Sweethearts Victors Over Sherry Ross; Sammies Also Win

By LYLE NELSON

Displaying a flashing attack in the last two minutes of play, the Dudley Stars won a fast game from the Kappa Sigma five by the score of 26 to 22.

With about three minutes to play the score showed 17 for Kappa Sigma and 16 for the Dudley crew. At this point Don "all state" Mabee slipped under the basket and flipped a crumple to bring the Dudley stars ahead.

Mabee Stars

Quick shots in succession by Emmons and Mabee netted four more points and from this point on the Duds were never headed. The Kappa Sigs threatened again near the end of the game, but were unable to overcome the large lead against them.

Mabee with 10 points and Frank Emmons with 6 were the high scores of the Dudley Crew. The best performance of the day was given by Moore of the Kappas who in addition to scoring 12 points was in on nearly every play.

Splashmen Step Up Tempo of Workouts

A strict training routine injected with an element of fun is the schedule booked by Mike Hoyman for his University of Oregon swimmers as they enter their last two weeks of preparation prior to the opening of the northern division dual meet season the latter part of January.

With a dual meet with Washington State's Cougars set for January 28 at Pullman and another the following day with Idaho's Vandals at Moscow, the Duck mentor is bending his efforts toward rousing his boys into condition for a two-day plunge.

Nightly workouts are in order for the Webfoot tankmen with inter-squad meets on Saturdays.

In order to insert a touch of fun to the workouts, Hoyman has built up a spirit of friendly rivalry between squad members. For instance this week the slogan for distance men is "Beat Levy." Jack Levy being the boy who is considered the top-notch Oregon long-winded star. Next week Hoyman will have a different idea to keep his boys pepped up.

Saturday a team of paddlers from the ranks of the freshman and varsity reserves, led by Jack Dallas and Sherman Whetmore, all-American interscholastic swimmers from Long Beach, will take on the varsity in the first of the inter-squads meets.

Ducks Driven By Hobson In Daily Session

Varsity Will Not Alter Fire-Department Tactics for Series With Orangemen

By BILL NORENE

Despite the fact that Oregon State's Coach Slat's Gill is expected to introduce tactics designed to slow down Oregon's driving offense, the Ducks will stick to their fire-department offensive for the coming Beaver series according to announcement by Coach Hobson yesterday.

It was these same maneuvers that carried the perambulating Ducks to victory in all 11 of their pre-season games and in their two conference games.

Drive Important

Drive has been emphasized in all practice sessions so far this week, with the squad opposing the varsity using both zone and man-for-man defense so that the Ducks will be prepared for systems.

Yesterday afternoon Coach Hobson scrimmaged his top ten men, with Dave Silver and Laddie Gale, forwards; Slim Wintermute, center, and Bobby Anet and Wally Johansen, guards, representing the varsity.

Reserves Opposition

Opposing this combination were Ted Sarpola and Bob Hardy, forwards; John Dick, centers; and Matt Pavalunas and Ford Mullen, guards.

While the first quintet is expected to be the starting club it was Hardy, Dick, and Pavalunas who stole the show at last night's workout.

According to Coach Hobson there is not much difference between these three, plus Mullen and Sarpola, and the men holding down first string jobs and any one of the five may break into the starting lineup at any time.

Duck Shooting Beavers Want Closed Season

The way the Oregon basketball team is shooting, Oregon State is thinking of legislation for a closed season.

We understand the Sigma Nus will picket the Igloo next Friday if Ralph Coleman refuses because he called four fouls on Wally Johansen in the last game.

It's nothing Nu.

If Hobson's boys go any faster, we'll have to bank the floor.

There's talk about penalizing Anse Cornell on this coaching situation for taking too much time in the muddle.

Because the center-jump in basketball was eliminated in an effort to speed up the game, some fans say the kick-off in football should be taken out.

With the movies making pictures of the San Francisco earthquake, the Chicago fire and other major disasters, we expect the next one to feature the Washington State hoop team.

Lloyd's of London will insure against anything—except Laddie Gale scoring against the Beavers.

There's nothing to the rumor that Walt Disney gave Donald Duck to the Oregon team for a mascot.

This windy talk about Gale being a breeze has been altered to include hurricane.

he rated honorable mention in the state basketball tournament, but then these facts have very little prestige with John Warren, so let's just say Pete is Coach Warren's number one reserve, and let it go that.

up and the material turned in by Tuesday, January 18, and the schedule will be posted the following day. The tournament will start the latter part of next week. WAA checks will be given for playing.

For further information those interested may call Marian Hultenberg, basketball manager.

Send the Emerald home to Dad every morning. He will like to read the University happenings.

Feminine Hoopsters Must Check Hearts

Coed basketball practice will start Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the women's gym. All girls must have their heart checked and sign up in the gym for practice in order to participate.

The house teams must be signed

J. PINK'S LEMON-AID

RECENTLY in his column in the Oregonian, L. H. Gregory focused attention on the ever-growing popularity of basketball as the great American indoor sport. He said that basketball was becoming big-time all over the country.

Going on he pointed out that if Oregon really got going this year the Igloo, with its 8000 seating capacity, would hardly be large enough to accommodate the crowds that would be drawn. The import of all his remarks was that some of Oregon's games should be moved to Portland, where on a floor set up in the big livestock arena in North Portland, there would be no difficulty at all in drawing up to 12,000.

And a paragraph from the same column, quote, "The northern division very much wants to break into Portland, Oregon and Oregon State have had Portland in mind for a long time, but the college that is really talking it up just now is Washington. The Huskies have let it be known that they'll not only guarantee Portland at least two championship games a season, but will split the gate receipts liberally to help pay for putting up a court in the livestock arena in North Portland."

But before the germ that Gregory has sown gets past the test tube stage, I for one, want to say that I am heartily against any such move. It is not enough that the best of our football games is yearly transported to the big city to be played before a crowd that is made up of about five per cent college students, but now they want to invade the field of basketball.

FOOTBALL can be defended on the grounds that our stadium is not large enough down here and we can make more money by staging the exhibition in Portland—but the two Portland games this year didn't draw too well at that. Such a circumstance does not prevail in basketball, however. We have the Igloo which is large enough to accommodate a very lucrative crowd.

I think any idea of moving northern division basketball games smacks too much of commercialism. After all we come down here to go to school and that basketball team is a part of our school activities. Why should the pleasure of watching our team perform be taken from us. Certainly, they would probably draw a bigger crowd in Portland, and make more money for the institution, but I am just old-fashioned enough to believe that when a sport can pay for itself, and make a neat profit besides that, it is fulfilling its objective to a maximum. And that is just what basketball, played in the Igloo, has been doing.

There seems to be a growing tendency around here to move the best of everything Oregon does to Portland. The Big City seems to have an avid interest in our doings. If any of the basketball games are ever moved to Portland I will be in favor of moving the whole institution there too. Then the powers that govern us can build a glass-walled University and the whole town of Portland can come down every day and not only watch our athletic teams in action but can catch us as we go through the process of becoming educated.

Think of it. Every day the Oregon-starved Portlanders could traipse down to our huge glass palace and sit in the bleachers which will surround every classroom and get their fill. And sports writers would probably start turning our items like this:

The bitter feud between Professor Oscar Redram and his Modern European History class will be resumed this afternoon in room 123 on the University campus. This will be the fifth meeting of the two rivals and a terrific struggle is anticipated.

Redram's attack will be centered around his two stars Bismark and Napoleon III. The class was unable to cope with the strategy of this pair last meeting and were sunk under an avalanche of trickery. Redram holds the edge in four of the meetings. The Classes's only win came when they up and walked out on Redram in the third clash."

So please let's keep the University where the University is—in Eugene.

STILL "TOPS"... after 31 Years As a Tobacco Auctioneer

Veteran Jim Edwards tells why tobacco experts prefer Luckies 2 to 1...

"I recently sold 489,000 pounds of tobacco in one 6 1/2 hour day," says Mr. J. N. Edwards of Farmville, North Carolina.

"There was a buyer, naturally, for every one of those 489,000 pounds... But there was as much difference between the best grades and the inferior, as between a pretty girl and a homely one.

"At auction after auction, I've seen Lucky Strike go after the prettiest lots of tobacco. It's no wonder Luckies taste so good. I've smoked them since 1917.

"And another thing... even after yelling out tobacco bids all during a seven hour day, Luckies are still just as easy as ever on my throat."

Only Lucky Strike offers you the finest tobacco plus the throat-protection of the exclusive process "It's Toasted". This process takes out certain irritants found in all tobacco—even the finest.

Men who know tobacco from A to Z—experts like Mr. Edwards—are surely good judges of cigarettes... Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.
