak points and disagreeable things relative to the fraternity system are hushed.

(Curtain) Rushee reclining in biggest, most comfortable chair in parlor, contentedly puffing on a cigarette (courtesy Ye Active, incorporated). Rushee says, "Gee whiz, I feel like a king. Cigarettes, shows, everything I want . . . free. And gosh, everyone calls me by my first name already. Had no idea college was going to be this good. Mmmm . . . why didn't I come down sooner."

(Enter sophomore, speaking in undertone as he skeptically surveys rushee.) "Gotta line up more fellows with a little beef. Be damned if I'm gonna do details another year. Better get hot." (Exits hurriedly.)

(Enter junior, who smiles in genial fashion in general direction of the rushee, then mutters to himself.) "Just gotta get guys with dough this year. Gotta put the fraternity back on its feet. Better line up a few cars, too. Always come in handy."

(Enter senior.) "Nice looking batch of fellows this year. Our men are getting pretty cocky about it, though. And too early in the week. Oh well . . ." (with condescending half-smile at rushee, senior walks out and)

(Act the second . . . same scene . . . Saturday afternoon as pledges are being received at the various houses. Sound effects . . . victory bell clanging, siren going, horns honking intermittently and a shotgun being shot off every so often. Curtain.)

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors are all gathered around something or other, can't see just what it is, but they seem very excited and are yelling madly and jumping up and down with enthusiasm. Oh, it's a pledge they are glad-handing. O.K. fellows, go ahead. One-two-three—all together now, "Congratulations. Gosh, we're glad to see you, fellows. Let us take your bags. Congratulations! (Repeat three times for effect, or something.)

Sophomore, aside to junior, "What was his name?" Junior, looking bewildered and very dumb, "Damned if I know."

Senior, "Well don't look at me . . . go ahead, congratulate the guy anyway . . . who cares what the sucker's name is."

Pledge is escorted off royally by the grinning actives. (Curtain.)

Act the third. Tuesday after registration. Actives have finally stopped acting because . . . well, after all, they've pledged the mugs now. Curtain rises. A heap of tired humanity (the pledge) is reclining, exhausted in the big easy chair. Senior enters. Pledge rises as rapidly as his condition will allow and bows to the senior, mumbling something about "yes, sir."

The senior look at the pledge oddly and says, "I wasn't talking to

CLASSIFIED

Would like to meet a few persons interested in the subject of psychic telepathy, "hunches" and their possible use and unclassified phenomena. Object, mutual study and observation. Leave your name at the Emerald business office on the campus.

Frosh Pictures to Be Available Today; Others to Be Friday

Frosh pictures for ASUO cards will be available starting today. Sophomore, junior, and senior pictures will be available starting Friday. Those students not having pictures are requested to watch the Emerald for further announcements. Assistant Activities Manager Volchok said yesterday.

Yeomen Get Pies to Tempt Independents

Yeomen have ordered 80 apple pies to be served with coffee at a dessert next Friday night, according to Harry Hodes, president of the independent men.

After dessert the Yeomen and Ordes will get together for a dance. The hall will be decorated with balloons. Special encouragement is being given to all independents to attend.

Both Yeomen and Ordes plan for a large membership this year because of increased enrollment.

Debate to Precede

4-Year Document
The clause that receives the most votes will be automatically adopted into the constitution, which will go with the class through their four years in college. Next spring the frosh will draw up a skeleton constitution for the incoming class.

The argument for the extended suffrage proponents will be that more students will become interested in frosh affairs, a bigger turnout at the initial class meeting will be evident, and that the policies of 900 students will not be directed by say 300 students—which was the case for freshmen this fall.

Holloway's Reasons
Holloway's reasons for retaining voting privileges with cards will be that class cards would not sell unless voting came with the cards, that those activities might suffer from lack of financing, and that a definite class group has always been evident satisfactorily in past classes.

However, Miss Mohr believes that activities could be handled so that the enlarged class would be attracted to buy cards to participate, and thus add to the treasury—furthermore attempting to make the activities a paying proposition.

Late last night evidence of intense interest in the question was apparent, with proponents of the opposing stands organizing their supporters to be present at the meeting in full force.

Rare Books Displayed In Browsing Room

A number of rare and fine books from the Pauline Potter Homer collection are now being displayed in the browsing room of the University library. The exhibit has been arranged by C. Jonathan Ziady, student, and former employee of the Merrymont press, Boston, where he worked with D. B. Updike.

On the tables where they may readily be seen, are books from the Chiswick press, William Morris' press, in London, the Merrymont press, and Elzevir press, as well as a number of other volumes of note either because of their antiquity, author, or subject matter.

The books, shown on tables, are accompanied by cards explaining the particular value of the volumes.

Book in Vellum

One of the oldest books in the collection and one of greatest value is "The Truth of Religion" by Hugo Gratius. It is printed in old style Latin and is from the Elzevir press of Amsterdam, founded in 1640. The book is in vellum, and the pages are thick and crisp with age.

From the Chiswick press, London, there is a volume of prayers by Robert Louis Stevenson. The pages are elaborately colored and designed and the words are beautifully spaced. Mrs. Stevenson wrote the introduction.

Pilgrim's Progress Shown

"Pilgrim's Progress," bound in vellum, is one of the beautiful books printed by William Morris in 1892.

A 1754 edition of Milton's "Paradise Lost" with notes by Thomas Newton fascinates many people. The old English alphabet is used.

Infirmiry to Have Ambulance Drive

Latest improvement to the University's infirmiry is the new ambulance driveway, on which construction was started this week.

The new driveway, which is being built along the east side of the building, will permit two-way approach, so that both side-opening and back opening ambulances will be able to approach the infirmiry with equal facility, according to F. A. Cuthbert, University landscape architect.

Paul Whiteman

Then came the first Whiteman concert at Carnegie hall, at which symphonic jazz impressed men in top hats and tails, and women in evening gowns so deeply that it came to stay.

London followed in Whiteman's rise to fame. Private parties for British nobility, and back to New York.

The Prince of Wales, setting a new high for American social scrambles, visited a Long Island estate. Dozens of bands offered their services free, for the publicity. Whiteman was invited to play and received $6,000 for the night's work.

Alums to Have Rooms During Homecoming

Accommodations will be assured to all guests who attend Homecoming, October 22-24, even if they are unable to procure rooms at Eugene hotels, it was declared yesterday by Elmer Fansett, alumni secretary, and John Durr, secretary of the Eugene chamber of commerce.

A careful check is being made of all available rooms by a housing bureau. Room charges will be reasonable, and will be assigned from the alumni registration headquarters in Johnson hall during the annual campus festivities.

Howe Field to Have New Covering in Time for Baseball

Howe field, scene of many a torrid baseball contest, will be able to boast brand new greensward by spring, according to F. A. Cuthbert, University landscape architect.

The outfield, which lost its covering to Hayward field when the new turf was put onto the gridiron, will soon undergo treatment for the replacement of the transferred sod.

First step in the process will be the reseeding of the outfield, which will begin soon.

Delta Gamma Head Honored at Dinner

Mrs. Florence Bingham, national vice-president of Delta Gamma sorority, was a guest at the Delta Gamma house last weekend. Mrs. Bingham, whose home is in Palo Alto, California, was entertained at dinner Saturday night at the Eugene hotel by officers of the Eugene chapter.

Sunday morning the pledge class sponsored a breakfast at the Eugene hotel in her honor. The Eugene alumnae gave a supper in her honor Sunday evening.

BONFIRE AIDES NAMED

Plans are already under way for the freshman bonfire on Homecoming weekend. Committee chairmen, Stan Davis and Wally Rossman, have named 26 freshmen, representatives from every fraternity, to serve on the frosh committee for upcoming activities.

Oregon Professors Get Commendation

In appreciation of work done in choosing candidates for the superintendency of Portland schools, the board of education of school district number one in Portland this week sent Dean J. R. Jewell and Prof. S. Stephenson Smith of the Oregon faculty, and Elam Anderson, president of Linfield college, a resolution of commendation.

The resolution said in part: "The satisfactory performances of voluntary, unpaid public service is one of the highest expressions of democratic citizenship. . . . The distinguished members of the advisory committee, President Elam Anderson, Dean J. R. Jewell, Professor S. Stephenson Smith, whose duties have been brought to a highly successful conclusion by the recent election of Superintendent Ralph E. Dugdale, deserve the commendation of the board of directors, the citizens of school district number one, and the friends of education everywhere."

Hours Scheduled for Recreational Swim In Men's New Pool

Recreational swimming in the men's new swimming pool will be on Tuesday, Thursday, and on Saturday from 2 until 6. Classes will be held from 9 to 10 and 2 until 3 in the afternoon on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

The pool will not be available for use from 4 to 6 in the afternoons from Monday through Friday, as the varsity and frosh team will use the pool to practice in at that time.

All boys who have baskets at the gym may swim any time a class is not scheduled. A charge of 25 cents will be levied for those who do not have a basket.

REBEC VISITS PORTLAND

Dean George Rebec of the graduate division left last week for Portland for the second of his regular term trips to the Portland graduate extension offices. Dean Rebec interviews each of the graduate students who attend regular evening classes in the Lincoln high school.

Law Students Romp

(Continued from page one) one seems to know anything about the program they have scraped up but it's bound to be good. From one source I learned that the wives of the respected faculty members had supplied a good deal of gridiron evidence concerning the idiosyncrasies and off-the-record interests of the dignified law professors . . . evidence that is apt to be presented with startling effects when members of the scandal-mongering faculty give vent to their winchillist tendencies tonight.

Yes, tonight is the night, despite the fact that it is the thirteenth. At the Del Rey cafe at 7:30, with members of the Lane county bar as honored guests . . . and one more law school smoker.
