French Crisis Ends; Chautemps Returned

Seamen's Merger Into CIO Discussed

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—An attempt to merge 100,000 seamen into one large union of CIO membership was launched today as the east coast leaders pledged their efforts towards putting the plan through.

Joseph Curran, leader of the National Maritime Union said, "As maritime labor goes, so will go every labor union in the nation." Only one group of sea-going laborers did not attend the meet, the Sailors Union of the Pacific, which declined two offers to attend. The conference elected Curran as president of the unity meeting.

Extension Aid Helps Novelist Gain Success

After 12 years of correspondence courses from the University of Oregon general extension division and many more years of writing on her own initiative, Mrs. A. F. de Lespinasse, of Hubbard, Oregon, has gained material success as a novelist and as associate editor of the Women's Home Companion.

Records in the extension division tell briefly but graphically the story of Mrs. de Lespinasse's career as a writer. Beginning her correspondence study in 1917, when her first child was three years old, she continued taking all courses in creative writing offered by the extension division. As one of her assignments she wrote an autobiographical sketch of herself which was published in the "Extension Monitor," a little bulletin now extinct, published by the extension division for their correspondent students. When the University of Oregon's facilities for such study were exhausted, Mrs. de Lespinasse took courses from Columbia university.

Meanwhile, while acting as local correspondent for Willamette valley papers, raising a family, and keeping house, she found time to write a novel, "Bells of Helmus," which was published in the fall of 1934. Now, as visiting editor of the Women's Home Companion, Mrs. de Lespinasse has an article in the current issue of that magazine, telling of her years of study and work with the extension division.

Sleepy Studes Doze

(Continued from page one) subject responded with an entirely different view. "Poor ventilation," says he. "Once in a while students might sleep in class because of lack of sleep, but in my opinion the real reason is because the various buildings on the campus are so poorly ventilated that even the most ambitious student could not keep from dozing at times."

Professor Huffaker pointed out that many of the rooms which are equipped for an average of 45 students are overloaded with 80 students thus increasing the need for more ventilation. But in the education building as in many other buildings on the campus, windows furnish the only means of ventilation.

The Heat Element

In answer to the question, "Why do students sleep in some lectures some days and in other classes other days?" Professor Huffaker reasoned that this is caused by some class rooms being warmer than others. When asked how it felt to lecture to a group of dozy students, he replied that, "It doesn't bother me; if they can sleep through the classes and get their work as accurately as they do, more power to them."

"It might be that they sleep because they are bored, but I doubt it, because if they were that bored they wouldn't be taking the subject in most cases," he said.

Water Board

Though things have been pretty quiet along the water front the past few days, Rowe says he and his colleagues expect a general pick-up soon. Who will be first?

Communists Decline To Make Decision Immediately

PARIS, Jan. 18.—In its fifth day, the longest French cabinet crisis since the world war came to an end tonight with Premier Camille Chautemps' success in forming a new government. His cabinet is composed mostly of radical-socialists.

Socialists who participated in Chautemps' preceding government did not take places in the ministry again, but their support of the new cabinet was assured. Previous ministers of foreign and military affairs have been reselected, however, giving evidence that policies of those departments will remain unchanged.

Communists Hold Out

Communist members of parliament are reserving judgment of the new government until some definite program is outlined. Chautemps appeared sure that he can gain a majority without the communist support.

Chief problems facing the premier are in capital-labor difficulties, and stabilization of the franc.

The new cabinet became number 103 since founding of the Third Republic.

Pierce Forecasts Public Ownership

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Representative Pierce of Oregon in a radio address today explained that the government power developed from the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams would develop a "strong sentiment" for public ownership of northwest power utilities. He said that cities should start immediately to take necessary steps to ascertain the value of privately owned municipal power distribution.

U.W. Vandalism

(Continued from page one) ing regulations, sounds almost unbelievable but such a place exists in Sweden at the Universitas Regis Upsaliensis, founded in 1477, according to Gustave Eliot Henschen, former student there, now attending the University of Texas.

"Students working their way through the Universitas are almost non-existent, because of the number of scholarships and the fact that a student may borrow 1,500 crowns from the government without interest. Tuition is free, fees are low, and the students can usually make enough money to repay the government during the long summers," Henschen said.

There is practically no class distinction on the campus, he said. Students are classified mainly according to the faculty under which they study and their geographical origin. These groups are called "nations." Each nation has a house, often pretentious, for its headquarters.

Both sexes belong to each nation. Often both live in the same house. There is no regulation on how late a person stays out, or how many nights a week he or she may have dates.

The students in Sweden must decide on their life work about the age of 14. Then they have to prepare five or six years ahead for the entrance examinations to the Universitas.

The dean of personnel sees in the rapidly increasing proportion of unorganized students, a threat to the University morale. Effective organization of this portion of the student population would result in an increase of purpose and a finer college spirit, he believes.

Dean Onthank added a note of warning to his endorsement of the movement when he urged caution in planning the program. "It is dangerous to go too far on borrowed money. Many schools go too heavily in debt, and in period of depression when enrollment fails, they are met with difficulties," he said.

Portland Must Continue Sans Daily Papers

PORTLAND, Jan. 18.—No new developments appeared tonight on the front of the newspaper strike as the shut-down entered its fourth day. Publishers and representatives of the striking typographical union said no progress was made during the day.

Telephone operators at the news offices reported that very few subscription cancellations were received, being lighter than were expected. Housewives revealed that husbands were going to work with a groch with no breakfast-time paper.

Newspapermen were wandering in and out of their city rooms, seemingly not knowing how to kill the time.

Lettermen Will 'Strut Stuff' at Limp Saturday

"Beef" will reign supreme Saturday night with the revival of the annual Order of the O classic, the "Lettermen's Limp" Saturday night in Gerlinger hall.

Headline attraction will be a "gigantic" intermission spectacle in which neophyte wearers of the block lemon "O" will strut their stuff in a red hot demonstration of tumultuous dance steps including everything from the Susy Q to the Big Apple, if the floor holds out.

Among the apprentice "O"-men are such gridiron performers as Steve Anderson, Paul Rowe, Jay Graybeal, Ted Gebhardt, Bob Smith, Cece Walden, Merle Peters, Elroy Jensen, Vic Reginato, Rod Speetzen, Cliff Morris, Denny Braid, Ron Husk, and Dennis Donovan.

Tutoring the brawny steppers in their routines are Dale Lasselle and Vern Moore, who report that the boys will "throw the book" in their act. "We'll make Harlem look like an old folks' home," declared Moore, chairman of the affair.

Walks, Landscaping

On the walks leading to Thirteenth only a narrow lane will be left for use until the whole will be covered by concrete, according to Fred A. Cuthbert, University landscape architect in charge of the project.

Since the beginning of the term WPA men have been engaged in laying 180 feet of heat pipe line from the library to the museum line. The ditch for this is already dug and all that remains is the connecting and insulating of the pipe. This new line is the old type in use before the adoption of the modern tunnel system, and will be an emergency line which is part of a circuit embracing the whole lower campus.

First of the projects to receive concrete will be the horseshoe. Landscaping will be seeded where necessary.

Truth on Hypnotism

Individual differences in suggestibility is still obscure.
The first symptom of the subject's responding to sleep suggestions is the fluttering and closing of the eyelids. Breathing becomes deeper and slower. The subject relaxes.

"At this stage all of the major hypnotic phenomena can be demonstrated. The subject may be told that his left hand is insensible, following which it is possible to draw blood with a sharp instrument without any noticeable reactions of pain. Or he may be told that he is blind, that he feels a red-hot instrument, that water will taste bitter, that his arm is becoming rigid and he cannot bend it, that he cannot pick up a coin in front of him, and the suggestions are executed in a methodical way."

A subject may be awakened from a trance by telling them to wake up. Often, leaving the room for a short time will cause the subject to awaken, unless he is specifically told not to.

Other beliefs which are found to be wrong are that only abnormal persons can be hypnotized, and that hypnotism suppresses the conscious mind. Dr. Beck declared.

Nippon Recalls Ambassador as Latest War Play

Germans Make Offer To Mediate, Japan Discloses

TOKYO, Jan. 18.—Nippon's ambassador to China returned home today as Japan moved towards establishing a new government at Peiping. This act confirmed Japanese refusal to no longer recognize the regime of Kiang Kai-Shek.

Reports that Germany had offered to mediate the conflict were confirmed in the foreign office, but the offer was rejected, the department explained. The disclosure revealed that German Ambassador Herbert Von Dirksen had informed Japan that the Chinese government was ready to consider peace terms.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared that the Peiping regime, under the protection of the Japanese army, would provide for "peace and culture in the orient."

Meanwhile, Chinese and Japanese forces were reported in bitter battle along the Yantze river. Each side claimed to have inflicted the greatest injuries.

Americans Placed Under Red Arrest

Three Detained by Soviet Government In Moscow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Unaccounted for during the past several weeks, Mrs. Marie Rubens of New York City has been arrested in Moscow on suspicion of espionage, Soviet officials informed Secretary Hull tonight. Hull has asked that American representatives be allowed to see her.

State department spokesmen said that it would attempt to find whether Mrs. Rubens' story corresponded with the Russian version. As yet no formal charge has been entered against her.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet minister, told Hull that the long-missing "Donald Louis Robinsons" had been under virtual arrest since December for entering the country with false passports. American authorities have proven that the couple received their American passports on the basis of falsified birth certificates.

UO Mothers Card Benefit to Furnish Scholarship Fund

The annual benefit bridge party for the University of Oregon scholarship was held in Gerlinger hall from 2 to 4 p.m. yesterday. This is an annual affair sponsored by the University of Oregon Mothers' club to collect funds with which to aid them in offering a competitive scholarship each year. This year the scholarship was divided between two Eugene students who tied for the honor.

Over 500 tickets were sold for the benefit at which members from Cottage Grove, Junction City, Springfield and Eugene attended.

Miss Sawyer Will Read in Gerlinger

A second reading of Hart and Kaufman's "You Can't Take It With You" will be made by Miss Ethel R. Sawyer, browsing room librarian, this afternoon in the men's lounge of Gerlinger.

If enough students would like it, Miss Sawyer says, she will re-read the play a week from Wednesday, on January 26, in the browsing room.

Flames Invade Quebec School, Cause Deaths

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Jan. 18.—Flames that spread rapidly through the dormitory of the Sacred Heart college for boys here today caused the death of 17 and a missing list of 27. Police at the scene said that they believed a majority of the missing persons would be found dead after the fire which burned the four-story brick building was subdued.

Many were injured while escaping and others suffered from exposure in the sub-zero weather. Firemen were handicapped by the cold as they poured streams of water on the fire throughout the day.

Silver Victim Of Foul Play; Visitors Many

A victim of 'foul play' that is chickenpox, Oregon's stellar forward, Dave Silver, is residing in the University infirmary and seems to be attracting, as visitors, only those who are able to depart from their visit leaving cartoon photographs on the door of the victim's "isolation" room.

Proving to be quite the popular inmate at the infirmary, Silver's quota of two visitors is filled very shortly after visiting hours are opened. A virtual signboard, similar to that scene in occasional scenes in "Gasoline Alley," has been made on the patient's door and would-be cartoonists take advantage of the seemingly humorous situation to depict Silver as he appears attired in his hospital garments.

Summer School Art Scholarship Given

Two acceptances of scholarships to the University art school summer session have already been received by Dean Lawrence. Twelve of the 22 invitations were sent out recently, and the rest will be issued as soon as selections can be completed. One hundred twenty-five final applications and nominations have been received so far, the dean said.

The scholarships are given to art teachers through funds provided by the Carnegie Foundation. The amount available this year for scholarships is $4,050. This is $450 less than previous grants. The reason for the decrease in the grant, Dean Lawrence said, is because a small art center has been established at the University of Pennsylvania.

Altogether 125 teachers, representing over 100 schools in different parts of the country, have received instruction since the grant was given to the University eight years ago.

Carnegie Music Room Announces Change in Hours

The change of schedule for the open hours of the Carnegie music room in the University school of music was announced Monday.

The new schedule provides for open hours on Monday morning from 10 to 11, on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 10 and from 11 to 12 on Friday mornings from 9 to 10 and from 9 to 12 on Saturday mornings.

During the afternoons through the week the music room will be open from 12 to 6 and open hours on Saturday will be held from 1 to 6. Students who are interested in hearing music on the electric phonograph, looking at the scores of the music, or reading books, are invited to do so at the musical library any time the room is open.

EXTENSION COURSE USED
A correspondence course issued by the University extension division, clothing selection, is being used as a guide for a home economics study group in Camas, Washington, high school.

That the spot where the city dump-grounds rise majestically, the area where large numbers of mice and rats scamper to and fro, and rusty tin cans lie in heaps is the nearest example of Hades, was declared by Robert D. Horn, professor of English, yesterday.

Students studying "Paradise Lost," who wished to know how the fires of inferno look were referred to the dump-grounds in the evening, when the fires are burning.

Studying Is Muscular Job Research Shows

By DOROTHY MEYER
Recent discoveries made at the Indiana university, revealing that when mental work such as studying is done, muscles all through the body are called into action, was pronounced "very interesting," by Dr. Lester F. Beck, assistant professor of psychology.

"It merely substantiates materials collected from numerous other observations that mental activity is not divorced from bodily activity."

Dr. Jacobsen of the University of Chicago, he said, found that individuals can be taught to such an extent that all mental action disappears.

Only in work with hypnotism have any similar discoveries been made at the University of Oregon. The inability of an individual to realize what has transpired during hypnosis is found to be caused by the change of muscular attitude. The instructional film, "Hypnosis," recently prepared by Dr. Beck, shows results of various experiments and is at the present time used in psychology classes at the University.

The film has been available for sale for three months, and has been purchased by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Carnegie Institute of Technology, University of Mississippi, Colgate University, Dartmouth college, and others.

Design for Home Becomes Reality For AAA Graduate

The chance that few architects receive, that of living in a home they have planned, is now the experience of Harlow Hudson, architecture graduate, who is now working in Arlington, Virginia. He is living in an apartment house which he helped plan. It is a good chance, he said, to see the result of their thinking.

Mr. Hudson, who is working with the Paramount housing group, was the third person to receive the Ion Lewis traveling fellowship. He traveled extensively in the Scandinavian countries.

His letter also carried news of Clothiel Woodard and Kenton Hamaker. Miss Woodard is now in the housing division of PWA. Mr. Hamaker, who passed the Virginia state board architecture exams with the highest rating of any person, now has his own office.

PE MAJORS SEE MOVIE

Women physical education majors attended a motion picture yesterday dealing with basketball technique and demonstration. The film was shown by Gene Shields. The same picture will be shown later to the men physical education majors.

Foskett, Dodge Wed; Leave for California

William "Bill" Foskett, Webfoot football player and track star, and Mary Dodge, Delta Gamma, who announced last Sunday they have been married since the first of January, left Monday for California.

Although it is not known whether Miss Dodge will return to the University, friends of Foskett have announced that "Big Bill" will return next spring to compete in his final track season.

He was the champion shot putter of the Northwest last year, and last fall was given "iron man" honors on the Webfoot football team for putting in the most playing time of anyone on the squad. He plays tackle.

Foskett is a business administration major and last Saturday was formally initiated into Chi Psi. His home is in Concord, California. Miss Dodge is a junior in the University and a major in arts and letters. Her home is in Saratoga, California.

PI KAPS TO HAVE FORMAL

The Osburn hotel ballroom is to be the scene of the Pi Kappa Alpha winter formal dance Saturday evening.

Red and Black Ike Team in Wilderness

Jack Lewis and Eddie Hearn, the rollicking Red Ike and Black Ike of "Roadside," are again teamed in the University theater production of "Ah! Wilderness," by Eugene O'Neil.

In this play they take the roles of the Miller brothers, Richard and Arthur. Richard, played by Jack Lewis, is the central figure around which the play revolves. He is a high school senior who is sensitive, idealistic, and full of the brand of radicalism current in 1906.

Arthur, played by Eddie Hearn, is a sophomore at Yale, and is a thorough going example of the 1906 Joe College. It is his contention that the cure for Richard's radical notions is to send him to Yale.

Box office sale for "Ah! Wilderness" starts next Monday morning and will continue until the opening of the play. Box office hours are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 5. Reservations may be secured at any time by phoning the drama division.

Three UO Pianists To Give Concert For Students' Aid

Three University pianists, George Hopkins, Jane Thatcher, and Aurora Underwood, will give a piano concert January 27 in the music building at 8:15 p.m. The University symphony orchestra, directed by Rex Underwood, will accompany the players.

The money derived from the concert will be given to the music school's scholarship fund, according to Mr. Underwood.

Each player will play a concerto with the orchestra furnishing the background. The names of the concertos were not given yesterday.

ARCHITECTURE GRAD NAMED

George Wallmann, architecture graduate, who has been associated with the firm of Tucker and Wallmann in Portland, was recently appointed to a position in the Walker and Eisen firm in Los Angeles.

'Blind Man's Buff'

Remember the game? A handkerchief over your eyes... your hands searching for someone, feeling blindly over features your eyes could so easily know. It seems foolish—deliberately to blindfold yourself and go searching. You wouldn't blindfold yourself deliberately when you start out in search of purchases that help make life a game.

If you can read the advertisements first you are spared the doubts and mistakes. Advertisements take the handkerchief off of your eyes. They equip you with keen vision. They lead you direct to the shaving cream that will give most shaving comfort, to the most current styles in clothes, to the quality services that you seek. They put in your hands familiar good things guaranteed to please.

You can't afford to buy under a blind man's buff. Read the advertisements to avoid the blindness—and the buff!
