

Junior Prom Orchestra Is Considered

Sunlight Serenade Is New Feature; Mothers Will Be Honored at Tea

Orchestra selection, sunlight serenade, and canoe fete plans occupied the spotlight at a meeting last night of Junior weekend committees, headed by General Chairman Willie Frager.

The choice of an orchestra for the junior prom narrowed to three possibilities as the names of Jimmy Lunceford, Ran Wilde, and Phil Harris were given the committee as available for the night of May 6. However, there was still a remote possibility that Glen Gray might get the bid for the event.

The Sunlight Serenade, a new feature this year, is for the benefit of mothers who will come to the campus for the three-day holiday, with the mothers to be serenaded by the University symphony orchestra Saturday afternoon on Junior weekend at a tea in their honor. Harriet Sarazin is chairman of the Sunlight Serenade committee.

All Sides Finished
A new development in canoe floats was revealed last night by Fete Chairman Ed Thomas, who said that this year's floats will be presentable from all sides, instead of being finished only enough to put up a front as in previous years. Newsreel cameramen are expected to be on hand for the fete this year, Thomas said.

Committee chairmen for the canoe fete released last night by Chairman Thomas were: assistant chairman, George Hall; floats, Ned Gee; construction and lighting, Chandler Stevens; programs, John Luvaas; music, Jean Frances Essex; traffic and transportation, Ruth Tawney; finance, John Mitchell; entertainment, Mary Ellen Williams; decorations, Bob Emerson; theme, John Link.

Hopkins Will Play Second Broadcast Tonight on KORE

The second of the series of broadcasts that George Hopkins, professor of piano, will give over KORE weekly will be presented tonight at 7:15.

These weekly broadcasts are sent from Mr. Hopkins own studio in the school of music, and last 15 minutes. "Pleasure Cruising on the Piano Keyboard," is the title given the series.

Tonight's broadcast will include a selection by the musician himself, "Dusky Rhythm" from "Miniatures in Blue." The famous Brahms-Grainger "Cradle Song," and the Mendelssohn-Liszt "On Wings of Song." Mr. Hopkins in addition will play "Music Box" by Tladov, and "Harmonical Player" by Guion.

Summer Schools' Bulletin Published

The spring bulletin carrying announcements of the Oregon summer sessions for 1938 has been published recently and carries full details of extension work in Oregon for this summer, according to Dr. Dan Clark, assistant director of general extension and summer sessions.

Summer sessions are conducted at the University of Oregon, Oregon State college, Portland session, Institute of Marine Biology, Oregon normal school, Southern Oregon normal school, Eastern Oregon normal school.

The University of Oregon's summer session opens for the six-week session on June 20 and continues until July 29. The four-week session is from August 1 to August 26.

One of the courses to be offered this summer is in connection with architecture and allied arts. The University has been selected by the Carnegie corporation as one of its two centers for summer work in art, the other being Harvard university.

Over 75 letters inquiring about the psycho-educational clinic at the University have been received by the education department from teachers from every state in the union. A number of these instructors are planning to attend the summer session here this year.

New Speech Course
New courses in speech correction will be offered this summer in connection with clinic work for atypical children.

Eight courses will be offered on library methods to teachers responsible for school libraries.

During the first two weeks of the six weeks' summer session, a school of athletic coaching will be held. Athletic Coaches Oliver and Hayward will instruct the courses.

The biology camp of the Oregon summer sessions will be situated at Coos Head, Oregon, beginning June 13 and ending July 22.

Oregon Artists to Display Work for National Exhibition

Oregon artists will have an opportunity to display their work at the third annual national exhibition of American art in New York City, June 14 to July 31, Andrew M. Vincent, member of the committee said.

Professor Vincent is one of the eight members who were appointed by Governor Martin. Oregon will be permitted five oil paintings and one piece of sculpture, Mr. Vincent said, and no artist may be represented by more than two works.

Any artist wishing to participate must have their work at the Portland Museum of Art not later than 5 o'clock April 15. The judges will make their decisions on the 16th and the work will remain on display for a few days before being shipped to the East.

Oregon Industries Show Growth Over 30 Year Period Says Report

That Oregon's industries are still in their infancy is seen on comparison with national figures; but during the past 30 years Oregon has seen an amazing growth in its proportion of manufacture of timber products, wood pulp and paper, canning and preserving, and furniture making, according to a report entitled "Location and Growth of Oregon's Basic Manufacturing Industries," just issued by the state planning board.

In 1904 Oregon produced but 1.91 per cent of the nation's timber products, and in 1935 this had grown to 11.63 per cent. Canning and preserving grew from .30 per cent to 2.40 per cent; furniture from .45 to 1.69 per cent, and paper and wood pulp from .84 to 1.02.

The report, which presents for the first time a complete picture of the basic manufacturing industries in the state, was prepared by the board's staff, assisted by F. M. Byam, vice-chairman of the board's advisory committee on commerce, industry and economics, and O. K. Burrell, professor of business administration at the University of Oregon.

Students Invited To Join Summer Travel Seminar

The second travel seminar in journalism is announced for this summer by the H. W. Grady school of journalism at the University of Georgia in a letter recently received by Dean Eric W. Allen of the journalism school.

The trip is limited to upper-division students, recent graduates, or staff members of journalism schools.

The trip includes a 54-tour of Europe to investigate foreign newspaper methods and "what is back of the news in Europe." Nine

It is with pride that the Morris Optical Company, an Oregon institution, announces the opening of a new optical service in Eugene.

Our new optical office is conveniently located on the ground floor of the Almack Building at 1072 Willamette street in charge of Dr. Floyd N. Utley, a professional optometrist of many years training and experience. His duty is not to sell glasses but to render visual service to those who desire to obtain and maintain visual efficiency and comfort.

We have been fortunate in securing the services of Miss Helen Brown of this city as our receptionist, who will be happy to greet you and your friends in our new offices.

The new office is equipped with the most modern eye examination and treatment instruments. Nothing has been spared to make it the finest optical office in this part of the state.
