

DUCK TRACKS

By ELBERT HAWKINS

Square-cut Hugo Bezdek, who, history tells us coached football, basketball, and baseball at Oregon from 1913 through 1917, is a mentor of the old school, but according to reports from the East is far from being a hard-boiled Spears.

Fact is, he's very different. Hugo Bezdek, now in his 53rd year, advocates a system of his own, allowing the players a little self-government. On his Cleveland team professional club, Bezdek appointed a five-man committee which acted on such matters as training rules, equipment, and even a little social life. He retains a veto power, but uses it only on rare occasions.

Says Frank Hugo Bezdek about his self-control system, "The players feel a sense of community responsibility. They feel that it's their own club, rather than the manager's or the owner's. It's working for me. We get more from the players."

Which brings us right back to the Pacific coast for observation of the same tentatious idea, but in a different form. Stanford's Coach Tiny Thornhill believes in a little freedom for his Indians, and consequently they call Stanford the laughingest club in the United States.

Hugo Bezdek has been in athletics about long enough to be an authority on how to keep football players happy. They say he's the only man living to pilot both the major league baseball and football teams. During 1917, 1918, and 1919, just after leaving Oregon, he piloted Pittsburgh's Pirates of the National baseball league.

He contributed such stratagems as the screened pass and spinner play to football. But why go on. Bezdek's accomplishments are many. Piloting Oregon's Webfoots of 1916 to the Rose Bowl was his biggest feat as far as Eugene citizens are concerned.

Hollis Huntington, former Salem high coach, now owner of the Man's Shop in Salem, has a lot to say about those days. Huntington was a fullback on the Oregon eleven which whipped Pennsylvania State, 14 to 0, at Pasadena on New Year's Day, 1917. Not only that, he set an individual record of yardage piled up which stands today.

Stanford's Horse Reynolds went down in Ripley's not long ago for playing every minute of two Rose Bowl games. They overlooked Hollis Huntington, for he did it in three games, AND with two different teams. Told me so himself. As previously mentioned, the Penn State game was number one. He then switched to the U. S. Marines for a 1918 Pasadena clash, and in 1920 was in there for 60 minutes when Oregon lost to Harvard, 7 to 6.

Frosh Battle Washington Babes Tomorrow Night In Multnomah Stadium

Optimist John Warren Visualizes Defeat for Webfoot Yearlings in Annual Game for Northwest Championship

By BOB JORDAN
In what appears to give all signs of being the roughest, toughest fracas of the 1937 frosh grid session, the Ducklings will battle the Washington yearlings for the mythical Northwest championship tomorrow night at Portland.

Although "Honest John" Warren, Oregon's champ optimist, doesn't give the frosh an outside chance to cop the title, the dope sheet calls for a fast, close contest.

Show Improvement
With a greater scoring punch than last year's aggregation which dropped the Babes, 13-7, at Seattle, the Ducklings should put up a stiff battle from the first installment to the last. In addition to this, Warren's proteges have shown considerable improvement in blocking and tackling during the last two weeks.

Both squads are undisputed masters of their territory. The frosh have trounced the rooks in two straight mixups, 19-12 and 20-7. The miniature Huskies recently slapped Bellingham normal which had previously smacked Washington State's freshman eleven.

The Irony of It
The irony of gridiron history finds three former Seattle all-stars pointing for Oregon, while three ex-Portland flashers occupy spots on the Babes' first string.

Duke Hankinson, high-scoring left half, Bill Hawke, and Marshall Stenstrom, all of Seattle, are leading backs on Warren's squad. Tackles Bob McKeown, Franklin, and Jack Coonan and Ted Dorman, Grant quarterback, former members of Portland's all-star roster are probable starters for Washington.

Warren's charges have tallied 66 points against 25 for their opponents so far this season. Hankinson leads the Ducklings with 16 markers.

Frosh Grid Practice
The signal practice sent his lads through a passing and signal practice session last night. He will terminate the pre-game warmup with a short meeting under the lamps at Hayward field tonight.

Whistle time will probably find Chet Haliski at quarterback, Leonard Isberg at left half, and Stenstrom and Hawke at fullback and right half, respectively. Don Matbee, Del Dungey, Gene Schultz, Neil Stackhouse, and Gordon Bishop will probably see service in the backfield.

Oregon's front rank is scheduled to line up the same as usual, with Bob Hendershott, left end; Bob Creager, left tackle; worthy Blaisdell, left guard; Al Samuelson, center; Barney Reams, right guard; Jim Stuart, right tackle; Norm Conaway, right end.

Send the Emerald home to Dad every morning. He will like to read the University happenings.

Oregon Staters Polish Offense For Indian Team

Elevens Will Clash at Palo Alto in 12th Renewal of Play

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Oct. 27.—Orange football players are preparing to meet another major Pacific coast conference contender, Stanford university, next on the Beaver slate, Saturday afternoon at Palo Alto.

Victorious over the University of Oregon, 14 to 0, last week, the highly touted scoring machine which failed in earlier starts now appears to be hitting its intended stride, and, according to Coach Lon Stiner, probably will make things tough for all the major clubs left on the season slate.

Gray to Pace Orange
As in previous battles, red-headed Joe Gray, rated the outstanding all-American backfield candidate in the Northwest, again will be expected to pace the Beavers' offensive attack with his sensational passing arm and great ball-packing against the Indians. The pending fray will be the 12th between the two teams, but the Orangemen have yet to emerge the victor.

Practice sessions in the Orange camp this week indicated Coach Stiner probably will take to the air in an effort to annex the first victory in history from Stanford. The brilliant Gray paced his mates through lengthy aerial drills early this week, hitting his targets consistently.

Another encouraging factor in recent Beaver gridiron successes has been the surprising strength of the line, believes Coach Stiner. The Beaver front wall was believed to be one of the weak links in the potentially strong team at the outset of the 1937 team.

Campus Calendar

There will be a special meeting of librarians at 10:30 this morning in the lounge of Gerlinger hall.

All those interested in making Christmas cards and gifts please meet in the AWS activity room tomorrow at four o'clock.

There will be an important meeting of Gamma Alpha Chi tonight at the Gamma Phi Beta house at 7 o'clock.

There will be no meeting tonight of Skull and Dagger.

Alpha Delta Sigma will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Professor Thacher's office.

All girls interested in being on the rifle team should be at the ROTC building at 4 this afternoon. Plans for organization will be discussed.

Students who have NYA checks due them should call immediately at the cashier's office in Johnson hall between the hours of 10-12 and 1-3.

Amphibian members and pledges will hold a meeting Thursday night, 7:30, in Gerlinger pool.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Christian Science organization will hold its regular meeting in Gerlinger hall. Students and faculty members are invited to attend.

Alpha Kappa Psi, men's commerce honorary, will hold a regular meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in 106 Commerce building.

The number of patients occupying the infirmary wards jumped from 9 to 13 yesterday with the following confined to beds: Jean Rawson, Eleanor Koopp, Muriel Horner, Oloanne Dyckman, Patricia Taylor, Jean Gulovson, Frances McCoy, Bert Adams, Robert Stone, Burton Barr, Richard Maxwell, Robert Morse, and Russell Inskeep.

Troubled with insomnia? Subscribed to the Oregon Daily Emerald.

As Bruin Bows to Cougar

From the accurate toe of Washington State's Fullback Joe Sienko went a 3 to 0 defeat for UCLA Saturday. Here a lad named Callow (29) of the Staters is rolling for a nice gain. The University of California at Los Angeles eleven was a heavy favorite to trip Babe Hollingberry's lads.

Fred Razor, Beaver Fencing Champion, Now Oregon Student

Revival of Interest in Foils Competition On Campus Is Probable; Boushey Offers His Support to New Organization

By LARRY QUINLIN
Oregon has a champion swordsman among her students this year, whose coming may help to create interest in fencing on the campus. He is Fred Razor, junior in economics and a transfer from Oregon State. Razor held the OSC intramural all-college fencing championship.

Although Oregon had a mixed fencing club last year of about fifteen members, a revival of interest in the organization will require new leadership this year, according to Earl Boushey, physical education professor. Mr. Boushey acted as advisor of the club last year.

Wants to Build
Last year's president and leader, Del Robinson, is not in school this fall, so his place may be filled by Razor. Razor stated that he was interested in re-forming a fencing club, and possibly a fencing team.

Mr. Boushey said he would back Razor or any other student instrumental in reviving interest in fencing.

A member of last year's fencing group, Howard Percy, also offered his support to a possible leader, and said he believes fencing is "the coming thing."

Razor was number two man on the three-man Oregon State fencing team last year. The Beaver squad made an enviable record, swamping Reed college, 9-0, in each of two matches, beating Oregon's fencing club team once by the same score, and beating University of Washington 7-2.

The Washington crew went to California later to place second in the Pacific coast fencing championship. The Beaver team was unable to make the trip south.

According to Razor, fencing will be classed as a minor sport at Oregon State this year, so popular it is becoming.

An Honor Student
Razor is an honor student at Oregon State, and is here on a scholarship. He is a member of Campbell Co-op. Fencing, he says, is largely a matter of practice. He likes foil fencing better than any other. Razor started fencing two years ago at the Multnomah Athletic club in Portland, and continued his practice at Oregon State when he enrolled there.

Send the Emerald home to Dad every morning. He will like to read the University happenings.

Beamer Waits for Oregon State

Frank L. (Beamer) McMillan, is listed on the Stanford roster as a guard. He weighs 200 pounds and is a good one. Beamer and his Indian mates face Lon Stiner's Orangemen this Saturday at Palo Alto.

Sigma Chis, Gammas, Lodgers Win Games

Varsity Basketball Starts Next Monday

Varsity basketball practice will start Monday, Coach Howard Hobson said today. The first meeting will be to organize the group, after which regular practices will start. All students wishing to turn out for varsity basketball should report at 4 o'clock in McArthur court.

SIGNALS... HIKE

By GEORGE PASERO
When Lenard K. "Bud" Robertson stepped onto the turf of the huge (some say immense) Memorial coliseum in Los Angeles to play a little football with the big boys from California, he felt somewhat like you and I would feel if we were suddenly and unceremoniously dumped into the middle of the Sahara desert.

The six-foot Oregon end looked up at the vast expanse of seats and probably for the first time in his life felt a little lost. The big bowl seats 105,000 people.

At any rate he was impressed by the size of the "toy box." "It looks bigger than all outdoors," Robertson grinned.

However, the 22-year-old, 180-pounder didn't agree with the theory that playing in the coliseum took so much out of the players. "We played in pretty good weather conditions this year. It was usually cool enough."

A one-year letterman from Albany, Robertson didn't exactly dislike the idea of drawing a bye this weekend. "These two weeks should give the fellows who have been banged up all season a chance to recover from their injuries," he said.

Asked whether California's decisive defeat of Southern California surprised him, the well-built Kappa Sigma boy with the "Hitler" haircut replied in the negative. "I had that one all doped out," Bud modestly averred. "What's more I think Stanford will beat OSC by a touchdown Saturday."

THE ANCHORAGE

Phone 39

B league volleyball fired its opening shots tonight, with the Comets and the Betas looming as the best of the twelve teams who exhibited their wares.

The Comets looked in mid-season form as they trounced a sadly out-classed team from the Delta Tau Delta by a 15-4, 15-3 score. The Betas meanwhile trounced the team from Sherry Ross hall by a score of 15 to 5, and 15 to 8.

Chi Psis Rally
In the most unusual game played to date in intramural volleyball, the Chi Psis came back after losing the first game 15 to 6, to trounce the Fijis, 15-2, 15-4 in the remaining two games.

Gamma hall and Sigma Chi both won close matches, with the Gamma hall team winning from SPE, 15-13, 9-15, 15-10, while the Sigma Chis were winning, 14-15, 15-10, 15-6 from the Phi Psi team.

Sammies Win
The Sigma Alpha Mu sextet defeated the Omega hall team, 15-11, 15-9, in the other match of the evening's schedule.

Games scheduled for tonight are: Phi Deltas vs. Sigma hall, Theta Chi vs. Yeomen, SAE vs. Alpha hall, Kappa Sigma vs. Campbell Co-op, Zeta hall vs. Sigma Nu, and Pi Kappa Alpha vs. the Canard club. All games are in the B league.

Between fairways of the Rotorua, New Zealand, golf courses are boiling mud pools, steam fumaroles and similar thermal phenomena. The club has annual greens-fee income of more than $10,000 despite the risk of bringing in a geyser when a deep divot is taken.

Send the Emerald home to Dad every morning. He will like to read the University happenings.

NIGHT CLUB

Sunday night at 6 p.m. a 3-piece orchestra will play at the Anchorage for the diners who will be invited to dance. This Sunday there will be no cover charge. Tables for dinners may be reserved by phone. If you want a campus night club, encourage us by coming the first night.

THE ANCHORAGE
Phone 39

CONGRATULATIONS

R. Everett

you WIN

1000 Philip Morris Cigarettes

WILLIAM FRAGER and JACK METCALF ARE WINNERS OF

200 Philip Morris

JACK E. HEWITT ROBERT BOYER
BOB WINSLOW FRANK HORSBERGER
BILL FRENEY
J. ROY SCHWARTZ NORMAN FRANKLIN

are winners of

50 Philip Morris Cigarettes

you too

can WIN

Look on your bulletin board—details are posted...

SCORECAST NOW

VARSITY vs. W.S.C.

CALIFORNIA vs. WASHINGTON

Ballots will be picked up on November 6, 1937

The late riot was fun
but wait till you see

ROADSIDE

A real fun riot!
Forget the Siege of Seymour's in a Siege of Laughter at

GUILD THEATER

Friday, Oct. 29 and Saturday, Oct. 30

Remember—First night
cider and cakes

Fri. 50c Sat. 50c, 35c