

Swimming Honors Visualized for 1939

Jack Dallas, Sherm Wetmore, and Other Promising Sophomores of Next Year, Along With Return of Vets Aid Hopes

By DOUG PARKER

Oregon's championship outlook for next year loomed in the limelight as Coach Mike Hoyman nailed the door on varsity swimming for another season. With the issuance of letters to all team members of the varsity, Hoyman forgot the past—a comparatively mediocre season—and turned to next year's prospects with high hopes of recouping some of the standing Oregon has maintained in swimming circles.

For three years, Hoyman-coached teams ruled the northern division conference. Such all-Americans as Chuck and Jim Reed, Bob Chilton, and Jim Hurd carried the Yellow wave to easy victories. Coming up next year from the frosh ranks are two all-American high school stars who promise to lead Oregon to further achievements. Jack Dallas and Sherm Wetmore will make names for themselves as well as the Webfoot swimming team in the next three years. Since they have repeatedly cracked coast records as freshmen, they are expected to set new times in the first meet next year.

Lafferty Rates

Ralph Lafferty, a sophomore conference champ this year in the breast stroke, will give Dallas a battle for varsity honors in this event. Lafferty ranked either first or second in every meet this last year and hit his peak for the division meet. Johnny Stewart, another sophomore letterman who placed fourth in the meet, will complete the varsity competition for the event.

Ralph Cathey, one year veteran, is expected to win many firsts in diving contests during the '39 season. Cathey matched points throughout the year with Bert Myers and in the OSC meet on the Oregon campus, beat out not only Myers but the conference champion, Edwards. Cathey will have tough competition from freshman Elmer Mallory.

Jack Levy is a two-year veteran returning for a third and final crack at conference records. Levy was seldom beaten in the past year's meets and will rank as an ace distance grinder in the conference.

Sophomores Challenge

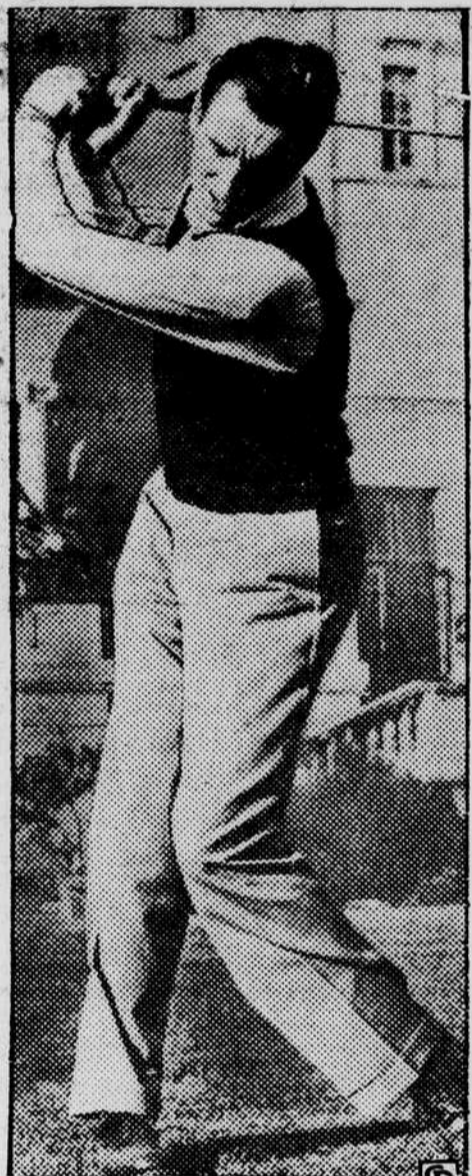

Another two-year letterman is Jim Smith, consistent sprinter during the past two seasons. Challenging Smith are Tom Starbuck and Pierce Mallory, sophomores, who divided second place honors in the two sprint events at the conference meet. Starbuck began the season as a pinch-hit backstroker, but when shifted back to his old position near the close of the year turned in nice races both in the sprints and in the relay. Adding to the spice of competition are Jim Marnie and Al Sanders from the frosh team. Marnie walked away from all frosh competition with Sanders taking seconds and also winning in the longer distance events.

Lewis Coleman, another sophomore backstroker, will compete with Wetmore for honors in the back-paddling races next year. Tom Hayashi, Walt Keller, and

OSC Football Game Moved to Portland

Rose City Gets Three Oregon Grid Frays In 1938 Season

The moving of the traditional Oregon-Oregon State game from Bell field, Corvallis, to Portland was the outstanding change in the Oregon varsity 1938 football schedule, as released yesterday by Bruce Hamby, director of the ASUO athletic news bureau.

Coach Oliver will have a tough schedule to fill next fall, his team playing seven consecutive games, journeying from Eugene to Stanford, and from Stanford across the continent to New York City, then back to Portland to play Southern California the following week-end.

The Oregon squad will play three games in Portland this year as compared with two last season. These games will be with Southern California on October 29, with Washington on November 19 and with Oregon State on November 26.

- Sept. 24—Washington State at Pullman.
- Oct. 1—UCLA at Eugene.
- Oct. 15—Stanford at Palo Alto.
- Oct. 22—Fordham at New York.
- Oct. 29—Southern California at Portland.
- Nov. 5—Idaho at Eugene.
- Nov. 12—California at Berkeley.
- Nov. 19—Washington at Portland.
- Nov. 26—Oregon State at Portland.

Varsity Tennis Squad May Face ONS Team Today

Match to Be Moved To McArthur Court If Rain Persists

By CHUCK VAN SCOYOC

Although definite positions on the varsity tennis team have not been determined, Coach Paul R. Washke will send a tentative squad against Oregon Normal school today when the Lemon and Green racqueters make their initial showing for the 1938 season.

Faced with the possibility of adverse weather conditions for the match this afternoon, Washke will make final arrangements for the contest by noon. In case heavy rain continues, the match will probably be cancelled or postponed; however, there is a possibility that scene of battle may be shifted to the basketball courts in the men's gym and McArthur court.

May Play Indoors

Last year, the Ducks were forced to play inside against the Wolves in their opening match, and present conditions indicate that the teachers would again match shots with the Ducks on the casaba court maples.

In selecting his starting team composed of Larry Crane, Les Werschkul, Bill Zimmerman, Ellsworth Ellis, and Karl Mann, Washke depended primarily upon results of his elimination tournament which was halted by rain yesterday. Crane is scheduled to meet Werschkul in the final match of the tourney, and the two top men will play in the No. 1 and 2 positions, respectively.

Bill Zimmerman is slated for action as the No. 3 singles man, and Ellis and Man will complete the line-up. Doubles teams will probably be combinations of Crane and Zimmerman, an Werschkul and Ellis, although no definite decision has been made.

Last year the Ducks white-washed the Wolves 7 to 0 in their initial clash.

Play Gonzaga

Washke's racquet wielders will face their first heavy match of the year next Saturday, when the Gonzaga Bulldogs make their first appearance on the University courts at 2 o'clock. Final positions will probably be determined by that time, the Ducks will be prepared to wade into their heavy conference schedule.

Following the Spokane invasion, the varsity squad will resume action the following Tuesday when they play their third home match against the Willamette University Bearcats. The Willamette match will be Washke's last contact with the team until April 29. Washke is leaving for the east Tuesday evening to attend the national physical education conference. During his absence, Senior Manager George Humphries will assume coaching duties for the varsity and frosh squads.

Trackmen Work on Hayward Cinders for Oregon State Relays

Colonel Bill Hayward Claims This Spring Weather Worst Yet as Trackmen Begin Two-Week Training in Rain

With the taste of their first competition of the season—the Hill Military relays last Friday—still lingering, Colonel Bill Hayward's varsity trackmen yesterday began a two-week training seige in preparation for the Oregon State Relays.

The annual relays will be held on Hayward field Saturday afternoon, April 16.

Termining this spring's cold and rainy weather, as the worst he had ever seen, the venerable Webfoot mentor sent his runners through a speedy workout in the rain, and then called it a day.

Bad Pass Hurts

A bad pass from Mack Robinson, lead-off men, to Jimmy Buck hurt Oregon chances of winning the University mile relay at Hill, according to Hayward. However, Oregon State had the stuff to sweep on to a triumph over the defending titlist even after "Bullett" Buck regained the lead from Bill Hoyer of the Beavers.

Anchor-man Kirman Storli received the baton from Dean Ellis considerably in arrears of Bill Hampton of the Beavers, and although he cut Hampton's lead down to a few strides, he could not quite catch the flying Orangeman.

"Lardlegs" Don Barker and Bobby Mitchell, Oregon's two sophomore distance men, had one consolidation after Friday's gunningham mile. They finished only seventh and eighth respectively in the crack field which included the nation's best pace artists, but at least they can say the great mile king and the rest had to come from behind to beat them.
