

Three Minute Men To Be Picked Today

Kappa, Chi O, Pi Phi Are Scene of YW 'Time Trip'

Have you picked your Man of the Hour?

You'll have your chance to support him by voting from 3 to 4 p.m. today at Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega or Pi Beta Phi houses, when the YWCA gives its annual afternoon dance, titled this year, the "Time Trip."

Runners-up to the campus' first choice, Man of the Hour, will be his minute men, "Tick" and "Tock." Coronation will take place at the Alpha Chi Omega house at 4:15.

The outstanding men from each fraternity who are all vieing for the honor of being the campus' outstanding character include Matt Pavalunas, Beta Theta Pi, Forrest Landeen, all-dorm candidate; Bill Vermillion, Theta Chi; Paul Rowe, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Wally Johansen, Sigma Nu; Charles Eaton, Sigma Chi; Burton Barr, Sigma Alpha Mu; Dick Litfin, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Harold Faunt, Pi Kappa Alpha; George Knight, Phi Sigma Kappa; George Varoff, Phi Kappa Psi; George Smith, Phi Gamma Delta; Al Hunt, Phi Delta Theta; John Keyes, Kappa Sigma; Jack McGirr, Delta Upsilon; Howard Tomasi, Delta Tau Delta; Martin Rieg, Chi Psi; and Woodrow Everitt, Alpha Tau Omega.

Chem Research Seeks Safety for Walls of Library

How to make the library walls safe from ink-slingers is the problem which the chemistry department is trying to solve through experiments with the Kasota stone which covers the walls of the halls and stairways.

The Kasota stone, which is quarried in northern Minnesota, is a cross between limestone and marble, and is composed of a very absorbent material. Students have spattered the walls with ink, and the chemistry department is attempting to find a method of removing these ink spots without damaging the stone. In the future it may be necessary to wax the walls so that ink will not penetrate.

Professor Kunz of the department suggests to those who must fling ink that they direct it at the slab of Kasota stone that will be used in the experiments rather than at the walls of the library.

each member of a couple to a ballot. Voting will stop at 4 p.m. Tickets for dancing are good at any of the houses mentioned. "Just look for the big clock on the door."

YW sophomore commission, under Peggy Robbins, is making arrangements for the dance.

Interfrat Officers to Be Nominated Soon

Proposed Course for Pledge Trainers Discussed at Meet

Nominations for new officers will be made at the next meeting of the interfraternity council, April 13, Don Johnson, president, said last night, following the meeting at the SPE house. Elections will be held two weeks afterwards, he said.

New members of the council will take office this month so that a completely new group will not be necessary at the beginning of next year. The new and old members had a joint meeting to instruct the new men in the council's workings.

This new system will help eliminate the confusion which there was in the past when members took office at odd times, it is believed.

The council also discussed plans for the all-campus sing which will be held this term. Arrangements were reported well under way by the committee, and wide participation is expected.

Much discussion on the proposal of a training course for fraternity pledge trainers followed the report of the committee headed by Doug Milne. The plan provides for lectures to the pledge masters by national fraternity authorities.

The group extended congratulations to Barney Hall, ASUO president, for his cooperation with the fraternities during his term of office.

Defense Wins In Maple Court Civil Law Case

Third year law students successfully defended their case yesterday with the second year class who had sued the seniors on charges of misrepresentation of a basketball team. The jury at Maple court returned a split verdict, favoring the older firm, 36-11, according to court-recorder Bill Lubersky.

Neither side had any statements to make concerning an appeal, although trial observers believed that the statute of limitations might be invoked since the last quarter was reported to have run for 10 minutes.

The trial was interrupted several times when Judge Dave Silver deemed it necessary to eject representatives of both sides from the court.

Frosh Glee to Meet In 105 Commerce

Frosh glee plans will be worked over today when all committees meet with Co-chairmen Stan Stalger and Dick Williams to start the ball rolling for the big event of the first-year class.

The meeting will be in 105 Commerce at 4 o'clock. It is held very urgent by the co-chairmen that all committees be present, so that work can be begun immediately for the event, which is slightly more than a month away.

French Professor To Speak Tuesday

Pierre de Lanux, Writer, Diplomat, To Be Honored

Pierre de Lanux, visiting professor from France, will speak to the University student body Tuesday, April 5, on the European situation.

Drawing upon his experiences as former director of the Parisian bureau of the League of Nations, a war correspondent in the Balkans in 1912 and 1913, and a noted writer on international affairs, M. Lanux will particularly stress in his speech the outstanding personalities now figuring in Europe.

A tea in the speaker's honor will be given Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock in Gerlinger hall by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary. Mr. Lanux will be the guest of honor at President Erb's luncheon following the assembly, and will speak in the evening to the Intercity Rotary club meeting in Eugene.

STUDIES CONSOLIDATION

Professor Fred Stetson of the education department was in Portland yesterday on an inspection trip to the Portland branch of Albany college. Professor Stetson is a member of the Northwest Association of College and Preparatory schools and is investigating the plans for the reorganization and consolidation of Albany college and the branch at Portland, into one institution to be located at Portland.
