Snow White on the 27 Dwarfs

I didn't think it could happen here. I didn't think that the fertile minds of campus publicity men could breed anything quite as cute as electing some unassuming stooge as "Snow White."

During the last six months campus organizations have sponsored 27 drives, contests, and elections for the purpose of raising funds or obtaining publicity. But they are all dwarfed by a recent plan of frosh glee directors to elect "Snow White" to reign over their dance. Why not elect the Seven Dwarfs, or better yet because of the material that is at hand, seven Dopeys? If asininity, garbed in the thin veil of publicity, ever stalked the campus, this proposed event is it.

AT registration day fall term students were greeted by an ASUO card drive, where the captain of the winning sales squad was to be awarded a ride down Thirteenth street in a wheelbarrow. The next week saw a YWCA "felt" sale, (a "felt" is a publicity phrase for a pennant), and two days later the AWS pushed "mums," priced 50 cents, 75 cents, and one dollar.

The race was on. YWCA opened the "Penny Pot" for an iron lung, the Salvation army spread over the campus in a concerted drive for old clothes(and now some boomer is wearing my other pair of pants), the Oregana "drove" for greater sales, another "mum" sale, and the rally squad sold "pom-poms."

For a few days there was a lull, then a dance was held to purchase a SECOND iron lung, appropriately enough someone played a Hammond electric organ. (Last month's report of the state board of health showed not one single case of polio or paralysis in the entire state.)

IN rapid order came Kwama's carmel apple sale, sticker sale for the browsing room, an Oregana "snapshot contest," a pigger's guide campaign, another "mum" sale, an "Ideal Couple" election where six male and female "ideals" were chosen, a Christmas seal drive, a whisker growing contest, and a Little Colonel election (but no k.p.'s).

As winter gripped the campus, the YWCA held a "Wedding Belles" event, the Oregon Mothers' club sold Duck-covered cook books, someone saved the Battleship Oregon, the YWCA sold "twists," and a few days later "gingerbread men."

Spring term opened with a sale to "snowball" a group of Oregon debaters to Reno, Theta Sigma Phi hoped to sell $100 worth on tickets for a $10 book order, the junior class voted on a weekend queen and four princesses, the YWCA elected a "Man of the Hour" with the aid of $17 worth of Beta tickets, and yesterday the law school boys voted Joe Devers into the position of "Queenie."

NEXT year will probably see a great increase of "new and original" contests. Maybe they'll even find something I can run for. I'd love to be "Queen of the May."

Five University Skiers Placed On Probation for Rest of Term

Punished by being placed on probation for the remainder of the term, five University student who faced Dean of Men Virgil D. Earl yesterday as a result of an offense they committed last week while on a ski trip learned that no other action would be taken against them.

Having repaired the damage they did the students were held excused from any further consequences of their act, although a report of the affair will go in to the Portland offices of the forestry department, it was revealed by Foster Steele, acting supervisor of the Willamette national forest.

ASUO Nominees

(Continued from page one) the old bloc they have supported. As a clean sweep of next year's junior offices would provide the necessary "gravy" and show where the power lies, both blocs will be working to swing the revolutionists into their camps.

In the frosh elections a split of the ATO-Phi Delt-Beta bloc may result over the choice of Chi Psi Lloyd Sullivan and ATO Wally Rossman. Meanwhile the Sigma Nu-Kappa Sig-SAE frosh are eyeing both SPE Dick Williams and Fiji Stan Staiger. The Theta Chi-DU-Delt boys favor Williams, and the remaining faction backs Staiger.

Election Control Set

With the adoption of ASUO Vice-Prexy Benson's political "re-organization bill" adopted by all of the classes but the frosh, much speculation is evident as to the outcome of the one-day election plan. Due to the need for stricter control of elections, this plan, with its central control board, is being hailed as a cure for "unfortunate" election day proceedings.

No reports could be learned at this time on the political line-ups in the class of 1942.

Duration of the disciplinary action will be "for the remainder of the term, or as long as we see fit," Dean Earl said last night.

Tonight Don Kennedy and Maurie Binford are sponsoring a "College Frolic" at the park. It is an experiment on the part of the two. Believing that college students are finding too many Friday nights with nothing to do, these two are seeing of the said students would be interested in an informal dance jam at the park with a student orchestra, student entertainment, and under student supervision.

It starts at nine, closes at 12, costs but four-bits a couple, and if successful will run weekly. A floor show is to be featured at intermission with student talent participating. Songs, tap dancing, and orchestra specialties are listed in the show.

"Snow White" is still on at the Mayflower and is scheduled to continue to and including next Wednesday. Every night but one it broke the existing house records at both the Heilig and Mayflower.
