CINEMACOLLEGE

To the Editor:
May I suggest to Miss Igoe that she drop for a moment the unfortunate attitude she has taken toward college life pictures, to consider the public that enjoys such productions. The picture I refer to, "Start Cheering," was made in part at Pomona college, which I attended for two years, and where I had the opportunity to work as an extra in a couple of other movies on that campus. My classmates and I found working in a college picture a pleasant relief from the tedium of class routine, and the viewing of the finished production another pleasing diversion. Being myself an interested amateur of dramatics, and from a theatrical family, I noticed carefully the reactions of the audience to many college pictures. They laughed and applauded enough for me to believe that they were enjoying themselves. Must they then have their cinema entertainment limited to intense drama, when they enjoy so much the ridiculous. For those who wish to be emotionally swept there are plenty of productions on

'Good Neighbor Idea Aid To Mexico', Says Wright

A true "good neighbor policy" of the United State toward Mexico will be a great factor in the success of the present National Revolutionary party in fully developing its aims in making Mexico a "land for the Mexicans," was the opinion of Professor L. O. Wright of the Spanish department, who spoke last night at the International Relations club meeting.

Professor Wright said that Cardenas was being pushed quite hard in Mexico by the strong labor movement and because of this force the recent oil expropriation may have been a little hasty.

Mexico's socialistic projects in its "experiment in self-government, democracy, and socialism" include, according to Prof. Wright, engineering projects to make natural resources available for the Mexican people, the return of cotton land in northern Mexico, the return of the acres of hemp land in Yucatan and the tomato-growing country in the northwest part of Mexico to the Mexican people.

Interest in Education
Mexico's New Deal is concerned, first of all, with education of the masses, the government spending more on this phase than for armaments; on the building of railroads to transport products across Mexico rather than fan-wise to the United States; in the development of its native art and culture which was almost lost during and after the Spanish occupation; and is the government opposed to the system whereby concession were given to foreigners.

Quarterback Nilsen Interviewed Tonight

Quarterback "Hank" Nilsen will be initiated into radio interviewing tonight at 10:30 p.m. over KORE. Emerald News Commentator Dolph Janes will question the Oregon athlete on spring training and the proposed alumni-undergraduate football game. The Astoria flash, now president of the Sigma Nu house, will give listeners an insight on Coach "Tex" Oliver's system of spring practice.

Finding student interest in The Emerald nightly broadcast demanding it, the radio editors will increase interviews of campus personalities to three or four per week. Campus living organizations are still being surveyed for additional criticism of the program.

the screen today that have just that effect. College may NEVER have been like that, nor am I convinced that it should be like that; but can we not suffer ourselves as college students to be put in a slightly exaggerated light, if it amuses us? When we get really tired of it, the producers won't take long to catch on.

WALLACE PATTERSON.
(Editor's note: Something should be said in Miss Igoe's behalf. To quote Mr. Patterson, "My classmates and I found working in a college picture a pleasant relief from the tedium of class routine . . .")

Exactly Miss Igoe's point, Mr. Patterson. But if it isn't "college," why insist on tacking the stigma of the raccoon coat on higher education.

I would remind Mr. Patterson that people also laugh in zoos. "Start Cheering" may be typical of Pomona college—Lord help Pomona if it is. If anyone turned that thing out and tacked it on Oregon, I'd be all for suing the producers for libel, slander, and defamation of character. Raccoon coats—bah!

Women's Co-ops to Celebrate Founding

The girls from both the Hilyard and University street houses will be present.

The organization, now consisting of two houses and 75 members, has grown out of a single unit of 14 girls, started two years ago this term.

The purpose of the organization is to give to those students, who are not affiliated with sororities or dormitories, an opportunity for the social development offered by group living.

Although practically all of the girls are at least partially self-supporting, the organization has at all times ranked highly in scholastic achievement and participation in activities.

Spring parades of the ROTC drill units will be held every Wednesday at 5 o'clock, Colonel E. V. D. Murphy announced today. The parades began yesterday and will continue until May 25, the day of the competition for the Governor's trophy, Murphy said.

Nearly five hundred men will take parts in the weekly review which will be held on the barracks parade grounds. The drilling will be under the direction of Cadet Colonel Jack Enders.

Special significance was attached to yesterday's parade because it came on Army day.

Housing Facilities Needed for Bands

19 High Schools Will Compete in Annual State Contest

With accommodations for 67 arranged in the men's and women's dorms, University officials last night were faced with the problem of finding facilities to house 333 more youthful bandsmen who will be here Friday night for the statewide band contest.

John Stehn, director of the University band, said that 19 bands from all over the state will be represented in the contest. Besides these, there will be a number of soloists making a total of 700 people who will participate. Of these 400 will require overnight accommodations, while the others will come to Eugene Saturday and leave the same day, Stehn said.

In addition to the 67 placed in the dorms, it is planned to place the rest of the band members in sororities, fraternities, and co-ops. George Root, education activities manager, yesterday said that the University would pay $1 a day to townspeople to lodge extra band members.

Bob Goodfellow has been named housing chairman by Root, but he could not be reached last night for any details of his plans to complete the housing.

Board Will Rent Decorations, Lights

Action was taken at a meeting of the educational activities board meeting Monday night to rent recently-purchased lighting and decoration equipment to organizations giving affairs in McArthur court, it was announced yesterday.

The regular rental charge for the equipment will be $50, although Manager George Root has been authorized to reduce the price if he believes the organization cannot afford the $50. Lighting facilities may also be rented alone for $8 a day, but they must be used in either Gerlinger hall or McArthur court, it was announced.

SIGMA KAPPA ENTERTAINS

The Eugene alums of the Sigma Kappa sorority will be guests at a dessert bridge party to be given at the chapter house Thursday evening. Fifteen guests have been invited to attend.

Condon Club to Be Host to Geologists

Meeting Will Attract 35-50 Oregon Men This Weekend

The Condon club on the campus will play host at the museum of natural history next Saturday and Sunday, to an expected 35 to 50 members of the Geological Society of the Oregon Country, who will come from Portland and nearby places.

Dinner at the Osburn hotel, at 6:30, will be followed by an explanation of the museum by Dr. L. S. Cressman, director; a talk on the rock collections by Warren D. Smith, curator of the Condon geological collection; and an explanation of the fossils by Dr. E. L. Packard of Oregon State, who was formerly a paleontologist at the University and is now dean of science at Oregon State college and director of science in the Oregon system of higher education. Later, student members of the Condon club will act as guides in a tour of the museum.

The program on Sunday will consist of two field trips. One group will climb Hobart butte, return to Goshen, and continue on to Pleasant Hill, Lowell, and Jasper, stopping at points along the way.

The other group, desiring a shorter trip, will climb to the top of Spencer's butte and nearby points, returning to Springfield and the Goshen fossil beds.

This organization of several hundred members, which is one of the largest amateur organizations of its kind in the northwest, includes such noteworthy people as Ormond Bean, J. C. Stevens, well-known Portland engineer, Dr. Osgood, and Dr. E. T. Hodges, who was founder of the society.

The purpose of this meeting, which is the third yearly meeting since the organization was started, the last one being held at Corvallis, is to bring the group to Eugene to see the museum and to view the nearby country.

CO-OP ENTERTAINS

Dean and Mrs. Karl Onthank were guests of honor at an informal dinner Wednesday evening at the Hilyard street cooperative house.
