Professors Discuss Trips in Far East; Music Featured in Second of Series

It was Sino-Japanese night on the University's KOAC broadcast last night with a quintet of faculty globe-trotters airing impressions and experiences of trips to the orient either recently or at some time in the past.

Following along the lines of last week's successful round-table discussion on Mexico, last night's broadcast preserved the same air of informality as the educators brought out new angles of perspective concerning both China and Japan, from first-hand information. Scene of the discussion was supposed to be a campus restaurant.

Dr. Boyer Arrives From Washington Trip; Chancellor Hunter and Other Officials Converge in City for Confab

The long-awaited choice of a University president seemed near last night as members of the state board of higher education and University officials converged in Portland for a scheduled meeting today.

Dr. C. Valentine Boyer, retiring president, arrived in that city over the weekend from his trip to the education conference in Washington, D.C., and will remain there at least until Wednesday, according to official sources.

Houses to Welcome Dads With Big Signs

Living organizations will put up signs to greet Oregon dads this weekend when they arrive for the eleventh annual Dad's day, Jack Lochridge, campus promotion chairman for the weekend announced last night.

"Each living organization is asked to put up its own sign, in a prominent place on the front of the house," Lochridge said. "The signs need not be elaborate, but should be neat, and large enough to give the dads a good welcome."

Dad's day representatives at each living organization will be in charge of preparation of the signs. (Please turn to page four)

'Big-Time' Broadcast On National Hookup Cancelled by Pontiac

Program Cancellation After December 31 Is Due to Drastic Budget Reduction, Pontiac Representative Wires

Plans for the "big-time" Pontiac Varsity show broadcast from the University were brought to a halt by the receipt of a telegram to Dr. C. Valentine Boyer, University president, from the Pontiac corporation, stating that due to lack of funds, the broadcasts scheduled after December 31 would be cancelled.

The telegram received Thanksgiving day by Dr. Boyer reads:

Regret exceedingly to advise you that unforeseen and drastic reductions in Pontiac's advertising budget have compelled Pontiac to cancel all varsity show radio programs scheduled after December 31. This means that Pontiac cannot carry out its intention to broadcast from the University of Oregon on January 21 and the purpose of this wire is to halt any preliminary activities that might be under way. Full details follow.

E. E. Rothman.

The broadcast which was to be one of a series of broadcasts from selected universities and colleges, was to be made entirely of student talent, and put on a coast-to-coast network. The broadcast would also have been relayed to foreign countries by means of short wave. John J. Landsbury, dean of the music school, announced that the school would have other opportunities to present national broadcasts.

Originally Planned for Nov. 26
Originally planned, the program was to be given from the University November 26. For the convenience of both the University and the Pontiac Motor division of General Motors corporation, the event was postponed to January 21.

Dr. John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, said yesterday that other opportunities for nationwide broadcasts would probably be given the University, although no definite information on possible programs could be confirmed yesterday.

Women to Rule In Future; Prof Pities the Male

By ALYCE ROGERS
The lady may be a tramp now, but just wait 1,000 years. Man as the "boss" is doomed, according to Dr. William Marston, formerly of Harvard university.

"The next 100 years will see the beginning of an American matriarchy—a nation of amazons in psychological rather than physical sense," he said. "In 500 years there will be a serious sex battle. And in 1,000 years, women will definitely rule this country."

Dutch-Treat

"Mass marriage" and the presentation of the most model coed wife is the main attraction at the sophomore "Loan Fund Ball" to be held this week at the Brigham Young university. Marriage licenses are obtained at the door and the ceremony is performed at 10 p.m. by a student leader. The dance is a dutch-treat affair.

Wandering Dogs Dramatize Roles In Prof's Lecture

Professor S. Stephenson Smith's literature class is literally "going to the dogs." Attendees at yesterday's meeting of the Introduction to Literature class were entertained by an impromptu dramatization of Mr. Smith's lecture which was centered on the topic of David and Goliath.

Although the actors in the show were not veterans of the stage they certainly fitted into their roles well. The part of David was played by a small bull pup while the role of Goliath was done by a large police dog. The incident was timed perfectly for the lecture.

John Casteel Raps Sports Emphasis In College Course

Too much emphasis on sports was rapped by John L. Casteel, head of the University speech department and newly elected president of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech, in a talk before the convention at Denver Saturday.

Professor Casteel declared that "speech study should have a more important place in curricula than the study of million-dollar football plays, or the technique of baseball."

CHI O'S ENTERTAIN

Chi Omegas entertained Thanksgiving night with an old fashioned taffy pull. Men were invited. Dancing was the main diversion throughout the evening.

Second ASUO Dance Set for Wednesday

The second of a series of ASUO dances is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the open-air gym behind Gerlinger hall, it was announced yesterday by co-chairmen Clayton Ellis and Jean Rawson.

ASUO cards will be admission needed by students, or 50 cents, they said. The dance will be a dateless affair.

The dances are being sponsored by the student body to provide a get-together for students in the form of a dance, with informality the password.

Music will be furnished by a public address-phonograph system.

Soph 'Informal' Formal for Girls But Not for Men

The annual 'all-campus Sophomore Informal' to be held Saturday, December 4, is not an informal dance, co-chairmen Phil Lowry and Chuck Skinner revealed yesterday.

With the explanation that the "Informal" was the traditional name of the sophomores' big affair which is really formal for the coeds and semi-formal for the men, the co-chairmen cleared up a bewildering question.

The dance will be held in McArthur court as a highlight of Dad's weekend.

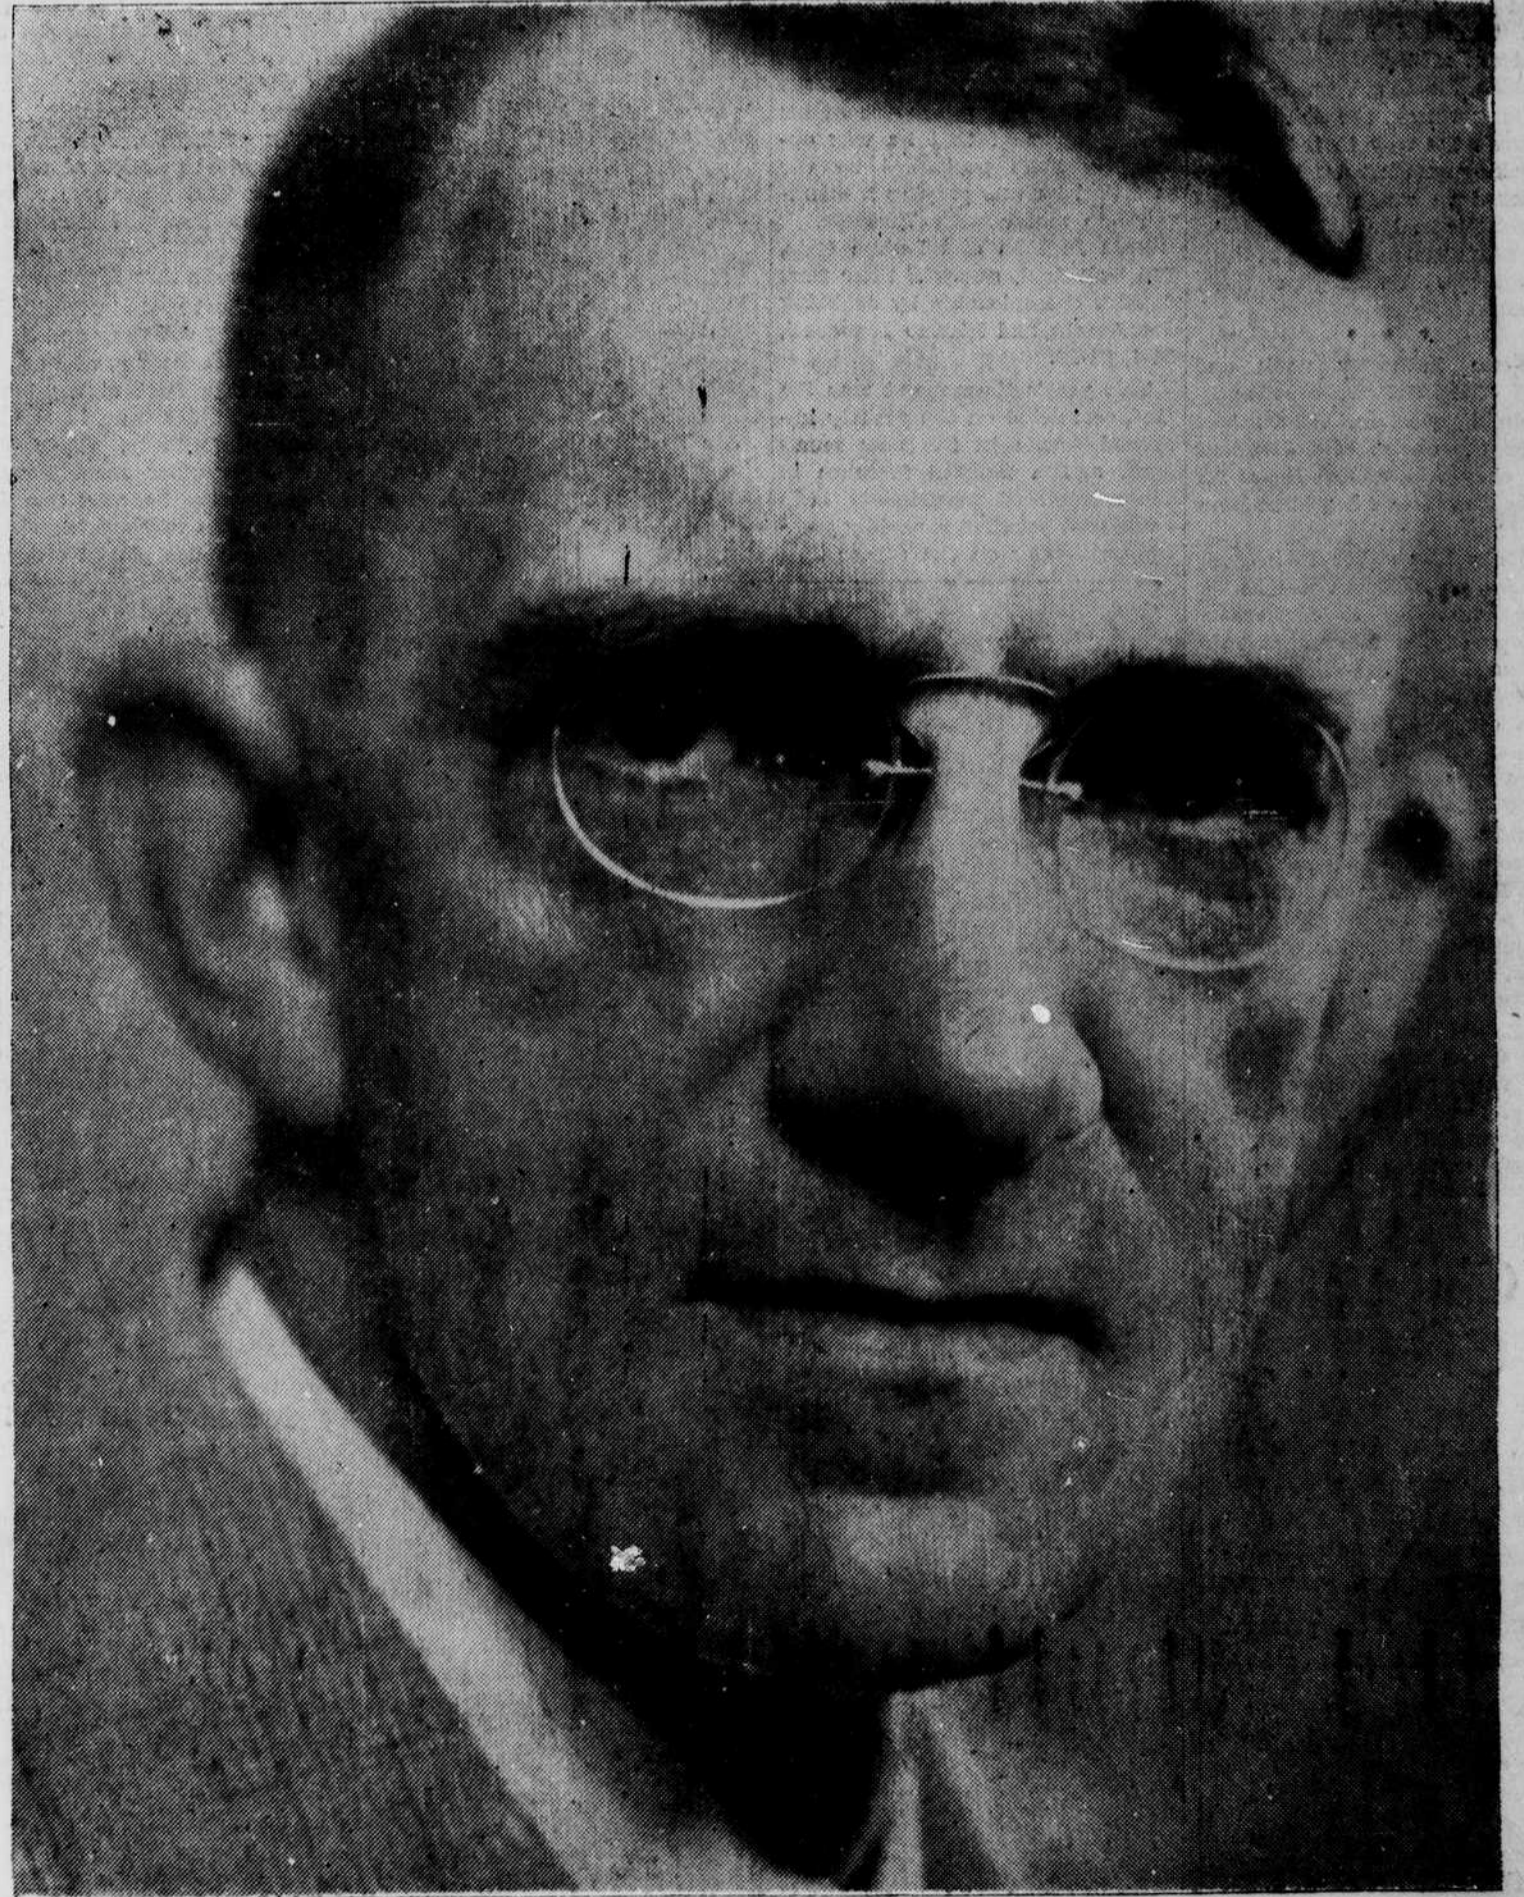

The dance will have a "sport" theme, following a basketball game between the Webfoot quintet and the Multnomah club team.

Chair Is Received For Browsing Room

A walnut study chair for the library browsing room desk has just been received from the West-made desk company of Portland, says M. H. Douglass, librarian.

This chair comes as a gift to the library from Percy Smith, head of the company, and former University student.

Ten of the new tables ordered for the reference and periodical room, says Mr. Douglass, have been ordered from this company.

The appointment of the University's seventh president, expected to come at the session of the state board which convenes today, will relieve Dr. C. Valentine Boyer of his duties. Dr. Boyer announced his retirement because of ill health in June and has remained in office pending the choice of his successor.
