

DUCK TRACKS

By ELBERT HAWKINS

Scribes from here to Timbuktu are picking winners this fall. Most of 'em aren't any more psychic than the next guy, but they nevertheless have to pour over scores and more scores, and come up with about three dozen choices every week.

Just like the golfer who is waiting for his hole in one, they keep hammering out the prognostications, hoping against hope that someday only ten per cent will be wrong. Of course the idea is to pick enough "soft" ones to make up for the ones which go haywire. Like in the coast conference for instance.

They're all prognosticating this fall, so to keep up with "the Joneses" I'll have to start the painful task. The following weren't picked out of a hat either, but came as a result of some diligent research. Forty is the number of games picked this time, so about thirty should be right—or else.

Of course Oregon and Oregon State must rate the first choice. It all boils down to the simple fact that Stiner's Orangemen seem to have an edge in defense, and the Webfoots in scoring. Both teams should counter, so assuming that Oregon's line tightens up a bit, and Graybeal and co. continue their flashy point-producing, it'll be Oregon, 13 to 7, in a humdinger.

California's Golden Bears should get knocked over this season, but not by Southern California. The Bears will win, 7 to 0. UCLA should tip Washington State, 13 to 0, in one conference game, and Stanford will squeeze through a 7 to 0 win over Washington in the other.

At Corvallis tonight, the Ducklings should find a terrific battle in Bill McKalip's Oregon State rooks, but the Warrenmen are a little too strong. Call it 13 to 7. Other coast choices are: St. Mary's 13, Idaho 0, and Santa Clara 26, Loyola 6.

We'll take the rest as they come, and forget geographic location. The list fairly represents every section of the country.

Northwestern U. 7, Ohio State 0, Louisiana State 6, Vanderbilt 0, Nebraska 12, Missouri university 0.

Arkansas U. 7, Southern Methodist 6.

Army 3, Washington university 0.

Oklahoma 6, Kansas 0.

Georgia U. 27, Mercer 0.

Boston College 6, Detroit 0.

Did you ever hear of the Ouachita football team? Neither did I, so they'll lose to Mississippi university by 40 to 0. A really tough one to pick is Carnegie Tech against Pop Warner's Temple boys. Carnegie, 13 to 6.

Princeton 19, Rutgers 6, Centenary 12, Arizona U. 0, Auburn 7, Georgia Tech 6, Pittsburgh 13, Wisconsin 12, Michigan State 14, Marquette 7, Manhattan college 9, Kentucky 0.

Holy Cross 33, Western Maryland 0.

Tennessee 25, Sewanee 0.

Which brings us to one of those traditional affairs between Harvard and Dartmouth. Harvard won handily last season, 26 to 7, and should repeat this time, only closer, 7 to 0.

Indiana U. 45, Cincinnati 0, Syracuse 20, Maryland 7, Navy 14, Notre Dame 6, Yale 13, Cornell 0.

Tulsa U. 19, Oklahoma A. & M. 0.

Duke U. 19, Colgate 0.

Texas Christian 7, Fordham 7, Columbia U. 20, Brown 0, Villanova 13, Bucknell 0, North Carolina 27, Tulane 0, Texas A. & M. 9, Baylor 6, Drake 13, Iowa State 0.

Bob Smith, Anderson Throw Aerials in Practice Session; Rach Will Play

The fact that reserved seats have been sold out for a week, and that there are only 3,000 general admission tickets left failed to bother Head Coach Prink Callison yesterday as he sent his charges through their first open workout this week.

Apparently Coach Callison has not given up hope of breaking through the stout Beaver line, as yesterday he was working with both Paul Rowe and Bill Rach, with Rach showing especially well.

Rach, 190-pound sophomore fullback from Seattle, suffered an ankle injury early in the season which has kept him on the sidelines in every game so far.

Smith, Anderson Pass Further evidence that Callison expects also to go over the Oregon State forward wall was given yesterday when he spent much time with Bob Smith and Steve Anderson, ace passers of the squad.

With Smith was his touchdown twin, Jay Graybeal. This combination has scored 3 of Oregon's 11 touchdowns, as well as working nicely on last year's frosh squad. Steve Anderson, who threw most of Oregon's 29 passes against USC, also came in for his share of attention during the workout.

Two Lineup Changes Callison indicated yesterday that, practically the same lineup that started against the University of Southern California last week would start against the Staters Saturday.

The two exceptions are Vernon Moore at center for Denny Braid and Bill Estes at tackle for Ellroy Jensen.

The rest of the lineup includes John Yerby and Bud Robertson at ends, Bill Foskett at the other tackle, Joe Huston and Captain Tony Amato at guards, Hank Nilson at quarterback, Steven Anderson and Dale Lasselle, halfbacks, and Paul Rowe, fullback.

Two Backfields were formed by Callison with the first one consisting of Denny Donovan, pass-catcher de luxe, quarterback; Bob Smith and Jay Graybeal, the Pendleton jackrabbit, halfbacks, and Arleigh Bentley, fullback. In the other combination were Jimmy Nicholson and Ted Gebhardt, halfbacks, Bill Rach, fullback; and Ernie Robertson, quarterback.

A short session this afternoon will wind up practice for the big game Saturday.

Fijis Top ATO to Win Donut Links Crown

Phi Gamma Delta annexed the intramural golf crown yesterday afternoon, defeating ATO over the Laurelwood links, by taking 6½ out of a possible 9 points.

In the first match, Bob Findtner, Fiji, tied with Kirk Eldridge, knocking out a 37 and 38 for three over par. Fred Davis of the Fijis defeated Harry Weston, 3-2 and 5-4. The scores were, Davis 38-39-77, and Weston 42-42-84.

Bill Mortimer, ATO, succumbed to George Smith, 1 down on the first nine, and 3-1 on the second. Their scores were Smith, 38-38-76, and Mortimer, 42-40-82.

Economics Class Is Propositioned By Dean Gilbert

"I'll make you a proposition," was the eccentric greeting of Dean Gilbert to his Tuesday 8 o'clock economics class.

"If the Oregon football team wins or draws with the Beavers this weekend, our economics exam will be postponed until the second meeting next week; but in case of a Webfoot defeat, it will be advisable for you to come prepared Monday morning," he added.

"This reasoning is not as irrational as it might seem, because if we emerge victorious, there is naturally sufficient reason for celebration," he contended.

"If OSC wins, then studying econ. will of necessity prevent students from drowning their sorrows. An additional feature is the possibility of its instilling within the grid men in this class the incentive to overcome the Staters," he concluded.

Fullback Kolberg To Lead Beavers Against Oregon

John Watts Assumes Tackle Hole Left By Injured Sterling

Corvallis, October 21.—Big Elmer Kolberg, two-year letterman, who is generally considered the best defensive fullback on the Pacific coast has been chosen to captain the Oregon State football team against the University of Oregon at Eugene, Saturday afternoon.

Watts Takes Over Only change in the Orange starting lineup is at right tackle where Watts takes the place of Leon Sterling who was injured last Saturday. Only other man who may not see action due to injury is Warren Gillis, second-string left tackle.

Among the Orange second-stringers who are almost certain to perform against the Webfoots are Dick Sutherland, end; Eberle Schult, guard and center; John Hackenbruck, tackle; John Eilers, Bob Mountain, Hal Higgins and John Alexander, halfbacks, and Ben Ell, fullback.

The Oregon State squad, accompanied by almost the entire Oregon State student body and its band will arrive in Eugene, by special train, at noon, Saturday. The students and band will march directly to Hayward field where the big game starts at 2 o'clock.

Fijis Top ATO to Win Donut Links Crown

Although the winner of the fray was decided at the end of the fifteenth hole, play was very close in all matches. In the main match, Eldridge, after a poor start on the first, came through with a 15-foot putt to tie the hole.

Findtner, after driving into some trees on the left of the fourth fairway, settled down and took the hole. On the fifth, when Eldridge drove into the rough on his second shot, and hit a tree on the third, Findtner took advantage of the opening and won with a par. He won the next three with a two pars and a birdie, but Eldridge took the ninth to tie the nine.

Davis Starts Late The second match, Weston-Davis, turned out to be a battle of drives, each one getting off some exceptional tee shots. Fiji's Davis didn't get well started until the fifth, but from there held a lead which he did not relinquish.

The Smith-Mortimer battle was very close in both shots and score on the first nine, but Smith held the upper hand during the second. There were six birdies and seven tie holes during the match.

Oregon's Webfoots had a rather rocky time of it in last Saturday's 34 to 14 defeat at the hands of Southern California, but this picture shows L. Robertson getting away for a 10-yard gain. USC's McNell (47) and Fisk (50) nipped him.

Duck Cross Country Harriers Train for Hill Military Affair

Varsity and Yearlings Practice Together Under Acting Coach Sam McGaughey; Five-Man Team to Be Selected

The large squad of cross country men who reported earlier in the term to Sam McGaughey, coach and track captain of last year, have finished preliminary running, and will now be subjected to some intensive training in preparation for the Hill Military meet scheduled for November 24.

The varsity will be constructed with Crawford Lyle, the only letterman in the turnout, as a nucleus, according to McGaughey. Despite the fact that he is handicapped by a shortage of experienced men, the capable understudy to Bill Hayward is confident that a number of the promising aspirants will be sufficiently developed for the contest next month.

Work Together Freshmen and varsity men are working together at present, and will participate in the intramural contest which will be run over the local three-mile course in the near future, said McGaughey. This is the only actual competition experienced by the freshmen this year, but this fall development is invaluable in building up endurance for spring track, he added.

Selection of the five-man team to represent Oregon is expected to become much more simplified when the abilities of the various members of the squad becomes pronounced. The men who seem to be occupying the top positions during the earlier training period, but who will undoubtedly be pressed for their berths by those in the lower bracket, are Crawford Lyle of Eugene and member of last year's track team, Jack Davidson, Ellensburg, Washington, Wayne Mackin, Cottage Grove, Kirman Storli and Bob Nesse, both of Portland.

Two Don't Count Two ineligible men now working out with the cross country squad, who have shown possibilities of strengthening the distance department next track season are: Ken Barker of La Grande, former mile winner in the state high school

Phi Deltas, ATOs Match Racquets In Donut Finals

Delts Trample Chi Psis; Gamma Hall Beaten by ATOs

By CHUCK VAN SCOYOG Phi Delta Theta, defending donut tennis champs, and Alpha Tau Omega are due to match racquets for the intramural championship today following their victories yesterday over Gamma Hall and Chi Psi lodge.

The Phi Deltas were assured another chance to defend their title by humbling a fighting team from the Chi Psi by a 2 to 1 score. Ellis, Chi Psi singles man, took the opening match of the day when he defeated Phillip of the Phi Deltas in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

Yearling Hoopsters Hold Final Practice The frosh basketballers went through their last practice today with a good tough scrimmage. There will be no more turnouts for the frosh team until next term or the last of this term.

Out of the 40 who have been turning out regularly, Coach Hobson will pick a group of 15 to 25 men to work with the varsity when needed.

There seems to be a wealth of material among the frosh, and lots of boys with plenty of experience. The list of those not cut will be posted by Hobson next Monday.

De Pittard and Blanchard evened the score for the Phi Deltas by winning the first doubles match from Boyer and Brycen of the lodge, 1-6, 6-0, 6-2. The barn duet failed to get going in the first set, but decisively turned the tables in the deciding two sets.

ATO's Victorious The ATOs gained another chance to crack at the Phi Deltas in the finals by dropping Gamma hall by a 2 to 1 score yesterday. The match procedure practically duplicated the Phi Delt-Chi Psi battle when Cardinal won the singles matches from Stafford of the ATOs by 6-0, 6-1 scores, and then the hotelmen took both doubles matches.

Duckling Warriors Face Orange Yearlings Under Corvallis Lights Tonight

Winding up practice with a short signal drill under the lights of Hayward field last night, "Honest John" Warren will send a doubtful forward wall and a powerful backfield into the second battle of the "little civil war" against the rooks at Corvallis tonight.

Up to the present time the Duckling front rank has been as full of holes as a piece of Swiss cheese. In the first fracas of the series at Portland, the Beaver backs spent most of their time walking over the mighty frosh line.

Babes Out to Win The Beaver Yearling's scoring aces, "Rowdy" Dow and Joe Tomlich, are all set to repeat this same performance. Over at Corvallis they're saying that the frosh first row will leave the gridiron with grass growing out of their hair.

Turning to the offensive side of the story, Oregon's prospects are as bright as the noonday sun. Warren has one of the most potent backfield combinations in duckling history. Del Dungey, Chet Haliski, Duke Hankinson, Bill Hawke, Leonard Isberg, Don Mabee, Gene Schultz and Marshall Stenstrom are all outstanding.

Haliski Ready Chet Haliski is back in uniform and probably will see service tonight. However, Schultz is tentatively scheduled for the starting assignment.

Planked on top of the win column with two victories and one deadlock, Warren's charges are determined to stay there. The Ducklings previously nosed out the previously nosed out the rooks, 19-17, trounced the SONS 21-0, and split a 6-6 decision with the Wolves.

"Wild Bill" McKalip's proteges are still holding down the bottom with a 7-7 tie against the Wolves, in addition to the frosh contest.

and Anderson defeated Engleke and Moe, 6-3, 2-6, and 6-3. Zamsky and Arden cinched the match easily winning over Wray and Akutagawa, 6-0, 6-2.

The University greeting committee will meet at the educational activities building today at 2 p.m.
